SUFFRAGE RALLY ON FRONT STREET

One of a Series of Outdoor Meetings Scheduled for Saturday Night.

MISS KRAFT TO SPEAK

She Has Been Markedly Successful In Addressing Open-Air Meetings—Voice Carries Far and Distinctly.

Following the example set by the workers for woman's suffrage in many other States, the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Asociation is holding a series of outdoor meetings in the principal cities of New Jersey. Such meetings have beeen held in Newark and Orange, where they were most successful, and the next meeting of the series will be in this city at eight o'clock on Saturday evening, at Madison avenue, near West Front street.

The president of the New Jersey Association, Mrs. Clara S. Laddey, will preside at this meeting and the principal speaker will be Miss Kraft, a prominent worker for woman's suffrage in New York. Mrs. Charles W. Fisk, of Orange, State Association Chairman of Outdoor Meetings, will also be present.

Mrs. Laddy has just returned from Ohio where a very lively campaign is now being conducted. A woman's suffrage amendment to the Ohio constitution is to be submitted to the voters on September third, and the suffrage organizations are all working hard to present their cause to every citizen of the State. Every day and every night there are open-air meetings on the streets of the large cities, and automobile parties are touring the rural districts. Mrs. Laddey speaks in both English and German, and has been working among the German voters in Cleveland and Cincinnati, with signal success. Volunteer workers from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and many other states are helping their Ohio sisters in their fight, and the present outlook for the success of the Ohio suffrage amendment is very bright.

Miss Kraft has one very valuable qualification as an outdoor speaker, a voice which carries well in the open air, and she had an enthusiastic reception at the recent meetings in Newark and Orange.

The officers of the Plainfield League and several of the members will be at the meeting on Saturday night, and assist the State workers by distributing literature and getting signatures to slips reading as follows: "I believe that the franchise should be given to the women of New Jersey," and everyone in the crowd who is in sypmathy with the work for woman suffrage is asked to be sure and sign one of these slips.

FIRST LOT OF GRACE CHOIR BOYS AT MANASQUAN

Following its custom of previous years, the boys' choir of the Grace Episcopal church, will hold its summer camp at Manasquan this month. The choir boys will each spend a week at the camp which is conducted at the DuBois bungalow under the supervision of Choirmaster and Mrs. Frederick Smith. As the accommodations are limited and all cannot be entertained at one time the campers are divided into four sections according to age and the first of these divisions made up of the younger boys left this city on the "Mermaid" today. The older boys that leave in two weeks from today expect to make the trip to the shore by boat and some of these will stay at the camp for two weeks. The carnival week is now in progress at Asbury Park and the campers have planned daily excursions to this nearby resort.

GRACE M. E. SUPPLIES.

Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of Grace M. E. church will preach Sunday, morning and evening, and on the following Tuesday will leave with his family for Shawangunk Valley, New York State. During his absence the services will be held as usual and the supplies will be as follows: August 11, Rev. Dr. Samuel P. Lacey, of Newark; 18, Rev. Dr. William F. Talaway, of Newark; 25, Rev. Dr. Lucom, of Utah, representing the home missionary society. He will speak on "Mormons and Mormonism."

ACCOUNTING OF BIG NETHERWOOD ESTATE

Courts Appoints Trustee For Youthful Heir—Three Plainfield Will Cases.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1 (Special)—Several will matters in which Plainfield persons were interested were disposed of in the Orphan's Court before Judge Atwater yesterday. An accounting was filed in the Benjamin F. Kraffert estate, valued at $300,000. The estate is located in Netherwood. The court endorsed the accounting. William A. Coddington had previously applied to the Court of Chancery for a construction of the will in order to get guidance for its distribution. One of the heirs is a male minor fourteen years old. The Court of Chancery appointed the Plainfield Trust Company as his trustee until he reached the age of twenty-one.

Lawyers in the Mrs. William H. Clark estate case, occupied the attention of the court for several hours. Although the executors of this estate, one of whom was Mrs. Clark's husband, qualified as such more than four years ago no steps were ever taken to settle the estate until one week ago when an order was procured from the Orphan's Court directing that an inventory be filed. This was done by Mr. Clark through his counsel, William A. Coddington, but the other executors took exception to it. After considerable argument this morning it was finally decided to have a hearing on these exceptions on August 14. In the meantime the executors will meet in Mr. Coddington's office when an amicable settlement may be reached.

Mr. Clark contended that shortly after his wife's death the other executors went to his home and insisted on examining his wife's personal effects. He took exception to this procedure, being her beneficiary under the will. This caused the delay.

A final accounting was filed and passed in the estate of Charles F. Aaron, of Plainfield. The estate is valued at $30,000. An accounting was also filed for the estate of Edwin Peck who committed suicide in a Plainfield cemetery some time ago. This accounting was endorsed by the court.

Charles G. Ross, aged 70 years, of 607 Berckman street, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, to which place he was taken last night suffering from an acute attack of stomach trouble. Mr. Ross was taken ill about a week ago, but his condition did not become serious until Tuesday. Yesterday it was decided to remove the patient to the hospital for an operation, but this failed to bring the desired relief.

Mr. Ross was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross. He was born on Terrill road and had always lived in Plainfield. For many years he was engaged in the real estate business. He retired about ten years ago. He was an attendant at the First Presbyterian church. A wife and one son, Arthur Ross, survive. Announcement of the funeral will be made later.

TO ADVERTISE AGAIN FOR HEATING APPARATUS

The buildings committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education had under consideration at a meeting last night the bids of James H. Merritt & Co., of New York, and Den. J. Galbraith, of this city, for the installation of the proposed heating and ventilating plant for the Somerset School. Edwin S. Boyer presided and Harry C. Van Emburgh; borough engineer, was also in attendance. The estimates were carefully gone over and it was thought advisable by the committee to ask the Board to advertise for alternate bids for cheaper materials.

The bids on the $18,000 school bond issue submitted by Everett & Co., and Rhoades & Co., of New York, were advised on, and the report of their findings will be submitted at Monday night's meeting.

Mrs. Ida N. Hand left today for a stay at Minneapolis, Minn.

"NO PUMP" LINE NOT A CERTAINTY

Council Is Not Unanimous On that Phase of the Sewer Plan.

MAY WAIVE IT, IF---

Waiver Dependent on North Plainfield's Willingness to Bear Part of Expense For Installing and Maintaining Siphons under Greenbrook.

For the purpose of getting an expression of opinion concerning certain features of the proposed trunk line sewer with disposal works on the Darling farm, Piscataway township, members of the Common Council held a meeting last night and went over the tentative plans. All of the members of the Council were requested to attend, but a number are out of town and the only ones present were President R. I. Tolles, Councilmen F. L. Holt, W. W. Wilson, Fred Endress and C. C. Randolph.

While George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, was instructed to prepare plans for what is known as the "no pump line" to extend along the mountain in North Plainfield township, instead of the direct line through Dunellen, there is known to be a difference of opinion among the members of the Council as to the wisdom of this plan. The Council might be willing to waive its opinion on this point, provided North Plainfield did not insist upon Plainfield paying the entire cost of installing the siphons beneath Green brook and then keeping the same in repair forever afterward. This provision is considered decidedly unfair and it is not likely that the Council will agree to the proposition.

Another point over which there is likely to be a difference of opinion is that at first it was practically agreed that the point of juncture of the trunk line should be at the sewage beds, now North Plainfield wants it located in its territory. This plan is sure to be opposed by Plainfield and Dunellen. The latter is also sure to oppose the idea of running the trunk line along the mountain, believing that the direct route would be far better.

There is to be a meeting of the so-called "steering committee" tonight. This committee is comprised of the representatives of Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Fanwood and Scotch Plains. They will meet in this city. Mr. Fuller, it is understood, has promised to have the plans ready by next week.

Arrangements will then be made to forward them to the State Board of Health for approval or rejection. Owing to the countless details the work is naturally proceeding at a slow rate, and it is doubtful whether the joint sewer is completed in much less time than a year and a half. Special elections must be held in North Plainfield and Dunellen, provisions must be made for the bond issue and the sale of bonds, and bids will have to be received for the construction work. If Piscataway township should succeed in defeating the proposition, there is no telling what the outcome will be. The municipalities at present have no assurance that the State Board of Health will approve of the plans, and if it should not, other plans will of course have to be considered.

THIEF GETS $250 AT GROCERY

Money Drawer Pried Open at Shop of W. W. Wilson, Jr.—Day's Receipts Taken.

POLICE GET EVIDENCE

Burglar Familiar With the Store and Only Mystery, It Is Said, Is As to His Whereabouts—Loss Discovered This Morning.

The grocery store of William W. Wilson, Jr., of 1221 West Front street, was entered last night, the money drawer pried open and $250 extracted. Entrance was affected by the transom. The burglary was reported to police headquarters at 9 o'clock this morning and Detective Sergeant Flynn took charge of the investigation. It is said that he has obtained sufficient evidence to incriminate the thief and that he will have him arrested this evening. The only difficulty presented is his whereabouts.

That the person who committed the burglary was familiar with the store and knew of the existence of the money is beyond question. It is not customary to leave such a large sum in the shop over night, Miss Wilson, who acts as bookkeeper for her brother, usually taking it home with her. On this occasion she considered it would be quite safe to leave it in the drawer. Her brother missed the money about 8 o'clock when he returned home from New York, but believing that Miss Wilson had taken it along he did not worry. When the store was opened in the morning the drawer was found open and the dollars gone. The police were notified.

WAYWARD GIRL SENT TO A STATE HOME

Court Commits Her, Although She Is Said to Have Chance to Marry.

Elizabeth, Aug. 1 (Special).—Ethel Kriederling, a Plainfield girl, was sentenced to the State Home for Girls by Judge Atwater in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday afternoon. She was defended by J. Henry Crane, who asserted that her reputation up to the time of her arrest on an immoral charge was excellent. He knew her personally as she had been employed as a waitress at his home.

The court took exception to this view, saying that after a careful investigation he had learned that she was immoral, and that it would be best for her physical and moral welfare that she be sent to the Girls' Home. Crane said that she could not get along well with her father and that the man who was with her when she was arrested was willing to make her his wife. This plea failed to move the court.

Albert Hurling, a negro lad under sixteen, was sent to the State Home for Boys. Chief of Police Patrick Kiely, Thomas Armstrong, of North Plainfield, who had employed Hurling and Hurling's brother, William, said that his reputation was bad. He admitted to Prosecutor Swift that he had stolen numerous articles from various Plainfield dwellings. Mr. Armstrong said he had stolen from the Armstrong store on several occasions and that he had given him frequent opportunities to reform but it was of no avail.

John O'Brien, a youth employed by William Miller, a Mountainside farmer, had a difficult time convincing the court that he had no wrong intent when he purchased a bicycle from an unidentified negro in Westfield for $3. He did not know the negro's name. The bicycle was stolen from Ray Coutney, of Westfield. William R. Wilson, of this city, who had been assigned to defend the youth, said he was entirely blameless. The court then dismissed the charge, warning O'Brien to be more discreet in the future.

JOSEPH STILLGER.

Joseph Stillger, of Scotch Plains, formerly of this city, died at the Muhlenberg Hospital last night after several weeks' illness. He was forty-four years old was well-known in this section. Surviving him are a sister, Mrs. Mary A. Wilson, of Dunellen, and four brothers, John, Frederick, Charles and William, of Dunellen. The funeral services will be held at the home of his sister, Mrs. M. A. Wilson, of Grove street, Dunellen, Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock, and a mass will be said at St. John's church, Dunellen, at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made at South Plainfield cemetery.

CAMPAIGN PLANS OF DEMOCRATS

Arrangements Made to Organize Wilson and Marshall Club at a Mass Meeting.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Big Gathering to Be Held on August 9—Brodhead Presides at Preliminary Session Attended by Representative Members of Community.

To stimulate interest among the Democracy of this city and to particularly assist in the election of Governor Woodrow Wilson to the Presidency, a provisional organization to be known as the Wilson and Marshall Campaign Club, was formed in the Queen City hotel last night. Former Assemblyman Calvin E. Brodhead, a member of the Union County Tax Board, acted as temporary chairman. Arrangements for the holding of a mass meeting in Reform hall on Friday night, August 9, were placed in the hands of a committee composed of Percy H. Stewart, Howard Fleming, H. W. Marshall, W. L. Hetfield, Edward T. Lynch and C. E. Brodhead.

The officers of the campaign club will be elected at that meeting and thereafter will meet in the Democratic committee rooms on North avenue.

Twenty-four prominent Democrats put in an appearance and much enthusiasm was evinced. One remark made by R. B. Fory manifestly pleased. It was to the effect that in the campaign there was going to be "some money." This remark followed a question of E. T. Lynch's as to whether this new club would take over the present Democratic club and take care of its expenses, it being down to "hard tag," a month's rent being due and only $6 being in the treasury.

It was pointed out that it was the intention to keep this new organization separate and apart from any existing clubs, yet to work in harmony with them. It was also the unanimous wish of the meeting that voters of Plainfield and North Plainfield should co-operate and bury all friction. James Coleman remarked that there was a Wilson club already in existence in North Plainfield.

At the outset of the meeting Assemblyman Brodhead explained the objects for which they had assembled. There is a Democratic club in the city, but he did not think it embraced the full strength of the party by any means. Their power and influence, were, he asserted, not as great as they should be. It seemed to him that the party had taken a new lease of life with the nomination of Governors Wilson and Marshall. What was now required was the infusion of life into the campaign. Their organization should be strong enough to fill a ticket for local and county offices, he declared. He did not think it was an infraction of the Geran law to state that this or that man was a fit and proper candidate for the suffrage of the workers of the county. In Plainfield they had a majority of 1,500 to 2,000 against them and they had a big struggle before them. Any Democrat who is elected in Plainfield this year must figure on getting at least 700 Republicans to vote for him. Some Democrats were of the opinion that this was a Democratic year and it was only necessary to file a petition in order to have their men elected. That was a mistake. There would be seven freeholders elected this fall; three for Elizabeth and four from the rest of the county. This county commission had full control of county government, and the Democrats should see to it that they had proper candidates to fill the positions.

Howard Fleming said that the primary object of the organization would be to "make Democrats," if only for a year so as to secure Wilson's election.

Reference was made to the success of the Cleveland Campaign Club by J. O. Stevens, and he concluded that this campaign club would be run on similar lines. He did not think that there were any Democrats opposed to the election of Governor Wilson.

A discussion took place about the advisability of putting up a Wilson and Marshall banner on Park avenue or some other contiguous street, but the matter was considered premature.

It was the opinion of Judge W. L. Hetfield that there were more Republicans who would vote the Democratic ticket this year than ever there were, and he favored the extension of a general call to all to attend the mass meeting through the medium of an advertisement in the local newspapers. Others were of the opinion that circular letters should be sent and the matter was eventually left to the arrangement committe, of which J. O. Stevens was appointed temporary treasurer.

The chairman in a short address at the close of the meeting was of

REMEMBER BABY CAMP.

In your comfortable home, where even sickness and trouble have their alleviations, do not forget the poor sick little children and their worn-out mothers at the Baby Camp on Johnston drive. They have a rare chance for health and happiness in the good care accorded them through the King's Daughters, but it takes money to give them the chance. Contributions will be gratefully received by Mrs. A. M. Most, 33 Myrtle avenue.

WILL HOLD SERVICES TONIGHT.

Evangelistic services announced for last night at the tent on Darrow avenue had to be postponed on account of the severe hail storm which passed over the city. The large tent withstood the storm, and it was announced that the services will be continued tonight. The subject will be "The Home of the Saved; Will We Know Each Other There?" Evangelist W. H. Smith, of Newark, is in charge of the meetings.

The stork has presented Mr. and Mrs. Archer Laurente, of 283 Madison avenue, with a twelve pound baby boy.

GOVERNOR'S AUNT HAS A BIRTHDAY

Worth Noting, Because She Has Had 90 Others In the Course of Time.

PARTY IN FANWOOD

Lively Day for Presidential Candidate's Relative at Broach Home—She Is Anxious to See Nephew Tommy Win the Battle of Ballots.

Mrs. Sarah Wilson, widow of John A. Wilson and aunt of Governor Woodrow Wilson, celebrated her ninety-first birthday anniversary yesterday at the home of Mrs. Howard Broach in Fanwood, where she is spending the summer. Notwithstanding her advanced years, Mrs. Wilson is unusually active and her mind is as strong as that of a person half her age. She takes a lively interest in current events and is, of course, especially anxious that Governor Wilson—whom the family used to call Tommy—shall be successful in the fall campaign and be elected to the Presidency.

A pink and white luncheon was served at noon at yesterday's birthday observance, the table decorations, pink and white asters, being the gift of a baby friend just six months old. After the luncheon packages were opened by Mrs. Wilson containing remembrances from many friends and relatives. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, on the porch, Mrs. Wilson enjoyed the cutting of a large birthday cake which Mrs. Broach had made for the occasion. In the evening the aged woman joined heartily in a game of cards, after which she went to bed at her usual hour.

Mrs. Wilson was born in Chambersburg, Pa., where she spent her younger days. Many years of her married life were spent in Elizabeth, where she was prominent in charitable work, being especially interested and active in the Old People's Home. She now makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Thomas R. French, of Brooklyn, but preferring the country life to that of the city, decided to spend the summer with Mrs. Howard Broach at Fanwood.

PRICE OF MEAT GOES UP TO RECORD MARK

Advance Announced Yesterday Touches Highest Figure Ever Reached In America.

"The cow jumped over the moon for sure," yesterday, as a local butcher said today, when it was announced that the price of meat had advanced a cent a pound, the highest price ever reached in this country, according to local dealers. "War prices or famine prices are not in it with those of the wholesale markets," remarked one butcher, and he continued, "there is no relief in sight, in fact another advance is expected probably within a week."

"What will be the outcome?" the dealer was asked. "Well, the prices are going to drive many retail butchers out of business. They simply cannot stand the present conditions. Why, the wholesale price of loins and ribs is 20 cents a pound as against the normal price of 13½ and 14 cents. Porterhouse steak is selling at 38 cents a pound; prime rib roast at 30 and 32 cents; flatbone steak at 32 and 34 cents, while round steak brings 30 cents. And there is a scarcity of beef. It is not to be had in any considerable quantity.

"If Plainfield is not willing to pay the high prices the wholesalers will send the beef where there is a market for it. I know several butchers who are now on the point of closing their shops. They find that the majority of their customers cannot pay the high prices and the dealers cannot afford to invest their money in beef and then run the chances of selling it again."

The butcher who gave the foregoing information, offered as an explanation for the present conditions that while the population of the country has been increasing at a tremendous rate each year, there has not been a corresponding increase in the raising of cattle, hence the scarcity. He declared that there is not enough cattle raised to supply the people of the country, and in consequence the available beef is held at the highest prices. Those who can afford it are buying meat, while others are living on vegetables, fruits and other foodstuffs which are within their reach.

GEORGE M. FLEISCHMAN.

George Matthew Fleischman, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fleischman, of 228 Pond place, died last night. The burial will take place tomorrow afternon at 2:30 o'clock in Hillside cemetery.

For Furniture Lovers.

In the "Golden Book" of the Wanamaker Stores, which sets forth the history of this tremendous business, is a little sentence which gets at the whole secret of its gigantic success. This is it: "Mind is greater than matter, but mind and matter harnessed together are dynamic."

The greatness of that dynamic force is nowhere more apparent than in the present Furniture Sale of this house. Before genius took a hand in the development of retail trade any store that could boast of three or four floors for the display of its entire stock was seriously looked upon as, and called, an "Emporium." Today, at the Wanamaker Store, the Furniture sale alone is distributed over four floors—each line being given a special section to itself.

It is utterly useless to tell you where you will find the Dining-room Furniture—where the Bedroom Suites are located—or where the Arts and Crafts pieces are gathered together. If you have one definite thing in mind to buy, and are in a tremendous hurry, well and good—any attendant will tell you on exactly what floor and what section you will find what you are looking for. But unless you take the time to traverse the entire four floors, and view with your own eyes the beautiful pieces that are offered at remarkable reductions during this sale, you may consider yourself as having neglected an unusual opportunity not only to save money in purchasing at the present price reductions, but you have also lost a chance to see displayed at its best as fine a collection of Furniture as will be found anywhere or at any time.

There are most beautifully carved Mahogany Suites and there are the simplest of Enamelled pieces. There are pieces modelled after the Arts and Crafts ideas and there are elaborately brocaded and gilt suites. There are pieces so simple in line and style as to satisfy the most modest and quiet taste, and from these ornate styles others all the way up in point of decoration and richness to an elaborately carved and upholstered Throne Chair suitable for Museum display.

And the values are really quite as wonderful as the collection. Not a piece in this sale but shows in every line the Wanamaker mark of 100% thoroughness and sincerity of construction, and fineness and dinstinction of style. Even a person who is absolutely deficient in taste or totally lacking in judgment can depend upon the correct lines and excellent quality of any purchase made here. It is truly an opportunity with a capital O for anyone to add to the interior beauty and comfort of his home at a real and vital money saving.

SEEK DEMOCRAT TO RUN WITH T.R.

Southern Man With Progressive Ideas Desirable.

VERMONT REPORTS HEARD

They Are Very Glowing and Cheer the Colonel, Who Takes Lightly Statement That but Small Number of Senators Are With Him in Fight.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 1.—It is generally understood that if a Democrat and a southerner who is also a suitable progressive can be found he will be nominated for vice president at the third party convention in Chicago on Aug. 5.

The third party leader said as much, but he went on to indicate the difficulty which was being encountered in finding the right man to gain the support he fondly hopes to win from the solid south, not only for the approaching election, but for the groundwork he is laying of a nation wide progressive party for future usefulness. He was, he said, also on the lookout for a convention permanent chairman of the same section and past political affiliation to counterbalance the former Indiana senator, Albert J. Beveridge, who will occupy the temporary chairmanship.

Some hitch has caused the colonel to withdraw his proposal of John M. Parker, the New Orleans Democrat, for the convention's permanent presiding officer. His explanation was that after he and Senator Dixon had made the announcement of their selection it was recalled that the southerner was to make one of the speeches seconding the Roosevelt nomination. No other name was mentioned by the colonel for the place.

People With Him In Vermont.

"Mr. Metzger and Mr. Azeltine, candidates respectively for governor and lieutenant governor of Vermont," he said, after they had departed, "declared that I could have no idea how the people in Vermont were moved. They have the machine, the organization and the money against them and no politicians of any experience with them. But they believe they have the people with them to a degree that the politicians do not understand, and they feel very confident of the outcome in Vermont."

Henry F. Cochems of Wisconsin, the new head of the speakers' bureau of the Roosevelt campaign committee, accompanied the Vermonters. He came for a conference with the colonel on some new campaign plans.

Washington dispatches to the effect that the new party could count on the allegiance of only a corporal's guard of senators and representatives left the ex-president undismayed. He said, with a grim smile, that he did not expect much support from that quarter and added jokingly, "I think I can at least depend upon Senator Dixon."

He is well aware of the difficulty of some of the other progressive senators in preserving a sympathetic attitude toward his cause without leaving the Republican party lines.

T. R. MEN OFF FOR CHICAGO

Two Women Delegates Selected In New York City Convention.

New York, Aug. 1.—Two women were elected as delegates and two as alternates to the national convention of the National Progressive party at Chicago next week at a convention held at the Carnegie lyceum to choose the representatives from this county to the convention at which the presidential candidate of the third party is to be named. The delegates went to Chicago on a special train that left the Grand Central station this afternoon. The train will pick up delegates from other counties along the route, and at Buffalo a halt will be made to hold a state convention, at which the delegates at large will be chosen. According to the present program, the four delegates at large will be Oscar S. Straus and Henry L. Stoddard of this city, Chauncey Hamlin of Buffalo and Virgil F. Kellogg of Watertown.

VETO ANGERS CUMMINS.

Iowa Senator Arraigns Action on Shoshone Dam.

Washington, Aug. 1.—Hot criticism of President Taft was indulged in by Senator Cummins of Iowa in the senate debate to pass over his veto the contractors' payments of the Shoshone irrigation project.

Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1912.

Former Senator Everett Colby, who has many friends in Plainfield and who is one of the leaders of the Bull Moose movement in New Jersey, has already started for Chicago, where the Progressive convention is to be held next week. He has gone there to fight the insertion of a recall plank in the platform of the party, especially one providing for the recall of judges. In view of recent developments on the United States bench in the cases of Judges Archbald and Hanford, and the charges made yesterday against Judge Emery Speer in Georgia, it begins to look as if the recall would be a very good thing, and the charges made against these men will have their effect in favor of such a plan, at the party convention. The impeachment of Archbald, and the resignation of Hanford indicate that the charges made against them must have had some basis in truth. In the case of Judge Speer, who presides over the United States Court in the southern district of Georgia, the charges are made by a man who has been mayor of Macon for several terms, and is a member of the Georgia Legislature. He accuses the judge of irregularity in the handling of an estate which was in litigation in his court, and the fact that the charges come from a man of standing will give added weight to them. Everything considered, it seems as if Mr. Colby had tackled the wrong time and place to fight the recall proposition.

The day of the "political-personal" yarn has evidently arrived for this season. Yesterday it was reported that it had been found necessary to withdraw the name of Governor Wilson after it had been proposed for membership in one of the exclusive New York clubs, because certain members of the club said that they would blackball him when it came to voting. As is usual with such stories, Governor Wilson, the principal person involved, knew nothing about ever having been proposed for membership in the club. Such stories crop up in every campaign, but the American voters are too wise in this age to be influenced by yarns of the kind. In fact, they usually act for the benefit of the man whom it is hoped to harm.

Meat reached the highest price it has ever reached in the history of New York city, yesterday, according to the dispatches this morning. Probably it will go up here, too, because the local market is usually affected by Manhattan prices. There is one consolation at this time of the year, though, for there are plenty of fresh vegetables in the market, at reasonable figures. It is not wise to eat as much meat in the summer as in the winter, say those who profess to know, so perhaps the raise in the price is not serious just now, after all.

As each days' developments are made public in the investigation into the murder of the gambler, Rosenthal, in New York city, the confidence of the public of the metropolis in the officials must be more and more shaken. Some of the things which have been disclosed seem almost impossible of belief. It can hardly be said that Mayor Gaynor's attitude of treating the whole affair as one in which all involved but the gamblers are to be believed has strengthened the executive in the eyes of the residents of the city.

After the strain of watching two great national conventions through the press of the nation, the public will have a welcome relief when they read the accounts of the Progressive convention to be held at Chicago beginning on Monday. So far as the nominee of that party is concerned, it seems to be all cut and dried, and the only way in which any strife can be engendered there will be in a fight over the platform or the vice-presidential candidate. On the platform discussion there promises to be plenty of oratory let loose.

Over 1,000 persons have been invited to the White House today to inform President Taft of his nomination by the Republican National convention held last June. Of course he will be terribly surprised, but he would be more so if some one told him the real truth about what happened at the convention. However, all reference to the failure of Mr. Taft to get the customary unanimous nomination will undoubtedly be omitted from the speech telling him about it.

Here's the summer more than half over and less than $100 has been contributed for the support of the Baby Camp on the mountain, whose running expenses aggregate $600. Come on, now, don't be slow—send us your check for ten dollars or for one dollar for this worthy cause. All contributions will be acknowledged in these columns and as promptly transmitted to the Camp committee.

The way in which bottles are being picked up containing alleged messages from the Titanic demonstrates rather conclusively that there are plenty of jokers who never stop to think about the effect of using such gruesome methods to display their "wit."

Some one has sent President Taft some red, white and blue neckties as a grateful expression of gratitude for his action in the passport treaty with Russia. Certainly no one sent them to him because they thought he resembled a flagpole.

No, gentle reader, the war in Mexico is not over. It is merely overshadowed by the political news of the day. If it keeps up until after election there will be space for it on the front page again.

It reads like a fairy tale, but they say that out on West Fourth street men were making snow balls out of the hail last night! Pretty good hot weather yarn, for the first of August, anyway.

If we are to judge by the amount of space given to reports of its preparation, that speech of acceptance will be Wilson's Wondrous Work.

Suffice it to say that the contributing editor for next Saturday is a clergyman who is profoundly interested in the community's welfare.

KIDDIES PROVIDE FUN AT NETHERWOOD HOME

The rainy weather did not spoil the entertainment at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home last night, when the mothers and children were entertained with songs and recitations. Boys and girls dressed as brownies and fairies were the entertainers. They were rehearsed by Mrs. Royle T. Philips, under whose direction the Wednesday and Saturday night entertainments are held.

After the entertainment, James Parker, of Grove street, treated the children to ice cream and cake.

The religious services tonight will be conducted by L. H. Biglow, of Brooklyn, formerly of this city. A new form of religious service will be held tomorrow night, when Mrs. L. H. Matlack and Mrs. Rising, of the First Baptist church, will give an interesting and instructive chalk talk.

It Clawed, Crawled and Even Croaked, Washington Woman Asserts.

A live frog that crawled and clawed and croaked lived for nearly a year in the stomach of Mrs. L. V. King of Washington.

After reducing the woman to a living skeleton the frog was finally extricated by physicians with a large pump.

The frog is now preserved in alcohol. It measures all told about seven inches.

As a tadpole it was swallowed by Mrs. King in well water last August. Weeks passed before the woman realized there was some living creature in her stomach. She consulted doctors, but they laughed at her.

Last spring the frog, now reaching to its full growth, began to climb into her throat and nearly suffocated her, and several times she fainted with pain.

Two months ago, Mrs. King declares, the frog began to croak. She distinctly heard it many times, and her relatives hear her out. She went to a hospital, and the frog was pumped out of its hiding place.

The frog lived ten minutes in a tub of water. It croaked and sang just like any "regular frog." Then it died.

According to physicians, this is the first time on record that any creature of the proportions of this frog has ever lived in a human stomach for the period of eleven months.

PREFERS HOME TO POLITICS.

Mrs. Hamilton's Five Children Make Her Refuse Assembly Nomination.

"My advice to woman," said Mrs. A. L. Hamilton, wife of a former assistant superintendent of schools in Pasadena, Cal., "is to keep out of politics until their babies are grown up. Women should take an interest in voting and affairs of state, but let that interest be passive until the little ones at home are able to care for themselves."

Mrs. Hamilton, who was formerly president of the state mothers' congress and at present is head of the southern district of the organization, refused the prohibition nomination for the assembly, declaring her duty was first to her children and her home and not to the state. She is the mother of five children, and if she were elected to the assembly would be absent from home for many months of the year. This fact decided her to refuse the nomination.

"I will neglect my home for nothing on earth," said Mrs. Hamilton. "As one of the leaders in the mothers' congress, I could not consistently sacrifice my home duties for a political position."

END TO ALL FIGHT PICTURES.

Taft Will Sign Bill Forbidding Interstate Traffic In Films.

Prizefight moving pictures became a thing of the past in the United States when the house passed the senate bill prohibiting the transportation of such moving picture films between the various states and territories or from foreign countries.

Heavy fines for violation of the proposed law are fixed by the bill. The president, said to be in complete sympathy with the legislation, is expected to affix his signature to the measure.

Southern members of congress were especially interested in the proposed law because of the race feeling stirred up by the exhibition of the Jeffries-Johnson moving pictures in their section of the country. Senator Simmons of North Carolina and Representative Sims of Tennessee pressed the bill in the senate and House.

GOV. WILSON'S APPLE TREE.

It Will Replace the One Under Which Lee Surrendered to Grant.

The famous old apple tree near Appomattox Court House, Va., under which Lee surrendered to Grant, long since carried away piece by piece by souvenir hunters, is to be replaced by a tree planted by Governor Woodrow Wilson.

Colonel George A. Armes, U. S. A., owner of the Appomattox farm, made a visit to Governor Wilson with the news that the Democratic presidential nominee has accepted an invitation to visit the historical place to plant the new tree within the next few weeks.

It is expected that the trip to Virginia will be made with a party including a number of senators and representatives and that a visit will be paid to Monticello, Jefferson's home.

POSTOFFICE CHECKS CRIME.

Since Postmaster General Hitchcock instituted the policy of putting in jail men who use the mails to defraud the total number of arrests up to the close of last fiscal year, June 30, was 1,063, and the amount of money filched by these criminals from the American people is conservatively estimated at more than $120,000,000.

The number of indictments secured was 1,057. Four hundred and eighty-two persons have been convicted, and 571 cases are awaiting trial.

Destruction of Wild Animals.

The greatest destruction of wild animal life in the history of Siberia was caused last year by the requirements of fashion. The returns for the fur trade, $4,000,000, exceeded those of 1910 by $500,000.

ACROBAT'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD NEXT SATURDAY

The funeral service of Frank Xavier Spissell, who died yesterday afternoon, at his home, 107 Johnston avenue, will be held there Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. John G. Currier, curate of Grace church, will officiate and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

DOG BANISHED.

"Ted," the little sentinel that kept faithful guard over the entrance to Clevely's restaurant on North avenue, has left for the country on furlough—in fact on an indefinite leave of absence. It was not that "Ted's" health was failing or that it desired a vacation. For "Ted" was quite content these sunny days to bask in the sunshine on the sidewalks, and receive with indifference or delight the sundry pats and caresses of the restaurant's ucstomers or passersby. His retirement was due to a dislike for J. N. Wright, of Prospect avenue, in whose forearm "Ted" tried to bury his teeth yesterday. Mr. Wright complained to Policeman Meyers. In court today E. H. Clevely, "Ted's" owner, told City Judge William G. DeMeza that he had given the dog to a friend in the country.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Morris Isaacson and Benjamin LaVere, Russians, of 96 Race street, appeared before City Judge W. G. DeMeza this morning on a charge of assaulting Harry Kohn on Arlington avenue last night. They were arrested by Patrolman Sweeney. The case was put over until tomorrow.

KEEP AFTER DOG OWNERS.

There has been no let-up in the war on unlicensed dogs in the borough. This morning three dog owners were brought before Recorder Gano. The police have followed the rule of summoning a few owners of unlicensed dogs each day, and the plan has served to induce more than 50 owners to take out licenses within the past week.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The State Trust Company thermometer today registered as follows: 9 a. m., 69 degrees; 11 a. m., 77 degrees; 1 p. m., 82 degrees.

DOANE SEES FUTURE MOTOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Chief Doane thinks that the horse is being rapidly superseded by the motor, and feels convinced that in a short time every fire company in Plainfield will be thoroughly equipped with motor apparatus. The arrival of the motor engine from Allentown, Pa., for fire headquarters, will pave the way for a revolution in this respect. It is due here about the end of the week.

"The quality of the horses now in the fire department service," said the chief, "were never at such a low ebb." A number of them were too old for up-to-date efficiency, and four are to be sold at auction. An offer had come from Mrs. William H. Mearse, of Murray Hill, a kind hearted woman, who is desirous that the animals shall get good treatment for the rest of their lives, but the chief said they would be knocked down to the highest bidder. Two of the horses at headquarters will be put out of commission by the arrival of the motor apparatus. It was intended to make a swap with the hose company, but two of their horses are suffering from sore backs. Some horses will be required, but at present the chief does not know how many, or what action the Common Council will take in the matter when the question is raised.

BIG CHURCH OUTING.

The united societies of St. Joseph's church will have a big time at Riverside Park on Saturday, August 10. There will be an athletic meet at 3 o'clock and a ball gam eat 4 o'clock, between teams representing St. Joseph's church and St. Peter's church, of New Brunswick. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock and dancing will be in order from 8 to 11 p. m.

PASTOR'S WIFE IS KILLED BY CAR

Red Bank, Aug. 1—While rounding a curve on a Berkshire trolley, near Great Barrington, Mass., Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Lillie J. Rogan, wife of Rev. J. W. Rogan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, was thrown from her seat to the roadbed and instantly killed.

Several other passengers at the same time were thrown from their seats to the floor of the car, but no others were seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogan left Red Bank Wednesday morning for Great Barrington, where they intended to spend a month's vacation. They had planned an extensive trip, embracing many New England points.

Mrs. Rogan's body was returned here late Wednesday night. She was fifty-nine year old and besides a husband is survived by two sisters and one brother. She was born at Jonesborough, Tenn., the youngest child of General Alfred E. Jackson, a confederate general. Her maternal grandfather was General Taylor, of the Mexican war.

The late Senator Taylor was a cousin.

Mr. Rogan accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church here about three years ago. He came to Red Bank from Flemington. The funeral was held at the home here this afternoon. Burial will be in Jonesborough cemetery.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

IN WATERMELON TIME.

FRESH watermelon must be served cold.

One way of sending it to the table is to slice off both ends of the melon. Stand it on one of these, serving the core only, which should be scooped out with a large spoon.

The Chinese, who are fond of melons, serve them half frozen, a method which is to be commended on a sultry day. They should at least stand on the ice to chill for several hours. This brings out the flavor.

Melons look more attractive if sent to the table on a bed of green leaves. Grape leaves are generally the ones used.

Some people prefer to serve watermelon in slices cut across the fruit or in thick wedge shaped pieces.

Putting Up Melon.

Many like watermelon preserve. When melons are abundant it may be worth while to try one of these methods of putting up the fruit:

Watermelon Preserve.—Take the rind from the melon and cut into small pieces. Soak in alum water overnight. In the morning put in a kettle, cover with cold water, let it come to a boil and boil for about five minutes.

Take out of this water, put on in cold water again with some sliced ginger and boil until the melon is tender, but not soft. When the melon is tender remove from this water and make a sirup with this same water and sugar, using eight pounds of sugar to ten pounds of fruit.

Boil the sugar and water until it forms a good sirup and then drop the rind in and cook at a moderate rate for three and a half to four hours or until the rind is thoroughly done. Flavor with vanilla or lemon after taking the kettle from the stove.

Nice For Breakfast.

Watermelon Marmalade.—Cut green and red from the rind of a watermelon. Cut white rind into squares and lay in cold water overnight. Next morning put through food chopper, cover with cold water and let come to boil, then drain. Repeat twice, then boil until tender. Peel four oranges and two lemons. Put rinds through food chopper, cover with cold water, boil and drain.

Repeat and boil until tender. Put pulp through chopper and when the rinds are tender put all into one kettle with five pounds of granulated sugar, boil for two hours and put into jars.

such as silks or terries lined with contrasting color, and that the heavier ones depend principally upon the cut for their effect and shall be wholly without trimming save perhaps the decorative buttons upon sleeve and skirt.

Shoes in all colors are worn to match the frock.

Deep rose brocade patterns in gold are much in evidence.

High collars are coming in again, and so are long, set in sleeves.

Every variation of the overlapped skirt effect is popular. The model pictured is cut in four pieces so there are only four seams to be sewed up.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

When some young mother comes all trembling and tear dimmed to you because Johnny has told her his first lie, do you know how to help her to search back to the cause of the lie, and, therefore, to understand how to remedy rather than punish the evil? Or perhaps Mamie has committed a theft, do you know how to show her terror-stricken mother that what Mamie needs is not a whipping but some possessions of her own so that she may learn the meaning of "mine" and "thine?" Or it may be that Tom, big overgrown Tom, is so noisy and restless the peace of the household is destroyed. Do you know how to tell his mother of physical exercises or of boyish hand-work which will utilize Tom's surplus nervous force and direct his mental energies toward something more than motion and empty noise?

One of the primary rights of infancy and childhood is the provision of such conditions as will give the chance for life and health. Both there rights are denied to more than half a million children every year, however much physicians and Boards of Health may legislate and discuss it, the fact remains that the only people who can really present this needless sacrifice of human life are the mothers themselves. When two million babies are born each year in America it means that each year there are at least a million mothers who should be reached and imbued with the fact that mother's instinct is a poor guide in giving the baby a chance for life and health. The knowledge of how to keep the baby well is far more necessary than to send for a physician when he is ill.

Only through intelligent motherhood can any great progress be made in baby saving. Parents, before you criticize the teaching of manual training or domestic science, remember that before the "Three R's" were even thought of, there were children to teach; they had to learn to cook, to chop, to sew skins together, to build huts, to make bows and arrows, to fight, to swim, to hunt. How many fathers maintain a toolchest today? How many mothers bake their own bread or teach their daughters how to cut garments? Before you criticize their semi-vocational courses please remember this: The public schools do not intend to force a boy to be a carpenter, or a girl to be a seamstress or cook, but they are trying to supply that handiness and domestic proficiency that your husbands and you acquired almost intrictisely, in your childhood. Again, don't expect the schools to bear burdens that were never intended for them. The child is in school about six hours, during the balance of the day he is your child, not the school's. Unless you are amply justified be careful of your criticism of course of study of teacher and of pupil. Be careful in your criticism of teachers, they are only human. Where you have the control and set an example remember that it is to only a few children, the teacher for 1,300 hours during the year does the same thing to about 35 children. efore you prejudge your child's teacher go to her, know her, help her, you will find her just as ready to receive and to follow helpful suggestion as you are to give them.—Mayor Harvey W. Kingsleys, Address to Vermont Branch, National Congress of Mothers.

The late William James, Harvard's famous psychologist, would often illuminate a misty subject with appropriate anecdote. Discussing motherhood in a lecture on psychology, Prof. James once said: "A teacher asked a boy this question in fractions, 'Suppose that your mother baked an apple pie and there were seven of you—the parents and five children, what part of the pie would you get for your portion?' 'A sixth, ma'am,' the boy answered. 'But there are seven of you,' said the teacher. 'Don't you know anything about fractions?' 'Yes, ma'am,' said the boy, 'I know all about fractions, but I know all about mother, too, mother'd say she didn't want no pie.'".

Campaign of Education.

A state-wide campaign of education of women and girls in the subject of sex hygiene and the prevention of disease has been undertaken by the state department of health. This educational work will be done by means of lectures, circulars and exhibits and will be carried on in co-operation with women's organizations. It is also proposed to reach girls working in industrial establishments.

Commissioner Ledrie, of the New York Health Department, in a report made public yesterday, declared that 349 babies under a year old died in the greater city last week as against 375 during the corresponding week of a year ago. So far this year 456 fewer babies have died than up to this time last year.

This great gain in baby saving is due to the record made in Manhattan Borough, where there are 508 fewer deaths so far this year than last. Brooklyn is still behind its record of last year by 33 deaths, and the Bronx by 41 deaths. Queens has 41 fewer deaths this year, while Richmond has 19 more. The death rate among infants this last week was 139.3.

Dr. Baker reports that there are 15,995 babies under a year old in the care of the district nurses of the Division of Child Hygiene of the Board of Health. There were 16 deaths among these last week. None of these is enrolled in the milk stations. There are approximately 17,000 babies now enrolled in the milk stations. Of these only 5 died last week.

It is estimated that there are about 10,000 babies under the supervision of private agencies. These are in addition to the total of 33,000 cared for by the milk stations and district nurses. Out of the 250,000 babies in the city under 2 years of age, it is estimated that about 50,000 are in need of social work. There remain, therefore, according to these figures, only about 7,000 more to reach. It is hoped that the greater part of this number will be in touch with the milk stations or other agencies before the end of the season.

HERE AND THERE.

The Kewanee Daily Star-Courier, of Kewanee, Ill., under date of Friday, July 26, has the following to say about Charles P. Sebring, of this city, who is traveling in the west:

"Charles Sebring, of Plainfield, New Jersey, who has been visiting in this city since the first of the week with his cousin, E. M. Vail, on South Main street, started on his homeward journey yesterday. Mr. Sebring is favorably impressed with the west and middle west and states that he thinks Kewanee a fine city. He expects to stop in Chicago on his return trip and will attend the Progressive Convention in that city as a spectator, as he himself is a Taft man. While he was visiting in Delta, Iowa, the Daily Press of that city printed the following concerning him: 'Charles Sebring, of Plainfield, N. J., arrived here Monday forenoon for a few days visit at the Cap Sampson home, he being a cousin of Mrs. Sampson, and also a cousin of Will Brokaw. Mr. Sebring left his eastern home in time to be in Chicago for the Republican convention, and for a few days before coming to Delta, he visited an aged aunt at Henry, Ill. He will also visit at other points in Iowa and Nebraska and expects to get home by the last of July. While in Chicago Mr. Sebring purchased the flag decorations with which the Gold room of the Congress hotel was decorated for the Taft headquarters during the recent convention, and will use the same for decorating his auditorium at Plainfield, a city of about 30,000. Mr. Sebring has a number of interesting photos with him, noting the many changes which have taken place in his home town, which are of especial interest to his relatives.' Since the above article was written Mr. Sebring has been visiting in Rock Rapids, Iowa, Sioux Falls, South Dakota and in Kewanee. While in attendance at the Republican National Convention he occupied a place on the platform and was the third man to shake hands with Chairman Root."

DROWNING BOY IS SAVED BY HIS CHUM

Red Bank, Aug. 1.—As he was sinking for the second time, Edward Irwin, seven-year-old son of Charles Irwin, of this place, was rescued Tuesday afternoon by Roy Henry, aged ten years.

The lads were playing on a raft near the Irwin boy's home on the south shore of the North Shrewsbury River. Young Henry, who is a good swimmer, dived from the raft several times and Irwin leaped into the water.

When Henry saw his chum rise and then sink again he dived after him and swam with the semi-conscious boy to the shore, a distance of about 150 feet. After notifying Irwin's parents, Henry went home.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY ON OCTOBER 27

Expected That 100,000 Pulpits Will Observe Third Annual Date.

Churches and religious societies, to the number of at least 100,000, will be urged to give special attention to the prevention of tubersulosis on Sunday, October 27, or on some day during the week preceding or the week following that date. This season has been set apart and designated as the Third National Tuberculosis Day by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which makes this announcement today.

Tuberculosis Day was originally set on April 28, but was postponed because of a conflict with Conservation Sunday of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, which was held on that date. The observance of Tuberculosis Day in the fall this year will be utilized by anti-tuberculosis workers not only for the general education of churchgoers on consumption, but also for the purpose of interesting them in the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals.

Everyone of the six hundred and more anti-tuberculosis associations allied with the National Association will be urged to promote Tuberculosis Day in their respective communities. While last year over 50,000 churches observed this occasion, it is expected this year that this number will be doubled. Millions of circulars and other forms of literature will be distributed. The support of every religious denomination will be asked for.

That tuberculosis is a serious problem among church congregations is evidenced by statistics which the National Association gathered last year, which show that 10 per cent, of all deaths among church members are caused by tuberculosis. Based on these figures and on the mortality statistics of the Census Bureau, over 52,000 of the 33,000,000 communicants in churches in the United States die from tuberculosis every year. This figure assumes that the death rate of 1.60 per 1,000, population in the Registration Area applies to all churchgoers, when, as a matter of fact, the rate would probably be higher.

REPENTANT WOULD-BE SUICIDE HAS RECOVERED

Miss Bertha Thaw, of New Germantown, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment for selfinflicted injuries, has recovered and she returned to her home, yesterday. Mis Thaw was brought to the hospital several weeks ago with a bullet wound in her breast. She had attempted to take her life in a fit of despondency.

After the shooting, Miss Thaw expressed deep regret for her act and said that she wanted to get well. Her parents had her removed to the local hospital. Her life was despaired of for several days, but finally there was a change for the better.

BULL MOOSE MEETING.

Elizabeth, August 1—Representatives of the third party from all parts of Union county attended a conference last night at the home of Edgar A. Knapp, in this city, to discuss plans for the fall campaign. It was decided to hold a mass meeting in Elizabeth following the Chicago convention, when several prominent speakers will be heard.

DAMAGE CLAIMS AGAINST MEXICO

$20,000,000 GOLD THE EXTENT

Revolutionists Plundered Foreigners and Their Own Countrymen Alike, and American Interests Are Among the Heaviest Sufferers.

Claims for damages aggregating an enormous sum, estimated at not less than $20,000,000 (gold), will be submitted to the government as a result of the depredations committed upon foreign property interests by revolutionists in different parts of Mexico.

The revolutionists in the states of Chihuahua, Morelos, Guerrero and Sinaloa live exclusively off of the country. They get their horses, saddles, foodstuffs and supplies from the ranches and towns. They get money from every available source, holding up banks, stores and individuals. Thousands hold receipts for horses, cattle, arms and ammunition, supplies and money taken by rebels. While the heaviest sufferers are the railroads, there are thousands of mining, manufacturing and other industrial concerns and individuals that have claims ranging from $1,000 to $100,000 that will be presented to the government for payment.

For several weeks the Chihuahua division of the National Railways of Mexico was in the hands of the rebels. The trains were operated by rebel crews and the freight and passenger receipts went to maintain General Pascual Orozco's army. While the Mexican government owns the majority of the stock, approximately 49 per cent is held by Americans and Europeans. It is stated that the minority holders will insist upon the government making good. This, it is expected, will mean over $5,000,000 gold.

Railroad a Sufferer.

The Southern Pacific railroad of Mexico, a new line not yet completed down the Pacific coast, has also suffered heavy losses at the hands of rebels in the state of Sinaloa and the territory of Tepic. The claim which this company will submit will probably be not less than $2,000,000 gold.

The Mexico Northwestern railroad, owned by British interests, was for several months practically paralyzed and many of its bridges were destroyed and the tracks torn up. The same interests also own large industrial plants along the line of the road, and their claim will aggregate about $1,500,000 gold, it is said.

The American Smelting and Refining company, which has had to pay heavy tribute to the rebels, will demand more than $500,000 gold, according to estimates.

Two Men Ask $5,000,000.

Other foreign mine owners in the republic claim damages aggregating probably more than $1,500,000.

In the state of Chihuahua, where the vast estates of Louis Terrazas and his son-in-law, Enrique Creel, have been ravaged by rebels, the amount of damages asked for by these two men alone will be upward of $5,000,000.

The Banco Minero of Chihuahua was made to donate $200,000 gold to the Orozco cause. The Banco Nacional gave up $150,000; the Banco de Sonora, $100,000, and individuals, $200,000.

The Intercontinental Rubber company of Torreon, which is owned by the Rockefeller-Aldrich interests, will ask for approximately $500,000 gold. Other industrial concerns of that section will claim $500,000.

Hundreds of smaller individual sufferers will demand an aggregate of not less than $5,000,000.

ENDOWS TWAIN LIBRARY.

Andrew Carnegie Makes the Author's Memorial Self Supporting.

The public library founded by the late Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) in Redding, Conn., where he spent the latter years of his life, has been endowed by Andrew Carnegie with a fund sufficient to support it. The library is to be known as the Mark Twain Memorial library.

When Mr. Clemens moved to Redding he placed several thousand volumes from his own library in a small vacant chapel and opened it to the public. Just before his death he erected a building for the library as a memorial to his daughter, Jean. After the author's death Mrs. Gabrilowitsch, another daughter, donated the larger part of his remaining library to the collection.

The library up to the present time has been supported by voluntary contributions.

CUTS NEW TEETH AT 89.

Full Sets In Upper and Lower Jaws Coming Out Nicely.

Jonathan H. Cole of South Plainfield, N. J., celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday recently with unusual glee because, he informed his friends, he is cutting new teeth. Twenty years ago he procured a set of false teeth and had no trouble until three weeks ago, when he suffered severe pains.

A dentist removed the false teeth and began treatment, but discovered that the pain was due to the cutting of full sets of lower and upper teeth.

DAVID J. GARTH LEFT A FORTUNE

Will of Man Who Died On Visit Here Filed for Probate.

DISPOSES OF $350,000

Testator Expired at the Home of His Sister, Mrs. George R. Cornwell, On July 18—Widow to Receive $112,000—Charitable Bequests.

The will of David J. Garth, who died on July 18 at the home of his brother-in-law, George R. Cornwell on Gresham road, where he had been visiting, was filed for probate at White Plains, N. Y., this week. It disposes of an estate estimated at about $350,000. It gives $112,000 to the widow, and the remainder to grandchildren and other relatives and to charitable institutions. The will is dated September 11, 1906.

The public bequests are: The American Bible Society, $5,000; Children's Aid Society, of New York, $5,000; New York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital, $3,000; White Plains Hospital Association, $500. Charles W. Garth, of Louisville, Ky.; Margaret B. Cowan, of Louisville, and David Garth Bockie, of Camp Meeker, Cal., receive $70,000 each.

Mr. Garth was born in New York and spent the greater part of his life at Scarsdale, N. Y., while for a time he resided in the south. He made most of his money in the wholesale tobacco business, which he afterward disposed of to the Lorillard Tobacco Company. He had lived in California for six years prior to coming to Plainfield to visit his sister, and he had only been here a few weeks when he died.

POLICE STOP ESCAPE OF PRISONER TOILERS

Camden, August 1—As an aftermath of what threatened to be a general delivery of the prisoners at the Camden municipal paper, factory Daniel, alias "Dina" Gegan, was given three months in the county jail while Samuel, alias "Bricks" Batchelor, was held in $1,000 bail by Recorder Stackhouse Wednesday. The first was charged with disorderly conduct, while the other was accused by Keeper Isaac Eberle with trying to slash him with a razor.

Gegan had been sullen for some time, and when told to get to work he suddenly turned on Eberle, who was forced to call the assistance of Hiram Davis, the blacksmith. While they were shackling Gegan, Batchelor drew a razor and made a vicious attack on Eberle, the latter escaping the keen edge by a fraction. His shirt and tie were cut to ribbons. Then a riot call was sent to police headquarters.

When a squad appeared Gegan had been subdued, but Batchelor was still looking for trouble. Other prisoners were also in a frame of mind to cause trouble, and a rush was about to be made for the doors when the bluecoats arrived. Both Batchelor and Gegan were securely chained and sent to jail.

Philosophical Phelix Says:

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The weather man has changed his tactics for the present and rather than spoil a win for Plainfield Saturday afternoon because of rain, he has decided to alternate and send hail stones.

That's all right, Jawn, but have them the regulation size next time.

The fourth amateur baseball league has been started in this city. This makes two for Parker Field and both are well launched.

Plainfield is getting to be a regular baseball town and everybody will be playing the game by next season.

Temples are still gloating over their initial win and the First Baptist players have not put in their appearance since their downfall on Saturday.

The tailenders will be put to their real test this week when they stack up against the Monroe Avenue nine.

The Temples will take delight in beating this bunch and in doing so will oust them from the top rung and help the Chapelites to move back into the top berth by downing Park Avenue.

Warry McLaughlin seems to be a thorn in the side of the Westfield bunch. All the veteran southpaw has to do to earn a victory over the Flynn bunch is to throw his glove into the box.

Sweeney, the Yankees' backstop, repeated the stunt tried by Ty Cobb the other day, and came out of yesterday's game with five singles to his credit.

Speaking of stickwork, that stranger by the name of Jack Martin was also there with a couple of healthy ones.

Another team of ball players has come to light in this vicinity and will play its first game against the St. Joseph's nine of Bound Brook next Wednesday.

This newly unearthed aggregation comes from the camp for city boarders at Bound Brook and in order to give the inmates a fair exhibition of the national pastime it has secured the services of Slocum, Mullin and Carry of this city.

That trio is enough to cure any set of fanatics.

Hammer throwers are seen every evening back of Robert Murray's store on West Front street. We have not seen any of the women entrants in the dashes for this sex out on the road as yet. Pretty near time to get into training. Maybe they are waiting for some advice.

CUBS HAND ONE TO HOPEFUL YANK NINE

Mix Their Own Hits With the Enemy's Errors and Profit Thereby.

The Yankees' nine, of the Parker Field Baseball League, failed to turn the trick on the Cubs and hand them their first defeat in their scheduled game yesterday, but had to be contented with the smaller end of a 7 to 3 score. The Cub twirler, Henderson, pitched his usual steady and effective game and allowed the opposing nine but five scattered hits. Vaughn and Hannagan, on the other hand, were hit freely and the eight bingles mixed in with the seven costly misplays were enough to hand the Cubs the game.

GASTON STROBINO.

Paterson, N. J., Friends Give Homecoming Olympic Athlete Welcome.

Strobino, who is a member of the South Paterson Athletic club, finished third in the classic Marathon, the big event of the Olympic games. He is now the hero of the New Jersey city.

PATERSON GREETS ATHLETES

Royal Welcome In New Jersey City For Its Olympic Heroes.

Paterson, N. J, Aug. 1.—The Paterson "boys" who won honor and glory for Uncle Sam at the Olympic games in Sweden and who returned to this country on the Vaderland received a rousing reception in this city later in the day, when a gigantic parade through the principal streets of Paterson was held in their honor. It seemed as though all of Paterson turned out to march in the parade or witness it. Hundreds also from nearby places came here to cheer the young athletes.

"ALL STARS" TWINKLE AND THEN WINK OUT

Unusual Crop of Mushroom Teams Beginning to Mark the Baseball Season.

The formation of "all-star" baseball teams seems to have become a fad in this section. Within the past few weeks a number of these aggregations of so-called star performers have come before the baseball public and then have just as suddenly retired, or reorganized into a team of another name. In most cases the newly formed nine has won its initial contest, and then as if resting on its laurels has sunk back into retirement. The first of these short-lived aggregations was Louis Slocum's team of All-Stars that went to Flemington two weeks ago and played a twelve inning game with the nine of that place. It came out of the fray victorious and Slocum made a "rep" for himself as a strikeout wonder. Then came the announcement of the reorganization of the old South Plainfield team but it has not as yet played its first contest.

The Scotch Plains baseball team has been more or less of an All-Star aggregation during the illness of Joe Alberts, but he is now back at the business end of the 'Plains nine and some more good games will be staged there Sunday afternoons.

Now comes the announcement of the formation of a new combination in a heretofore unheard of place on the mountains back of Bound Brook. Some one has conducted a resort for summer boarders at this place and being desirous of furnishing the guests with a fair exhibition of the national pastime, the management has engaged a trio of independent ball players from this city to galvanize the boarders' lineup and help coach the rest of the would be ball players. The first game will be played with the St. Joseph's team of Bound Brook next Wednesday afternoon and if the recently formed nine succeeds in overcoming this bunch they are certainly entitled to a chance at the rest of the fast amateur nines around this section. The team will play only on Wednesday afternoons as the Plainfielders in the lineup are engaged playing elsewhere during the week-ends. The only thing that is now left to do is to spring the names of this Queen City trio on the baseball public. The batteries for the boarders will be Slocum and Mullin, the Hal Chase of the combination will be Carty, the Plainfield High School player.

HARVARD HITTERS DO UP A YALE PITCHER

Houston's Offerings Pounded to All Parts of Parker Field —Score 24 to 2.

By some heavy stickwork and good base running, the Harvard team of the Parker Field college league, walloped the Yale nine to the tune of 24 to 2 on Parker Field yesterday afternoon. In the first, third and sixth rounds the Yale twirler was pounded to the four corners of the lot and the Harvard nine circled the bases at will.

MGR. MC DONOUGH SAYS HE WILL SIGN REAL PLAYERS

Manager McDonough, of the newly reorganized South Plainfield baseball team, said last night that he would have one of the strongest lineups on the field that ever represented that suburban village, which is not unfavorable to Sunday baseball. McDonough has brought a number of the original performers on the old nine back into the fold, and these, together with the new material he has to pick from, will put one of "those old fashioned teams of real ball players" on the diamond to stack up against all comers.

McDonough will look after one of the fielding positions on the team and although he has completed the rest of the lineup he is not going to announce it until the last minute. The South Plainfielders are particularly anxious to hear from all the local amateur ball teams of this city and still have Saturday afternoon and Sunday of this week open. Address Andrew McDonough, 208 Randolph road.

An Idea and Its Developement

When I opened my store I had an idea which I believed if worked out properly must bring success.

Dumas has used the phrase, "One for all and all for one." In other words, to work for our mutual interests must benefit both of us.

When I sell a suit of clothes I make my profit, and you get a well-tailored, elegantly-styled suit at an eminently fair price.

Don't we both benefit by such a transaction?

And now I am holding my first sale. Every price-tag in my store has been remarked so that I am now able to give you the best values you have ever had.

Come in, try on a few garments—you'll not be asked to buy.

PICTURE FRAMING

DID YOU TAKE OUT A HUNTING OR FISHING LICENSE, SCOOP?

This Is Written to Folks Who Live Outside of the Busy Whirl of New York

They may come to the great city for business—but they live in the quiet and content of another world.

And they know how to live.

Their homes are homes—not just so many rooms.

They have the true atmosphere of a real home—a background of green trees and fragrant flowers, a canopy of the blue sky (which they can see), cool verandas and shady walks, a vegetable garden in the rear; and within the harmony of properly selected furniture, rugs, hangings, pictures.

We are not quite sure of this—"harmony within." It ought to be there, since the outside—in nature's garden—is so beautiful and peaceful and harmonious.

Are you, gentle reader, quite sure that your home INSIDE is just right? Do the furnishings harmonize and shade into one another to give you that restful feeling of repose? Or do they jar? Does that table in the center of your living room strike just the right note? Is the lamp en rapport with the rugs and table cover? And the chairs and the wall paper, and the curtains?

We do not want to stir up a restless spirit of discontent and yet we do; for every one's home should be the best one can make it—is yours? That is the question to ask yourself? If you reply NO—and ask what can be done, the answer is found in

The August Furniture Sale

It is a sale of economy first, so the cost of refurnishing your home need not bother you; but it is a sale of good taste and education and harmony as well.

BASKING RIDGE READY FOR FETE OF FIREMEN

Basking Ridge, August 1—The Basking Ridge Volunteer Fire Company No. 1, will hold its third annual carnival on the school grounds tomorrow and Saturday. Tomorrow will be observed as "visitors day," and the public will be invited to inspect the apparatus and fire headquarters. On Saturday, "firemen's day," the afternoon will be taken up by drills and demonstrations.

The company will give an exhibition of its efficiency in fire fighting. A shed will be built, filled with boxes of excelsior, saturated with oil, and ignited. When the fire reaches its height the moto combination hose car will be summoned, and its crew will put out the fire with the chemical extinguishers. There will also be tests in ladder work, in going up and down the buildings, and the handling of hose. Chief Raymond A. Henry will direct the demonstration.

The Far Hills band will be in attendance both days, and will furnish the music for dancing in the firehouse in the evening. Supper will be served both evenings in the 18. There will be a special donation booth, which will contain articles for sale. Among the attractions will be a merry-go-round, moving picture show, several kinds of shooting galleries and rifle ranges and an exhibition of juggling. A colored minstrel troupe from New York will give entertainments each afternoon and evening.

PEDAGOGUE FOR BAN ON PARTIES

Rahway, August 1—In an annual report made to the Board of Education Tuesday night, William J. Bickett, superintendent of schools blamed by inference social functions for the failure of many pupils to progress in their studies. He said he had made an investigation into cases of pupils who have been backward in their classes and found that most of them were in the habit of attending parties, church socials and other forms of amusement when they should be studying or saving their strength. These functions, he stated, "absorb their interest and sap their physical vitality." The report added:

"It would astonish and probably offend many parents to be told that the frequent surprise parties, so-called, church entertainments, etc., are in many cases a positive detriment and hurt to the pupils taking part. These entertainments, in a great many cases, serve no other purpose than the raising of money for the society interested. To my mind, any organization that must depend on the proceeds of such entertainments for any part of its support has outlived its usefulness and has no claim for our support, direct or through our children.

"I thoroughly believe in properly conducted and well-timed social affairs for our school boys and school girls, but they should be suited to their needs, timed so as not to interfere with school work or regular sleeping hours, and, above all, supervised by competent men and women.

"The juvenile organizations in our city are so numerous as to be a menace to the moral and physical wellbeing of our children. If they serve a good purpose, and only one is good, they should be encouraged. If they serve only to act as a 'something to interest' some adult organization, or if they are used for exploiting the personal fame of self-constituted leaders, they should be discouraged. In short, children should not be allowed to join any organization unless membership in such organization fulfils a distinct need in the lift of the individual."

The report showed the total enrollment for last year to have been 1,606 against 1,545 for the previous year.

Miss Eva C. Hyer resigned as teacher o fsewing and cooking. The resignation was referred to a committee. Miss Hyer has taught in the schools here for four years.

COLLEGE GIRL MARRIES ASBURY PARK JAPANESE

Asbury Park, August 1—Despite the opposition of her mother, Miss Winifred Louise Barnes, of Geneva, N. Y., has become the bride of Sangero Ono, a wealthy Japanese importer of oriental goods, who conducts a store on the boardwalk here. While the bridegroom refused to be interviewed, his close friend and partner, Mr. Yata, admitted that Ono had confided in him that the marriage ceremony was performed at the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ono is a graduate of Syracuse University and the Emerson Dramatic School, Boston. She first met Ono at Syracuse last spring. Friendship speedily ripened into love. Ono is a graduate of the University of Japan. At the close of the season here he and his bride intend to make a trip to his native country.

Originally set for early in July, the nuptials were postponed when Mrs. Barnes is said to have announced that she would disown her daughter if the marriage took place. Whether the bride has yet disclosed her secret is not known, as the whereabouts of Mrs. Barnes is unknown.

NEGROES, SHOT AT, FLEE FROM TOWN

Boarding House That Harbored Them Destroyed.

MAYOR FEARED LYNCHING

Man Stabbed by Negro Is In Hackensack Hospital With Puncture In Lung—Armed Residents Empty Revolvers as Colored Men Dash Through Little Ferry's Streets.

Hackensack, N. J., Aug. 1.—The threatened race riot at Little Ferry ended when a number of enraged residents dashed upon the boarding house occupied by about fifty negroes, brickyarders, believing that "Yellow" Robinson, the negro who slashed Fred Trepton with a razor, was hidden there. During the scuffle a lamp was overturned and the boarding house was burned.

Several negroes were clubbed as they escaped and some of the armed residents emptied revolvers and shotguns at the fleeing men. Sheriff Heath, Mayor Shultz and Chief of Police Eckert saved three negroes from rough treatment.

Sheriff Heath says he is sure Robinson would have been lynched had he been found. Trepton is in a serious condition in the Hackensack hospital. The razor penetrated his left lung

CLOSE SHAVE FOR MAYOR.

Hoboken's Chief Executive Just Missed by Crowbar.

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 1.—Mayor Martin Cooke of this city had a narrow escape from death while at work at his desk when a careless workman at work on the floor above dropped a three foot crowbar through an opening in the ceiling. The heavy bar landed on the desk about a foot from the mayor's head and then, striking the mayor a glancing blow, continued on to the floor. The whole thing occurred so quickly that the mayor had no chance to collect his wits until clerks from all over the building came rushing into his room. Finding that he was unhurt, although badly frightened, they returned to their work again.

A rumor spread through the city, however, that Mayor Clark had been badly injured, but this was found to be not true. It was a close enough shave, however, to cause the mayor to say that he will arrange to be in his office for the next week or so as little as possible.

STONEWALL JACKSON'S FLAG.

Banner Under Which General Died May Be Returned to Virginia.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 1.—The flag under which it is said General Stonewall Jackson received his death wound, for which Virginia patriots have been searching for years, will very likely be returned to Virgina. The flag is at present in the state capitol, where Lieutenant Governor Ellyson of Virginia, who was visiting Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler of the New Jersey national guard, saw it. Ellyson, when he goes back to Virginia, will try to have the flag definitely identified and the transfer of the flag will probably take place with due ceremonies. It is hoped that Governor Wilson will attend.

JERSEY'S POOREST MAN.

Was Arrested on Fifty Dollar Debt. Released From Paterson Jail.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 1.—Abram Zigendorf, who was arrested on a fifty dollar debt, was released from the Paterson jail after he had made affidavit that he was the poorest man in New Jersey.

He swears that he has neither outside shirts, nightshirts, collars, neckties, collar buttons nor even stockings. His possessions consist of two suits of clothes, two suits of underwear, two pairs of shoes, one hat and one cap.

Contagious Diseases Among Plants.

All the fungous diseases of plants, such as mildew, scab, blight, rust, rot, etc., are contagious. The contagion is carried from year to year in the diseased part, be it leaf, fruit or branch. The presence of any of this diseased material in the orchard or vineyard increases the chance of the appearance and spread of the disease another year. Nothing is so destructive to the fungous spores as fire, and all affected plants or parts of plants should be cut out and burned.

Premature Jubilancy.

Willy—I found mother the other day crying over your book of poems.

His Sister's Fiance (delighted)—Oh, is that so? (Aside) Ah, what glory! What fame awaits me! For a man to bring tears to the eyes of such a flint hearted woman as that is certainly a great achievement. (To Willy) She was really weeping, Willy?

Willy—Yes; she said it nearly broke her heart to think that a daughter of hers was going to marry an idiot who could write such rot as that.—London Tit-Bits.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today, preceded by showers in the morning in extreme southeastern portion; tomorrow fair.

NO USELESS HEAT WITH A GAS RANGE

No woman wants an unnecessarily hot kitchen—especially this time of the year.

A coal range fire heats up the whole room and keeps it hot for a long time.

When the meal is cooked, the turn of a valve stops the heat.

Gas ranges are reasonable in price and are sold on easy terms. Your neighbor has one. Why not you?

FIRST PLAN TO MURDER FAILED

GUNMEN WERE SCARED OFF

Thought Burns Detective Was Trailing Them—Charged That Becker Was Furious and Called Would Be Assassins "Cowardly Rats"—Alleged Becker Made Webber Pay Slayers.

New York, Aug. 1.—When Police Lieutenant Charles Becker ordered his graft collector, Jack Rose, to "go and get Rosenthal, he's lived too long," he should have added, according to the confession of Rose, the words "just ten days too long," for Rose and Bridgie Webber, continuing their disclosures to District Attorney Whitman, swore that an unsuccessful effort to murder Rosenthal had been made ten days before the crime actually was committed.

The informers agreed that there was no way to figure just how much Becker and others obtained annually in their general blackmailing operations. Rose said that the cash that went to Becker was only a part of the police rakeoff and that Becker distributed between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 a year among his particular backers—two inspectors and a minor official not in uniform.

Rose did his best to convince the district attorney that the total profits of the graft game in the whole city would astonish anybody if the figures could be obtained. He insisted that most of the money that Becker raked in came from above Fourteenth street in Manhattan alone, and that the cleanup from all the boroughs would run into many millions.

Convinced that all hope of assistance from policemen or politicians had vanished, the three whose confessions brought about the indictment and imprisonment of Lieutenant Becker for murder told the district attorney that the lieutenant not only drove them to the crime, but that he forced Bridgie Webber to pay for it. A few minutes after Rosenthal was killed Webber, threatened by Becker, gave Rose $1,000 in large bills. Rose turned the blood money over to Sam Schepps. And Schepps handed it to "Gyp the Blood" and Lefty Louis on the Seventh avenue side of the Times building on the Tuesday afternoon after the killing.

First Plan of Murder Fails.

They revealed also a story which had never been hinted at. Ten days before the murder an attempt was made to kill Herman Rosenthal while he sat at dinner with his wife in the Garden restaurant at Seventh avenue and Fiftieth street. But they lost their nerve because one of the thugs with them said he had seen a Burns man following them. So they sneaked back to Becker and told him that the job had failed. Becker, says Rose and Webber, damned them for cowardly rats and said he would have to do the job alone.

The district attorney has obtained a partial corroboration of the confessions that trapped Becker. He has found two witnesses who saw Becker talking to Rose and Webber outside of the Murray Hill baths shortly after Rosenthal was shot down. Mr. Whitman has found other witnesses whom he will use to strengthen the stories told by the three accomplices.

Perhaps the most distinct advance that was made was Sam Schepps' offer to surrender to the district attorney and to tell the truth about the murder. Mr. Whitman expects Schepp late today. He made no bargain with Schepps' lawyer. He said merely that he was buying nothing in advance and that Schepps would have to take his chance with the rest of them. If his story rings true and is of material advantage Mr. Whitman will do what he can for him. The value of Schepps will be in corroborating the accusations against Lieutenant Becker.

The long interview that Mr. Whitman had with Rose, Webber and Vallon in the west side court prison introduced significantly the name of Jack Sullivan, the former newsboy, who is one of those now held for murder. Mr. Whitman learned that Sullivan had been going about uptown and down telling gamblers and policemen that the district attorney "was in on the graft." The informers still further involved Sullivan in the new details they furnished as to the arrangements for killing Rosenthal.

Whitman Meets Prisoners.

Mr. Whitman went to the west side court prison and sat down for a long chat with the three prisoners for the particular purpose of getting more evidence about the murder plot and its consummation. Most of the questions he put to Rose, Vallon and Webber concerned their conferences with Lieutenant Becker. The district attorney wanted first to get all of the murder evidence possible before going into the involved matter of police graft. He found the three cheerful and willing to talk. Rose furnished most of the information. Mr. Whitman was surprised at the apparently farreaching and accurate memory of Rose. The bald man was seldom at a loss for figures and dates and times. Occasionally he got into a squabble with Bridgie Webber over some detail or other, and the pair argued it out while Mr. Whitman watched them interestedly. Invariably Rose convinced Webber that the latter was mistaken. The day's information was brought out slowly and after persistent and careful questioning. None of the three seemed to answer without deliberation. Whether they were telling the truth or not, they gave the district attorney the impression that they were trying to be careful and conservative as well as accurate in their statements.

Taking up the graft operations in which Becker and other policemen are implicated by the informers, Mr. Whitman asked Rose what he actually knew of Becker's activities. Rose said that from his own work for Becker. From what he had seen with his own eyes, he knew that the lieutenant had collected between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 in Manhattan alone above Fourteenth street. Rose did not work below Fourteenth street, he said, and it was his belief that Becker employed other collectors in the downtown gambling district.

"When I said that Becker's own rakeoff was $600,000 a year and that he gave each of three others the same amounts I was trying to guess at the right figure," Rose told Mr. Whitman. "Becker told me that his own share was $600,000 and that three others got the same. But that didn't cover all of Manhattan, and Becker was the boss of the gambling situation, not only in Manhattan, but in Brooklyn. I don't know what the graft was south of Fourteenth street or over the river. If I had to figure on the whole business I would say that it was four or five times what was taken in above Fourteenth street in Manhattan alone.

"I wasn't Becker's collector in getting graft from the big gambling houses. How he worked that I don't know, but I do know that he got the money. There was a sliding scale for all kinds of gambling from a cheap crap game to the big houses such as John Kelly's and Sam Emery's. Everybody had to pay up, no matter what their games were, winning or losing. They even showed their books to convince the collectors that the play was bad now and then."

CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

Work in the Rosenthal Case Boosts Him For Governorship.

District Attorney Whitman has worked so hard and successfully in clearing up the murder of Herman Rosenthal and exposing graft conditions in New York city that he is looming large as a gubernatorial possibility.

WILSON INDICATES HIS TARIFF VIEWS

Said He Will Advocate General Revision Downward.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 1.—Without saying it in so many words, Governor Woodrow Wilson made a chance remark which tends to confirm the belief of his friends that there will be nothing revolutionary in the tariff section of his speech of acceptance.

He will advocate a gradual revision downward.

Congressman William C. Redfield of Brooklyn, who knows the tariff from all angles, had been to the little white house and departed saying that personally he was in favor of a gradual, moderate, but thorough revision downward. This had been quoted to the governor, who answered promptly: "I think we will agree on that."

The speech of acceptance is complete now, 6,000 words in all, and today one copy went to the printer's while another copy was retained for the perusal of Ollie James, who came for luncheon with the Democratic nominee. The governor has finished his dictating and attending to the proper corrections.

Advertising Pulls—It Doesn't Jerk

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You woudn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. If you can't find the necessary time to devote to advertising your business properly phone us. We have an expert who will put up your "Copy" that will bring sure results.

Resigns From Brooklyn Club Which Indorsed President Taft.

PRENDERGAST QUITS CLUB.

Comptroller Resigns From the Union League of Brooklyn.

New York, Aug. 1.—Comptroller Prendergast, who has prominently identified himself with the third party movement, sent to the Union League club of Brooklyn, of which he has long been a member, a long letter tendering his resignation because the Republican candidates for the presidency and vice presidency were indorsed by the club. The resignation is to take immediate effect.

In the course of his letter Mr. Prendergast says that it appeared from the action of the club that it "didn't wish to leave any room in the club for men who do not subscribe to the Republican platform. I disapprove of that platform and have no intention of voting for the candidates of the Chicago convention."

ONE MURDER A DAY NEW YORK RECORD

July's Account Is Figured Out by Homicide Bureau.

New York, Aug. 1.—A murder a day in New York during the month of July was found to be the average when the homicide bureau of four of the five boroughs of the city and the district attorney's office added up the killings at the end of the record month and got ready a fresh page for the coming days of August. Records show that the hot weather always stirs the murderers to action, but during the month just passed they outdid themselves in activity.

In Manhattan and the Bronx there were twenty-three murders. Kings county reported six murders, the borough of Richmond one and Queens none, or a total of thirty killings. During July, 1911, the homicide bureau of Manhattan and the Bronx had a busy month with fifteen killings, or eight less than this year.

The twenty-three murders listed in Manhattan and the Bronx during the month just ended include all deaths where murder was obvious or where the circumstances indicate a violent taking off, even though the murderer has escaped detection. The list, however, may be incomplete in that it does not include recent violent assaults, the victims of which may die.

Gang fights, or hired gangsters, are given as the cause of at least five of the murders in Manhattan and the Bronx and in a number of the remaining eighteen murders, where no important arrests have been made, gambling men are thought to have been back of the killings.

TO KEEP OUT LIQUOR ON HIP POCKET ROUTE

Ocean Grove, Aug. 1.—Ways and means to stop the importation of liquor into the Grove by the hip-pocket route were informally discussed Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the campmeeting city. The problem was discussed as a fact, and not a quibble or doubt as to its verity raised.

Mrs. Conant, of New York, was in charge of the meeting.

WATER SUPPLY BOARD APPROVES APPLICATIONS

Trenton, Aug. 1.—The State Water Supply Commission approved Tuesday the application of the Bay Head Water Company for permission to take over the plant of the Bay Head Artesian Water Company and to obtain an additional supply to meet the requirements of the community. The borough is supplied from artesian wells.

The board also approved the application of the Lake Glendale Realty and Improvement Company for permission to construct two dams near Haskill, after a number of changes had been ordered in the original plans in accordance with recommendations made by Chief Engineer Morris R. Sherrerd.

Application was received from the borough of Millstown for permission to acquire a new supply from underground sources. The board will give a hearing at Milltown, Friday, August 9. Next Tuesday the commission will meet at Totowa when a hearing will be given upon the application of the borough for permission to acquire a supply for the borough from the Passaic River.

WITHHOLDS APPROVAL OF DUNELLEN 'PHONE GRANT

Trenton, Aug. 1.—Without specifying any particular ground of objection, the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners has announced that for the present it will withhold its approval of the ordinance passed by the borough of Dunellen, granting the New York Telephone Company a franchise to operate within that municipality.

In a brief memorandum announcing this determination, the board expressed the belief that the privilege granted by the ordinance is necessary and proper for the public convenience. It was, however, not satisfied that the terms of the ordinance in all respects properly conserve the public interest.

"The board will indicate," continued the memorandum, "the points in which the ordinance fails, in its judgment, properly to conserve the public interest, upon the filing with it of a copy of the ordinance passed and approved August 6, 1900, authorizing and empowering the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to place its posts or poles on Washington avenue, and the filing with it by the company of a statement in writing of the rights claimed by it to the maintenance of its pole line on North avenue and the basis of such claim."

The ordinance under consideration was attacked by F. D. Bearman, representing more than a hundred members of the Board of Trade of Dunellen. He opposed, among other things, the long franchise, the fixing of free telephone service as the price of the franchise and a number of provisions relative to the placing of poles and overhead wires.

BATTLE FLAGS RECALL THRILLING INCIDENT

Trenton, Aug. 1.—Former Lieutenant Governor Ellyson, of Virginia, had an interesting experience here Tuesday after returning from luncheon with Governor Wilson. As Mr. Ellyson, who is an ex-confederate, was reviewing the New Jersey battle flags in the corridor, Adjutant-General Sadler came along.

"Haven't I met you somewhere before, said?" said Sadler.

The rebel veteran looked over the younger soldier for a few seconds and remarked:

"Yes, I have met you. You are the man who handed to me in the State House at Richmond the flag of the Fifteenth Georgia Infantry. You gave me the flag with the compliments of the State of New Jersey and you told me to hunt up the survivors of the Fifteenth Georgia and hand them back their flag, which the New Jersey troops had taken away from them at the battle of Spottsylvania.

"I haven't seen you since, general, and I have now to report that I went with the flag to Georgia, called a meeting of the survivors of the Virginia campaign, and asked all those who had served in the Fifteenth Georgia Infantry to stand up. Three gray men arose.

"I unfurled their old battleflag and never said a word. One of them recognized it. Then another, and the three went out for other companions of the war days, and finally the flag was identified beyond all possibility of a dispute. The regiment has it now."

Among the flags in the case was one captured by the New Jersey troops at Chancellorsville and which Mr. Ellyson believes may be the one carried by Stonewall Jackson's men when he was shot by his own men. Steps will be taken to identify the banner and if Mr. Ellyson's surmise shall prove correct it will be returned to the confederate veterans of Virginia.

MUST HALT BRIDGE RECONSTRUCTION

Freeholders Hold They Will Exceed Appropriation Unless They Stop Work.

WARNED BY COLLECTOR

Union's Freeholders Notified Socialists Are Entitled to Primary Ballot Box—North Plainfield Wants Bonnie Burn Sewage Plans.

Elizabeth, Aug. 2.—County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt told the board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon that unless they called a halt on bridge reconstruction throughout the county and continued awarding the contract for bridges already recommended by various committees, they would find themselves $11,875 short on their appropriation of $45,000, added to which was an unexpended balance of $11,000 from last year. Up to July 27, he said, there was a sufficient balance on hand and about $2,500 to spare. The work considered by committees during the last few days and reported to the board yesterday would have to be called off, or else the board would find itself in a predicament.

This statement led to a good deal of discussion and numerous questions were asked, during which Freeholder Acken reminded the board of the predicament of the Hudson Freeholders. For a time the Freeholders made numerous suggestions as to how an embarassing situation could be avoided. County Attorney Codington said that the board had no right to exceed its appropriation but in case of emergency could borrow money.

Freeholder Krouse moved that a committee of three be appointed to confer with the Collector regarding the situation before any more contracts are awarded or signed. This suggestion was adopted and Mr. Krouse and Freeholders Pierson and Hall were appointed as the conferring committee.

Contracts for new bridges or bridge repairs, aggregating more than $27,000 were either discussed or awarded by the board at its meeting yesterday and all of this work will be held up for there is no money to pay for it.

Two bridges on Rushmore avenue, Plainfield, will be affected by the shortage.

The board received a communication from Elizabeth's City Clerk, John F. Kenah, informing it that the Socialist party is now an official party in this county and is entitled to vote at the primaries. He asked that ballot boxes be provided.

The North Plainfield Board of Health wrote the board asking for copies of the plans and specifications for sewage disposal at Bonnie Burn Satatarium, Scotch Plains. This request was made, it was explained, because streams running through the Sanatarium grounds might be contaminated if great care is not exercised in disposing of the sewerage.

The board adopted Freeholder Krouse's resolution calling for the appointment of a condemnation commission to condemn land along the borders of Mountain or Westfield avenue in Springfield and Fanwood townships, preparatory to the widening of this thoroughfare.

Mr. Voorhees has been, as officer of the Home Missions Council, active in the present controversy over the Catholic nun garb question in Indian schools, a decision on which is hung up by President Taft.

DOUBLE FLANGE RAILS FOR TROLLEYS' TRACKS

Street Committee Finds that Single Flange Is Being Used In Fourth Street.

There was to have been a Councilmanic street committee meeting, last night, but owing to the fact that some of the members are away it had to be postponed. Among the members present attention was called to the fact that the Public Service Railway Corporation is laying a single flange rail on West Fourth street, which is not intended to give the best service. Already, it is said, that the macadam shows depression along the rails.

Councilman W. L. Gloak, chairman of the street committee, will probably take steps to have the trolley ordinance amended so as to provide that in the future double flange rails must be laid. This was insisted upon the time the new rails were laid on West Front street in the business section where the brick pavement is used, and it is contended that only the double flange rails should be permitted.

VINCENT W. NASH, SR., WOULD BE MAYOR

Friends Circulating Petition for Former Justice of the Peace for Nomination.

Vincent W. Nash, Sr., of Prospect avenue, announced himself today as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket, and at the same time his petition was put in circulation for signers. Mr. Nash says that he did not intend to enter the contest, but does so at the earnest solicitation of his friends.

Mr. Nash was born in Brooklyn in June, 1844, and removed to this city in 1875, where he has continued to reside ever since. At the outbreak of the Civil War, Mr. Nash enlisted as a private in Co. C, 13th

Vincent W. Nash, Sr.

Regiment, N. J. Vols. He was elected a justice of the peace in this city in 1877, serving until 1906, when the District Court was established. He was also deputy tax collector for a number of years. He says that during his first term as tax collector he collected more money than his predecessor did during the preceding ten years.

The only political office held by Mr. Nash was that of justice of the peace. For several years he was the political leader in the Second ward. From 1906-1910 he was engaged in the coal business. Since then he has lived in retirement. Mr. Nash is identified with many lodges, being a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. CODINGTON WILL SEEK MAYORALTY

IS THIRD CANDIDATE

Announcement Gives Promise that Republican Primary Fight Will Be a Lively One—Is Big Property Owner and Lodge Man.

Former City Judge William R. Codington, at the solicitation of many friends, consented today to enter the contest for the Mayoralty nomination on the Republican ticket this fall. The announcement had a tendency to arouse unusual interest in the local political situation, for it will undoubtedly mean a three-corneeded fight. Mayor G. W. V. Moy will doubtless be a candidate for reelection, and Vincent W. Nash, Sr., also announced his intention today of entering the contest.

The friends of Judge Codington are especially anxious that he should seek the office and be elected for the reason that he is a large property-owner and taxpayer and for the reason that he represents the more conservative element of the party. He hasbeen a resident of Plainfield for a great many years and is thoroughly conversant with local conditions. While he enjoys a large law practice, his friends say that he would be in a position to devote all the necessary time to the office if elected.

Judge Codington served one term in the Asembly in 1897, and was city judge for several terms and for the past twenty years has been attorney for Union county. He is a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.; Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M.; Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., and is also a Shriner and a member of Unity Lodge, No. 104, Knights of Pythias. He is attorney for several building and loan associations and his friends declare that he is in every way fitted for the office of Mayor. Judge Codington's petition is now being circulated and will be filed at the proper time.

MC VEY BUILDING HAS NOT BEEN SOLD TO MISS LINCOLN

"The reports which was circulated yesterday, to the effect that the McVey building on North avenue had been sold to Miss Annie Lincoln, of West Fourth street, is not true and is absolutely unfounded." This statement was made by Mrs. J. H. McVey, who owns and has owned the building ever since the death of her husband, John H. McVey. Mrs. McVey was very angry about the report of the sale and said, "These rumors have made things very unpleasant for us and I wish to state that the idea of selling the property has never entered my head. I have made absolutely no arrangements with respect to the sale of the building and all reports to the contrary have not the slightest degree of truth."

When Miss A. Lincoln was consulted she said, "The rumor is foolish and ridiculous. I have not even contemplated the purchase of any property, whatsoever."

WILLIAM R. MELICK DIES FOLLOWING RECENT STROKE

William R. Melick, aged 71 years, a resident of this city for many years, died last night at his home, 1136 West Front street, following a stroke of paralysis a few days ago. He formerly lived near Rahway. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. Beside a wife he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. A. E. Marsh, with whom he lived; three sisters, Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Marcells, of Newark, and Mrs. LaForge, of Rahway; also one brother, James Melick, of Rahway.

The funeral service will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the late home. Rev. E. R. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Dunellen, will officiate. The burial will be in the Presbyterian cemetery, Metuchen.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS ARE TO BE CONSULTED

Chairman of the G. O. P. City Committee Calls Meeting for Expression of Popular Will.

Harry S. Runyon, chairman of the Republican City Committee, announces that there will be an open meeting of the committee at the headquarters in the Frost building on Monday night, to which all Republican voters of the city are invited. At that time there will be a free and full discussion of candidates for local offices as well as prospective members of the city and county committees. The city committee, following its plan of last year, Mr. Runyon says, will not attempt to say who shall be the party nominee, but will leave that matter entirely in the hands of the voters.

The city committee, Mr. Runyon wishes it understood, is booming no one for office, preferring that the voters shall make their own selections at the proper time. This will be the first meeting of the city committee since Mr. Runyon succeeded John H. Cose as chairman, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of Republican voters in attendance.

UNION MEN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT CLEARED IN COURT

Trouble between union and non-union men in the construction of a house on Arlington avenue on July 29 resulted in bringing the contending parties into court to settle their differences. The complainant was Harry Kohn, who was represented by Counsel J. H. Crane. The defendants were Maurice Isaacson and Benjamin Levine, of 96 Race street. The charge was one of assault.

Kohn stated that he had sent Charles Greene to do some work on the roof of the house, but he had been put off the job by the two defendants because he did not belong to the union. When Greene told him of the incident both went to the house and remonstrated with the defendants. He alleged that they attacked and assaulted him with their fists. Greene went to the rear of the house and mounted a ladder to do some work on the roof. Isaacson, it was testified, took away the ladder. Charles Greene corroborated this story.

The defense entered a complete denial. Isaacson stated that he asked Greene if he was a union man and he replied that he was not. Then said Isaacson, "you know that according to our rules we cannot work with you." The man then took up his tools and went away. Subsequently he returned, accompanied by Kohn. He explained the matter to him and asked that he keep his man away until they got through with their portion of the work. Kohn said he would not and ordered his man to get up on the roof and go ahead. Isaacson then took the ladder away and Kohn, he said, made a swing at him with a piece of plank. A hot argument in Yiddish followed but no blows were struck. Several witnesses also came forward and bore out Isaacson's testimony. Consequently Judge DeMeza dismissed the case, stating that there was no doubt in his mind that Kohn was the aggressor.

NEGLECTFUL FATHER.

Walter L. Smalley, of Prescott place, was arraigned on a charge of neglecting to provide for the maintenance of his child. Miss Margaret C. Halley, executive secretary of the Charity Organization Society, stated that he had contributed nothing since July 19, though the court had decided that he was to give $2.50 each week. Smalley stated that he was out of work. He was ordered to paff off the arrears within a week. Judge De Meza remarking that there was plenty of work for every man who wished to work.

PUBLIC REPORT ON SEWER PLANS

Steering Committee to Make Statement of Progress to the Three Councilmanic Bodies.

SOME DISPUTED POINTS

Four Questions Still Unsettled—Hammond Company Makes an Offer to City for An Electric Disposal Plant.

Councilman F. L. Holt and Duncan W. Taylor, of Plainfield; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and Councilman William J. Buttfield, of North Plainfield, and Mayor Charles Richards and Councilman A. J. Hamley, of Dunellen, comprising the so-called "steering committee" having in charge plans for the proposed joint trunk sewer, met at the Common Council rooms, this city, last night, to go over the sewage matter.

There was a feeling on the part of the committeemen that the public was likely to get a wrong idea as to the plans for the trunk sewer, and the members decided to formulate a report which will be presented at the meeting of the North Plainfield Council tonight and at the meetings of the Plainfield and Dunellen Councils on Monday night.

Notwithstanding the above fact, it cannot be denied that there is a division of opinion among the members of the Plainfield Council concerning the route of the trunk sewer and the point of juncture. At one of the conferences recently it was agreed that the "no pump" line route, along the mountain, be agreed to and George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, was instructed to draw plans for that route. It is expected that the plans will be ready soon for presentation to the various Councils.

The Plainfield councilmen do not favor the proposition of the city installing the siphons for the "no pump" line and then being obligated to maintain the same, but it is possible that this may be amicably arranged in the contract.

It is understood that the Hammond Iron Company, of Warren, Pa., which submitted a proposition some time ago to install an electric plant here for disposing of the city sewage, has made another proposition even more advantageous to the city than the first one, and it is possible that it may be presented at the meeting of the Plainfield Council, Monday night. Some of the councilmen who know of this proposition are inclined to favor it, believing that it would solve the problem for years to come and then if the city should decide to go to tidewater it could do so, and the present expense of a trunk line would be saved.

PURCHASES AN HEIR'S INTEREST IN ESTATE

Acting upon the suggestion and with the full consent of Morris Muscovitz, of this city, and Jacob Weinberg, of Summit, uncles of Phillip Weinberg, of this city, the Brotherhood Realty Company, of Plainfield, has purchased Phillip Weinberger's one-fifth interest in the Weinberger estate. Phillip Weinberger is a stepson of the late Mr. Weinberger, who was engaged in the clothing business on West Front street.

The action is taken for the purpose of protecting the young man's interest in the estate and he has given his full consent in the matter. Mr. Weinberger makes his home in Plainfield a portion of the time.

CIGARETTE-GASOLINE, HIS ARM IN SLING

Edward S. F. Randolph Meets With a Mishap In a Peculiar Way.

Edward S. F. Randolph, formerly of this city but now of Westfield, is carrying his arm in a sling the result of severe burns. He had just finished cranking his automobile preparatory to taking a ride, when he stopped to light a cigarette. While working about the car he had accidentally spilled some gasoline on his coat sleeve, and a spark from the cigarette ignited the fumes, setting fire to the sleeve. Before Mr. Randolph could remove his coat or extinguish the blaze, the flames entirely consumed the sleeve and burned Mr. Randolph's arm from the shoulder to the wrist.

Medical aid was summoned at once and the arm was dressed. An examination showed that the burns were general over the entire arm, but not very deep. Unless complications should develop the physician believes, that Mr. Randolph will regain the use of his arm within a few weeks.

FREE MILK DEPOT NOW IN OPERATION

Funds Needed to Help Worthy Cause Through Month of August.

The milk depot of the Plainfield Day Nursery was formally declared open yesterday morning. Its object is to distribute milk to the mothers of needy families and also to teach them how milk should be modified for babies, so as to avoid resulting harm. The milk will be sold at cost to those whose means will permit, and the presentation of a card signed by the Overseer of the Poor will entitle others to it free.

The depot is in charge of two thoroughly experienced nurses, Miss Helen Boice and Miss Wilhelmina Hummer. Mrs. Emma L. Bird is matron of the Day Nursery, and the visiting physician is Dr. W. H. Murray. Circulars and leaflets of instructions on how to cure and feed babies will be given on request. Babies will be weighed each day to note the progress made. The dairy will be open each morning from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, and there will be an afternoon distribution.

A number of mothers have already applied at the depot and been supplied. It is the opinion of those in charge that the experiment will be a success once its advantages are known. In order to make its success absolutely certain contributions are welcomed, the balance in hand for the purchase of milk being small.

CATCH BURGLAR WHO CONFESSES

ACCOMPLICE GIVES CLUE

Cornelius Conley Sent to Reform School When Arraigned Before Judge DeMeza in the City Court This Morning.

George Buss, of South Second street, was held to await the action of the Grand Jury, in the sum of $500, on a charge of entering William Wilson's grocery store at 1221 West Front street, on Wednesday night, and stealing $225. Cornelius Conley, of West Fourth street, who kept vigil while the other boy entered the store, was committed to a reformatory in Newark.

After an all-day hunt Buss was arrested by Chief Kiely and Patrolman McDonald on the railroad track near Dunellen station, where he was evidently waiting to board some freight train. All the missing money with the exception of a few dollars was found on him. He told Chief Kiely that he had been to Wilmington, Del., that day, but did not like it as well as Plainfield, so had come back. Detective-Sergeant Flynn who was also investigating the case, obtained from young Conley that Buss had committed the burglary, and that he had kept watch for him.

To City Judge William G. DeMeza in the police court, this morning, Buss confessed that the amount of money which he had stolen was $179; that he and Conley had counted it. Mr. Wilson places the amount taken at $225, more or less.

Buss has appeared several times before the court on various charges, his last appearance being in 1909, for highway robbery.

His accomplice, Conley, is an orphan, being cared for by his uncle, Dan Crowley, of West Fourth street. The boy has been in the habit of staying away from home and sleeping out at nights. His uncle stated that he could exercise no control over him.

Buss is an extremely callous youth. This morning he refused to partake of breakfast in his cell, spurning the food. To Patrolman McDonald, he said: "You've got me; I am glad of it. I don't care if I'm hung."

SECOND CHAPTER OF TOMATO-PATCH BALL GAME

Baseball, tomatoes and noise were again the subject of discussion, last night, when James Montross and Mrs. Frank Shaefer, of Duer street, repeated their complaints in the borough court before Justice of the Peace Thomas Snape.

The complaint this time was "disturbing the peace," but the trouble was nothing more than that of the baseball game and the tomato patch. On Tuesday Lawyer Angleman was counsel for Mrs. Shaefer, but the fact that Montross prevented the "Sons of Rest" from making a home-run because he insisted that his tomato patch should not be trampled down, did not impress Justice Snape as sufficient cause for a term in prison. As a result, Justice Snape reprimanded Mrs. Shaefer and dismissed the case. The neighbors promised to keep the peace.

ENDRESS NOT ENDORSED.

The Plainfield Democratic Club has not endorsed Councilman Fred Endress as a prospective candidate for the Mayoralty nomination, notwithstanding the report to the contrary. The club will not endorse any person for office, but will leave that for the voters at large to do, according to its adopted policy.

THE NEW COLLEGE OF MOUNT SAINT MARY ON THE MOUNTAINSIDE NOW NEARING COMPLETION.

The College of Mount Saint Mary on the southern slope of the Watchung mountains, in North Plainfield, is rapidly nearing completion and it is hoped to have everything in readiness for the dedication by the middle of September. The original college building was destroyed by fire in March, 1911, and in sixteen months the building has been restored with even greater stability and beauty than before.

In rebuilding, the architecture of the old building has been closely followed and with the exception of a large addition on the east side presents the same appearance. The college was founded by the Sisters of Mercy and it was first opened here in September, 1908. It is intended for academic and collegiate education of young women. In addition to the college course which is four years, an elementary and High School department has been added. The professor and instructors of the college are required to have a university training and must be specialists in the subjects they teach. Bishop McFaul, of the Trenton diocese, will have charge of the dedication exercises, the detailed plans for which will be announced later.

T. R. ELECTORS ON KANSAS BALLOTS

Decision of Supreme Court Against Taft Men.

QUICK ACTION BY JUSTICES

Supreme Court of Kansas Upheld Because of Exigencies of Case—Pitney and Van Devanter Decide Not to Interfere With Printing of Ballots.

New York, Aug. 2.—Arguments on the application in behalf of the Taft forces in Kansas for a writ of error and an order that would prevent the Republican presidential electors in Kansas, who have already announced that they will vote for Colonel Roosevelt, from appearing on the ballot at the primary election next Tuesday were heard by Associate Justices Pitney and Van Devanter.

At the close of the argument the justices said that they would give a decision shortly, and in a few hours they returned to the courtroom and announced that, while they had determined to grant the writ of error, they would not sign a writ which would interfere with the ballots to be used in Tuesday's election because of the importance of the question, which should be determined by the entire supreme court before the ballot containing the names of the electors was interfered with.

News Telegraphed to Kansas.

Telegrams were hurried off to Kansas as soon as the decision was announced, because word was received from Governor Stubbs that unless the printing of the ballots was started by 7 o'clock last night they could not be delivered in all the districts of the state in time for use on Tuesday. The type for the ballots had been set up, and as the decision of the court did not interfere with the arrangement of the names, the lawyers in the case said, the 300,000 ballots needed for the state would be printed in time.

The application to Justices Pitney and Van Devanter was for a writ of error from the decision of the supreme court of Kansas, which held that the names of the electors who have announced that they intended to vote for Roosevelt could go on the primary under the Republican designation under the name of president.

The chief argument in behalf of the Taft forces was that the Roosevelt electors got their nomination as electors by fraud as to their intention to vote for Colonel Roosevelt, and it was also contended that if the electors said they would support Roosevelt at the primary election there will be no way by which the regular Taft electors can get on the ticket except by having them written in by each voter.

The chief argument of the Roosevelt faction against the issuance of the writ of error was that no federal question was involved and that the choosing of the electors was a matter to be regulated entirely by the state laws and that the supreme court of Kansas had the final say in the matter.

THIRD PARTY MEN GATHER AT CHICAGO

Committee Rooms Thronged With Convention Visitors.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Progressive leaders from a number of states arrived in Chicago as the vanguard of the delegations to the progressive national convention next Monday. State headquarters were opened in several downtown hotels and the rooms of the committee on arrangements for the convention were thronged with visitors.

Senator Dixon of Montana, director of the progressive campaign, held numerous conferences with state leaders. Among those who called was Dr. Clarence E. Crouse of Virginia, who declared he had been a lifelong Democrat until this year.

Senator Dixon said that Governor Johnson of California would call the convention to order as chairman of the provisional national committee and would introduce the temporary chairman, United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana.

The time for Colonel Roosevelt's address before the convention may be changed. Originally it was announced that he would speak Monday night. This was changed to Tuesday noon. Now, however, there seems to be a desire on the part of leaders to have the address delivered Monday night.

BULGARIANS MENACE TURKEY

Threaten to March on Capital if Civil War Breaks Out.

London, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from Constantinople states that the Porte has been informed that a force of Bulgarians have been determined to march on the Turkish capital the moment blood is shed in the conflicts between the rival Turkish political and military parties.

It is expected here that this threat will aid the Turks in settling their internal affairs. Fear is expressed, however, that the military leaders will stop at nothing in their desire to have the chamber dissolved and the country's affairs placed in their hands.

THE ENDOWED NEWSPAPER.

Granting his claim that the press at present is not as thorough and as impartial as the ideal newspaper should be, Hamilton Holt is treading on dangerous ground when he advocates public endowed newspapers. Some wealthy New Yorkers held to the same opinion regarding the theatre but after they had sunk a couple of millions in their beautiful dream they came to the conclusion that there were actually people engaged in the amusement business who knew more about how a playhouse should be run than they did.

There would be an equally sad awakening, we believe, coming to Mr. Holt were he to set up a publicly endowed newspaper and run it on the lines he suggests. "There are many college presidents who could edit such a paper better than the $15,000 editors of commercial papers," says the editor of the Independent for instance. Sure they are; what does training and experience count? Anybody can run a newspaper. All that one has to do is to run it. Very simple, eh?

There is ample time to make all arrangements and successfully carry out the plan, should the Common Council see its way clear to make an appropriation for weekly band concerts at City Park, or some other convenient location, during August. These public entertainments should mean a very small expense but a very large amount of enjoyment, particularly for those who for some reason or other are not able to seek amusement elsewhere during this season of the year.

No punishment will be too severe for the scoundrels that caused a run on a Jersey City bank a day or two ago and the institution's directors have taken the proper course in hiring detectives to ferret out the offenders. Hundreds of perfectly sound banks have been wrecked by a run caused by an unfounded rumor started by some irresponsible human being.

Nine of the twenty-four property owners to handle the cash for Ocean Grove improvements are women. This is a recognition of women's rights such as other communities might do well to emulate. A woman paying taxes should have some say in how the revenue derived from taxation should be spent.

The general opinion is that he will either break down completely before the end of the week or else remain adamant to the end.—Extract from New York Tribune editorial.

And it is also logical that two teams can't win the same game.

As the Presidential nominee of his party, Woodrow Wilson has made a wise decision in refusing to mix up in factional fights in States. To do otherwise would be bossism and would wreck his chances for the exalted office he seeks.

They gently broke the news to Mr. Taft yesterday. Next Wednesday Mr. Wilson is to be let into the secret, too.

No contributions for the maintenance of the Baby Camp were received today. How's that?

FOUR COMPANIES MERGE INTO $50,000,000 CONCERN

Trenton, Aug. 2.—The Geiser Manufacturing Company, and the Reeves Engine Company, together with the Minneapolis Gas Traction Company, the American Drill Company and other concerns manufacturing machinery, have been merged into the Emerson-Brantingham Company, which is capitalized at $50,000,000. It employs 6,000 men and the aggregate area of its plants is 170 acres.

Walter G. Runkles, manager of the Geiser company's establishment in this city, said that the companies had been merged not for the purpose of stifling competition, but to reduce the cost of production of heavy machinery, which will be the company's specialty.

Mr. Runkles, who has been with the Geiser company eleven years, and L. A. Brophy, his assistant, will continue in their present positions, and Gardner H. Cain has been retained as the corporation's counsel in this city.

JANITORS' CONVENTION OPENS AT RED BANK

Red Bank, Aug. 2.—Mayor Frank Pittenger, of Red Bank, delivered the address of welcome at the third annual convention of the State Janitors' and Engineers' Benevolent and Mutual Aid Association held in the auditorium of the High School in Branch avenue yesterday.

A resolution was passed authorizing the newly elected officers to ask Attorney General Edmund Wilson for his opinion in reference to the position of the janitors under the employers' liability act.

Mr. Martin was re-elected president. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Philip Tully, Newark; secretary, William Wiggin, Newark; financial secretary R. E. Geir, Long Branch; treasurer, William O'Brien, Elizabeth. The executive committee was selected from seven counties: James McHenry, Camden; Eugene Hancock, Essex; Henry Lange, Monmouth; William Pender, Union; James Tullen, Hudson; Harry Kelly, Passaic, and James Acken, Middlesex.

P. O. S. OF A. TO CONVENE IN WASHINGTON, N. J.

Washington, N. J., Aug. 2.—The State Camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America will be held in Washington August 20-21. Many of the delegates are expected to arrive on Monday, August 19.

Preparations are being made by the committee from Washington Camp No. 26 to entertain the 600 or more delegates in a hospitable manner. Special attractions are being arranged for the amusement park and the Jewel Theatre for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Sightseeing tours are being planned by the committee for Tuesday morning. There will also be a special attraction at the meeting of Camp No. 26 on Wednesday night, and many of the delegates are expected to remain over for the meeting.

One of the big attractions at the convention will be Sousa's band of fifty pieces, which will give a concert in Skalla's Park on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 20. It is expected Washington will be elaborately decorated for the convention.

Some of the South Jersey camps have notified the committee that they will send large delegations. Palmyra will send thirty-three delegates; Trenton will be represented by about fifty delegates; Atlantic City's delegation of twenty will accompany the State president, Charles L. Blackman.

There are 170 camps in the State, and it is expected that every camp will be represented. Mayor C. B. Smith will deliver the address of welcome to the delegates. The convention will be held in the Opera House. There will be three sessions—Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning and afternoon.

MAJOR W. B. MARTIN MAKES STRONG DENIAL

Gives His Side of Case in Court-Martial of Captain Montgomery.

Elizabeth, August 1—Asked what he had to say regarding a statement to the effect that he had brought charges against Captain Robert Montgomery, of Company C, Second Regiment, N. G., N. J., because the latter had refused to cast his vote for him for colonel of the regiment, Major William B. Martin, the expert rifle shot, who won honors at the Olympic in England four years ago, and who commands the battalion to which Montgomery's company belongs, replied:

"That is a lie. I couldn't have brought the charges for that reason, for I couldn't tell who Montgomery was voting for. As far as the truth of the charges are concerned, why the court-martial finding is sufficient. Montgomery will now have to fight the whole State. I found that he delayed his reports and that he was unprepared to properly command his company."

Captain Montgomery, who has been cashiered from his command by the finding of the court-martial, repeated his statement of Wednesday night and replying to Major Martin's remark, said:

"He knows that my vote and that of a friend of mine beat him. This is the first opportunity he had of trying to get back at me. The whole thing is a frame-up."

LITTLE CONTAGIOUS DISEASE IN JULY

Monthly Report of Board of Health Presented Last Night.

The Plainfield Board of Health at its semi-monthly meeting, last night, reported that complaints had been received against the New Jersey Central Railroad for maintaining a nuisance from freight cars. The board ordered that the railroad be instructed to abate the nuisance, otherwise legal proceedings will be instituted.

There were few cases of communicable disease in Plainfield during July, according to the reports presented. There were twelve in all, as follows: Typhoid fever, 3; tuberculosis, 2; whooping-cough, 6; measles, 1. The source of infection of two or three cases of typhoid fever was outside the city. Twenty-nine rooms in thirteen houses were disinfected during the month. Samples of milk from the regular dealers were collected and analyzed.

Copies of the abstract of the State laws regarding the proper protection of foodstuffs, together with rules and regulations recently adopted by the State Board of Health, were ordered distributed among the dealers of fruits and vegetables in the city. The dealers will also be notified that violations of the law will be prosecuted. A draft of an ordinance, covering communicable diseases amending Article 9, of the Sanitary Code, was submitted and advanced to its second reading and ordered advertised. During the month seventeen communicable disease cultures were received at the laboratory and examined.

The following permits were granted: To sell milk from store, R. Gilbert; to sell milk from the station at the Day Nursery, the Nursing Bureau; to remove dead animals, James Babbitt. There were 115 inspections made in connection with plumbing, 31 in connection with milk supply and 522 in connection with general work. These returns were made to the boards: Marriages, 9; births, 37; still-births, 3; deaths, 26.

Several violations of the plumbing ordinance having been reported, the board ordered that violators be notified to comply with the provisions of the ordinance and if they fail, they will be prosecuted.

JUMPS OUT OF AUTO; BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

Bernardsville, Aug. 2.—Charles Belleck, seventeen years old, of the Clarendon road, has concussion of the brain, and it is feared that his skull is fractured as the result of leaping from a moving automobile, near his home, at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Josiah Meigs has ordered his removal to All Souls' Hospital, Morristown, for treatment. He has been unconscious since the accident.

Young Belleck was walking along toward his home when the automobile of Mrs. William C. Post, of Mt. Harmony, came up to him. The chauffeur was taking the machine to New York, and he offered the boy a lift, which he gladly accepted.

When they had reached the blacksmith shop, near Belleck's home, the boy thanked the chauffeur for his ride, and without another word jumped from the machine, which was still in motion. He struck on his head.

Witnesses of the accident exonerate the chauffeur of all blame and he was allowed to proceed to New York. The lad was cared for at his home that night, and there Father Ryan, of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, administered to him the last rights of the church.

LIABILITY LAW SUITS ALL, DECLARES BRYANT

Trenton, Aug. 2.—After one year's operation of the employer's liability law, General Lewis T. Bryant, State commissioner of labor, declares that it has worked so well that only a few minor changes in the act will be recommended to the next Legislature.

More than ninety per cent. of the employers of industrial labor in the State have subscribed to the provisions of the new statute. In place of condemnation, which was manifested when the law was put in effect, the employers generally have nothing but praise for the act.

According to Commissioner Bryant there are only two large manufacturing plants in New Jersey not operating under the provisions of the compensation schedule of the act, and of these one has a compensation rate of its own in excess, in most cases of accidents, of the commonwealth's schedule.

Another beneficial result of the new law, according to Mr. Bryant, is the lower rate that stock casualty companies have given the employers. When the law went into effect, for example, the companies were charging $7 and $8 for annual insurance, under the law's schedule of compensation, for a domestic servant. This rate is now down to $3, and it is going lower, the insurance men say. Factory employes are on even a less percentage, according to the hazard of their employment.

This low reduction in the rate given by the stock casualty companies has tended to discourage the formation of mutual companies, which are provided for by the law.

"It has also," according to Mr. Bryant, "proved a blessing to the workmen, who, under the old system, saw two-thirds of the amount of money expended by manufacturers for compensating him against injury, dissipated by the insurance company, court costs and ambulance-chasing lawyers. Again the workman who is satisfied that he is surrounded by better means of protection and that in cases of injury either he or his family will receive a known compensation, will reflect these improved conditions in a higher degree of efficiency."

KNOT IS TIED AFTER AN AMUSING ERROR

Asbury Park, Aug. 2.—An amusing error in the matrimonial happened in the parsonage of the First Methodist church Wednesday. Rev. Dr. Fairbank B. Stockdale, the pastor, was visited by two couples. One of the couples asked to be married. He took down the name of the witness, Francis Snowden Cubberly, and then asked him the usual questions, thinking he was the prospective groom. Mr. Cubberly answered them and the pastor began to go through the marriage ceremony.

"And do you take this—I beg your pardon, but what was the name you gave me?" he asked the young woman beside the now flustered young man.

"Mrs. Francis Snowden Cubberly," was the scared reply, as she began to wonder what the preacher was about.

"But you two do not wish to be married again?" queried Dr. Stockdale.

"No, no, sir," both replied in unison. "You see we are the witnesses."

Then stepping from behind Mr. and Mrs. Cubberly, Raymond Claward, of Trenton, and Edna Maud Lewis, of Philadelphia, a cousin of Banking and Insurance Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis, of Passaic, approached the minister, saying they were the couple to be married.

Dr. Stockdale soon united the couple and they started on their honeymoon.

ENGINEER GREW DIZZY, HAD TO BE RELIEVED

Point Pleasant, Aug. 2.—Frank Grispen, a Pennsylvania Railroad engineer, who pilots the train leaving Jersey City at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon, was stricken with a peculiar ailment at Long Branch, Wednesday, while in the engine cab and had to be relieved. A Long Branch engineer took the throttle and brought the train into Point Pleasant.

Grispen became dizzy as the train stopped at the Long Branch station and had to be assisted from his seat to a comfortable place in the train. He was assisted to his home, where doctors were unable to diagnose his case. He is reported as being better this morning.

Cotton Marquisette Blouse Fine For Traveling Wear.

Cotton marquisette, which was discovered by the explorers several years ago as an excellent substitute for muslin, is now at the apex of its popularity. It serves better for blouses than muslin does, because it does not need starch, and it is not apt to crush under a coat or in a suit case.

The trimming on these blouses is quite simple. A French design of hand embroidery in front suffices, and the buttons which run down the middle front are usually of heavy white crochet, giving a touch of ornament that is simple, yet effective. One of the models which are excessively popular has a strip of colored plaid muslin at the side of the button, around the collar and on the cuffs.

Spats are much in favor, even striped ones being seen abroad.

Draped and plaited effects in skirts are gaining in favor.

The blouse suit is always a practical and a favorite one for schoolboys. This one can be made of one material and the blouse of another.

An Interesting Hat of Cotton Cretonne.

TOQUE OF GREEN AND WHITE CRETONNE.

The uses to which cotton cretonne are put are manifold. This smart little toque of green and white cretonne trimmed with a band of green straw and white and green grapes accompanies a very handsome suit of black and green satin.

It is called an oriental "cap" by its originator and will be worn by girls who like striking novelties in their fall headgear.

TRAVELER'S TEA.

Carry the Cup That Cheers When You Go Abroad.

In traveling both at home and abroad there is great comfort in your own cup of tea. On the steamer particularly you miss your own brand, and the well versed traveler who is wise in the lore of creature comforts never wanders far from home without her tea caddy. It adds greatly to her popularity too. "Oh, if I only had a good cup of tea!" is the general cry on shipboard, and then this farsighted woman produces the cheering leaves, and she becomes the center of attraction and has her little coterie every afternoon. There are some who prefer it for the morning meal, too, instead of the usual mediocre coffee with condensed milk.

For this poignant need of the traveler a charming little tea box of mahogany containing a small silver tea caddy and a little tea ball, reproducing in miniature a tea kettle, has been put upon the market. It is very simple in arrangement, compact and easy to pack and makes a really practical gift.

There are many places on the continent where good tea is a real luxury, and many an unsophisticated American is astonished when she pays her bill for what she considers a very simple repast. She finds that her cup of tea costs more than a very elaborate dessert, and so it is a great economy as well as comfort to carry your own tea with you.

Simple Hot Weather Items.

Do not drink ice water.

Do not drink soda water.

Walk on the shady side of the street, even if it seems to be an effort to cross over.

Eat simple food and eat just enough to satisfy the appetite. Avoid mixtures.

Try to arrange your work so as to be indoors from 12 o'clock to 3:30.

Be sure that you know that the water you are drinking is uncontaminated.

Keep busy and forget the heat. You can.

Endeavor to keep cool inwardly. It helps toward happiness in warm weather.

A collar of medium height which is not uncomfortably stiff is cooler for some people than low cut collars.

For the Stomach's Sake.

Gas on the stomach, causing bloating and a feeling of stuffiness after eating, is not always caused by the thing eaten, but often by the stomach nerves, says a physician.

The stomach is weak and holds the food too long, when it ferments and throws off gas. If only such food as agrees with the individual, and each must be his own judge, is taken, and at the same time the effort to strengthen the nerves is made by building up the general health, relief will soon come.

One should never try to starve the stomach into health, for only good blood can cure it, and good blood comes from good food, plenty of fresh air and good digestion. The stomach poisons itself through weakness and inaction.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WAYS OF COOKING PEARS.

EARLY pears are delicious when cooked. Often the windfalls may be served on the table thus long before the fruit is ripe.

Hard pears or windfalls are very nice baked. They should be pared, cored and quartered and placed in a pudding dish, allowing one cupful of sugar and one cupful of water to two quarts of the fruit. Cover and bake in a moderate oven.

If there are more of these windfalls on hand than are needed at one time they may be sealed in jars after baking and kept until needed.

Among the following recipes for cooking pears may be some which will appeal to the housewife:

A Culinary Dainty.

Baked Pears.—Peel the pears and cut them in two, leaving the stems on them. Put into a baking dish with moist sugar, cloves and lemon peel. Pour a little water over the pears, enough to moisten the sugar and prevent the pears from burning. Put the peelings of the pears over them to keep the top ones from becoming dry, then tie a brown paper over the top and bake.

A cool oven is the best, as the more slowly they bake the better color they are. When quite soft remove the peelings and serve the pears in a glass dish.

A Bread Pudding.

Pear Pudding.—Peel and core a dozen small pears and cut them into quarters. Dip them into powdered sugar with a little clarified butter.

Cut three slices of bread one-third of an inch thick. Line a plain round mold with these, first cutting out a small round for the bottom and then cutting the rest into fingers, which must be placed around the mold overlapping each other.

Dip the bread into clarified butter before putting it into the mold. Fill the mold with the cooked pears, cover the top with bread dipped in butter and place the dish in the oven until the bread is slightly browned. Turn out of the mold carefully and sprinkle sugar over it.

Easily Prepared.

Spiced Pears.—Take a quart of pears, half a cupful of vinegar, a cup of brown sugar, a half teaspoonful each of cloves and allspice and a three inch stick of cinnamon.

Wash, pare, core and cut the pears into six pieces; put into a saucepan the vinegar, half a cupful of cold water, the sugar, allspice, cloves and cinnamon and bring to boiling point, then add the pears and boil slowly until tender.

WHITEY LEWIS IS NOW IN TOMBS PRISON

New York, Aug. 2.—Frank Muller, alias Whitey Lewis, accused of being one of the Rosenthal murderers, was brought to Police Headquarters at 6:30 o'clock this morning by detectives. He was captured last night at Fleischmann's a village in Delaware county about forty-six miles from Kingston, as is told elsewhere in today's Press. Lewis was evidently about to board a train for Kingston where the detectives learned later he had arranged to take a train for the West. Lewis seemed to be well supplied with funds for his stay in the mountains.

Inspector Hughes of the detective bureau learned of the capture of Lewis over the long distance telephone and instructed the detective to take the prisoner to Kingston. He was locked up there over night and brought to New York this morning. According to the records at Headquarters Whitey's real name is Frank Seidenshue. He is registered as a pickpocket, thief and fre user of firearms. His picture is in the Rogues' Gallery.

Lewis denied that he had had anything to do with the murder. He told the detectives that he had a perfect alibi. He was out of the city when Rosenthal was shot, he said, and was sure that he could prove it. The report that he was well supplied with money Lewis denied.

Inspector Hughes sent Detectives McCormick and Haley over to Weehawken to meet the train. The detectives were waiting on the platform when they noticed half a dozen hard-visaged men hanging around the station. The men had tried to get onto the platform and found the station locked. They had then went around to the rear and climbed over a fence. The detectives are confident that they were gangsters from New York whose intentions were either to secure Whitey's release or else fill him with lead so he couldn't tell any tales.

The presence of the detectives and the knowledge that there were three other detectives with Whitey on the train convinced them that they were not strong enough to carry out their designs, so they slunk away and the detectives did not see them any more.

NORTH PLAINFIELDERS BROUGHT HOME 400 FISH

The jolly fishermen of North Plainfield have returned from Waretown and have brought with them over 400 members of the finny tribe, as the result of three days' fishing. Besides good luck, they had the benefit of good weather, and all had a 'jolly good time."

The party left here by automobile on Monday morning and after three days at Barnegat Bay, returned home by way of Asbury Park, yesterday. Two barrels of fish and one of crabs constituted the bulk of their catch and these arrived here this morning. All their friends have profited by their good luck. The fishers were Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., George Schlereth, Andrew Lutkins, Ernest Pruden, Captain John H. Schenck, J. J. Stahl, William J. Whelan, and Mr. and Mrs. William G. Debele and son, Walter.

COMPLETE AUTO TRIP TO MC ALESTER, OKLAHOMA

Samuel Rothberg received an interesting letter from Elmer Hale, secretary of the Hale-Halsell Grocery Store, at Mc Alester, Okla., this morning. In describing his automobile trip from Plainfield to Atlantic City, Philadelphia and St. Louis, he said, "When we arrived at St. Louis we had about eighteen pennants on the car—one of Plainfield—muddy and looking like sure enough sports. We had good luck all the way through—had just one puncture and once a tire came off and the trip could not have been more pleasant than it was. We could not have been treated any nicer by the people we met all the way through especially Plainfield." At St. Louis Mr. Hale and Harry Rothberg got on the train and allowed Ralph Harvey to take the car to Tulso.

CONGRESS GETS STEEL TRUST REPORT

Stanley Probe Committee, However, Does Not Recommend Its Dissolution.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Stanley Committee, which has been investigating the United States Steel Corporation for the past fifteen months, sent in its report to the House of Representatives today. All the Democrats on the committee signed it; of the four Republicans, two agreed in one separate report and each of the others had his minority finding.

In the majority report the Steel Corporation is criticised without stint, but nowhere is the opinion expressed that it should be dissolved. The committee finds that its enormous earnings are due, "not to a degree of integration of efficiency not posessed by its competitors, but to the ownership of ore reserves out of all proportion to its output or requirements and to the control and operation of common carriers, divisions of rates and the liberal allowances obtained from other concerns through inequitable and inordinate terminal allowances."

The three bills in which the recommendations of the majority of the committee are embodied are, first, an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust act which would put the burden of proof in an action for violation of the act upon the defendant corporation; would permit any one to bring a suit in equity, instead of leaving such power in the hands of the Government, where it is at present, and would define unreasonable restraint to be the control of as little as 30 per cent. of the value of the total quantity of any specified article, either in the United States or in the part of the United States where rate is affected by the restraint. The second bill would prohibit railroad supply manufacturers, including the makers of rails and structural steel, and persons engaged in the mining and sale of coal from becoming directors or officers of railroads engaged in interstate commerce. The third would make illegal the ownership of railways by industrial or mining coporations, firms, companies or officers.

FISHING NOTES.

Fluke are biting at the Keansburg pier and it would not be surprising if a few small blackfish were caught there before the month of August passed. Several power boats were were anchored just below Keansburg Tuesday, but the occupants didn't get and weakfish.

Staten Island crabbing is bringing out the men, women and children from New York. At South Beach there is hardly enough boats to meet the demand and every boat that comes in has several hundred of the finest of bluecraw crabs.

With clear weather promised for Sunday there should be some more good sea bass fishing at the outside fishing banks. Every day so far this week big catches have been made, and when the boats land at the Battery, at Newark, there is always a crowd of men waiting to buy anything in the fish line that is for sale. These people buy the fish for their own table because it is absolutely fresh.

The writer has been in touch with people along the entire Jersey coast and it looks as though we will hear from the weakfish within a week. The surf fishermen are catching them at Seaside Park and Point Pleasant and late Tuesday afternoon quite a few were taken just below Asbury Park.

There is a big run of weakfish on at Canarsie and many of the party boats are bringing in from twenty to thirty fish. Over there they use shrimp for bait entirely and one of the boatmen said that they cannot catch the fish with crabs or tapeworms.

Double figures were reached in catches by headliners on the fishing steamboat Taurus at the Cholera Banks yesterday. The catch consisted chiefly of big humpbacks, ranging up to six pounds each, and varied by an occasional codfish and silver eel. Fred Horn and William Ciulo each caught eleven humpbacks, but the latter turned the scale in his favor by landing a codfish besides.

Charlie Liming has added to his list of prizes for the largest black bass taken from Weequahic Lake. In addition to the reels he now offers a set of red fin minnow bait. There is a keen rivalry among the anglers that fish the lake and every fish is weighed for the contest.

Care should be taken in buying fish just now, as there are many stores selling fish that they advertise as coming direct from the nets. Make sure that they are telling the truth, as the nets are not getting enough fish to supply their own local customers.

The fishing is as good at Sewaren as any place north of the Shrewsbury River. If the weakfish are not biting you can fish for fluke or eels, and if you don't get a mess of them try the crabs. Some of the finest eels the writer has seen this summer came from Ackers at Sewaren.

Some fine catches are being made in the surf south of Asbury Park and some of the boys are getting square meals from the pier. Every time the papers state the price of meat has gone up it adds a dozen fishermen to every half mile of beach or to the passengers on the fishing boats. When a man can go out to the fishing banks and catch fifty pounds of fish at the cost of $1 he finds it pays.

BOUND BROOK SITS UP AND NOTICES BALL TEAM

After their 16 to 2 victory over the local team last Saturday, Bound Brook baseball fans are considerably puffed and are now clamoring for the big league stuff. It is said there is a possibility of the Bound Brooks meeting the New York Giants on the Riverside Park diamond some time in the fall. Edward Hoagland is responsible for the statement that a Bound Brooker, who is a stockholder in the New York Club, is trying to land the attraction for the fans of that vicinity.

It is doubtful, however, if the Giants will consent to play on an open field, such as at Riverside Park. Sunday baseball is not allowed at Bound Brook, and the team has to play elsewhere on the Sabbath.

CUBS LOSE THEIR FIRST GAME IN PARKER LEAGUE

After traveling through four successive contests without encountering a single defeat the Cubs team, of the Parker Field Junior Baseball League, was finally snowed under this morning by the Athletics who piled up a score of 29 to 9. The winners brought runs across the pan in every round and in the eighth round every man but one on the triumphant combination crossed the rubber. The heavy stick work of Henderson and Dills of the losers was a feature of the contest. For the winners Bohl and Linke each pounded out five safe swats.

FORDHAM BEATS YALE.

A whirlwind finish featured the Fordham-Yale contest in the Parker Field Baseball League yesterday afternoon. Although the Yale nine got a quintet of counts in the ninth round it had to take the smaller end of a 14 to 11 score. The game settled into a pitchers' battle between Sachar, Sears and Venable and the two Fordham twirlers allowed the lossers but two hits.

PROCTOR'S EXCELLENT SHOW.

Proctor's big five-act vaudeville show this week is considered one of the best seen at this popular house in many months. It's a comedy program from start to finish. Shaw's animals, including the monkeys, pony and dog, comprise the headliner. Coyne and Lee, eccentric comedians; Inez McCauley & Co., in a comedy sketch, "The Little Church Around the Corner;" Evans & Clifford, in an original act of palm reading, and Martini & Troise, the Dago troubadours in song, music and mirth, complete the bill with fine photo-plays.

FRIOL WINS AGAIN.

French Racing Cyclist Likely to Make Frank Kramer Hustle.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 2.—Emile Friol, the French racing cyclist, approached one notch nearer a match with Frank Kramer, American champion, by defeating Alfred Grenda, the champion of Australia, at the Newark velodrome. Friol took the race in straight heats, the same as he did his two previous matches, in which he disposed of Floyd Krebs and Frank Cavanaugh. Each heat was at two-thirds of a mile, and the Frenchman, who is a very clever track general, employed similar tactics in each.

His method was to trail Grenda and make his fight in the last lap. The first heat was a close fit, Friol waiting until the last turn for his jump and then only whipping Grenda at the tape. In the record heat Friol "jumped" Grenda on the back stretch, shot by him at the twelfth pole and lead by ten yards at the tape.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Carr, of Newark, are the parents of a boy, born July 29. Mrs. Carr was Miss Ada A. Westphal and is well-known here, where she formerly resided.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Some Prof. said that obesity is a malady. And believe me there are some mighty sick people around these diggings.

The Spicer aggregation have nearly recovered from the effects of their outing last Saturday and are taking a sensible view of their chances against the Commercials for tomorrow afternoon.

Manager Thompson says there will be nothing to it—but Spicers, of course.

We would not believe Thompson if he said this last Saturday night, but he feels a little better now.

And then the R. G. E. bunch are figuring on cinching the Daily Press cup by walking away with their contest against the Public Service aggregation tomorrow afternoon.

Unless the leaders can land the majority of the games played there is a great possibility of their returning somewhere else besides on the top rung.

Always complain loudly that the trainer will not rub the arm of any one but the star pitcher, so no wonder they keep hitting your curves. This makes a hit with the manager.

Eddie Stallings please notice.

Charley Ebbets is scouting for Brooklyn. How would he know a ball player on sight after watching his team?

Rube Marquard was yesterday fined $25 by the National Commission for pitching one inning of a game on June 22 last for the Port Chester, N. Y., independent team. Marquard received permission from the commission to attend the game in his street clothes. Without putting on a uniform he pitched one inning, and was fined for violating the following ruling of the commission: "Nor will national agreement players be permitted to play with or against outside clubs during their contract period."

Mrs. Helen Robison Britton, the only woman with a big league baseball club all her own, is making the Eastern trip with her team of Cardinals and witnessed the game from the upper pavilion.

Another squad of the victorious American athletes who participated in the Olympic games at Stockholm returned today on the steamship Majestic, of the White Star Line. They included Platt and Benjamin W. Adams, the jumpers of the New York Athletic Club. They were met at the pier by a large number of friends and admirers, and were greeted with loud cheers when they landed.

HOT CONTEST ON OVAL TOMORROW

The second in the five-game series between the Westfield and the Plainfield baseball teams will be played on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon and as the locals took the first contest on the Westfield grounds the Mt. Ararat aggregation is coming here armed to the teeth for the Plainfield scalp. They will have "Germany" Ortlieb on the firing line and if he puts up the article of ball he did at Recreation Park last Saturday afternoon against the Dunellen bunch, and if his teammates do not make so many errors behind him, the Queen City combination will have to hustle to win. It would probably have a disastrous effect on the Plainfield nine to lose this game on account of dropping their contest with Bound Brook last week and the local bunch are not used to losing more than one at a time. Frederickson will be on the mound for the home team and he says he has fully recovered from the effect of last week's drubbing, or rather it did not have any effect upon him. He says there are no tomato cans to lose the balls in on the Oval and the outfield has been explored beforehand and the outfielders know where to go to pull down the sphere when it gets loose in that territory.

The last contest between these ancient rivals resulted in a victory for Plainfield. The local hitters won the game in the first two innings by some clean swats from the bats of Harter, Dalton, Cosgrove and Eddie Stallings. If Driscoll and his followers want to make a fifth contest unnecessary they will have to take the contest tomorrow but the more pessimistic of local fans say that their favorites have struck a slump and will have some trouble pulling out of it against such a twirler as Ortlieb. The game tomorrow will be started at 3:30 instead of the regular 3:45 starting time.

Manager Eddie Flynn, of the Westfield team, is bolstering up his nine for the game here tomorrow and it would not be a great surprise if he should spring a great shakeup in his lineup. McNisch, who umpired the last Plainfield-Westfield go, will cover the difficult corner, and as he is one of the heaviest swatters in this section he will greatly strengthen the Westfielders' offensive work. Manager Flynn is also said to be dickering with Charley Eger and Joe Flannery, the two Newark cracks, and will without doubt have them playing in Westfield uniforms tomorrow afternoon.

The lineups of both teams up to this time are as follows:

FARMERS HOLD RUN.

The first automobile endurance run for cars owned and driven by farmers ended in Dallas, Tex., Saturday. This tour which covered about 1,000 miles of Texas roads, was won by W. R. Mickle in a Chalmers "30." Mickle's car finished with a perfect score and took down the first cash prize, offered by Farm and Ranch, and the big loving cup put up by the G. A. C. Haiff Company of Dallas and San Antonio.

NOTED ATHLETE HERE.

C. Westervelt Ashmead, of Tarrytown-on-Hudson, is visiting at the home of William E. MacClymont on Woodbine avenue. Mr. Ashmead is a noted athlete, having won many prizes for long distance running during the past four years.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LEAGUE OUTLOOK

A weekly shakeup is getting to be a regular occurence in the Sunday-school League's standing and the first four nines in the race for the championship are altering on the top rung. The Temple Baptist is at present traveling along at a fast clip and after its game of last Saturday, which ended in an overwhelming defeat of the league leaders, the tailend aggregation is overflowing with confidence and it would not be a great surprise to see it run away with the Monroe's.

Hope Chapel will have to take one from the Park Avenue lads tomorrow in order to hold on to its second place berth, and if Park Avenue succeeds in coming out victorious it will pass the Chapelites and secure a firm hold on the runners' up position.

The First Baptist ball tossers have not recovered from their defeat at the hands of the Temple's last week and none of the players on this nine has been talking of his team's chances against the South Plainfielders in the village tomorrow. This nine will have to come back with a win or yield its place to one of the other closely pressing aggregations.

BOUND BROOK PLAYS SOMERVILLE TOMORROW

Bound Brook baseball representatives will take a trip to Somerville on Saturday afternoon to play the colts of Manager Meyers on the Cammann field.

According to the dope handed out by Edward Hoagland, Bound Brook's well-known baseball authority, Bound Brook can't lose:. He isn't counting his chicks yet, however. He bases his authority on the two new members of the Newhouse team, Tommy Mullen and Henry Alberts, two good men who have strengthened his favorites considerably.

The work of the Bound Brook men in Saturday's game with Plainfield showed telltale strength. Raritan stung one on High Bridge with Clinton on the mound Saturday. Kraft, who will twirl for Raritan, only allowed three hits against High Bridge for Raritan.

While Bound Brook is at Raritan, the Y. M. A. club of South Bound Brook, will stack up with the fast Laurel A. C. of Bound Brook. Great rivalry exists between these two teams and a good game is expected. E. Matthews, the Bound Brook H. S. phenom, will twirl for the Y. M. A., and his brother Bill will receive. E. Bowlby and Somers will form the battery for the Laurels.

THREE GAMES IN MFGS' LEAGUE

With but three more games to play before the league season ends, the Manufacturers' Baseball League title still remains a matter of contention between the R. G. E., Commercial and Public Service aggregations. In order to strengthen its claim in the fight for the Daily Press cup and to gain the honor of defeating the league leaders, the Public Service ball tossers are said to be dickering for the services of Eddie Kraft, who is on the eligible list of Public Service players. Kraft is one of the best twirlers playing the game in the Metropolitan district, and although he is a member of the Manufacturers' League, he has not been playing with it because of his many week-end engagements with semi-professional nines. The R. G. E. will have to play some ball if it wants to keep in the running with Kraft on the mound.

The Spicer and Commercial combinations are slated to clash tomorrow and the large amount of personal rivalry existing between these two aggregations will probably make it a close and tightly fought game. Manager Thompson says that his charges have fully recovered from the effects of their last week's outing and they are out to trounce the Clerks this trip.

The two tailend teams will clash with the result of the cellar position at stake. Because of the fact that these two aggregations cannot approach the top rung they are having a little contest among themselves for the cellar berth.

IT IS DUNELLEN VS CRANFORD

Warry McLaughlin and his eight assistants will be back at their old stand in Dunellen tomorrow afternoon after playing a most successful traveling game for the past three weeks. The Dunellen aggregation is setting a pace just at present that entitles it to a chance at the best in the business and it is one of the teams to be signed in the suburban baseball title that is at present being fought out between Bound Brook and Plainfield.

Tomorrow the Cranford team will stack up against the Dunellenites and endeavor to retrieve the two defeats handed them earlier in the season. The Cranford manager says that he will give the home team one of the hardest fights it has had this season as on his two previous appearances he was unable to bring his best nine, as the Dunellen manager did not feel able to put up a sufficient guarantee. Bogardus says he has given a bond this time that was entirely satisfactory to the Cranford management and the latter has promised to have the best he can get together.

The respective records of the two aggregations will give some idea of the kind of ball that will have to be played by the team that has hopes of coming out victorious in tomorrow's fray. The Cranford nine defeated the High Bridge team recently by the score of 8 to 3. On this occasion it pounded Jimmy Clinton for fourteen hits, while the Dunellen bunch were unable to do anything with this veteran's twirling and succumbed on the short end of a 7 to 0 score. Cranford won over Rahway by the score of 9 to 3, while Dunellen was beaten by the same combination in ten innings by the score of 5 to 4. Cranford defeated Raritan twice, while Raritan handed a 5 to 2 beating to the Dunellenites.

This would probably go to show that the visitors tomorrow have a slight advantage over the home nine as far as records can show, but the latter combination have the idea that records do not win ball games and are out to hand another beating to the Cranford combination. All of these games were won by the Cranford team with their strongest lineup on the field and as this was not the case when it played Dunellen, it would seem that the visitors have some license to crow over its chances. Cranford will have this same lineup on the field tomorrow and Dunellen will not walk away with the game as it has on the two previous occasions.

In their other games this season Dunellen won the first one by 1 to 0 in thirteen innings and also took the second with a count of 2 to 0. The lineups for both nines tomorrow will be as follows:

Mrs. W. F. Oliver and daughters, and her mother, Mrs. Krymer, have returned after a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

'WHITEY' LEWIS IS NABBED AT TRAIN

Rosenthal Murder Suspect Was Bound For West.

WELL SUPPLIED WITH CASH

Becker's Counsel, Trapped by Whitman, Admits to Grand Jury That, Acting For Becker, He Held Midnight Conference Day After Murder With Jack Rose.

New York, Aug. 2.—Another of the alleged murderers of Herman Rosenthal is in jail. "Whitey" Lewis, one of the four Zelig gangmen named by Jack Rose as the men hired at Lieutenant Becker's orders to kill Rosenthal, was arrested at Fleischmans, a little summer resort in the Catskills forty-six miles from Kingston.

He was well supplied with money and had been living at an expensive hotel. Three central office men caught him at the railroad station. He was about to board a train. Lewis stood still long enough for the detectives to compare him with their circulars. He was taken to Kingston and will be brought here.

Lieutenant Becker's lawyer, John W. Hart, conferred with Jack Rose less than twenty-four hours after Herman Rosenthal was murdered and demanded from Rose an affidavit that the $1,500 Rosenthal had received on mortgage came from Rose and not Becker.

Rose says that in the midnight conversation with Mr. Hart at Harry Pollock's house on Riverside drive, Hart told him that he wouldn't be protected by Becker unless he made that affidavit.

Rose complied because he did not want Becker to desert him. But the affidavit was a lie, Rose says, because the $1,500 that Rosenthal received was Becker's money. The admissions forced from Mr. Hart before the grand jury were regarded by District Attorney Whitman as strong corroboration of Rose's confession generally implicating Lieutenant Becker in the murder of Rosenthal.

Mr. Hart, while denying positively that he discussed the murder with Rose or that he knew at the time that Rose was a fugitive from justice, admitted that Becker had sent him on an affidavit errand. Mr. Hart said also that he had consulted with another lawyer about Becker's case and that he had asked this lawyer to inform Police Commissioner Waldo where Rose was in hiding. It was William T. Jerome who went to the commissioner on the Thursday following Hart's talk with Rose, but in the meantime Rose had surrendered.

Rose Sends For Becker.

There is a very wide difference between the story told by Hart as to his business with Rose shortly after the murder and the story told by Rose. The man who says he was ordered by Becker to have Rosenthal killed swears that he had sent word on Tuesday to Becker saying that he had to have some further assurance of protection, some promise that he wouldn't be left to shift for himself.

And Becker told him, Rose adds, that he would send Mr. Hart that night to fix things up.

After lengthy arguments Judge Mulqueen ordered that Hart must answer the question as propounded by the district attorney.

Rose's story of the conversation between him and Becker's counsel is that on the night after the murder of Rosenthal Lieutenant Becker called up Harry Pollok's house. Mrs. Pollok went to the phone. The man at the other end of the wire insisted peremptorily on speaking to Rose. Mrs. Pollok said that she would deliver any message, but the man declined to talk to her and demanded Rose. So Mrs. Pollok told Rose, who was, he says, sick in bed at the time.

"Becker," said Rose, "was mad because he hadn't been able to get me to the phone before. 'What did they want me to do—give them my pedigree?' Becker said. He told me there would have to be a better way of talking.

Answered Everything Was All Right.

"I asked Becker how things were because I was pretty well scared. Becker said that 'everything is all right' and 'don't worry.' Then he told me he was going to send his lawyer, John W Hart, up to see me that night because he wanted to get an affidavit from me. The first thing I thought of was that Becker was going to make me stand for all the Rosenthal trouble. I said I didn't like the idea of making an affidavit at that time of night, but he said that it would be all right and hung up.

"A little before midnight a man who said he was Becker's lawyer, John W. Hart, came to the Pollok house. I had never seen him before. He had me draw up several affidavits before he got one that satisfied him. This was a general contradiction of Rosenthal's accusations. There was no mention of murder. But Hart told me that Becker had told him to tell me that I would be taken care of if I made the affidavit he wanted and that if I didn't make it I wouldn't be protected. Of course I was in no position to refuse. I thought Becker would stand by me. It was true that the $1,500 that Rosenthal got when he was hard up was paid over by me. But I got the money from Becker himself.

"The lawyer wouldn't have been to see me at all if I hadn't insisted that Becker must come to see me himself or send somebody. After I had finished my talk with Becker and Bridgie Webber in front of the Murray Hill baths just after the murder I told Becker that I was going to the Lafayette baths. The next day early I talked to him over the phone from the baths and told him I was going to Pollok's house. It was 2 p. m. that Tuesday when Becker called me up at Pollok's house."

It was the morning of Thursday, July 18, that Rose went to headquarters and gave himself up. The night before, he says, he had received another phone call from Becker telling him that he had better go down to headquarters the next day.

"I told Becker," said Rose, "that I was sick and knocked out and in no shape to stand the questioning that I was likely to get. Becker said that all that I would be asked about was the hiring of the Libbey-Shapiro car, but that everybody knew I had used that car often and so it would be easy to explain. Becker said: 'Now everything is all right. This thing is fixed up.'"

ALLEGED MURDER TRIO.

Above are three of the gunmen said to have killed Herman Rosenthal. "Dago Frank" is said to have confessed. "Whitey" Lewis was caught last night at Fleischmans, N. Y. Horowitz is still at large.

TAFT AND COMMITTEE.

After Leaving East Room of White House Following His Notification.

© 1912, by American Press Association.

TAFT IS NOTIFIED OF HIS NOMINATION

Accepting, Says T. R. and Wilson Head Toward Socialism.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Informally accepting the nomination of the Chicago convention, President Taft delivered an address outlining the issues of the campaign. He declared that the preservation of the constitution and the maintenance of an independent judiciary constitute the supreme issue in the contest. The president asserted that both Roosevelt and Wilson are headed straight toward socialism, and he invited Republicans and Democrats alike to join in combatting the menace offered by their candidacies.

The president did not mention Roosevelt by name, but repeatedly referred to him and his followers as "the former Republicans who have left their party." The president was notified of his nomination before about 500 Republican leaders who had gathered at the White House from all parts of the country. The ceremonies, which were held in the east room of the White House, were as informal as possible. The president's speech and that of Senator Root, who delivered the notification address, were spoken to the accompaniment of a battery of moving picture men.

The president was at times dramatic in his denunciation of those who are trying to wreck the Republican party. Many of his points were driven home with an emphasis unusual for him, and he was enthusiastically applauded. The hand clapping was prolonged when the president declared that hostility to the judiciary and the measures to take away its power and independence constitute the chief definite policy of those reformers whose control "the Republican party escaped at Chicago and the Democratic party yielded to at Baltimore."

OPPOSED BY ROCKEFELLER.

Farmer to Be Ousted as Pocantico Hills School Trustee.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 2.—John D. Rockefeller has succeeded in having a new school election called at Pocantico Hills to oust Irving L. Bryant, the farmer who defeated Mrs. D. M. Milton, and the board of education posted notices that a meeting would be held in the schoolhouse on the evening of Aug. 13 to elect a new trustee.

There is little doubt that Mrs. Milton will be a candidate, and Mr. Rockefeller has said she must be elected. Bryant says he will not seek the office because he has hold his place to Mr. Rockefeller and will move away. It is understood that Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., particularly desires Mrs. Milton's election. Mrs. Rockefeller is on the advisory committee for the school district.

LOST MRS. TAFT'S LUNCHEON

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Taft smile was in evidence, and about a thousand more smiled with him over one laughable incident near the close of the notification ceremonies. This was the sudden appearance at the White House of the sergeant at arms sent forth to round up members of the senate, which body was in session and unable to secure a quorum.

The officers stood beside the president in the receiving line and as each senator passed he was promptly placed under "arrest" and told to hasten back to the senate.

All of the hungry legislators missed Mrs. Taft's luncheon.

Bryce Coming in September.

London, Aug. 2.—Ambassador Bryce will return to Washington in September. Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey announced in the house of commons. He was answering a query concerning a report that Mr. Bryce would never go back to America.

—Blobbs—"If I had my way, I'd marry Miss Gnaggs." Slobbs—"If you did, you'd never have your way again."

—Wigg—"Miss Yellowleaf says she gets her good looks from her mother." Wagg—"I had no idea her mother was so stingy."

—Some people are light sleepers, even in the dark.

Five Nominees Will Make The Race For President

Democratic, Republican, Progressive, Socialist and Prohibitionist Candidates.

Uncle Sam's Full Hand. Which One of the Five Will Take the Trick?

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THERE will be five candidates for president before the voter this year, a full hand—Woodrow Wilson, Democrat; William Howard Taft, Republican; Theodore Roosevelt, Progressive; Eugene Victor Debs, Socialist, and Eugene Wilder Chafin, Prohibition. Most of these are old friends, as Governor Wilson is the only one of the number that has not been a nominee for president before. Roosevelt ran as the Republican candidate in 1904, Taft as the Republican candidate in 1908, Chafin as the Prohibition candidate in 1908 and Debs as the Socialist candidate in 1900, 1904 and 1908. Running for president gets to be a habit with some men.

These five candidates give the voter a wide range of choice, varying all the way from the water wagon to the band wagon. Of course there may be a difference of opinion as to which candidate is driving the band wagon, but this is as it should be, for if we knew to a certainty the contest would lose interest and no one could place bets. Nobody gets excited over a horse race that is a dead sure thing.

When a man gets into the election booth alone with his God and a stub pencil he can be thankful that he has a list of such able citizens to pick from. Of course four of them will not be elected, but don't tell any of them beforehand that he is to be one of the rejected, for he would not believe it. There is something about running for president that makes every nominee harbor the secret notion that he is the people's chosen and anointed.

All Physically Fit.

In the matter of age the candidates are well bunched, all of them in the fifties. Roosevelt is fifty-three, Taft fifty-four, Wilson fifty-five, Debs fifty-six and Chafin fifty-nine. Physically, they are all in the pink of condition, as befits men with such a foot race ahead. Of the five three are college men, Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson, and three are writers of books, Roosevelt, Wilson and Chafin. Strangely enough, these three are writers of history. In the matter of pastimes, Taft and Wilson play golf, Roosevelt plays tennis and several other things, Chafin is something of an athlete, and Debs—well, Debs' pastimes are running for president and making Socialist speeches.

Three of the candidates live in the state in which each was born—Taft in Ohio, Debs in Indiana and Roosevelt in New York. Wilson was born in Virginia, practiced law in Georgia and now hails from New Jersey, while Chafin was born in Wisconsin, hailed from Illinois when he ran for president four years ago and now lives in Arizona.

Debs is the tallest of the five, measuring about six feet. The others are of medium height, Wilson being about five feet eleven. All are of good weight, although Mr. Taft tips the scales at nearly twice as much as his Democratic opponent—or he does, that is, if the scales don't break.

In this age of divorces and complex marital relations it may be worth while to note that all of these candidates for our highest office are happily married and are men of clean lives, showing that, whatever we as a people practice, our ideals are still right, and we choose as our representatives men who live up to these ideals.

At Home on the Stump.

All five of these candidates are naturally effective campaigners. If we had orators nowadays, which mercifully we have not, some of them might even be classed under that head. Yet they are better speakers than the old school conventional type of orator who used elocutionary arts, twisted the eagle's tail and talked for effect. These leaders of today speak directly and simply, telling what they mean in the language understood by the average man. Nearly everybody has heard one or more of these candidates, not a few have heard all of them, for they have been campaigning or lecturing for the past twelve or fifteen years, and some of them longer. Chafin is a Chautauqua lecturer, Debs was a labor advocate before he took up socialism, Wilson has been speaking before college societies and learned and civic bodies for many years, while Roosevelt and Taft have made enough whirlwind tours of the country to give a large part of the populace a chance to see and hear them in action. One of the refreshing things about these 1912 candidates is that they are all simple and frank. There is little of the old political trick of concealing thoughts, balancing statements and befogging the issues. The American people will not stand for that sort of thing now. They would rather a speaker should make breaks than lack in candor and directness. The public wants straight from the shoulder utterance without poses or trimmings.

Practical Idealists.

Putting aside partisan bias and looking at these candidates simply as men they are a gratifying exhibit of Americanism. Democratic institutions are a distinct success when they produce such leaders. Clean morally, mentally and physically, ready to give utterance to the faith that is in them and to fight for their principles, idealists and yet practical men of affairs, these candidates reflect credit on our national character and are of the best type of American gentlemen. The most gratifying thing about them is that they are typical, not geniuses removed from the crowd, but expressing the average man at his best. The genius has his place, but not in executive position. The need there is for common sense, honesty, public spirit and level headed, well balanced character.

This is not a biographical sketch. That is not needed. Most people know the lives of these men or at least of some of them by heart. To give a biography of President Taft or Colonel Roosevelt, for example, would be like praising the sun or eulogizing the Almighty. Painting the lily, gilding refined gold or carrying coals to Newcastle would not be a marker to such a performance. Wilson, Chafin and Debs are not so well known, perhaps, but encyclopedias are in common use and time and space are precious.

It is enough to say of Mr. Chafin that he has been prominent in the Good Templers, having been head of the order in two states and a prominent national official, that he is a practicing lawyer, that he was superintendent of the Washingtonian home in Chicago, candidate for congress, for attorney general of two states and governor of Wisconsin on the Prohibition ticket, author of "Lives of the Presidents," "Lincoln, the Man of Sorrow," "Washington as a Statesman" and other books, and a man who says he was never sick a day and can turn handsprings and do the same athletic stunts at fifty-nine that he did as a boy.

Debs Once In Jail.

As for Debs, he started as a locomotive fireman, was salesman for a wholesale grocery house, city clerk of Terre Haute, member of the Indiana legislature, secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, president of the American Railway union, in which capacity he conducted the famous Chicago strike and was put in jail for his pains, helped organize the Socialist party and is leading it now for the fourth consecutive time.

Grover Cleveland was originally christened Stephen Grover, amputating the Stephen with his own hand. In like manner Woodrow Wilson was named Thomas Woodrow, but shed the Thomas as excess baggage. By the way, have you ever observed that most of the presidents of the United States have had but one front name? Fact: Draw your own inference. As to Wilson's career, he was the son of a minister, was educated at Princeton and Johns Hopkins, was professor of political economy in two or three colleges, president of Princeton, governor of New Jersey where he licked the bosses in his own party, wrote several books on history and political economy and is just about now the most observed man in this republic.

Taft and Roosevelt.

Then there are Taft and Roosevelt, more familiarly known as Bill and Teddy, whose careers, as before remarked, everybody knows forward and backward.

The colonel has been a cowboy, police commissioner, civil service reformer, rough rider, mighty hunter, historian, faunal naturalist, founder of a new party, contributing editor and originator of the Ananias club.

Mr. Taft has held appointive offices almost continuously since he left law school, among others being county prosecutor, state judge, federal judge, internal revenue collector, governor, secretary of war, far traveler, pacificator of islands, peace advocate and a man who could do some rather hard fighting when driven into a corner.

Which one of these five will be the next president of the United States? Well, dear voter, that is for you to say. Here is the list, and it is a pretty fair list at that. Take your pick. I wouldn't tell you which one will be elected if I knew, which I do not, although I may be vain enough to think I do. In the language of the classics, dear voter, it is up to you.

REFUSES TO NAME POLICE ROBBERS

Atlantic City Chief Noncommittal When Questioned.

SLEUTH HELPED BURGLAR?

Edward Frazier Arrested and Committed Without Bail to Await Action of Grand Jury—He Involves Police Official, Saying He Helped In Crime.

Atlantic City, Aug. 2.—Police Chief Woodruff and Richard Whalen, captain of detectives, were noncommittal when questioned about their information that a member of the detective bureau in Philadelphia was involved in the series of robberies of cottages of wealthy visitors in the last four or five weeks. They referred questioners to Philadelphia, where they said the story was being investigated.

The name of an active member of Captain Cameron's staff in Philadelphia was mentioned. Captain Whalen said he knew the detective personally and that he could not be convinced he would be guilty of conniving in burglaries or sharing in the proceeds of robberies. "I believe an injustice is being done this man. He worked with me in a number of cases," said Whalen.

Robberies by Same Man.

Admission was made that there had been many robberies and they appeared to have been done by the same man. Edward Frazier, who was arrested, will be arraigned and committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

"We are sure we have the right man, for we found in his possession the two stonecutter's chisels which were employed to pry open bureaus, chiffoniers, shutters and doors," said Captain Whalen. "We fitted the chisels into the grooves and they fitted perfectly. One of them was nicked and the nick shows in several of the robberies. We also found some trinkets, which we think were stolen, in his possession. He declines to give his address.

"His scheme was simple. He would ring the door bell or telephone. If no answer came he would set to work. It appears as if he came here on fixed dates and brought only a suitcase. After a robbery he would leave the city. As to the automobile being used and then meeting another machine and changing numbers we have no certain information."

Questioned about the reports of Frazier having confessed and involving a police official in Philadelphia, Chief Woodruff and Captain Whalen said no confession would be used when the prisoner is arraigned.

WRECK OF AN ACTOR.

Macklin's Last Attempt to Play Shylock as His Mind Failed.

Macklin, the famous English actor, made his last appearance on the stage as Shylock. He came ready dressed for the character into the greenroom, where all the performers were assembled and prepared. Looking round, he said:

"What—is there a play tonight?"

All were astonished, and no one answered.

"Is there a play tonight?" he repeated.

"Why, sir, what is the matter? 'The Merchant of Venice,' you know," said the actress who was to play Portia.

"And who is the Shylock?" asked Macklin.

"Why, you, sir—you are the Shylock!"

"Ah!" said he. "Am I?" and sat down in silence.

Every one was very much concerned and alarmed. The curtain went up, however, and the play began. Macklin got through the part with every now and then going to the side of the stage, lifting up his hair with one hand and putting his ear down to the prompter, who gave him the word. He then walked to the center of the stage and repeated the words tolerably well. This occurred often through the play. Sometimes he said to the prompter:

"What is it? What do you say?"

From that time Macklin's great talents were lost to the public. His memory gone, he spent most of his time in an elbow chair in his home in Covent Garden, where he died.—Kansas City Star.

He Dined Out.

An incident took place in a restaurant in New York city one evening not long ago that, besides being amusing, was the cause of considerable thinking on the part of three men who were regular patrons of the place. They were seated together at a table when they noticed that the waiter who had come to take their orders was not the one who usually served them.

"Where is John this evening?" one of the group asked.

"He has had his hours changed," the waiter replied. "He is out for dinner now."—New York Tribune.

Paid For His Flirting.

"I was behind you coming up the street just now," asserted Mrs. Jellus, "and you rubbered at every pretty woman you passed."

"At every stylish woman," corrected Mr. Jellus. "I was just taking notes of the fashionable gowns, with a view to buying you a handsome one."—Washington Herald.

—A soft answer turneth away wrath, which is more than a short one generally does.

PARENTS WON'T FORGIVE THIS BRIDE

Rahway, Aug. 2.—"My daughter need never expect any forgiveness from her parents. I intend to pack up her clothes and send them to her at once." Thus spoke Mrs. Ira C. Ayres, of 61 Hamilton street, today, when she was asked concerning the marriage of her daughter, May Evelyn, to Thomas R. Borden on July 29. Mr. and Mrs. Borden are now living with the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Priest, proprietor of the Norman House, Ocean Grove. Mrs. Ayers says her daughter has not told her of the marriage, but she received the information through a man employed in an Ocean Grove newspaper.

Several days ago Mrs. Ayers received a clipping from an Asbury Park newspaper which said that Miss May Evelyn Ayers and Thomas R. Borden had taken out a marriage license. The clipping was sent to the Ayers family by one of their friends, who is spending the summer at the seashore. According to the clipping the license was taken out July 18, just three days after Miss Ayers had left her home here for Asbury Park, where she said she was going for the benefit of her health.

The parents of the young woman, who is twenty-four years old, while the bridegroom is twenty-one, learned yesterday that the marriage had taken place July 29.

"I do not know what clergyman performed the ceremony," said Mrs. Ayers. "After hearing that my daughter and Borden had procured a marriage license I wired to an Ocean Grove newspaper and one of its employes made an investigation. He learned the date of the ceremony, but did not know the officiating minister.

"I knew that May had been going with Tom for some time, and I tried to persuade her to give him up. We used all our efforts to this end. Early in the summer Mr. Borden went to Ocean Grove, where I understand he is employed in the boarding-house of his aunt.

"About the middle of July my daughter complained of not feeling well, and it was suggested that she spend several weeks at the seashore. I did not learn at what hotel she stopped, but I presume it was where Borden was employed.

"My daughter was always kept supplied with everything she wanted, money, clothes and what not. It is a hard blow to her parents—running away and getting married. I will have nothing further to do with her. This afternoon I will pack up her clothes and send them to her. She need never expect any forgiveness on the part of her parents. She was provided with a good home. No girl could want for more than was furnished May.

"I have no idea as to her future plans. The blow is pretty hard for her parents to bear."

Mr. Borden has been living in Campbell street.

THE FORUM.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I wish to deny the statement made in yesterday's issue of the "Press" attributed to me that I intended to "Buck the Standard Oil Co." This statement being foolish and entirely wrong. What I did say was that after receiving a petition with one hundred and eighty-one signers in protest against granting the Standard Oil Co. the permit to build a storage oil tank the Common Council has, in my opinion, arbitrarily overruled and ignored the opinions of the great majority of property owners in the West End. Yours respectfully,

M. F. GANO.

REAL ESTATE MAN UPSFT BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Bradley Beach, Aug. 2.—In the sudden electrical storm, which burst over the shore at midnight Wednesday, a bolt of lightning struck in Newark avenue near Main street. Passing nearby at the time was John D. Gluck, a real estate operator. Gluck was thrown high into the air and landed on the side of his face. Today he was almost completely recovered from the accident. His skin was browned by the lightning, his hair singed and the side of his face was lacerated when he struck the ground. He was found unconscious after the bolt had struck and was carried to his home nearby, where he was attended by a doctor.

A barn located on Monmouth avenue, between Atlantic and Pacific avenues, was struck by lightning and burned Wednesday night. The structure was owned by Fred Tilton. There were no horses in the place.

RECEIVER IS SOUGHT FOR UNITED COPPER CO.

Trenton, Aug. 2.—Application was made in the Court of Chancery Wednesday for the appointment of a receiver for the United Copper Company and for a restraining order to prevent the United Copper Syndicate from foreclosing a mortgage of $1,000,000 held against the United properties. The application was made by Pine, Webber & Co., of Boston, and Thomas H. Ball, of Philadelphia, stockholders of the United. Vice Chancellor Emery fixed next Monday at Newark for hearing the application.

The complainants charge mismanagement of the affairs of the United company upon the part of Fritz Augustus Heinze, the president, and also the directors. It is further charged that the United Copper Syndicate, the mortgagee in the million-dollar loan, was organized by Heinze and the directors of the United company, and that the syndicate and the company were operated in a manner prejudicial to the interests of the stockholders of the copper company. The company is declared to be insolvent at the present time, but it is alleged that if properly managed it could be made profitable to the stockholders.

The United company's charter was declared forfeited last February by proclamation of Governor Wilson for non-payment of franchise taxes due the State for the years 1909, 1910 and 1911, amounting to $6,250. It was organized under the New Jersey laws in 1902 with authorized capital of $50,000,000. The bills of complaint filed Wednesday say that the company owns the controlling interest in the La France Copper Co., the Ohio Copper Company, the Montana Ore Purchasing Company, the New York and Pittsburgh Coal Company and 540,000 acres of land in British Columbia.

WILSON WILL NOT RESIGN OFFICE

Jersey Governor Says He Intends to Stick Until Next March Anyway.

PLEASES SUPPORTERS

After Consulting With Friends Executive Decides That His Duty Is to Remain in Office—Puts Out New Limerick On Yachting Trip.

Governor Wilson has announced definitely his intention to remain in the chair as the Governor of New Jersey. It has been a matter of open question with him ever since the Democratic national convention at Baltimore, and the arguments of his friends and fellow-Democrats have prevailed. Although he has been urged continually not to drop the reins of the State government, the incumbent was undecided until yesterday.

It is said that his determination to remain in the office now until he leaves for the White House, or until the end of his term, as the election may decide, is due to a great extent to his wishes to see the results of the working out of problems now before commissions which are investigating the tax conditions in the State and matters pertaining to the State's efficiency.

Edward E. Grosscup, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, heard the announcement of the Governor's intention with genuine satisfaction. He said that it was an announcement which would bring the Democrats of the State closer to their leader, and one that would entirely satisfy his following in New Jersey, excepting, perhaps, a few Democrats who had wanted him to resign.

In describing his recent yachting trip, Mr. Wilson produced the following limerick, which he confessed to having written while aboard the good ship Corona:

"I wish that my room had a floor;
I don't so much care for a door,
But this walking around without touching the ground
Is getting to be such a bore."

UNION CO. MOSQUITO INSPECTOR AT FANWOOD

The inspectors working under the direction of the Union County Mosquito Commission have been making a thorough investigation in Fanwood and vicinity looking for breeding places for the insects, preparatory to a general clean-up. Residents have been warned against allowing open rain barrels and other receptacles, filled with water or refuse, to stand about and orders have been given that all cisterns and cesspools must be cleaned and kept covered.

An inspection will also be made in Scotch Plains and vicinity. Recently, the inspectors for Plainfield and vicinity have been busily engaged in an effort to get rid of mosquito-breeding places and the results have been quite encouraging. Samples of water have been taken for the purpose of determining whether the mosquito is likely to breed in certain localities and where such conditions have been found oil will be used.

SHILOH BAPTIST BEARERS HOLD ENTERTAINMENT

There were remarks by G. N. Stowes, of New Brunswick; G. H. P. Ganneway, of this city. The annual report was read by A. S. Venable, secretary of the club. It was encouraging, showing financial growth. These officers were elected and installed: President, Edward Wilson; vice president, Edward Crite; secretary, A. S. Venable; treasurer, Arthur Jones; assistant treasurer, W. R. Burton; speaker of the house, G. H. Ganneway; assistant speaker of the house, Charles H. LITTELL PRESIDENT OF 1ST WARD G. O. P. CLUB

Officers Are Elected and Constitution and By-laws Are Adopted at Session.

Enthusiasm marked the meeting of the First Ward Republican Club, held at the office of Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., last night. Officers were elected and a constitution and by-laws were adopted. Albert L. Littell was chosen president. A. Kahrman was selected as secretary and W. Firstbrook was chosen treasurer.

Each district in the ward will be represented by a vice president and each district will also have a captain, who will be held responsible for getting out the vote. Mr. Hetfield made some timely remarks regarding the importance of polling the full party strength at the primaries to be held in September. He declined to accept any office, declaring that he would rather work in the ranks. There were twenty-eight voters present.

WILL ASK FOR RULING ON GERAN LAW PROBLEM

In an endeavor to comply with County Clerk Calvert's request for a proper legal form to be used in preparing petitions for candidates for county office, the election committe of the Board of Freeholders, acting through County Attorney Codington, has put the matter of proper interpretation of the law up to Attorney General Wilson.

Mr. Calvert's request was for a form which he purposed having printed, leaving blank the office sought, whether freeholder, sheriff, surrogate or registrar, and also a blank to be filled in indicating the length of the term in the cases of the freeholders. These forms would be accessible then for all aspirants for county offices.

The cause for the request is the complicated ideas many of the prospective candidates for the small Board of Freeholders have regarding their petitions. The number of candidates for nomination emphasizes the complication. Some have declared their intention of quitting.

Whether this question on the requirements of the Geran law is a new one to the attorney general is not known. He has been requested to give the matter his immediate consideration and render an opinion as soon as possible.

So soon as the attorney general hands down his ruling on the question, the county attorney can prepare the form, have it approved by the freeholders and given to Mr. Calvert.

TOWNSHIP WON'T CONSENT TO SITE

IN PISCATAWAY T'W'P

And Committee Will Fight Against Locating Proposed Joint Plant Anywhere in the District, Former Judge Coddington Says.

The selection of the Darling Farm or any contiguous site for the disposal of the sewerage of Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen by the system under contemplation will meet with the strongest opposition of Piscataway Township. This determination was voiced in a letter received from W. A. Coddington, counsel for that township, read at a meeting of the North Plainfield Council last night. It was in reply to an invitation extended to the councilmen and the members of the Board of Health to attend the Council's meeting and examine maps and plans of the proposed disposal plant, and to state their objections or offer suggestions.

In brief Mr. Coddington stated that on behalf of the Board of Health of Piscataway Township he had been instructed to object to the sewerage system which contemplated having its point of discharge on the Darling Farm and also to any affluent system being entered in the Green brook waters. Further that he reserved the right to give objection to details.

No comment was made on the letter. Resolutions were submitted and carried asking that plans be made and estimates obtained of the proposed collecting sewerage system together with an estimate and annual cost of the maintenance, repairs, operation and supervision of same. Further the Clerk was directed to send to the municipal clerks of Plainfield and Dunellen, copies of a resolution setting forth North Plainfield's contribution towards the cost of constructing and the cost of damages, losses and other liabilities incurred in connection with or resulting from the maintenance, repair and operation of the siphons from the city's disposal works to point of junction with North Plainfield's outfall sewer, and of the force main from Dunellen's pumping station to the joint trunk sewer, and which had been proposed by their sewage committee to be submitted to A. A. Tilney and Frederick A. Mygatt for arbitration.

In speaking of this matter Councilman Buttfield said that there seemed to be a considerable divergence of views on this question of the cost of the connecting lines. Their sewerage committee agreed to its being decided by arbitration, though their understanding was that a distinct agreement was entered into in which there should be paid by each party a share of one-half of the cost of the connecting line of each municipality; the other half being paid by the municipality requiring the same. The city now desired the Borough to share the entire cost instead of one-half; but the Borough was ready to live up to the original agreement.

BOROUGH POLICE TO GET A RAISE

N. P. Council Grants Members of Force An Increase of $5 Per Month.

HAVE BEEN UNDERPAID

Mayor Clark Strongly in Favor of Better Wages for the Marshals and Resolution Is Passed Unanimously—Championed by Mr. Milne.

The policemen of North Plainfield who have served for one year are to get a raise of $5 a month. According to Councilman Milne they are paid less wages than any other town of similar population. In Westfield the commencing salary is $75; in the Borough $65. He moved by resolution that the assistant marshals receive on appointment $65 and after one year's service $70; that the roundsmen receive $75, an increase of $5, and the chief marshal $85, an increase of $5. This increase would mean $300 extra in the year. He was of the opinion that the men considering their hours and work were entitled to more money and he wondered how they lived and supported families on the wages they were getting.

Councilmen Rushmore and Woolston demurred but Mayor Clark was strongly in favor of the additional expenditure which would make for more efficiency, and attract a good class of men. He recounted a recent experience he had when four applicants apepared to fill a vacancy on the police staff. When the nature of the work was explained to them and the hours they would be required to work at night, they declined with thanks; and it was with the greatest difficulty he could get a man to take the position.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

ACCUSED OF STEALING DISMISSED BY COURT

Police Court Judge Tells Rosenthal His Remedy Is In Civil Action.

Morris Burshad, of West Front street, was charged by Louis Rosenthal, of the same locality, with the larceny of an awning. The parties appeared in Police Court this morning before City Judge William G. De Meza. Burshad was represented by J. H. Crane and Rosenthal by W. L. Hetfield.

The evidence showed that Burshad had sold a grocery business, including all the fixtures to Rosenthal, but no mention was made of the awning which Burshad still retained and which the complainant charged belonged to him. The Judge ruled that the case was a civil suit and outside his jurisdiction.

The Board of Health had a complaint filed against Morris Burshad for allowing decayed vegetables to accumulate in his cellar. He was ordered to have it cleared out at once.

Four small boys—Thomas Mendall, John Donnell, Lester Simonds and Michael Gunnell—were arraigned on the complaint of Halsted Compton, of Compton avenue, with stealing apples out of his orchard. They were dismissed with a caution.

JAMES BROWNELEE, JR., IS SOME FISHERMAN

Other Plainfielders Are Having Good Luck at Lake Hopatcong.

Lake Hopatcong, Aug. 3.—The old-time fishermen at the Lake have been casting envious glances during the past few days at James Brownlee, Jr., of Putnam avenue, Plainfield, because of his fine catches he has been making at the popular water resort. The young man in company with his father and brother, Alvah Brownlee, are guests at Camp Ram's Horn and all three have been busy with their rod and line. James, however, despite the fact that he is but twelve years old is a skilled angler and has been hauling in some of the big fellows out of the lake. On Thursday while trolling in company with Philip Jahn, of Scotch Plains, he landed a sixteen inch pickerel after a stiff fight. This was one of the biggest fish of the kind brought to the camp this season. The youthful angler is out at daylight every morning and seldom returns without a good catch of perch or pickerel.

Fishing at the Lake at present continues to be good and many Plainfielders are enjoying the sport. Freholder S. P. T. Wilbur returns to his cottage every day with a fine string of bass and pickerel and Clarence Teel, of Craig place, North Plainfield, who is spending the summer at "Chotola Cottage," continues to uphold his reputation as a disciple of Isak Walton.

Burt Slackbower, the caretaker of Halsey Island, landed a five pound bass Thursday afternoon and followed up his luck yesterday by pulling in a pickerel exactly twenty-one inches long.

The body of an indentified man, apparently about twenty-five years of age, was taken from the Lake early yesterday morning. It was discovered about 300 feet off the Mt. Arlington dock by several plumbers who were on their way to work at "Barnwood" cottage, owned by Floyd T. Woodhull, of Plainfield. The men lifted the body to the dock and it was removed to the morgue at Dover. The death of the man was a mystery as no one has been reported drowned at the Lake this season and the authorities had no report of any one missing. According to the coroner the body had not been in the water more than two weeks and possibly only a few days. The clothing worn was of good material. The man was of medium build, smooth face and had a scar over the left eye. Later it was learned that the man had been at "Camp Six," Nolan's Point. His home was in Paterson.

CODDINGTON TO STAY IN PRISON

HIS TIME UP ON OCT. 1

Wilson Said As Petition Had Been Dismissed by Pardons Board He Couldn't Sanction Prison Inspectors' Action.

Governor Woodrow Wilson has refused to approve the judgment of the State Board of Prison Inspectors in paroling Horace Coddington, of Warren township, who has been serving a sentence of eighteen months in State Prison for the misuse of township funds. His reason for so doing is that the case had recently been considered and dismissed by the Court of Pardons. He said that he felt obliged to adhere to the decision of that body in the absence of any additional reasons for the exercise of clemency. Coddington's time will be up on October 1, and he will now be obliged to remain in State Prison until that date.

Prior to and ever since he was sentenced to a State Prison term, Coddington exerted every effort and influence to escape punishment for the deed of which he was convicted. He appealed from the decision of the court and finally the Court of Appeals sustained the decision of the lower court and Coddington was compelled to go to Trenton. As a result, the former lawyer was disbarred from practicing his profession in New Jersey.

The accusation against Coddington and his trial excited the greatest interest in Warren township as well as throughout Somerset county, and at the time there were not a few who were inclined to the belief that he would escape a State Prison term. Joel Coddington, who was treasurer of Warren township, who was also convicted of a charge of the misuse of township funds, received a State Prison sentence of one year, which he served. The action of Governor Wilson in refusing to interfere with the decision of the Court of Pardons seems to meet with popular approval.

SOCIALISTS ENTITLED TO PARTICIPATE IN PRIMARY

The Socialists of the State having cast more than 15,000 votes in the election last November, they now have the standing of a regular political party under the election laws and will participate in the primary election in September. It will be the first time since the primary law has been in effect that there have been three party ballot boxes at the primary election polls. The average Socialist vote on the Assembly ticket last November was 15,762.

The election law provides that a party must poll at least five per cent. of the total vote to be regarded as a political party within the meaning of the statutes. The Socialists met this requirement in the eight counties of Bergen, Hudson, Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Mercer, Passaic and Union. William B. Killingbeck, of Orange, State secretary of the party, announces that they will have a primary ticket in all these counties.

HEATING PLANT BIDS.

The buildings and grounds committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education has decided to make its report on the bids received for the proposed heating plant for the Somerset School at the Board meeting next Monday night. Until that time it will not be known what recommendation the committee has arrived at. There are two bids and these were considered the other night when John H. Serrell was present to give the committeemen the benefit of his opinion.

HERE AT HOME.

Plainfield Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Plainfield citizen:

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I still endorse Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity and I confirm all I said in their praise when I publicly recommended them some years ago. You are at liberty to continue using my statement, for this excellent medicine cannot be given too much praise. For several years I was annoyed by a distressing backache, together with pains through my kidneys. My head also ached severely and the kidney secretions were in bad shape. I went to several physicians and also took so-called kidney cures, but it did not seem as though I could get relief. As time passed and I did not improve, I became discouraged. When suffering intensely I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and I got a supply at Randolph' Drug Store. As if by magic my pains and aches disappeared and my condition improved in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve the entire credit for restoring me to good health."

MRS. GRACE DIDN'T SHOOT HUSBAND

Tearfully Thanks Jury For "Not Guilty" Verdict.

SHE MADE A FINE WITNESS

Her Dramatic Story of 8,000 Words, Rehearsed For Weeks, Evidently Influenced Jurors — Paralyzed Husband, When Told of Verdict, Says, "She's Guilty as Hell!"

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—The jury found Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace not guilty of the charge of shooting her husband. When the words were spoken by the foreman Mrs. Grace cried, "God bless you, gentlemen." She seemed on the verge of collapse, but her lawyers patted her on the shoulder and urged her to restrain herself, and she soon became calm.

Then the crowd in court cheered the verdict and surged about Mrs. Grace, many of the women weeping. At last the deadly whiteness of Mrs. Grace's face was relieved by a flush, and she began to smile. Then she approached each of the twelve jurors and gave them thanks.

"I feel like kissing and hugging you all," said Mrs. Grace. "I trusted you all the time. I know you would not believe what they said about me."

Followed by a cheering throng, Mrs. Grace soon left the courtroom and went to the offices of her attorneys. There she received a telegram from her sister in Philadelphia to the effect that Mrs. Grace's blind son is ill.

"I will go to little Webster at once," said Mrs. Grace. She intends to return to her old home just as soon as she arranges some business here.

Verdict Was Not a Surprise.

The verdict was generally expected. It was considered that the state failed to sustain the charge that Mrs. Grace had drugged and shot her husband and locked him in to die in order to get $25,000 insurance on his life.

Mrs. Grace's testimony had a tremendous effect on the jury, and the main statements were generally credited, especially those relating to the large sums she had lavished on Grace and his attentions to other women. It developed that Mrs. Grace's remarkable story of the shooting of her husband was a carefully prepared declamation, pruned, amended and polished by her lawyers, and as carefully rehearsed as a dramatic offering by a professional actress. For over two months Mrs. Grace rehearsed the statement until she was letter perfect. There were 8,000 words in the statement, but Mrs. Grace never faltered once during its delivery. The bringing of Grace into court on a stretcher was done by the prosecution in an effort to cause the accused wife to break down, but it failed.

Eugene Grace was not in court. He was taken back to his home in Newnan and there he heard of the verdict.

"I don't care what the jury said," declared the paralyzed husband. "She's as guilty as hell, and she knows it."

Grace announced that he will make a statement about the case and at once sue for divorce.

NATIONS WARNED BY LODGE RESOLUTION

Disapproves of Acquisition of Western Hemisphere Territory.

Washington, Aug. 3.—After a three hours' debate behind closed doors the senate, 51 to 4, adopted the Lodge resolution defining the attitude of the United States in disapproving of the acquisition by foreign interests of any territory on the western hemisphere which might be used as military or naval bases or menace "the approaches" of this country.

The resolution broadens the scope of the Monroe doctrine.

The senators voting against the resolution were Cummins and McCumber, Republicans, and Percy and Stone, Democrats.

An amendment offered by Senator McCumber to take out of the resolution the reference to "corporations or associations which have relations to another government" was defeated.

T. R. READS NEGROES OUT OF THIRD PARTY

Says Southern Delegates Are to Blame For Split.

New York, Aug. 3.—Colonel Roosevelt sent to Julian Harris of Atlanta, Ga., an open letter reading southern negroes out of the National Progressive party. He frankly intrusts the movement to the "best white men of the south."

He attributes the recent split in the Republican party to the dominance of negroes over the party in the southern states. He says it would be "criminal" for the Progressive party to try to build itself up in those states by the same methods which, continued for forty-five years, have made the Republican party "worse than impotent."

"All that could possibly result from such action," says the colonel, "would be to create another little corrupt faction of would be officeholders, of delegates whose expenses to conventions had to be paid and whose votes sometimes had to be bought."

He hopes the negro will get justice eventually, but says justice is impossible "if we are to continue and perpetuate present conditions." He points out that negro delegates from northern states will attend the Chicago convention and says that in those states the Progressive party is "endeavoring to act with fuller recognition of the rights of the colored man than ever the Republican party did."

MANY INJURED AS CARS CRASH ON L

Motorman May Die, Scores Suffer Slight Hurts.

PASSENGERS IMPRISONED

Accident Occurs on Structure Running From Jersey City Heights to Terminal of Lackawanna Ferry in Hoboken—Motorman in Hospital—Brooklyn Woman Among Victims.

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 3.—Two persons were badly hurt and two score more shaken up, bruised and frightened when two trolley cars crashed into each other in the high trestle running from Jersey City Heights to the terminal at the Lackawanna ferry here.

One of the injured, a motorman, may die. He is in St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken. The other painfully injured person, a woman, was attended by an ambulance surgeon and taken by friends to her home, which was said to be in Brooklyn.

The passengers who were in the cars had to be rescued by policemen, who helped them along the trestle to the Willow avenue station.

An Oakland avenue car was coming down the incline and was midway between the Heights and the Willow avenue station when the trolley pole came off the wire and then pulled out. This put out all the lights in the car. The conductor climbed to the top of the car to adjust the pole again. William Marshall, the motorman, descended and went to the rear of his car to aid.

He was standing there when a Summit avenue car run by George Fischer, came spinning down the incline and crashed into the rear of the stalled car, badly crushing Marshall. The rear of the Oakland avenue car and the front of the Summit avenue car were crushed and broken, and the rear and front trucks of both left the rails.

$200 A WORD TO GET EVEN.

Garage Man to Jail For Years Unless He Takes Words Back.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 3.—It cost Perry Weinberg $200 a word to say "I'll get even with you!" when arraigned before Judge Martin. The court had sentenced Weinberg, who had just been convicted of stealing $20 from his employer, Leo Potter, proprietor of a garage, to not more than three years and not less than eighteen months. The man had received a $20 bill to change for his employer, who said he kept the money and spent it having a good time at the sea shore.

As Weinberg was being led away to start his jail term he turned upon Potter and spoke the five words.

Judge Martin called him back. "I overheard your remark, sir, and now in addition to your state's prison sentence I will impose a fine of $1,000. I want to impress upon your mind the fact that you cannot make open threats in this court."

RAID NEAR ASBURY PARK.

Alleged Gamblers Caught and Held For Grand Jury.

Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 3.—County Detective Ellwood Minugh, assisted by Constable William Chandler, Frank Estelle and Joseph Conover of Red Bank, and Detective Jesse Haines of Asbury Park, raided the Apache cottage at Iona Park, on the north side of Deal, and arrested Frank Jones, Harry Williams, Frank McComb and William Doyle, who are charged with conducting a gambling house. The raiders seized a crap layout, roulette wheel and other gambling properties, which with the four prisoners they brought to Red Bank.

Jones, after a hearing before Justice James H. Sickles, was held in $1,000 bail for the grand jury. Samuel Patterson of Asbury Park, his lawyer, signed Jones' bail bond. The other three were also held.

Formally Announces He Will Remain Governor of New Jersey.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 3.—Formal announcement was made by Governor Wilson that he won't resign the governorship of New Jersey during his campaign for the presidency.

The governor has kept his mind open on the question of resigning ever since the Baltimore convention. Leading Democrats in the state have urged him to follow the precedent of Grover Cleveland, who was nominated for the presidency, but continued in the office of governor of New York.

Governor Wilson says he will not interfere in the New York state fight or any others.

Washington's Camp Marked.

Newton, N. J., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Hugh McLaughlin, widow of the Brooklyn Democratic leader, has ordered from a local concern a monument to mark the spot on the road from Hamburg to McAfee where the continental army under George Washington camped when it passed through Sussex county.

Beat him to it.

"Doctor," smiled the ministerial friend who was visiting him, "that was a fine sermon of yours this morning, but there was one passage in it not strictly original. I remember having heard it before, many years ago."

"So?" said Rev. Dr. Fourthly.

"Yes; Henry Ward Beecher to it."—Chicago Tribune.

AN ORDINANCE

to widen Somerset Street from the northwesterly side lines of East and West Front Streets to the city line in Green Brook.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Somerset Street, in the City of Plainfield, from the northwesterly side lines of East and West Front Streets to the city line in Green Brook be widened and laid out so that said Somerset Street shall be of the uniform width of twenty-nine and five-tenths feet on the northeasterly side of the center line and of thirty feet on the southwesterly side of the center line thereof, which said center line is described as follows: Beginning at a point in the center line of said Somerset street, where the same is intersected by the northwesterly side lines of East and West Front Streets as now laid out and opened, said point being distant thirty-two and one one hundredths feet in a northwesterly direction along said center line from an iron bar at the intersection of said center lines of Somerset Street and East and West Front Streets, and running from said first mentioned point in a northwesterly direction a distance of three hundred and three and one-tenth feet to an iron bar in said center line of Somerset Street at its intersection with the city and county line, the center line of Green Brook.

The land to be taken for the widening of said Somerset Street on the northwesterly side of the same includes that part of the property now or formerly of Charles, Herman and Isaac Schwed, the First National Bank, the A. M. Griffen Company and Louis M. French, which lies between the present northeasterly side line of said street as now laid out and opened and a line parallel with the center line of said street and distant therefrom twenty-nine and five-tenths feet in a northeasterly direction.

The land to be taken for said widening on the southwesterly side of said Somerset Street includes all that part of the property now or formerly of Christian Gloekler, Carl Silbert, Louis Kadish, Samuel Fine, Richard Walter, Essie Walter, John J. Heidkoff and Lena M. Hoerster which lies between the present southwesterly side line of said street as now laid out and opened, and a line parallel with the center line of said street and distant therefrom thirty feet in a southwesterly direction.

The land to be taken and the lines of Somerset Street as the same is herein ordered to be widened, are shown on a map on file with the City Clerk entitled "Map Showing Proposed Widening of Somerset Street from Front Street to Green Brook, City of Plainfield, N. The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, is the contributing editor today.

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE AND FOR THE PEOPLE.

"Government By the People and For the People" is the principle which we claim is at the basis of our American liberties. We are well aware, as the Providence Journal assures us, that "pure democracy was not contemplated by the Constitution, for the carefully combined checks and balances of that instrument were designed to keep within limits the expression of the popular will." The people rule but through their representatives. The difficulty is just here, the people's representatives do not perfectly represent them. A certain Chief Justice of Michigan once said, "The greatest knowledge that we have in this world is the common knowledge of the common people." If that is true then, we need a little more of it in the government of the land. There is something in the "carefully combined checks and balances of the Constitution" that clogs the wheels of justice. The people have been and continually are defrauded of their rights, and it should be the purpose of every true hearted citizen to ally himself with any movement that has for its sincere purpose the restoration of those rights.

I have before me a very striking editorial in which these words occur, "A few of us—very few of us have a great deal too much and a very great many of us have too little; millions of citizens are worried about the future and worried about the present, and yet there is in this country wealth enough for all, if intelligently developed and justly distributed." What is the trouble? There are so many men who can be tempted by graft not to represent the people. We are told that the crops promise well this fall but the people will continue to pay top notch prices and the speculator and middle man will make their millions. There is something wrong with a system of government that will permit this condition of things. With all of our boasted liberty, I sometimes question whether the people are as well represented in our land as they are in other countries where there is apparently less freedom.

One man glories in the fact that he is a standpatter, another that he is a progressive. The wisest course for every man to pursue is suggested by a very ancient yet very competent authority, "Prove all things. Hold fast to that which is good." One of the proved things in the life of the nation is that the people must have more of a chance. It belongs to them by right. Take that political button out of the lapel of your coat until you have considered the whole political situation fairly and squarely. Quit reading the paper that represents your political views. Read what the other fellow has to say. Perhaps he may convert you to a more rational view of things. But keep this ideal before you, "For the People." This means everybody.

We honor Abraham Lincoln as the savior of his country. He saved it from injustice and class privilege that was strongly entrenched. The rights and the rule of the "Common People" was the thought continually in his mind. We need to be possessed of that same spirit. If my memory serves me it was he who said, "The Lord must have loved the common people for he made so many of them." Lincoln not only loved them but he believed in them, for he said, "You can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time."

We are all interested in the battle that is on in New York city—The People vs. "the System"—and "the system" is getting the worst of it. May the fighting district attorney of New York be preserved to win his fight and cleanse this augean stable of police graft that has preyed on the people of New York for years.

In the middle ages the Common People were servants, vassals of the feudal lord. They fought his battles and tilled his soil. They did not know any better. There are some barons today who would lord it over their servants today, but the people are getting wiser. Let us have warships and plenty of them but to preserve peace, but let the dominant thought of our political activity be government "by the people and for the people," and we can do more for the people. This city can do more for them. Some of us are going to take a needed rest this summer but some are going to stay right here. Why should we not make our own city more attractive? I have often wondered why some wealthy and public spirited citizens never bought the one lake we have, Tier's Pond, beautify it, erect on its banks a stand where concerts for the people could be given during the summer. That is out of the question now, but why can we not have summer music for the people in our city park?

PLAINFELD YOUTHS AT CAMP WAWAYANDA

Local Boys Ae Now Enjoying Outdoor Life at Y. M. C. A. Summer Camp.

A letter received from the Plainfield campers at the Jersey Boys' camp on Lake Wawayanda says that the third section group arrived there safely and are all now well accustomed to the daily camp routine. The writer states that the fishing in the lake which surrounds the camp has been the best in years and several record bass and pickerel have been captured. The athletic meet of the third section will be held on Monday and as Plainfield now has a large number of representatives in camp the local athletes hope to get into the running for the silver trophy offered for the highest individual association score, by cleaning up on a number of the events scheduled. Orange is now in the lead with a good margin separating it from the nearest contestant, but there are two more meets to be held which will both count in the point score and as Orange has not as many campers at the lake in this section as Plainfield has, the local boys are hopeful of surpassing the Orangers' score.

A log cabin is in the course of erection on Dudley Island, which adjoins the island the camp is on. The newly erected building will be built as a memoriam to the late Sumner F. Dudley, who was the originator of the Jersey Boys' camp and will be used as a camping out house by the campers. Several new boats have been donated to the camp this season by old campers and the fleet now numbers nearly forty. A number of new tents have been put up to accommodate the 130 boys who attend the camp in every one of the four sections.

C. William Bingeman, of the Plainfield association, is active in every branch of the camp work in his official capacity as associate camp director. Charles R. Scott, the camp director, has been compelled to be away from the tented colony more or less during the past season and during his absence Mr. Bingeman has entire charge of the camp work. Joseph Sattells, of this city, won the camp quoit championship for the first section and if he succeeds in defeating the champion of the other four sections he will come into permanent possession of the handsome silver loving cup which is awarded to the winner of three successive years. Sattells has landed it for two seasons and this year will complete his trials for the trophy.

Plainfield has been unusually successful in aquatics this season and this has come more or less as a surprise to the other associations as the delegation from this city has never before ranked among the leaders in this line of sport. William Wheelan, of this city, took the silver medal offered for the swimmer scoring the highest number of individual points in competition during the section section. He made a clean sweep in all of the events of the 100 pound class winning the dive for form, twenty-five yard swim and the fifty yard swim.

FUNERAL OF FANK X. SPISSELL.

The funeral service of Frank Xavier Spissell, the vaudeville actor who died here early in the week, following his return from Chicago, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the late home, 107 Johnston avenue, and was largely attended, especially by theatrical friends of the dead man. Rev. John G. Currier, curate of Grace church, officiated at the service. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were John Quail, Robert Knight and Richard Conrad, who were associated with Mr. Spissell in his act; Irving Steffin, an intimate friend and William Ellis and Robert McNabb, neighbors.

A Blow to Carlyle.

When the first volume of Carlyle's masterpiece, "The French Revolution," was finished, it was sent to his great friend, John Stuart Mill, for him to read, but by some extraordinary accident Mill's servant used the manuscript to light the fire.

Carlyle had kept no notes and could scarcely recall a sentence of what he had written. Nevertheless he set to work again, although thoroughly disheartened, and after two more years of hard and laborious work the manuscript was for the second time completed.

Tam o' Shanter's Inn.

Every visitor to Ayr, Scotland, should see the little Tam o' Shanter inn, with its simple front and great lamp hanging over the sidewalk. Here opened the scene which Robert Burns has immortalized in his poem "Tam o' Shanter." Tam had spent a very convivial evening at the inn, and when he finally started home on his gray mare, Meg, he was in a rather foggy frame of mind. A terrific storm was raging, and on the way he was caught by ghosts, who ended his earthly career.

Too Sensible to Give Up.

"Will you promise," she anxiously asked, "not to do anything desperate if I say it can never be?"

"Yes," he replied. "I think a man's a fool who goes to the bad because a girl refuses to love him."

"Then I will be yours."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

BREAKFAST ROLLS.

NICE light rolls served with coffee, eggs and fruit make a breakfast good enough for any one. Its lightness and daintiness adapt it to warm weather needs when once a day is often enough to eat meat.

Recipes for rolls are various and for the use of the housewife who has no preference several are given here. Parker House rolls are almost universally popular.

Favorite Kinds.

Parker House Rolls.—With two quarts sifted flour, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of sugar and a little salt well worked together, make a sponge with warm milk or warm water and add one dissolved yeast cake. When it is light add flour and mold for twenty minutes and let it rise again. Roll it out, cut into thin cakes, butter the tops, fold them half over, set to rise again and bake in a hot oven. The sponge can be set to rise over night when wanted for breakfast.

New England Rolls.—To two pounds of flour put a salt spoonful of salt, a gill of yeast and as much water as will make a stiff batter. Stir this till it is very smooth and let it stand covered before the fire to rise, for two hours. Add as much more flour to it, which should previously have been rubbed down with the butter you would put into the rolls. Work the dough very smooth, divide it, mold it into rolls and bake on tins.

Wholesome Hot Bread.

Graham Rolls.—Take one pint of Graham flour, a pint of white flour, a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lard, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and three-quarters of a pint of milk.

Sift together the Graham flour, salt and powder, rub in the lard cold, add the milk and mix the whole into a smooth dough that can be handled, but is not too soft. Flour the board, turn it out and form into rolls the shape and size of large fingers. Lay them on baking sheet so they will not touch one another. Wash their surfaces with a soft brush dipped in milk to glaze them. Bake in hot oven from ten to twelve minutes.

French Rolls.

French Rolls.—Take two quarts of sifted flour, a lump of lard about the size of an egg, one a little larger of butter and stir into the flour. When well stirred add lukewarm water or, preferably, milk and water, to mix; add a little salt, half a teacupful of homemade yeast or three tablespoonfuls of baker's yeast. Mix in the evening as for bread and let rise. In the morning shape them with the hand on the baking board and let rise ten or fifteen minutes after puttign them in the pans, then bake. Fifteen minutes will suffice if the oven is sufficiently heated.

For the Children

Little Lady Jane Butler, Youthful Tennis Expert.

The young tennis player here pictured with racket lowered is Lady Jane Butler of England. That is rather a high sounding name for such a plain looking, everyday tennis girl. She looks very much as do our own young tennis players, and if it were not for her title we might think her just Mary Smith or Sally Jones of any state in the Union. Titles are well enough, we suppose, in the old countries, but here in our own land we take people, young and old, for just what they are regardless of any claims they may have because of birth or social position.

Strength of the Beetle.

If asked to name the strongest animals most persons begin with the largest, the elephant, and continue with oxen, horses, etc. This is, of course, correct in so far as their total horsepower is concerned, says the London Globe.

But for real strength, proportioned to the size and weight of the animal, one must go to the insect world. Compared with insects, the strength of almost any large animal, and especially of man, is absurd.

A man is considered strong if he can drag a mass weighing three or four times as much as himself, but the beetle will walk with 500 times his own weight. If a man were placed under a wooden box with five times his own weight on top to hold it down he would remain there indefinitely.

An Odd Chair.

A Mr. Curtis, who lived in the reign of Queen Victoria, invented an acoustic chair, a high backed library one, which would enable the person sitting in it to hear, no matter how deaf he might be. The chair had two barrels to fit each ear, but there was no need of a mouthpiece for the talker. Perforated plates collected the sounds of the room into a vase, and from this they were carried into the ears of any one seated in the "comfy" chair. Tubes could be attached to the barrels, connecting other rooms. Thus a deaf person could do even more than a well hearing one, for he could hear sounds from the rest of the house.

Pull—A Game.

A jolly romping game for young boys and girls is played in this way: Roll back the rug from the center of the floor and on the boards, make a small square outlined with chalk. All then join hands in a circle around it. The music starts up and the children begin to dance around the square. As they dance they try to draw some member of the circle into the square. Any one stepping inside the chalk boundaries is out of the game, which continues until but one player is left.

WESTFIELD COUPLE "ELOPE" AT HOME CHURCH

Westfield, Aug. 3.—The wedding of Miss Anna V. Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Donnelly, of Clark street, and Peter J. Walsh, of North avenue, took place at the Holy Trinity church on Wednesday night. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Byer. Only a sister of the bride, Miss Mary Donnelly, and a nephew of the bridegroom were present. The couple were married without the knowledge of the bride's parents, having left the house on the pretense of going on an automobile ride. They had been engaged for some time but the wedding was not to take place until October. The parents of the bride were angered at her actions when informed of the wedding by the bride's sister. They said they did not object to the marriage but had wanted to attend the wedding themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have gone to Springfield, where Mr. Walsh has taken charge of a hotel which he recently purchased.

HALTED THE FIGHT.

A TALE OF OLD TIME POLITICS

Colonel Fitzhugh's Chivalry In Scoring Both Whigs and Democrats Won Him a Challenge, and the Weapons He Selected Averted the Meeting.

In a book long out of print a contributor to the New York Sun has found a tale of old Maryland politics which shows that, the knight of La Mancha to the contrary notwithstanding, an almost extravagant ideal of chivalrous conduct is not incompatible with a keen sense of humor.

Colonel Fitzhugh of Calvert county was a pattern of generosity and nobility of character. He was once a candidate for office. In those days it was the custom for rival candidates to stump the county together and speak from the same platform.

On a certain occasion Colonel Fitzhugh and his opponent were to speak in joint debate. When the day came his rival did not appear. The people assembled and grew impatient. Finally Colonel Fitzhugh, taking out his big watch and glancing at it, got up and delivered his speech. In it he took all the liberties that a gentleman of the Democratic party might take with Whig principles and closed amid prolonged cheers.

As he was concluding he received a message that the rival candidate was critically ill. Colonel Fitzhugh looked round for a representative of the Whig party who might take the place of the sick man, but could not discover one.

Finally the colonel rose again with the announcement that he believed in fair play. He said that as his opponent could not be there to reply to the arguments that he himself had advanced and as there was nobody of his political faith to take his place he would himself deliver a speech for the sick man. He added that he would keep his watch open before him to see that he gave just as much time to his opponent's cause as he had given to his own.

He then began. If he had scored the Whigs he now scarified the Democrats. If the Whigs had been men of broken promises, of smirched reputations, tricksters and rogues, the Democrats were now liars, thieves and murderers.

From the Whig point of view the address was masterly. But among his own partisans there were some who refused to see that the colonel was doing anything chivalrous and who were unable to appreciate the real humor of the situation.

One Democrat in particular, whose name tradition has not handed down, was much offended. The next morning he sent his seconds to the colonel with a challenge. As no explanation would satisfy him, the colonel reluctantly named his seconds, who accepted the challenge. The Spout—a stream of water that gushed from the side of a hill on St. Leonard's creek—was selected as the place of the duel. The time appointed was the following morning at 8 o'clock.

When the challenger and his seconds rode up to the Spout a little before 8 o'clock they found the colonel and his seconds, but could see nothing that looked like weapons of any kind. On the bench near the Spout, however, there was a big iron kettle steaming away over a fire that was being industriously fed with cordwood by two of the colonel's darkies.

"Where are the weapons?" demanded one of the challenger's seconds.

"Colonel Fitzhugh, as the challenged party, has the right to select the weapons," was the reply. "They will be produced at the proper time."

When the seconds agreed that the time for the duel had come Colonel Fitzhugh approached the pot, holding his hands behind him. The challenger, advancing in turn, demanded to know what the weapons were to be.

"Mr. Blank," said the colonel, "the ammunition is in the pot. The weapons are behind my back. This pot contains boiling pea soup. Here are two ladles. I propose to give you one of them, and I will keep the other. I propose that you take your stand on the other side of the pot and that we fling hot pea soup at each other until one or the other has had enough."

"But this is ridiculous, sir, ridiculous!" exclaimed the other.

"Not more ridiculous, sir," gently remonstrated Colonel Fitzhugh, "than your quarrel with me!"

The other saw the point, and they shook hands.

Father Was Neglected.

At first David did not like to have his teeth brushed. His father said to him one evening when the three-year-old struggled more than usual against the sanitary performance of his mother:

"David, I wish my mamma had brushed my teeth when I was a little boy. I would not have lost any then."

"Don't you wish your mamma had brushed your hair?" was David's revengeful reply, with a look toward papa's bald head.—Exchange.

A Delicate Compliment.

"My new gown received a very sincere compliment the other day."

"How was that?"

"The proprietor of a restaurant I went into asked me to sit near the window; said it would lend tone to his place."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

August 12 is the day set for the hoisting of the 1911 pennants by the Giants at the Polo Grounds. The Cardinals will be the attraction there on that day.

Jack Johnson, champion pugilist, will engage in a race in his big car against an airship driven by L. Arthur Headon, the first and said to be the only negro aviator in the world, at Hawthorne racetrack, Chicago, Sunday afternoon. Johnson announced last night that he had been told that his weight was not seriously against him and that he was considering taking up aviation himself.

"Jim" Thorpe, the champion all around athlete of the world, is said to have signed a contract with the Pirates.

Everybody is laughing at Horace Fogel's indictment of the "spitball" recently published. His reference to the disease germs and microbes forms the big scream.

Umpire Silk O'Loughlin is some stickler for discipline. The other day he sent a small batboy to Siberia because the youngster was frolicking about the field.

Eppa Rixey, the Georgia cracker who horned into "big time" direct from the campus at $900 a month, has set a salary precedent for other callow college players. Several clubs were bidding for him and he picked out the best proposition.

The high cost of living is still up in the air, as may be noted from press despatches that the Harrisburg (Pa.) club of the Tri-State League purchased a 20-year-old pitcher for $2,000. It has been thought that the whole team, or the entire league for that matter, could have been purchased for that price.

Malcolm, the University of Vermont's star twirler, has refused an offer from the St. Louis Cardinals. He will go back to his dormitory in the fall.

Despite denials on the part of Garry Herrmann, the supports under the managerial job of Hank O'Day appear to be wabbling. The rumor that O'Day will not lead the Reds next year seems to be gaining strength.

SCHEDULE OF GAMES.

The following games will be played in the Parker Field Baseball League during the coming week: Monday, Athletics vs. Yankees, 9:30; Fordham vs. Yale, 2:30; Tuesday, Pirates vs. Cubs, 9:30; Wednesday, Yankees vs. Giants, 9:30; Fordham vs. Harvard, 9:30; Princeton vs. Fordham, 2:30; Thursday, Princeton vs. Yale, 2:30; Friday, Giants vs. Cubs, 9:30; Fordham vs. Harvard, 9:30; Saturday, Harvard vs. Yale, 9:30.

ADAMS BOYS HAVE GREAT RECEPTION

Former Local Y. M. C. A. Stars Returned from Olympic Games Yesterday.

With a laurel wreath, four medals and enthusiastic praise for Swedish hospitality and Swedish athletics, the two Adams brothers returned yesterday from the Olympic games. These two world famous athletes will be remembered by many Plainfielders as players on the Y. M. C. A. baseball team, in this city two years ago. This was when the local association had one of the best baseball teams in the State and the Adams boys, desiring to sign up with some fast amateur team that would not endanger their amateur standing, came to Plainfield and entered the fold of George L. Listman, who was at that time coaching the local nine.

Platt Adams was a remarkable long distance hitter and his work with the willow made him the leading attraction in the games he played at Crescent Oval. Home runs and three baggers were a scarce thing on the local baseball diamond in those days and when Platt pounded out a circuit clout on his first appearance he was hailed as a hero.

In the standing broad, Platt carried off second honors, and his brother, third.

"There's only one thing we couldn't get in Sweden," said Platt to a reporter at his home in Newark yesterday. "And that was a shoe shine.

"The Swedes don't know what a polished shoe looks like. You put your shoes outside the door and some imp of darkness takes them away, smears grease over them and brings them back.

"We were treated royally by the Swedes. All Stockholm was open to us. After the events had been run off American tourists would stop us on the street and implore us to let them take us somewhere or give us something.

"'Are you hungry? Let's have dinner together,' they'd say. And we would tell them that we managed to get along fairly well on about twelve meals a day. Then they would try to inflict on us a Swedish cocktail that tasted like a cottonseed imitation of olive oil."

The brothers finished next to each other in the standing high and the standing broad. They sung together in the Olympiad Quartet and they played together in the baseball game between the East and West.

"We broke into athletics while we were going to the Summer Avenue School, in Newark," said Platt. "I saw somewhere a statement that the Olympic games were won on the playgrounds of America. That's true, in our case, anyway. After we left High School we joined the New York A. C."

FISHING NOTES.

One of the best fishing trips booked for tomorrow is the Titania for Long Beach. This is special trip and the boat leaves from the Battery, New York, at 6 a. m. The fare is $1.25, which includes bait.

Gloom and despair is still in the air about the fishing stations of Morgan's Station, Perth Amboy, Keyport, Tottenville, Keansburg and Prince's Bay. The fish fail to appear and the season is fast moving along. The writer was on New York Bay Thursday night and several boats anchored just below Swinburne Island were filled with men that were catching large weakfish. Bluefish never were so scarce, but they may yet come in the bays.

The Raunt, Canarsie, Broad Channel and Ruffle Bar Channel are good places for catching weakfish. Reports from Joe Sehy's Hotel at the Raunt show that some of the launches with four men brought in thirty-five to forty fish last week. Several of the fishermen used shedder crabs instead of shrimp and did very well.

There is a crowd of Down Neck, Newark, fishermen that had better keep away from Forked river in the future if they value their hides. They didn't do anything but carry away about a ton of fish, as one of the natives put it. "One man in the party was wishing he had his truck there so that he could bring home a good load."

If you are fishing for fluke and run short of bait cut a fluke up and try that. Weakfish will bite on weakfish belly, but a bluefish will not be a cannibal no matter how fancy you make up the bait. Eels will bite anything from a worm to crabs, but the best bait is clams.

The Newark fishing boat Frances Etta, will leave from the foot of Mott street, Newark, tomorrow morning at 6:30. The Frances Etta has been running all summer and every angler that has been out on it speaks highly of the boat and the management. Bait is furnished with the tickets and plenty of fish can be caught.

The reports from the fishing stations last week show that the fishing at Sewaren is equal to any and better than many. The red buoy and the cinder beds still remain the favorite fishing grounds, and by using chum a few fish can be caught. Those that use killies can catch quite a few killies, and worms are sure bait for the big eels that abound there. The poor weakfishing is really forgotten at Sewaren by the number of other fish caught.

BRAVE WOMAN DIVES TO SAVE TWO CHILDREN

Mrs. Henry West, of 18 Springfield avenue, ran from her home, dove into the deep water of the Rahway River near the Union avenue dam and rescued little Flossie Frazer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Frazer, of 213 Union avenue, and Georgie Hansel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hansel, of 5 Claremont place, who were struggling in eight feet of water.

GREATEST WIRELESS PLANT FOR BELMAR

Belmar, Aug. 3.—Title was passed Thursday to land at Belmar to be used for a wireless station for sending messages across the Atlantic. The purchase includes 600 acres on Shark River. Surveys and preliminary operations will begin at once. The work of constructing the aerials and buildings will not be commenced until December 1.

The station will be the largest in America and probably in the world; the land will cost $140,000. The station to be located there will cost between $500,000 and $700,000. It will be in operation by June 1, 1913.

JERSEY JUDGES AND THEIR HOBBIES

Little Paragraphs About Those Who Finally Determine What Laws Mean.

Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker, head of the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals, takes his diversion from his duties on the bench in horse back riding, of which he is very fond. Another of his diversions is defending his contention that Mahlon Stacy, one of his ancestors, was the real founder of Trenton, and not Colonel Trent, after whom the city was named. All the other members of the Errors Court have noticeable characteristics.

Chief Justice William S. Gummere is fond of outdoor sports and dogs. He is a skillful golf player and nearly every year goes on a hunting trip in North Carolina. He is a fine shot.

Justice Charles C. Garrison, who is the dean of the court, having served on the bench since 1888, is a skillful caricaturist. It is one of his diversions to sketch the other members of the court, prominent lawyers who frequent the State House and other notables. Some of his caricatures of his colleagues on the bench are quite famous.

Justice Francis J. Swayze is a noted scholar in the classics, and reads Greek and French readily.

Justice James J. Bergen is a great stickler for the niceties of law and the dignity of the court. He is noted for still maintaining a law office in Somerville and observing regular office hours.

Justice Charles W. Parker is a great lover of architecture, engineering and other mechanical arts. He is learned in them, as well as the law, and sometimes puts this knowledge to practical use. For example, he designed the bookcase which a year or two ago was constructed in the court room at the State House.

Justice Willard P. Voorhees delights in automobiling. He is also noted for his social qualities and his hospitable home in New Brunswick.

Justice James F. Minturn is interested in the classics and is an excellent scholar in German. His court opinions are noted for his frequent use of Latin phrases.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard is a great student and is fond of music. Also, he delights in athletic sports.

Justice Samuel Kalisch is very fond of flowers. He is hardly ever seen in public without a button-hole bouquet, usually of violets. When court is sitting he wears his boutenniere to the conference room where he removes it to don his black robe of office. When he emerges from the conference room after court has adjourned the flowers are again pinned on his coat.

Judge John W. Bogert resides at Hohokus, Bergen county, not far from the New York State line, and his home is more remote from the State House than that of any other member of the court. To reach the Capitol on court days in time for the court opening he has to leave home at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. He ranks next to Justice Garrison in length of service on the bench.

Judge Garret D. W. Vroom is exceedingly fond of roses and has in his garden near the State House one of the finest collections of rose bushes in the country. There are thousands of varieties, many of them imported from abroad. During the rose season he is seldom seen without a rose pinned on his coat.

Judge William H. Vredenburgh is a specialist in railroad taxation, and is one of three sons of the late Peter Vredenburgh, all of whom were lawyers.

Judge Joseph W. Congdon wears silk neckties manufactured in his own silk mill at Paterson and is partial to white socks.

Judge John J. White is noted as a fine dresser. He is wealthy and is one of the owners of the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel in Atlantic City.

Judge John J. Tracy is the youngest member of the court.

JUDGE SEEKS TO HAVE YOUNG BOY DEPORTED

Elizabeth, Aug. 3.—Justyn Furdyk, 14 years old, of Union, may be deported, although Judge Atwater sitting in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday sentenced the boy to two months in the county jail for larceny. The boy pleaded guilty to the charge.

He has been in this country only three months, but the immigration authorities said he could not be deported unless it could be proved that he was convicted of a crime in the country from which he came.

KENDALL WILL REMAIN.

Trenton, Aug. 3.—Officials of the State Board of Education refused yesterday to discuss the report in a New York morning newspaper that Dr. Calvin N. Kendall was contemplating resigning as State commissioner of education, which pays $10,000 a year, and that he was seeking to become superintendent of the public schools of Detroit, Mich. From what could be learned, however, it is thought that the rumor is not to be credited.

REGATTA IS PLANNED.

Cranford, Aug. 3.—The second annual regatta of the Field and River Club will be held on the Rahway River on Labor Day afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock. The program will comprise canoe races for singles, doubles and fours, a 100-yard swim, hurry-scurry race and tilting matches. Prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded in each event, and a cup to the club scoring the largest number of points.

TRAIL SLAYERS TO MOUNTAIN TOWNS

DO REAL DETECTIVE WORK

Twenty Central Office Men, Disguised as Farm Hands, Milk Cows in the Catskills—"Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon Unconsciously Gave Valuable Leads.

New York, Aug. 3.—"'Lefty Louie' and 'Gyp the Blood' are surrounded in their hiding place in the Catskills by twenty central office men and a force of deputy sheriffs. The gunmen are under cover less than 100 miles from New York. We believe that they will be under arrest before the day is over."

That statement was made in the office of Police Commissioner Waldo. The commissioner had received word from the detectives, who have been pitching hay and milking the cows of Delaware and Ulster counties while they waited for the murderers of Herman to slip into the sunlight from their mountain retreats. Close mouthed as usual, both the commissioner and Deputy Commissioner Dougherty were obviously elated over the flash from the Catskills. Detectives Cassassa and McKenna were rushed north on a West Shore train. Dougherty phoned instructions to the police chiefs of the mountain towns. Headquarters was awake and bustling.

It was taken as a fact that the territory around which the central office men and the deputy sheriffs have draw a cordon is the southwest end of Delaware county and the northwest corner of Ulster county—the retreat in which "Whitey" Lewis, who was brought here and held for murder, was located by Detective James F. Harvey, who posed as a farm hand, while Lewis was pretending to be a chauffeur out of work.

Has Been Haven For Gamblers.

It is a pleasant mountain country and it has been for years the resort of Manhattan gamblers and gangsters who spent their money there in the summer months. A slip of the tongue by Harry Vallon, an admission from "Bridgie" Webber and the incautiousness of the friends of the men wanted for murder transferred the hunt from New York to the mountains. Since Sunday, July 18, the pick of Dougherty's detectives have been searching this territory. Late on Thursday afternoon a short, fat man with bright blue eyes, a shock of light hair and a pleasant smile was on his way from a boarding house in Fleischmans to the Delaware and Western railroad station. A farm hand, who had been perched on a rail fence, slid to the road, strolled up to the fat man and grabbed him by the shoulder. The stout person pulled away with a curse.

"What's the matter with you, you rube?" he said.

The farmhand removed the big straw hat that had been pulled well down over his face.

"Hello, 'Whitey,'" he said amiably. "Going to New York?"

"Good night," said the fat man. "I might have known it. You're Detective Harvey, aren't you? I know your face."

The capture of "Whitey" Lewis, whose real name is Frank Seidenshue, although he calls himself usually Frank Mueller, and occasionally for business purposes takes the names of Jacob Seigel, or "Whitey" Jack, was accomplished by the same methods that are being used to bring about the arrest of Louis Rosenzweig, "Lefty" Louie, and Harry Horowitz, "Gyp the Blood."

From the time the detectives found out that three of the four men accused of shooting Rosenthal had fled to the mountain country the best men that Dougherty could lay hands on were sent there to tan their faces and callous their hands at farm work.

"Here was a situation," said Dougherty, "where the flat footed cop was of no use."

Dougherty Senses a Clew.

The story of Lewis' arrest goes back to the first examination of "Bridgie" Webber, shortly after Rosenthal was murdered. The little gambler, unconscious of its value, confided to Dougherty that his brother ran a boarding house at Fallsburg. Without sensing what the deputy commissioner was driving at, Webber went on to tell how he and Vallon and others of their mixed set usually spent the trying weather of the summer months in the cool and quiet little towns of the Catskills—Big Indian, Fleischmans, Griffin Corners and other villages.

When Harry Vallon twirled his walking stick into police headquarters and sat down some hours later for a chat with the deputy commissioner, he let out that his wife was at Big Indian. Prying into the gossip of gamblers and gangsters, Dougherty discovered that hardly a man mentioned in connection with the Rosenthal murder was not familiar with these Catskill villages.

On the Sunday after the killing of Rosenthal fifteen central office men were sent up the West Shore and put to work with Kingston as a general base. They shed their city clothes, discarded as many of their sleuth marks as possible and dressed themselves to look like farm hands or itinerant laborers. From day to day singly or in pairs they drifted along the little railroad lines in Delaware and Greene and Ulster counties. They spied at the depots, caught the gossip of village stores and wherever the prospect seemed likely took a job as a hired hand. In a few days they began to get interesting news.

Harvey Locates His Quarry.

Detective Harvey, who had gone to Fleischmanns, found out several days ago that there was a stranger in town who said that he was a chauffeur out of a job. As quietly as possible, feigning the curiosity of a native, the central office man obtained a description of the jobless chauffeur. The description tallied nicely with the appearance of "Whitey" Lewis, the Zelig gang fighter, who was an old acquaintance of Harvey's. The detective found out at what boarding house "Whitey" Lewis was stopping and managed to get a peek at him. Harvey rubbed his hands in delight. He had located his man. That was three days before he made the arrest.

He could have clapped his hand on Lewis' shoulder that moment, but that wasn't part of the game as the central office men were playing at it. He hoped that some of "Whitey's" friends would drop in at Fleischmanns to pay him a call and "Whitey" himself would make a little excursion that would lead the detective to "Gyp the Blood" or "Lefty Louie." But "Whitey" Lewis was leading a strictly retired life. He seldom moved out of his boarding house and then only after dark. Harvey, loafing along the country roads, never let Lewis entirely out of his sight except for a few hours in the night.

All of this time the central office man was leathering his face and hardening his hands pitching hay for a farmer. After the hay pitching was over and the cows had been milked—new business for a central office man—and the other chores had been finished Harvey made sure that Lewis had gone to bed. He was up every morning a little after daylight. On no night did he get more than four hours' sleep.

On Thursday afternoon Harvey trailed Lewis to the depot and found that Lewis had bought a ticket for New York. All hope of being led to the other murderers had vanished. So Harvey pulled the old straw hat down over his face, took a hitch in his galluses and laid hands on the gun man.

Thrown From Her Auto and Bruised. Chauffeur's Leg Broken.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 3.—Driving her small automobile toward Bailey's Beach, Miss Alice Drexel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel, ran into a delivery automobile at Bellevue and Wheatland avenues. The shock sent the small machine backward against the hedge of the Thayer villa, and Miss Drexel, her maid and the chauffeur, who was seated on the running board, were thrown out on the lawn.

The chauffeur was picked up with a broken leg. Miss Drexel was only bruised, and her maid was not seriously hurt.

WORK ON GIGANTIC DELAYED

New Liner Will Conform to Lord Mersey's Recommendations.

Belfast, Aug. 3.—Ship builders said that the decision of the White Star directors to alter the plans for the steamship Gigantic, now in course of construction here, in conformity with Lord Mersey's suggestions would delay work on the new liner considerably.

In particular the plans will have to be radically modified to allow for extra bulkheads.

WOMEN SPEAK FROM MOTORCAR

Suffragist Orators Catch Attention of Saturday Night Crowd On Front Street.

LOCAL LEAGUE PLEASED

Encouraged By the Interest the Crowd Manifested In the Speeches of Mrs. Laddey and Miss Kraft—Latter's Address Was Witty.

The first of the open-air suffrage meetings held on Saturday night at Front street and Madison avenue, was very encouraging to the local men and women interested in making known to those now indifferent to the subject the advantages to be gained by giving the vote to women. The meeting was under the management of the New Jersey State Equal Suffrage League. The speakers were Mrs. Clara Laddey, president of the State League, and Miss Kraft, of New York, who spoke from an automobile decorated with flags of the State Equal Suffrage League and the Men's League for Equal Suffrage. Several other automobiles held some of the officers and active workers of the local league.

Mrs. Laddey introduced Miss Kraft, who held the attention of a large and interested audience by her earnestness and convincing logic.

Her epsach which was often relieved by flashes of wit and telling anecdote dealt with the wide-spread growth of the movement for Woman's Suffrage and the number of countries that have already given the vote to women in whole or in part. She reminded her hearers that in six States of this country the women vote just as the men do.

She made a special point of the fact that in this country boys and girls receive the same education in school and many of them in college. They have therefore a training that fits the young women quite as well as the young men for intelligent political action.

Miss Kraft's speech was received with attention and punctuated with applause. Even the opponents of Woman's Suffrage had to confess that men who speak in the open-air in our political campaign seldom show the intelligence and ready wit and the ready command of language which Miss Kraft and her colleagues displayed on Saturday night.

Mrs. Laddey followed Miss Kraft with a short address telling several amusing stories to illustrate her points. She showed how the privilege of voting had not interfered with the duties of a mother and a housewife and pointed out the undeniable fact that most of those women zealous for the suffrage are proud mothers, housekeepers and homemakers and that the same intelligence that makes them clever at domestic duties, rouses them to a sense of political responsibility.

She concluded by calling for a vote on the suffrage question. Those in favor were asked to say "Aye," and the street echoed with an enthusiastic response. When those opposed were called upon, one or two timid "No's" were heard. Mrs. Laddey promptly challenged the opponents to state the reasons for their opposition, but none of the dissenters had the courage to meet this quick-witted woman in debate.

The meeting was certainly a great success. A lively business was done in distributing suffrage literature.

FUNERAL OF C. G. ROSS.

The funeral service of Charles G. Ross was held at the late home on Berckman street, yesterday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Lewis Bond, of this city, officiated. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends. The burial was in the North Plainfield cemetery, and the pall-bearers, school friends of the departed, were David Hand, William Hand, Gilbert Ryno, David Ryno, William Thoms and Charles Thoms.

BOY THIEF HELD.

William Stenzenberger, 14 years old, of 343 Watchung avenue, was held in $100 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury, on a charge of breaking into Peter Zimmerman's grocery store on Watchung avenue on Saturday night, and stealing the sum of $8. The lad admitted his guilt and said the amount he had taken was $6.80.

BAPTIZED AN INFANT.

Adria Margaret, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Chargois, of Elm place, was baptized yesterday morning at St. Peter's Lutheran church, Rev. Conrad Blunk, the pastor, officiating. Alfred Jordan and Mrs. E. Wersing were the sponsors. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends.

ENGINEER FRIGHTENS CENTRAL PASSENGERS

Sudden Start After Stop at North Avenue Jars Many and Hurts One.

The stopping and sudden starting of the 8:35 o'clock train at the North Avenue station, last night, caused a semi-panic among the large number of passengers aboard, not a few of whom suffered from bruises, minor injuries and shock. The whole thing was over in a few minutes, but there was great excitement while it lasted. No one attempted to explain the cause for the shakeup, but some of the passengers remarked afterward that several times on the way out from New York the train had run past the stations and had to back up to let passengers off.

According to passengers the train upon reaching the North Avenue station came to a full stop, and those who intended getting off here were standing in the aisle. Suddenly the train started with a jerk and those standing were thrown down, many persons falling on top of one another.

Among those injured was Miss Lillian Huelson, of West Sixth street, stenographer for Counsellor V. W. Nash, Jr., of Park avenue. With the sudden jolting of the train she grabbed for a seat to steady herself, and a finger of the right hand was crushed. A man was thrown against Miss Huelson's mother, while her father knocked someone over. Mrs. Thomas J. Lynch, of East Fifth street, was also thrown down. She and Mrs. Huelson were among the women passengers who suffered from shock.

After the train came to a stop a second time, it is said, the conductor and trainmen got busy and secured the names of a number of passengers. It was said last night that a full investigation would be made by the railroad.

There will be a meeting of the congregation of the German Reformed church, in conjunction with the consistory meeting, on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, in the church on Craig place and Duer street to elect a pastor to take the place of Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, who left the German Reformed church in June to take the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Chazy, N. Y. There are two candidates for the vacancy. They are Rev. Henry Unglaub, of Newark, and Rev. Dr. George A. Hauser, of Warrenville, a former pastor of this church.

At present there are many conflicting opinions among the members as to who should be elected, each candidate having strong supporters. There is also a number of the congregation who do not desire a permanent pastor but prefer to have visiting pastors each Sunday.

MOOSE TALK OF BACKING FOWLER

Gossip of Delegates at Chicago Touches Fifth District Congress Campaign.

E. A. KNAPP FOR HIM

New Jersey Delegates Full of Vim and Enthusiasm—Mayor Moy Expected to Join Jersey Supporters In Convention City Today.

(By Leslie R. Fort.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 5.—Charles N. Fowler, if the gossip of the New Jersey delegates to the Chicago Progressive convention counts for anything, may receive strong support from the new party men for Congress in the Fifth New Jersey district. Now it is argued that Mr. Fowler has declared finally for Theodore Roosevelt for president, and that while he wants to remain within the Republican fold he is Progressive to the core. It is declared that should he win the nomination he would make an aggressive campaign and leave no stone unturned to defeat Mr. Tuttle, whom it is expected will be renominated without opposition in the Democratic ranks.

Edgar A. Knapp, of Elizabeth, who was one of the Roosevelt delegates to the Republican convention and is along again with the crowd, thinks Fowler would be a strong candidate and his endorsement of Roosevelt, combined with his progressive tendencies is all that is needed.

The New Jersey delegates went into the convention this noon full of enthusiasm. Arriving here early yesterday afternoon they found that hundreds of delegates had preceded them and before nightfall the same spirit which pervaded all the Roosevelt people in June had worked all up to such a pitch that predictions of his election were heard on all sides. Many States have larger delegations than was the case at the Republican convention and they are a better lot of men than could be met before. All are imbued with the fight for a principle and come what may they will enter and leave the campaign triumphant in the thought that they have lived up to their convictions.

There is unanimity of opinion that Mr. Taft is much weaker today than he was at the time of the June convention. Many say that his speech of acceptance is the best that he has delivered yet for the benefit of the Roosevelt cause and it has been suggested in all seriousness that it be printed as a Roosevelt campaign document.

With all these things fresh in their minds, the Jersey men entered the big colesium in the best frame of mind, and they soon had the crowd, or at least those who could hear, applauding their campaign song written en route. It is to the tune of "John Brown's Body" and at the end of each verse the usual "Glory, Glory Hallelujah" chorus is sung. Here it is:

It came and saved a nation but itself it could not save.
It's now Boss Barnes' plaything and Guggenheimer's slave,
But we go marching on.

The Bull Moose is a-coming, can't you hear his warlike tread,
The elephant and donkey are a trembling with dread,
Their game is up, we have got them licked, they know that they are dead,
But we go marching on.

The Moose has left the wooded hills, his cry rings through the land.
It's a summons to the young and strong to join with willing hand,
To fight for right and country—to strike down a robber hand,
As we go marching on.

The Jersey men have comfortable quarters at the Blackstone Hotel. The newest and finest house here. They expect to leave Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 for home, arriving there the next night. From the Fifth Congressional district those who came out in the party of thirty or more were Edgar A. Knapp, of Elizabeth, and Charles W. Ennis, of Morristown, who were the regularly elected appointed delegates in June; J. J. Langdon, of Wharton; Bert E. Underwood, of Summit, and Leslie R. Fort, of Plainfield. A number came by other trains so that over fifty now represent the State. Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, is expected some time today.

The crowds on the street are for Roosevelt even more than they were in June. No other candidate is talked of. The man that works for a living seems to want no one else. Third term arguments don't go here. It's "We want Teddy" wherever you go, even in the sections of the city remote from the hotels, where the delegates hold forth, one never sees a Taft button and his name is seldom heard.

SAYS STONE CRUSHER ENDANGERS HOUSEHOLD

So Herrman Gets Court Order Against Smalley—Latter's Tart Comment.

Trenton, Aug. 5 (Special).—Vice Chancellor Lewis today made an order requiring former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, to show cause why he should not be restrained from operating a stone crusher in such a way as to endanger life and property. The complainant is John Herrman, who lives in the vicinity of the quarry, who charges that his premises are strewn with boulders thrown out by the crusher and that the lives of members of his family are endangered by the reckless operating of the machine. One large boulder, Mr. Herrman alleges, nearly struck his daughter.

Mr. Herrman is represented by William R. Codington and S. S. Swackhamer, and William A. Coddington is counsel for Mr. Smalley. The rule is returnable before the Vice Chancellor tomorrow.

When Mr. Smalley was questioned about the above matter today he said: "If Mr. Herrman keeps on lying about me I will tell the truth about him when the case comes to trial."

That was all that Mr. Smalley would say on the subject.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB MEMBERS ON RUN TO BOYNTON BEACH

A "sectional" run was made to Brighton Beach by the motorcycle club yesterday. Julius Dickhundt and Jack Horner were the only ones to start at 7:30 o'clock, the appointed time. Dickhundt had some clutch trouble at Newark which caused a two hour delay. By that time Benjamin Hurewitz, J. J. More and Percy Haberle had started and joined the early riders. Later in the day Gus Johnson and Kenneth Phillips started on the trip and caught up to the others at Brooklyn, where the other sections told them that two of the crowd had lost the trail. The wanderers found the main crowd and all went smooth to Brighton Beach. After spending the day at the seashore, a start was made for home, but Hurewitz had one of those punctures that could not be patched and another member lacked a lamp. As a result, a sectional trip was made home, some arriving before midnight, others stayed at the beach all night and returned this morning.

LIEUT. HORT AND CO. K ARE SIGNALLY HONORED

Lieut. N. H. Hort, of Co. K, has again been honored by being appointed Aide-de-Camp to Brigadier General Hines for the manoeuvres in the defense of New York. It is unusual for an officer from another regiment to receive this appointment but Lieut. Hort's record is such that the position seeks him.

Major Martin will also attend the manoeuvres as Lieutenant Colonel of the Fifth N. J.. Co. K has been requested to furnish about twenty men for the manoeuvres and a regular monthly meeting of the company will be held in their administrative rooms in the Babcock Building tonight and all members are requested to be present as volunteers will be called for to leave with the Fifth Regiment Saturday morning early.

Co. K members who volunteer will have to leave Friday night. The request speaks highly for Co. K members, as the communication asking for men stated: "In view of the soldierly behavior of members of Co. K at Mt. Gretna we should be pleased if you could furnish about twenty men."

Capt. Peterson has been asked to go also and will no doubt accompany the boys to see that they are treated right. The members of Co. K who were transferred to Co. D are especially requested to be present to sign the pay roll.

SECOND FATALITY STIRS HOPATCONG

PLAINFIELDER RESCUED

Lake Hopatcong, Aug. 5 (Special)—Stanley Phillips, aged 22 years, a clerk in the employ of the Newark Trust Company, at Newark, who was spending the week-end with his widowed mother here, was drowned last night between Halsey and Raccoon Islands, while taking a swim in company with James Sage, a companion. The fatality, the second one of the kind here this season, occurred almost in sight of several Plainfielders, who are stopping at Camp Ram's Horn and other nearby places. They rendered such assistance as possible to resuscitate the man, under the direction of Miss Ethel Humphrey, of Plainfield, a trained nurse, who is at Seerun Camp, but it was of no avail.

Harry Hoffman, of West Front street, one of those who tried to revive Phillips, was overcome by the incident and fell in a faint off Hollywood Hotel dock into the lake. He was rescued and revived, and is now all right. Herbert Gray and Walter Hamilton, of Plainfield, together with Leo Huffa and Dr. Adolph Hoffman, the last named a dentist from Paterson, did all in their power to help save Phillips, but after two hours' work further efforts had to be abandoned.

Phillips had not been in the water very long with his companion, when he was seized with cramps. Sage grabbed hold of the drowning man and was heading for shore with him when the latter's weight, 180 pounds, became too much for him, and in order to save his own life he found it necessary to adopt heroic methods to release himself from the death-like grip of Phillips.

In the meantime other campers had hurried to the scene and they succeeded in getting Phillips on the shore. Every means possible was used to bring the man to life, but he was beyond hope.

Dr. Hoffman, who headed one of the rescuing parties, brought no light with him and in returning the party landed at a strange dock. In walking through the woods to their camp, the doctor ran into a tree lying across the path and he was knocked unconscious. He was carried to the camp, where he was revived. He is still suffering somewhat from his experience today. The remains of young Phillips were taken to his home in Newark today, where the funeral will be held.

MRS. ELLEN CARNEY DIES AT EIGHTY-SEVEN

Mother of Borough Editor Was Widely Known Among Older Residents.

Mrs. Ellen Carney, aged 85 years, mother of David J. Carney, editor of the North Plainfield Review, died Saturday night at her home on Lincoln place, the borough, following an illness of about a year with complications. For two or three days prior to her death she became unconscious. Her death was due to the infirmities of old age, and was not unexpected.

Mrs. Carney was born in Ireland and came to this country when a young girl. For a time she lived at Hamilton, Ontario, but for sixty-five years she resided in the borough for the most part in the vicinity of where she died. Her husband, John Carney, enlisted in the Civil War and was fatally wounded in battle. Mrs. Carney was a communicant of St. Joseph's R. C. church. She possessed unusual womanly qualities and was beloved by all who knew her. She was widely known among the older residents of the borough and moved to the borough when that section was known as Warren township.

There were three sons, Andrew, David J., and John Carney, the first two surviving. John Carney, who will be recalled by many residents, died a number of years ago. He was a familiar figure at various entertainments. Mrs. Carney's funeral will take place tomorrow at 9 a. m., from St. Joseph's church, Jackson avenue, where a solemn requiem mass will be observed.

Edward Goff, colored, was ordered by the court this morning to pay a fine of $100 for the larceny of a soft gray hat, valued at $5, the property of DeMeza & Bunni, 143 East Front street. City Judge William G. DeMeza, however, gave him the alternative of clearing out of the city, which he readily accepted.

Goff's story was to the effect that he had bought it from a white man whose name he did not know. The court refused to credit his statement.

T. R. FOLLOWERS OPEN CONVENTION

5,000 GREET LEADER

Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge Elected Temporary Chairman, According to Program—Senator Dixon Tells of Movement's Birth.

(Special from American Press Asso.)

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The convention of the National Progressive party was called to order at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon by United States Senator Dixon. The convention hall was crowded, about 1,200 delegates being present. There were several women delegates on the floor of the Coliseum.

Senator Dixon said, in brief, that twenty-eight days ago in the city of New York there was a consultation of thoughtful men, who believed that a pation should go forward and not stand still. Sixty-two men answered the call of ninety millions of Americans, that those who believed with them should elect delegates to a convention to meet here. Before the sun sets this evening a new milestone will have been erected in the history of the nation and a body knowing no north, south, east nor west, held together by the live issues of the day, not by the dead ones of the past, will have taken its place in the American political world.

Prayer followed Senator Dixon's remarks and former Senator Robert J. Beveridge was elected temporary chairman.

Before the convention was called to order a provisional national committee met and decided the contests in Florida and Mississippi. The committee decided to seat neither of the two negro delegates from Florida and decided to seat the white delegates from Mississippi. The New York delegates held a stormy caucus before the convention in which they placed the new party from the Empire State fairly on record against any fusion.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt arrived on the Twentieth Century Limited at 8:55 o'clock this morning and was greeted by a crowd of five thousand people at the railroad station. From there he drove in an automobile to the Congress Hotel and was followed by a long procession of automobiles and pedestrians.

AGED MAN PINNED 2 NIGHTS IN TREE

Would Have Died but For Curiosity of Friend.

EXPOSED TO HEAVY STORMS

James Farrell, Who Has Lived For Many Years as Recluse, Fell as He Was Picking Apples Into Fork of Tree—Abandoned Hope of Rescue.

Livingston, N. J., Aug. 5.—James Farrell, an aged man, who has lived for many years as a recluse, was held for two days and nights in the fork of an apple tree in the Kent woods with one thigh wedged there. He was found and released when death by starvation, thirst and exposure threatened him.

Farrell had a hut in the Kent woods, almost a mile back from the road and far away from any other habitation. He has lived there alone, half hermit and half woodsman, avoiding curious visitors. He lived on berries, fruit, nuts, small game and milk. He got the milk at the farm of Munson B. Kent.

Thursday afternoon Farrell climbed an apple tree and filled his pockets with fruit. As he was descending a limb broke beneath him, and he fell, landing in a fork of the tree. The force of his fall so wedged his body in the fork that he was unable to extricate himself.

Gave Up Hope of Rescue.

Farrell was exposed to the heavy storms of Thursday and Friday. His only food was the apples in his pockets. Saturday that supply was exhausted. He had given up hope of rescue, as few persons visited the spot.

Mr. Kent, however, became uneasy when Farrell did not make his accustomed visit to the farm Saturday evening, and he started for the hut. While passing the edge of the woods he heard a noise in an apple tree. At first he thought it was a wildcat and was about to look for his own safety when he made out the sound to be a repetition of his own name. Farrell's throat was so dry that his cries sounded more like those of an animal than a human.

Mr. Kent freed the aged man, assisted him to his hut and brought food. He offered to attend Farrell, but the recluse said he wanted no intrusion and would find a way to attend to his own wants.

COLLIE SENTENCED TO DEATH

But Blue Ribbon Dog is Not In State. Fugitive From Justice.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Henry Mayer's prize winning collie, Beauty, is an exile from Atlantic City under sentence of death pronounced with the utmost solemnity by Recorder Keffer. The law is defective, it seems, in two respects, in the first place permitting the trial of a dog in a capital case without its presence in court and in the next by not making it possible to extradite the vicious animal from another state.

Immediately after warrants were sworn out for the arrest of the dog by Isador Soltz, a grocer's boy, who claims to have been bitten, Mrs. Mayer took a trip to Philadelphia, and the offending dog disappeared. It is therefore supposed that the dog is in Pennsylvania and a fugitive from justice.

MRS. SMOCK SEEKS DIVORCE.

Accuses Her Husband of Infidelity With Mrs. Wakeley.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 5.—A suit for divorce was begun in the chancery court here by Mrs. Susan B. Smock of Asbury Park against George A. Smock, president of the Buchanan Smock Lumber company of Asbury Park and superintendent of the First Congregational Sunday school.

Her petition sets forth that she was married to Smock in 1879 at Eatontown. Her maiden name was Susan Borden Wardell. She alleges that her husband has been guilty of improper relations with Mrs. Wakeley from January, 1905, until a week ago.

She has also started a suit for $10,000 damages against Mrs. Wakeley for the alienation of her husband's affections.

BIG BOND ISSUE IN COURT.

Interstate Telephone Co. Gets Rule Against New Jersey Service Board.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 5.—Justice Minturn of the supreme court granted a rule for the state board of public utility commissioners to show cause why a peremptory writ of mandamus should not be issued compelling it to grant the application of the Interstate Telephone company to issue $1,525,000 in thirty year first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds.

The rule is returnable Nov. 6. The company contends that if it is not permitted to issue these bonds it may be driven into insolvency.

Aged Financier Improves.

Glen Ridge, N. J., Aug. 5.—John D. Slayback, who was stricken with illness on a railroad train at Hoboken while on his way from Rye Beach, N. H., to Montclair, recovered consciousness, and his condition was reported as improved.

Only Made It Worse.

Harry was taken out to dinner for the first time in his life. His mother kept him at her side because his mother is a wise woman. But he acted like a perfect little gentleman until the dessert course. Then his mother found occasion to reprove him.

"Harry," she exclaimed in such a loud whisper that everybody at the table could hear it, "what do you mean by wiping your spoon on your napkin? You never do that at home."

"No, mamma," answered Harry in an even louder whisper, "but at home we always get clean spoons."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Alexandrite.

Don't think that your knowledge of wonder gems is complete till you have seen in all its beauty an alexandrite, green by day and red by night. And such a green—olive bronze, with a potent suggestion that red is there; green when held in the sunlight; in a darkened room with artificial light a ruby where the emerald was a moment before—a tawny wine red of exquisite tone.

Quite Satisfactory.

THIRD PARTY MEN OPEN CONVENTION

Crowds of T. R. Enthusiasts In Chicago.

BEVERIDGE IS CHAIRMAN.

Governor Johnson May Get Second Place on Ticket—Platform Will Represent Views of All Classes of Progressives—Colonel to Address Delegates Tomorrow.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The National Progressive party, of which Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is the head, opened the first session of its national convention shortly after noon today. The Coliseum, in which the convention is being held and where President Taft was renominated, was filled with a cheering, enthusiastic crowd.

Senator Dixon, chairman of the provisional national committee, called the convention to order and announced the selection of former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana as temporary chairman. Directly after Mr. Beveridge's speech the committees of the convention, resolutions and credentials especially, were appointed. The convention then adopted a resolution requesting ex-President Roosevelt to address the convention on Tuesday.

After adjournment today the committee on resolutions, with Dean Kirchway of Columbia university, a close personal friend of Colonel Roosevelt and an ardent supporter of the new party, as one of the most potent and influential members, will turn their attention to framing the platform on which Roosevelt is to run for the presidency and which will represent the views of all classes of progressives.

The committee on resolutions is to be peppered with all sorts and conditions of planks, representing the personal ideas and desires of some of the most radical minds in the country. Dean Kirchway said that the views of all progressives in the new party are to be listened to with attention and consideration. There is to be no stifling of suggestion or idea. The platform must represent concretely the views of all citizens in the new party who believe that conditions under the two old parties are adverse to the demands of the American people.

Has National Convention Aspect.

Nearly all the states have opened headquarters in the various hotels. In every respect the aspects of a great national convention have been assumed. The New Yorkers, the Californians and the Pennsylvanians have the finest headquarters. The original call for this convention stated that it was to consist of a member from each congress district in every state. This representation would be just one-half of that in the Republican and Democratic national conventions.

Nearly all the states have responded to the call far more generously than its terms require. For instance, Connecticut, with five congress districts and two United States senators, would be entitled under the call to seven delegates. Instead, Connecticut has sent forty-nine delegates who, in the proceedings of the convention, will be entitled to one-seventh of a vote each. The same situation prevails in New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Massachusetts, California and nearly all other states. Senator Dixon, after going over the credentials, asserted that there will be 1,200 delegates in the convention, and it would be a difficult task to get the preliminary roll of the convention in time for the opening session.

Senator Dixon rather believed that with the alternates the official representatives from all the states who are to participate in this convention will number 1,800. Senator Dixon reiterated that each and every delegate and alternate had paid his own expenses voluntarily, and in this statement George W. Perkins of New York coincided. The makeup of the delegates and alternates to this convention resembles what political historians have recorded concerning the complexion of the first Republican convention held in 1856.

There are many long hairs here, men and women with very pronounced and radical notions of popular government, clergymen of all denominations, settlement workers, suffragettes, prohibitionists and others with views akin to socialism. The personnel of the delegates is truly remarkable. The earnestness, the direct purpose, the intensity of spirit, the feeling of opposition to the old parties are some of the drastic features.

Seek to Perpetuate New Party.

There developed a feeling to the effect that the National Progressive party should demonstrate in some way that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is not all there is to the party, and while he happens to be at the moment the man with the force and energy to represent the exigencies of the situation many of the delegates began to express opinions to the effect that if there is any weakness to their party movement it is said that they are relying altogether too much on the life of one man.

Some were free to say that if Colonel Roosevelt should pass away during the present campaign the National Progressive party would go to pieces. Such a contingency, they added, must be guarded against. And yet those who expressed these views confessed that they had no remedy for the situation which confronts them, but that they must fight on under Colonel Roosevelt and whatever happened must hope for long life for Roosevelt, certainly until the National Progressive party is firmly established, and this they declared would come to pass within two or three years.

A new name was suggested for vice president in General Basil Duke of Kentucky. General Duke is nearly eighty years old, was a famous Confederate general and was one of the originators of the Palmer-Buckner gold Democratic movement in 1896. Colonel Roosevelt, it is well known, favors a southern Democrat for vice president.

Looks Like Johnson Vice President.

If it is decided to have an east and west ticket instead of an east and south ticket, Governor Hiram Johnson of California is most prominently under consideration. He declares that he will not seek the nomination, but among the delegates, who regard him as a second edition of Roosevelt, the sentiment is strongly in favor of placing him in second place. It is argued, however, that Roosevelt is so strong in the west that it would not strengthen the ticket to pick a westerner for running mate, while by giving the position to a southern Democrat the ticket would gain popularity in the south, a region in which the progressives expect to make a great fight.

James Rudolph Garfield of Ohio was quite enthusiastic when he called attention to the fact that thirty of the delegates from Ohio who participated in the Taft convention are delegates to this convention. Mr. Garfield and others in Ohio believe that eventually a third state ticket well be named in the Buckeye State, just as in Illinois and just as the New Yorkers declare is to happen in the Empire State.

Fine Strategy Is Displayed.

The campaign managers of the National Progressive party believe that Colonel Roosevelt has stolen a march from a strategical standpoint upon the two old great parties in at least two directions. For present purposes they deem the action of the New York state branch of the third party, including women in their delegation, to the National Progressive party here and in taking a stand in favor of a thorough consideration of the woman's suffrage question as one which will have an important bearing in helping Colonel Roosevelt to the electoral votes of western states which already have accorded suffrage to women. The states in which women now have the right to vote and their representation in the electoral college are: California, 13 votes; Colorado, 6; Idaho, 4; Utah, 4; Washington, 7; Wyoming, 3, or a total of 13 votes in the electoral college.

The fact that Colonel Roosevelt is playing this single issue so strongly is looked upon as important from both the Taft and the Democratic standpoints in view of the suggestion that no one candidate for president may have a majority of the electoral votes and that the selection of a president may ultimately rest with the house of representatives. That such a thought is in the Roosevelt mind is evinced by the canvass which has been under way among Republican prospective candidates for representatives in congress next fall as to how they will stand on this question should the election of a president be thrown into the house.

To Break Machine Grip In South.

The other neat piece of strategy, which is thus termed by the political managers of the third party, is Colonel Roosevelt's determination to place the machinery of the opposition party to the Democrats in the south in the hands of white men alone. They figure that such a course may give them three or four southern states on the issue of Colonel Roosevelt for president but that in any event it will disintegrate the present Republican organization in the southern states as any political factor whatever before the next presidential campaign is done around in 1916. It is the Roosevelt idea that if he cannot elect himself president this year he at least can defeat the re-election of President Taft and so smite the present Republican machines not only in the south, but in the north, as to other give him control of the devastated Republican machine in 1916 in case the majority of the Republican machinery leaders do not elect representatives to the National Progressive party en bloc.

MR. TAFT'S NOMINATION.

President Taft, in his speech of acceptance of the Republican nomination for President of the United States told of the profound gratitude with which he accepted the "honor" that the Republican party had bestowed upon him. The Daily Press has frequently pointed out the fact that the nomination was the most questionable that has ever been given to a candidate of a great political party, but after reading Mr. Taft's speech of acceptance it becomes more and more evident that he sincerely thinks that his nomination was secured through legitimate means.

One of the most popular arguments used by the machine papers in supporting Mr. Taft is that the protest against the method by which he was nominated comes entirely from partisan sources, and from those supporting Mr. Roosevelt. At such times it is hard to refute statements made by a partisan press, but for the enlightenment of those who do not think that Mr. Taft was nominated by the bosses, we call attention to an article which appeared in the "Saturday Evening Post" recently, with Samuel G. Blythe as the author. Mr. Blythe is probably the brightest and fairest political writer in the country, a splendid judge of conditions, and one who observed the working of the Chicago convention from the press gallery. He has never been accused of partisanship in his writings, and what he says is taken among newspapermen all over the country as coming from one who is an authority.

Mr. Blythe says that the National committee at Chicago "was antagonistic to one candidate and favored another, not because the mapority thought him the stronger candidate, but for purely selfish, personal, political, machine reasons. Not a man wanted to nominate Taft, but their kind of politics made Taft's nomination imperative, for the nomination of Roosevelt spelled ruin for them personally and politically, and they knew it." He then goes on to explain how an effort was made to find another candidate, but that because of the way in which the committee handled things no one else would take the nomination, as all were satisfied that it meant defeat, so that the organization, after canvassing its entire strength, could not find a man "to replace a candidate distinctly unpopular, not only with the people, but with the organization itself."

He describes the settlement of the contests by the National committee by saying that "they had a job of work to do and they did it, and—as was shown by the result—they did it successfully, not because they cared for Taft, but because they had a very tender regard for themselves and their own organizations and their own political lives."

With all this in mind, those who have declared they will not support Mr. Taft are called turncoats by the minority who are remaining within the old party and are determined to support Mr. Taft, come what may. They do not take into consideration that hundreds who have declared against Taft, and will vote for Roosevelt or Wilson, have no intention of joining the Third party movement. Anyone who is for Roosevelt, in the minds of the machine politicians of both parties, is a third party man, no matter whether he intends to support the State, county and local ticket of his regular party. No man who votes for Mr. Roosevelt this fall, and votes for the rest of the nominees of his political faith can be barred from the primary of his party one year from next September. The man who wants to support the third party national ticket, after the nominations are made in the fall, can do so, and remain within the ranks of either of the old parties, if he wants to do so. There are plenty of voters who will join the new party. That becomes evident as soon as one walks along any street and questions a few of the voters whom he meets.

No one is going to be forced to vote for a man who, as Mr. Blythe sums it up, was nominated by a "national committee who summoned all their resources and nominated Taft, whom they do not like, and who they are sure will be defeated, merely to show they could do it once more." The party tag has been so insecurely fixed on Mr. Taft that comparatively few recognize it as being there.

For years there has been complaint about the noisy automobiles which travel through the streets with their mufflers wide open, making racket enough to disturb the peace of mind of those who are strong, and frightening nervous people and children, sometimes with serious results. In response to a repeated demand that some legal means be provided to stop this abuse the Legislature last winter passed an act which provides that "devices known as 'muffler cut-outs' shall not be used within the limits of any city, town or borough, or wthin two hundred feet of any horse-drawn vehicle on the public highway." In some sections of the State this law is being strictly enforced by the police, and here in Plainfield, in so far as the police are able they are stopping the practice. However, with such a small force as is on duty in the daytime, it is almost impossible to abate the nuisance, and for that reason the citizens who are disturbed by such things, especially when they know that some one machine is persistently violating the law, could materially aid the authorities in enforcing the law if they would take the numbers of any such automobiles, and report them to headquarters. Another thing which it might be well to do would be to report excessive speeding, when it isknown that the practice is persisted in by any one automobilist. There are some streets in the city where machinists from local garages feel that they are at perfect liberty to do all the speeding they want to, while "trying out" cars they have been repairing. There is no excuse whatsoever for such speeding, and any citizen who reports action of the kind to the police is doing a splendid public duty.

There are a whole lot of people who say that Mr. Roosevelt is the whole thing in the third party, and that without him there would be no such movement. This must be granted, for never has any great movement of any kind been started, without one person standing out from all the rest as the leader and the man upon whom the bulk of the credit for success or failure must be heaped.

GOVERNMENT'S PLANT DOCTORS

SPEND $300,000 EACH YEAR.

Physicians and Nurses at Thirty-five Field Stations Throughout Country. In Addition to the Big Pathological Laboratory in Washington.

There are about fifty associated physicians, with headquarters in Washington, who, while having in one sense the largest practice in the world, get no fees from their patients. The physicians are the plant doctors employed by the government to guard against and eradicate the ravages of disease among plants within the borders of the United States. In addition to the big pathological laboratory in Washington, the government maintains thirty-five field stations or plant hospitals scattered through the country, each with its physician in charge and a corps of nurses.

The bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture, under which this work is conducted, spends $300,000 a year in protecting the health of our plants. It is estimated that this activity results in a saving of $40,000,000 a year in the fields and forests. The annual losses in the whole country from plant disease amount to upward of half a billion dollars a year.

Plant diseases become epidemic from time to time and sweep through a country, causing terrible mortality among certain growing things and sometimes completely destroying great agricultural industries. Before 1870 Ceylon coffee was known for its excellence throughout the world. Coffee plantations formed the principal business of the island. But a pestilence struck the coffee plants and wiped them out in fifteen years, causing a loss of $75,000,000. Not a pound of coffee has since been grown on Ceylon. Sometimes the plant pestilences are the direct cause of the loss of thousands of human lives, as in the great Irish famine, which was directly due to a disease which swept the potato fields and destroyed the tubers.

Epidemic of 1885.

In 1885 an epidemic of wheat rust caused damage of $1,875,000 in the state of Illinois. The California vine disease wrought $10,000,000 worth of destruction in 1892. Throughout the United States the wheat rust pestilence damaged the crop to the tune of $87,000,000 in 1898. A blight swept over the potato fields in New York in 1904, causing a loss of $10,000,000.

In some respects a few plant diseases have points of similarity with human ills. The sugar beet, for instance, suffers from a sort of malaria, the germ of which is injected into it by the bite of an insect. A round, fungid spot on the leaves of the beet is the sign of another disease which causes the leaves to curl up and die and greatly diminishes the precious sugar in the beet itself. While these diseases have not spread sufficiently to exercise any serious injury to the crop, they and twenty others which afflict the sugar beet in minor degrees are being particularly studied by the plant doctors.

Not only is the beet's saccharin content productive of sugar worth $70,000,000 in the United States each year, but the beet is a wonderful soil conserver and in rotation with other crops has become the foundation of modern scientific agriculture in Europe. Another reason why particular attention is being given to the task of rendering the sugar beet immune to the attacks of disease is that, while the culture of this crop has expanded very rapidly within the last ten years, its cultivation is still comparatively a new industry in the United States, and only a small proportion of the area adapted to its growth is now devoted to it.

Chestnut Bark Diseases.

One curious plant epidemic, the chestnut bark disease, is now sweeping the eastern part of the country and threatens to eliminate this species of tree completely from American forests. It has done $100,000,000 damage thus far, and the chestnut is already a thing of the past within a radius of fifty or more miles about the metropolis. The disease is caused by minute fungus. The only method of controlling the spread is by segregation—destroying infected trees throughout the territory involved and creating an immune area.

By applying principles of eugenics to build up a hardier race the plant doctor occasionally checks the ravages of disease. This plan was tried successfully when a pestilence swept through the sea island cotton in South Carolina fifteen years ago. In an acre of cotton four or five stalks would be found standing among the stricken plants. From these stalks seeds would be selected and tried out on the infected land the following year, and again the healthiest stalks would be kept for breeding purposes. By the end of five years a strain was found that could resist the disease. But when a similar watermelon disease attacked the melon fields a few years later this method could not avail. The pestilence was too severe.

The most striking of all the recent discoveries by the plant doctors have been made in connection with cases of cancer, which is a very common disease in plants.

SHORT VACATION PERIOD AT THE BUSINESS COLLEGE

The school session at the Plainfield Business College has been closed for two weeks to permit the installing of various improvements which Professor Herr has contemplated for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the work. The school will reopen for the fall term on Monday, August 19, ready to take care o fthe largely increased attendance which is evidenced each year.

The growth of the institution is quite remarkable, considering the seven years that it has been under the control of the present proprietor. For eleven months of a year past, there was an average daily attendance of 108 students and the enrollment for this coming year will exceed that number. The vacation period of the successful business college is but a very short one, two weeks at the most, because of the fact that so many of those in attendance at the school are anxious to complete their work and, in getting ready for business, very little thought is given to the "vacation idea." Some of the students who take the complete work of the school, leave off work in June and return in September, but the vast majority work the entire summer, with the exception of the two weeks in August. The opening on August 19 will be but partial, owing to the fact that those who attend the school from out of town will not enter until September, in order to receive the full benefit of a commutation ticket. On September the 3d, the school will reopen entirely and the work will be carried through until the following August, with the exception of the week vacation in mid-winter.

APATHY AND INDIFFERENCE IN RELIGION GREAT DANGER

Eloquent and forceful was the sermon preached at the Union service in Trinity Reformed church, last night, by Rev. Charles Dunn, of Germantown, Philadelphia. Rev. Francis Fletcher conducted the service. There was a large attendance.

The topic selected for discouse was on the dangers of "Drifting, Its Causes and Prevention." "Apathy and indifference," the speaker said, "were the greatest dangers of the age; and it was against this state of affairs that the churches were constantly warring. Apathy in any department of life meant stagnation and stagnation in the christian life meant death."

He outlined the causes which led up to "Drifting," which sprung from indifferentism; and indifferentism led to neglect of God and religion, and in many cases ended in disbelief and infidelism. The great preventive, he added, was constant reading of the Bible, attendance at church and living "close to God."

VESPER SERVICE ATTRACTS MANY TO FRESH AIR HOME

The largest audience which has been at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home this season attended the vesper services at the Home yesterday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, when James E. Church, former superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, gave an interesting talk on "Love." He spoke of the ten commandments and gave many quotations from the Bible. He told the poor mothers and children how to remember the love commandment and that great happiness could always be had by following the "love rule."

Mrs. R. E. Humpston, of Myrtle avenue, sang two soprano solos and the children's choir, under the direction of C. A. Braider, rendered several selections. W. A. Parker, of West Seventh street, who teaches Bible verses to the children, rehearsed them and showed how well the little ones could memorize the verses. Arthur Thresher, who arranged the program and was in charge of the services, announced the leaders of the services for the coming week. They are: Tonight, W. Parker; tomorrow night, the Christian Endeavor Society of Hope Chapel will conduct a religious service; Wednesday night, Ferdinand C. Iglehart and Miss Ida Englehart, elocutionists, will entertain the children with songs and stories; Thursday evening, Joseph W. Gavett will lead, and Friday evening the Epworth League of the First M. E. church will take charge of the services. The leader will be George Horne. Next Sunday, Arthur N. Pierson, of the Presbyterian church, Westfield, will make an address at the vesper service at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

The children and mothers of the Home attended the evening services of the Temple Baptist church on East Third and Richmond streets, last night. The services were given over entirely to the benefit of the Home. Rev. J. W. Musson, a former pastor, now of Meridan, Conn., officiated. Miss Sarah Currey, director of the Home, told of many different experiences she had had in her work here and in the Little Missionary Day Nursery in New York city. The children's choir from the Home sang several selections.

French Lingerie Frocks Show Much Pintucking.

Pintucking is beloved of the French couturier, and French lingerie frocks of sheer material usually show a deal of the favorite pintucking put on in trimming effects. Panels or bands of this pintucking set in with lace entre deux are as rich and effective as wide lace in trimming, and when handsome lace and pintucking are used on the frocks the effect is distinctive and elaborate.

Revivals from the crinoline period are making their appearance in the hats of the moment.

The normal waist line has returned. This permits of the wearing of belts and girdles.

Piping is still fashionable for silk and wool suits.

The middy blouse is a favorite one of the season and especially good for outing wear at the seashore and mountains. In the cut it is made of white flannel with a blue collar and cuffs.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

WHEN PUTTING UP FRUIT.

NOW that the preserving season is at its height some general hints along this line may be useful to the housewife.

For instance, have all jars well sterilized. To accomplish this put jars, lids and rubbers in a pan of cold water so that all are covered and gradually bring them to the boiling point.

When the fruit is ready to pour into them take out of the water and drain by standing upside down on a hot cloth. When dry put on the rubbers.

Avoiding Air Bubbles.

If a silver knife is placed in each jar when the fruit is poured in there will be no danger of bubbles. When the knife is removed pour more juice in so that it will overflow. This is to prevent any air remaining in the jar. Then screw on the sterilized lid and place the jar upside down again until cold.

Tighten the covers, wash off the jars, paste on the labels and put away in a dry, cool place.

Cleaning the Jars.

To clean fruit jars that have been exposed to dust and dirt drop into them a handful of sand and a little cold water. Shake a moment and they will be as clean as new ones.

Procure the best fruit at the crest of its season. Prices are lowest then, and there is less waste. Overripe fruits never make good preserves or jellies.

Use granulated sugar for all preserves, jellies and jams, light brown sugar for spiced fruits.

Heat the sugar for jellies in the oven before adding to the fruit juice.

Do not cover fruit while cooking.

Have the jars standing in hot water when the hot mixtures are put into them and seal securely.

Let jars stand where you can watch them for a few days.

Sugarless Preserves.

Pare your peaches or pears and stew in clear water until tender. Can just the same as when sweetened. Add sugar at time of reopening according to taste. Open about a half hour before using.

For an economical jelly prepare fruit in the customary way, put through the jelly bag. Put juice on and boil without adding sugar. Can as you would any fruit, having jars or bottles hot. Any time during the winter, when sugar is cheaper, open jars and make your jelly in from eight to fifteen minutes.

Jam should cool and a jelly form over the top and adhere to the glass all around the edge before you pour wax upon it; otherwise the jam will shrink, leave a space between it and the wax, and fermentation is more liable to occur.

Woman's World

MRS. PERCY V. PENNYPACKER.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, who was recently elected president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will direct its destinies for the next two years.

The new president possesses in her makeup a striking combination of conservatism and progressiveness which distinguishes her as one of the sanest and calmest minds in the forefront of the modern woman movement and at the same time as one of the most courageous.

A notable orator, fluent and compelling, she is anything but a voluble woman, being rather given to listening both in public and private, to weighing her words and to withholding them until the predetermined moment for utterance arrives.

Both Virginia and Texas claims Mrs. Pennypacker as their daughter. She began life in the Old Dominion State as Anna J. Hardwicke and has lived in Texas since her early childhood. A true daughter of the south, she is one of the most delightful expressions of the traditions and charming characteristics that have elevated the gentlewomen of the old south into a world of their own.

Mrs. Pennypacker was one of the pioneers who laid the foundation of the present public school educational system in Texas and is the author of a history of Texas, which has been used in most of the state schools, public and private, for the last twenty-five years.

The new club president has been more fortunate in her domestic life than is given to most women destined to a public career. Her husband himself was a noted educator, and during the years of her early married life, when her children and her homemaking were her first care, he extended to her every aid in her work for human betterment.

Her husband died in 1899, and she at once assumed the added duties of administering to her children's and her own financial interests. In doing this she developed the practical business sense which has made her services as a member of the general federation board of such high value.

Mrs. Pennypacker's home in Texas is a distinguished social and intellectual center from which radiates a cordial and generous hospitality. Here she lives, one of the busiest women of America. Her own hand on the domestic machinery; her children are devoutly mothered. From here she attends to the publishing of her text books and manages her own financial affairs generally; keeps in close touch with social duties and church activities; is the guiding spirit of her home club; she is patroness of every movement for the advancement of education and the expression of culture among the people; responds to continual demands for public lectures and still finds time for widely extended travel and broad study. A busy woman certainly is Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, president of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Women as Wireless Operators.

Women will supplant men as wireless operators on the steamships in the north Pacific if the plans of R. H. Armstrong, manager of a wireless telegraph company that has contracts with many liners, are followed. Mr. Armstrong, who says men are not always satisfactory, has engaged Miss Mabel Keiso and Miss S. Through for his first woman operators and turned them over to Chief Operator C. B. Cooper for instructions. The young women will be taught to repair.

Will Address Army Women.

Mrs. Leonard Wood, wife of the chief of staff of the army, will undertake to get the co-operation of army women in the plan for a woman's memorial to the men who died on the Titanic. She will address a letter to every woman connected with the army asking for contributions.

For Pantry Shelves.

Do away with papers on your pantry shelves by substituting for them two or three coatings of white enamel. The effect will appeal to housekeepers on account of its inviting and cleanly appearance, aside from its sanitary qualities.

FLEMINGTON POULTRY SHOW.

Flemington August 5.—The poultry show to be held in connection with the Flemington fair this week promises to be one of the chief attractions of the fair. Many of the breeders of fancy poultry throughout the State have entered their birds and there will be strong competition. The entries closed Monday. Sufficient space has been set apart to display the birds in single tiers. James E. Farmer, of Flemington, and David C. R. Hoff, of Neshanic Station, will have charge of the show, and Fred Hyler, of Peapack, will be the judge. Last year only ribbons were awarded, but this year cash prizes also will be given. Among those who have the largest entries are F. G. Bean, of Collegeville, Pa.; Maple Park Poultry Farm, Trenton; E. B. Burger, Harlingen; Cockcroft and Marsden, Roselle Park; J. W. Endicott, Jr., of New Brunswick; Pleasant Dale Farms, Pleasant Dale; Orpington Yards Farms, Gladstone; David Scott, South Branch; Walter F. Bast, of Phillipsburg, and S. H. Everitt, of Stockton.

EGG WITH THREE YOLKS.

Roselle Park, Aug. 5.—A hen belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lane, of Westfield avenue, Roselle Park, has laid an egg measuring four and a half inches in length. It was found that there were three yolks in the egg. Several double yolk eggs have been laid by the hen during the year.

EYE STRAIN.

First Felt Not in the Eyes, but in the Organ That is Weakest.

No human organ, except possibly the heart, is called on for such hard and continuous activity. Even the most musical ear is never taxed beyond the three or four hours of a Wagnerian opera and at the worst is rested by frequent intermissions. The brain, even in the case of professional men, is called on for only six to eight hours of work a day. But we use our eyes in business all day and then all evening in our amusements. In point of fact, the heart itself is less severely taxed.

The eye has, to be sure, a most marvelous strength. As long as its mechanism remains measurably correct it seldom or never gives out, and its vitality is supreme. But when to the strain of near work in artificial light are added defects in its own mechanism even this wonderfully adaptable and hardy servant gives symptoms of strain.

The brain is generally our first informer. It automatically supplies the energy that flogs the lens muscle to its ceaseless task, and it is in the closest possible sympathy with the retina, the sensitive plate on which all vision is recorded. The brain declares its exhaustion in headache and vertigo. The masterful eye, so to speak, shunts off its suering upon the nearest neighbor. Yet in many cases even the brain gives no direct symptom. It is the central organ, the highly vital and complex master, of the entire system, and it also has a superior way of passing on the kick. Just how it does this oculists do not profess to know. The rule seems to be that eye strain declares itself first in the organ which is nearest and weakest. The stomach, the liver, the intestines, the kidney, the heart or the membranes of nose and throat may develop symptoms while the eye and the brain seem normal.—Metropolitan Magazine.

TOOK HIM LITERALLY.

And the Great Sculptor Houdon Found His Name Changed.

Houdon, the famous French sculptor, rendered great service to the fine arts not only through the masterpieces he left behind him, but also by perfecting the casting of statues in bronze. This art, fallen into disuse since the renaissance, he revived. When he reached his seventy-third year, writes Mr C H Hart and Mr Edward Biddle in their life of the artist, Houdon withdrew from active work. As a means of agreeable relaxation he began also to frequent the performances at the Comedie Francais.

It so happened that in consequence of certain alterations the building had to be closed for a considerable period. On the day of its reopening Houdon came as usual, but a new ticket taker had been engaged since his last visit.

"Monsieur, your ticket, please!" this official cried.

"I don't need any," and the venerable figure continued to advance.

"But, monsieur, no one enters without a ticket."

"I have my entree, sir," replied Houdon, growing warm.

"But how do you call yourself?"

"How do I call myself? How do I call myself?" Then pointing to the statue in the peristyle, which he himself had made, "I'm the father of Voltaire!" he cried, and he passed in triumphantly. The amusing part of it is that the next evening as Houdon passed in the ticket taker turned to his assistant and instructed him to inscribe on the register of entries for the evening, "M. Voltaire, le pere." It is easy to imagine the hilarious reception of this at the Comedie, and for some time after the old sculptor was referred to by this name exclusively.

AFFECTS SUPPLY OF LEAD PENCILS

American Cedar From Which They Come Is About Exhausted.

NOTHING TO TAKE ITS PLACE.

Scarcity Will Be Felt All Over Europe. Germany Uses 100,000 Tons of This Wood Each Year—Makers Search For a Substitute.

An impending shortness of lead pencils throughout the entire world is forecast in the Scientific American unless a substitute wood can be found to take the place of the practically exhausted supply of American pencil cedar. The properties of the native pencil cedar, which includes the northern red cedar and southern cedar, are so marked and so different from those of other commercial woods that it seems almost hopeless to find a satisfactory substitute. Even now earnest experiments are being made with several varieties in the hope of finding a suitable substitute. The most recent is with an East African variety of wood resembling cedar.

"There is no other wood using industry in the United States so dependent upon a single species as the pencil industry is upon red cedar," says the scientific journal. "The scarcity of the pencil material will soon be felt also in Europe. A firm in Nuremberg, Germany, makes annually over 300,000,000 lead pencils out of the American cedar. About 100,000 tons, or 7,500,000 cubic feet, of wood are required for making these pencils. An equal amount is consumed annually in the United States in the pencil industry alone. This makes a total of over 200,000 tons, or about 15,000,000 cubic feet, of wood annually, or a little over 600 tons of cedar wood are used for pencils each day in the year. How long the supply will last at this rate of consumption it is difficult to say, but it is certain that unless a suitable substitute is introduced some of the mills now in operation must shut down inside of a few years.

Requirements Most Rigid.

"The requirements for wood used in the pencil industry are most rigid. The wood must be soft, light, strong, close and strong grained, free from defects and must not check or warp. The physical properties of cedar are subject to considerable variations, due to soil and climatic conditions, and for this reason it must be carefully inspected and graded as to quality. The lightest and softest wood is produced in the swampy hummocks of Florida and Georgia.

"The older the tree the softer and better the wood becomes. The wood of the shell of rotten logs is said to be the best for making lead pencils. The hard flinty wood, such as is obtained principally from trees on the dry upland or near its western limit of distribution, is considered poor grade.

"Pencil makers both in this country and abroad have long since been searching for a suitable wood to take the place of cedar, and an announcement has been made that a substitute was discovered in East Africa which may be obtained in sufficiently large quantities at a reasonable price. In Europe this announcement was accepted at its full face value. In America the pencil makers prefer to wait pending more exact information for fear that this discovery may share the fate of many others, which under the rigorous test of quality, amount of available supply and cost of production, have failed to realize the anticipations formed by them or even to establish a claim to commercial value. There can be very little doubt, however, in case of the wood from East Africa, because it is known to be a very good wood and pencil makers have tested it and found it to be an excellent substitute for the American cedar.

East African Cedar.

"The introduction of a new wood is usually very slow, and the promoters and exploiters of strange woods frequently score heavy losses, although the kinds they import are good and useful. This East African cedar is now being imported into Germany, and it is likely that it will soon be used in this country. The tree which yields this wood is very closely allied to our pencil cedar and is known botanically as Juniperus procera. It forms a beautiful tree from 75 to 125 feet in height and from two to four feet in diameter. Slater, an English naturalist, states that in British East Africa the tree often attains a height of 200 feet and a diameter of six feet. East African cedar is distributed over the mountainous districts from Abyssinia southward into German East Africa and is found in great abundance around Kilimandscharo.

"Similar to our native cedar, the wood is soft, light, durable, easily worked, highly scented, of good color, uniform texture and fine grained. The annual rings of growth are indistinct to the unaided eye. The surface exposed by cutting the wood with a sharp knife is very smooth and has a satiny luster. These are facts which will place this wood on a par with the American pencil cedar."

A WORK OF ART.

"It Must Be Indescribable, and It Must Be Inimitable."

Pierre Auguste Renoir's views on art are shown by Walter Pach in Scribner's Magazine in this question to and answer by the great painter:

"There are things about your work that we should like to know. When we find the colors in such perfect relation to one another we wonder how you arrive at such a result. When you have laid in the first tones do you know, for example, which others must follow? Do you know to what extent a red or a green must be introduced to secure your effect?"

"No, I don't. That is the procedure of an apothecary, not of an artist. I arrange my subject as I want it; then I go ahead to paint it like a child. I want a red to be sonorous—to sound like a bell. If it doesn't turn out that way I put more reds or other colors till I get it. I am no cleverer than that. I have no rules and no methods. Any one can look over my materials or watch how I paint. He will see that I have no secrets. I look at a mule. There are myriads of tiny tints. I must find the ones that will make the flesh on my canvas live and quiver.

"Nowadays they want to explain everything. But if they could explain a picture it wouldn't be art. Shall I tell you what I think are the two qualities of a work of art? It must be indescribable, and it must be inimitable. Take a thing like the Eiffel tower. It is not art, because it can be duplicated by any one who has it described to him and who knows how to make such things. But you cannot make any more Titians, and you cannot copy Notre Dame. There is the Pantheon at Rome. They thought they could make a copy of it in that votive church at Naples opposite the royal palace but the Pantheon is a great thing, and that church is a dead thing. So when they try to build like the Pantheon they find that those lines which seem so straight and regular and simple are very subtle and hard to follow. The more they measure the more they realize how much the Greeks departed from regular and banal lines in order to produce their effect.

"So in our Gothic architecture—each column is a work of art, because the old French monk who set it up and carved its capital did what he liked not doing everything alike, as results when things are made by machinery or by rules, but each thing different, like the trees in the forest."

New York's Great Scandal Murder

Was Herman Rosenthal, Gambler, Slain by the "System?"

Probe May Show Alliance Between Police and Outlaws.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

IT takes a big thing to be talked about for more than one day in New York. By this token the Rosenthal case is a very big thing, for the Gothamites have been talking of it for some weeks now and seem more interested than ever.

The metropolis has not been so stirred by the murder itself, although that was sufficiently sensational, but by the evident conspiracy behind it. In a word, the charge heard from every lip is that Rosenthal was killed because he was about to expose the corrupt alliance between the gamblers and the police. Circumstantial evidence of police graft will always start New York to seething, and it has certainly been busy in the seething line during these hot weeks. The papers have had multiplied columns and first page scream heads every day, the mayor and police commissioner have been writing letters and Gotham has been humming with the matter all the way from the underworld to Fifth avenue and from Connecticut to Jersey.

The publicity of the case is stirring other cities. Stories of police graft are heard in Chicago and Philadelphia. It is not impossible that the shooting of this gambler may start a wave of investigation that will not only sweep over New York, but will reach other American cities. In this aspect it is of vital importance to the entire nation.

The story of the crime itself is now ancient history and needs but a brief reference here. At about 2 o'clock on the morning of July 16, Herman Rosenthal, a New York gambling house proprietor, was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole. Rosenthal had been dining in the hotel, which was filled with people.

On the Great White Way.

The Metropole is situated on Forty-third street just a step from Broadway and in the very heart of the city. This is the famous Times square section at the upper end of the Great White Way. Within a block are the Hotel Astor, the Knickerbocker and other hotels, lobster palaces and famous theaters. Even at 2 o'clock in the morning this section is as light as day and the streets are still alive with automobiles and people. There were said to be fifty persons within sight of the shooting when it occurred, and several hundred gathered a few moments later. Seven policemen have posts within a block. The shooting was done by four men, who ran to a gray automobile standing across the street and by it were whisked away. A plain clothes man eating a few tables from Rosenthal heard the shooting, ran out and, jumping into a taxicab, tried to catch the fleeing motor, but soon lost the trail. None of the police got the correct number of the gray car, but one private citizen did get it, and he was arrested for his pains.

The events preceding and following the arrest were equally significant. Rosenthal had been in consultation with Charles S. Whitman, district attorney of New York county, and had given information both to him and to the press concerning police protection for gamblers. The day following his murder he was to have furnished Mr. Whitman the names of many of those paying for such protection. Rosenthal asserted that Lieutenant Charles Becker, head of the "strong arm squad," to whom had been intrusted the raiding of gambling establishments, had advanced him money, had been his partner in the gambling business and had received a certain percentage of the profits.

Despite the fact that he had paid for police protection, Rosenthal complained that his place had been raided by Becker and that a policeman had been posted in his house for months, although the usual procedure was to withdraw the "cop" in about twenty-four hours after a raid. This determined the gambler to fight or, in the language of the fraternity, to "squeal."

Whitman on the Job.

Following the murder of Rosenthal, the police seemed strangely inactive in making arrests. When a citizen, as already stated, reported the correct number of the gray car the owner and driver were apprehended. From them were learned the names of those who did the shooting, yet, with one exception, these men remained at large for weeks. Jack Rose, who had hired the car; "Bridgey" Webber, a gambler in whose house the gang had met prior to the murder, and Frank Vallon, or Valinsky, a go-between, voluntarily gave themselves up. "Dago Frank," one of those alleged to have done the shooting, was found in a flat stupefied by opium. Jacob A. Reich, who is known as Jack Sullivan, the "king of the newsboys," was identified as one of those at the scene of the crime and was arrested.

Rose confessed, implicating Lieutenant Becker as the actual instigator of the assassination, and Becker was arrested while still in his police uniform. Rose's confession was corroborated by Webber and Vallon. Thus matters stood more than two weeks after the shooting.

Many of the arrests were made by District Attorney Whitman and his small corps of detectives, and all of the confessions were obtained by him. Whitman was the man on the job. Not only has he made practically all of the progress that has been made in unraveling the conspiracy and apprehending those guilty, but now is a fair way to find the "men higher up" and to bring about an exposure that has not been equaled since the days of the Lexow investigation. Yet, despite all that he has accomplished and is in a fair way to accomplish, he has been assailed while on this case, and that by no less personages than Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Waldo.

Graft of Millions.

Jack Rose did more than to implicate a police lieutenant in the murder of Rosenthal. He also told in detail of the collections made by the police from the gamblers and other lawbreakers. He said that he had acted as Becker's collector and therefore was familiar with conditions. He gave it as his opinion that $2,400,000 was collected yearly by the police from illegal resorts. Others claiming to be familiar with conditions are now saying that this is a conservative estimate; that indeed it is but a drop in the bucket compared to the total police graft. These say that Rose knows nothing of conditions in certain parts of Manhattan Island.

General Theodore A. Bingham, former police commissioner, once stated in a magazine article that the police graft in Greater New York amounted annually to the enormous sum of $100,000,000 and added that this was under rather than over the true amount. Others on the inside are said to have laughed when they heard that Rose placed the figure at $2,400,000.

The underworld of New York evidently has some news to tell that part of the inhabitants living in the sunshine. Probably all of it will never be told, but even these few little hints have given the big town such a jolt as it has not received in years.

Now for the other side of the story, for there is another side, although it is not being talked of much in the newspapers. Whatever we may believe of the truth of any given situation, it is only fair that everybody be given a hearing. Police Commissioner Waldo does not believe there is any grafting, at least none on a large scale. He has gone into rather elaborate details to prove that protection money would do nobody any good even if paid. His argument in brief is that he has several squads raiding the gambling houses and that these work independently of each other, the head of one squad knowing nothing of the activities of the others; therefore money paid to one man would be no protection against the other raiding squads.

The "System."

So far as I know, nobody questions Rhinelander Waldo's honesty or his word. The only thing that is questioned is his knowledge of actual conditions under him. It is a popular motto among the New York police that "commissioners come and commissioners go, but the 'system' goes on forever." That is the Gotham name for it—the "system." It was the "system" in Lexow's day, and it is the "system" now. The knowing ones allege that it is essentially the same "system" now as then. A few little angles have been knocked off, but the body remains.

Yet Mr. Waldo's statement is worthy of respectful consideration and at least in part is borne out by known facts. For example, it is true that there are different raiders working independently of each other. There is also a peculiar confirmation in Rosenthal's own story. If it is true that he was paying Becker, why did Becker raid his place, and why was a policeman kept in the house for months, contrary to custom? The weissenheimers say that Becker's raid of Rosenthal's place was a fake, but that the placing of the "cop" on the premises was not. This was the work of Waldo, or, rather, of Mayor Gaynor. The story has been published in several of the newspapers that when Gaynor and Magistrate Corrigan had their row a year or more ago over Corrigan's allegation of a "wide open town" and graft conditions Gaynor got the idea that Rosenthal had informed Corrigan; therefore Rosenthal's place must be closed. Some of the mayor's feeling against the dead gambler was displayed in recent letters, in which he described Rosenthal in anything but complimentary terms and expressed his surprise and grief that Lieutenant Becker should have dined with such a man.

Are There Only a Few Crooks?

The Waldo statement throws some light on this whole Rosenthal affair, for if the gambler did pay for protection which he did not receive the existence of the independent raiding squads would explain why he did not receive it. This would make it appear that if there was graft among the police it was confined to a few individuals and did not affect the activities of the force generally.

There is nothing in the confession of Rose that would disprove this theory, for his dealings were all with Becker. Even if Becker divided with men "higher up," as Rose alleges, this still might be true without affecting the force generally, for among 10,000 men there may be a number of crooks and yet the vast majority remain honest. On behalf of our faith in human nature let us believe that this or something like it is the true explanation.

Waldo is not alone in asserting the absence of graft among the police. Many other high officials of the department have made similar statements. It is hardly possible that graft could exist without these men having some inkling of the fact—that is, unless it was confined to a few crooks who covered their tracks. Mayor Gaynor has also expressed his faith in the honesty of the police, while ripping it into the newspapers and most everybody else. So if Gaynor, Waldo and high police officials have faith in themselves and in each other why should we not have faith in them also?

Yet against all this pleasant optimism stands the one grim fact that Herman Rosenthal, gambler, was shot down at the Hotel Metropole only a few hours before he was to give evidence against police graft. And now, as ever, one fact is worth a thousand theories.

WOULD LIMIT APPEALS.

Wickersham Advises Congress Regarding Commerce Matters.

Attorney General Wickersham has advised congress that he does not approve any proposition to give shippers a blanket right of appeal to the commerce court from all so called negative rulings of the interstate commerce commission. He favors appeals only from such decisions as involve questions of law.

Mr. Wickersham makes it plain that shippers should not be permitted to appeal on questions of fact as to the reasonableness of their requests for reductions in rates in cases where the commission denies the relief. The appeal should lie only when the commission refuses to decrease a tariff because of its supposed want of jurisdiction. The lawful power of the interstate commerce commission to act in the premises should, the attorney general says, be determined by a court

So this is good news to you and your friends—it tells of the sale which began today with great enthusiasm.

We've gathered direct from the mills more than 125,000 yards of the A. P. C. Fabrics. If you could see the stacks of them in the receiving room as this is written you would wonder what we were going to do with them all. You wouldn't believe it possible to sell so many pieces of goods of this sort at this time of year, be they ever so good and ever so cheap. But the fact remains that season after season we have sold equal quantities, surpassing the sales of any other store in our long line of associates, big as is their output. "Newark Knows What's Good" would be a slogan befitting the people who participate in this sale.

As this is our new Autumn line the variety is naturally tremendous, embracing practically every pattern and coloring and color combinations that one could wish for. There are hundreds of patterns and a color range that is almost indescribable. There are styles for children's garments, for young folks' dresses, for middle-aged and the most elderly. More attractive patterns have never been printed. Richer colors have never gone into such modestly priced dress stuffs. You will find imitations of high-class all thru the line, and when they are made up you will hardly be able to tell them from the more costly goods from which they are copied.

These fabrics will be largely bought for morning dresses and for outing dresses.

They will also be largely used for girls' frocks, especially for school wear.

You will be delighted with the variety of youthful styles this collection embraces.

School children are more safely dressed in A. P. C. Fabrics than in other goods because they are hygienic, easily washed, and therefore have advantages over woolens.

The Leaves Fade in Autumn, But A. P. C. Fabrics Never

We want to impress upon your mind that the colors in A. P. C. Dress Fabrics are absolutely unfadable. Repeated washings cannot dim their beautiful fast colors. READY FOR ASTOR HEIR.

Dr. Cragin Installed In Home—Mrs. Astor Takes Auto Ride.

New York, Aug. 5.—For the first time since preparations were completed for the arrival of the posthumous child of Colonel John Jacob Astor, Dr. Edwin B. Cragin, professor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, who has been attending Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, remained all night at the Astor residence, 840 Fifth avenue.

Dr. Cragin arrived at the Astor home at 10 o'clock, and he will be present there continuously from now on. When he was asked how soon the new Astor heir was expected, he replied, "Oh, not for several days."

At the suggestion of her physician Mrs. Astor was taken out for an automobile ride. She was out for only a short while. It is said that a marked improvement in her health was noticed during her absence from the city recently.

GIRL IS STRANGLED; DOG GUARDS BODY

Posse Seeks Left Handed Man as Murderer.

Washington, Pa., Aug. 5.—A posse headed by Sheriff Lutton, with deputies and private detectives, is searching for a degenerate who choked to death eighteen-year-old Celia Funk, belle of the village of Manifold, near here.

A Newfoundland dog, the girl's pet, led the father to a tree in a ravine. The dog sniffed at a pile of grass and pine boughs at the foot of the tree. The father uncovered the body of his daughter.

On her throat were the finger prints of a man's left hand. In her right hand was part of a man's necktie. Evidently the girl had battled for her honor. The father rushed back home and sobbed out the story of his daughter's death. Villagers accompanied him to the ravine. The dog would permit no one to approach until the father petted it. The body then was carried to the Funk home.

From the imprints on the girl's throat detectives believe her assailant is a left handed man. This is the only clew.

WEDDING RING IN TREE.

Youths, Following Lightning's Visit, Find Gold Band Dated 1879.

Livingston, N. J., Aug. 5.—While out walking through the mountains James Anderson and Arthur McIntyre of Orange came across an old apple tree on the Thompson farm which had been split in half by the lightning two nights ago.

While examining the tree and tracing the course of the lightning the youths were surprised to see something glistening from the wood as if it were a piece of gold imbedded.

Pocket knives were soon brought into play and with some difficulty the young men succeeded in digging out a gold band wedding ring. The circle bore the inscription, "To Julia Henderson from John, May 17, 1879." Not even the oldest inhabitants could recall any one named Henderson having lived in this vicinity, and it is thought that some visitor lost the ring many years ago when the tree was but a sapling and that it became imbedded in the trunk.

PIRATE CRAFT ON LAKE.

Cottagers on Shore of Ontario Complain of Thefts by Crew.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Cottagers along the shores of Lake Ontario say that a pirate craft is plying the waters of the lake and that its crew is making depredations on residents. Mrs. W. W. Wixson at Long Pond has reported the theft of jewels estimated at $1,700 from her cottage, and many similar hauls bring the theft of loot up to a much larger figure.

Those who have seen the mysterious pirate craft say it is a long, low, drab vessel, with powerful engines, that it invariably runs with its mufler cut off and makes hardly a sound.

ATHLETICS GET AN EARLY LEAD AND HOLD ON TO IT

The Athletics took today's game in the Parker Field Junior Baseball League by defeating the Yankees with an 8 to 1 score. The game was sewed up in the first inning when Hamilton hit a batter and was touched up for hits by Sachar, Linke, Rosenson and Seidel. This netted them five scores and the Yankees were held scoreless until the ninth, when three hits saved them from a shut-out.

SLOCUM HIT IN BAYONNE.

Louis Slocum's dash for Rube Marquard's pitching record was stopped at Bayonne yesterday afternoon when the team of that place were defeated by the strong Bronx Independents by a score of 4 to 1. This was the same score that won Saturday's game against Raritan for Slocum but the local boy was not up to his usual good form at Bayonne. Other familiar faces in the Bayonne lineup were Lidgate who completed the battery, Bill Stallings, who played first base, and Washburn who coveted around third.

Two loose contests, one unmerciful walloping and a single change in the league standing were the results brought out in the games played in the Sunday-school Baseball League, Saturday. What was, perhaps the best and closest fought battle of the three, was pulled off on the Temple Baptist grounds, when the Temple's fell before the Monroe's, the league leaders.

In the two games that have been played between Hope Chapel and Park Avenue, the Chapelites were held scoreless for seventeen innings. In the second contest on Saturday, the Chapel nine were held without a run until the ninth when they managed to get four. They lost just the same. The First Baptist baseball team lambasted the South Plainfielders.

After traveling in the rear for eight innings, the Monroe Avenue baseball team, leaders of the Sunday-school League, came to the front with a pair of runs in the ninth and snatched the game from the plucky Temple Baptist ball tossers. The score was six to five.

The Temple Baptist lads took the lead in the second inning when they got one run across the rubber when Meyers was hit by the pitcher, stole second, went to third on Gullberg's sacrifice and counted on Mathews' single.

Monroe came back in the fourth with a trio of counts which gave it the lead. Gunzelman walked, went to second on Gullberg's fumble of Dorman's single and Gunzelman registered on Stewart's wild throw. Dorman went home on Beekman's single. Beekman stole second and third and counted on a fielder's choice to catch Hess at first.

The tailenders tied things up in the next inning. Mathews got to first when Brown fumbled his fly, went to second on D. Parrott's single and Stewart's two bagger brought in Mathews, and Parrot went to third. Huff's single brought in Parrot.

Temple got one more in the sixth on Hess' wild throw after Meyers had singled to first, stole second and reached third on Gullberg's sacrifice. Monroe tied the score up again in the seventh when Brown singled and went all the way home on Pennoyer's two bagger.

Temple Baptist took the lead in the ninth when Stewart got a berth at first, went to second on Huff's single and scored on a wild pitch by Hendry. The margin looked good until the league leaders opened up in their half of the ninth. Pennoyer singled, went to second on Stewart's wild throw, and made third on Bolmer's single. The latter stole second and Pennoyer scored on Gunzelman's sacrifice. Bolmer counted on Dorman's single winning the game.

Stewart kept up his strikeout reputation by fanning sixteen.

Smarting under the defeat administered to its last week by the Temple Baptist ball tossers the First Baptist nine of the Sunday-school League came back good and strong with a 23 to 6 walloping over the South Plainfield Baptists. The winners hit the dleivery of Sofield for twenty-three safeties and circled the bases at will. They pushed runs across the rubber in every round but the second, and when a First Baptist man got on the bases he generally kept going until he crossed the pan. Stolen bases were numerous and long hits unusually common.

Smith and Pierson divided the pitching honors for the winners, and both were effective against the villagers who could not hit the biggest of baseballs Saturday afternoon. But two hits were scored off the winner's pitchers, while Sofield, of the South Plainfield team, was touched up for twenty-three, seven of them being for extra bases.

Stine played a star game for the local lads, pounding out five hits, three of them two-baggers and one a three-bagger. Pierson was not far behind him with a three-bagger, a two-bagger and two singles. Stine also had three stolen bases to his credit and handled ten perfect chances behind the bat.

After pulling off a whirlwind finish that netted them four tallies, the Hope Chapel baseball team had to accept a 6 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Park Avenue nine, and at the same time yield their position in the Sunday-school League standing to the Park's. Up to the ninth funing, Mills, the Park Avenue twirler was invincible. The only player who could solve his delivery up to that stanza was Tommy Heron, and he banged out the two hits.

Hope woke up in the ninth and came within an ace of tying the score. All the Chapelites runs were scored on three healthy swats in the last round, and they had an excellent chance of tying the score, as two men were on the bases when Schott came to bat. He was unequal to the occasion, however, and three strikes were called on him before he became aware of the situation.

Although Schott fanned but four and allowed five hits, he was given better support than was Mills, who had to counteract eight bad errors. Ragged fielding was in evidence on the part of Snyder, Schott and Mosher. Gage played a brilliant game behind the bat for Park Avenue and handled the speedy shoots of Mills to perfection.

CARTERET WHITEWASHED BY ALBERTS' 'PLAINSMEN

Soteh Plains, with old war horse "Warry" MacLaughlin in the box, had no trouble in defeating Carteret yesterday afternoon, in the game played at the 'Plains, Joe Alberts' combination winning by the score of 5-0. MacLaughlin allowed but three scattering hits and had the game safe at all stages, striking out ten, and gave but three free passes. F. Andrews, who was on the mound for Carteret, was in good form, holding the 'Plains to five hit, but was only able to fan four of the 'Plains "swatters," and was as free as MacLaughlin, giving three passes.

The 'Plains got busy in their half of the second. Mullin drew a pass, MacLaughlin sacrificed him to second. Miller got to first on an infield error. Deintzo put a warm one to short, who made a pretty stop but threw the ball over into the right field bleachers, scoring Mullin and Miller. In the third they brought three men across. Frentz walked, stole second, Wiltse bringing him home on a single to center field. Mullin's two base hit to left scored Wiltse, Tommy coming in from second on a passed ball. Neither side was able to cross the pan after this, the game settling down to a one-two-three order. Following is the game in detail:

ROYAL GIANTS WIN.

Kenilworth was invaded yesterday afternoon by the Royal Colored Giants' baseball team of this city and the dusky ball heavers carried away a 12 to 4 victory. Heavy swatting and fast work on the bases sewed up the game for the visitors in the early stages of the contest. Brown, of the Giants, twirled his usual steady and effective game, allowing but five hits and fanning seven of the opposing batters. The hitting honors were taken in by Borden, a new man in the Royals' lineup, who pounded out a quartet of safe wallops, two of them being for extra bases.

The Manufacturers' Baseball League is beginning to narrow down into a tight race between the Commercials and R. G. E. Only two regular games still remain in the league scredule but there are a number of postponed contests that will have to be decided after the league closes. Saturday's games brought forth no change in the league as far as actual standing is concerned and unless some team takes a decided brace during the few remaining games the league standing will probably be final as it now stands. R. G. E. took a 12 to 2 fall out of the Public Service and the Commercials took an eleventh hour finish from the Spicers by the score of 9 to 5. The Banks and Saurer game resulted in a win for the Saurers by a score of 15 to 8.

After playing thrilling ball for six innings the Spicer baseball team blew up in the seventh and allowed the Commercials to push a quartet of runs across. The score was 9 to 6 in favor of the Commercials, but the tally does not show how closely the game was fought.

The contest settled into a pitcher's dual between Van Zant and Dolan and both twirled gilt-edged ball. The first hit off Dolan came in the seventh and in the remaining two innings the Commercials got seven. These together with the six errors made by the Spicer aggregation threw the game up. Van Zant was in supberb form, fanning ten batters and although he allowed ten hits they were fairly well scattered. He was accorded better support than Dolan and his teammates pulled him out of a number of tight holes.

The Commercial's four runs in the seventh were made on errors by O'Loughlin, C. Jaeger and Kiely and clean hits by Brokaw and Clarke.

Spicer's had their big inning in the eighth and netted a trio of runs on heavy wallops by Thompson, Kiely and Wyckoff and a base on balls handed out to C. Jaeger.

The hitting laurels of the game were divided among Fritts, Thompson, Kiely and Wyckoff, who each got a pair of safties, and Conshay who piled up three. O'Loughlin and Kiely also added two base hits to their afternoon's contribution.

By overwhelming the Public Service ball tossers the R. G. E. baseball team of the Manufacturers' League strengthened their claim to the championship title and about the only thing now left to do is to hand them the cup. The P. S. players took a 12 to 2 count and were never in it after the first inning. The R. G. E. combination scored at will and hit the opposing twirler to the four corners of the lot as they have done in most of their other league contests.

Fleming, as usual, was on the firing line for the winners and he maintained his claim to the pitching supremacy by holding the opposing batsmiths to four scattered hits and fanning seven. Coriell was the only batter who could solve his delivery to any extent and he pounded out a single and a two base hit. Montross, who started the box work for the Park Avenue team, became discouraged after the third inning and Coriell took up the pitchers' burden. Every man on the opposing side, with the exception of Hoffman, managed to pound out at least one bingle. Miller carried away the batting laurels by annexing a quartet of healthy ones.

EDDIE STALLINGS CINCHES A GAME

SCORE WAS 11 TO 3

With Flynn's Best Pitcher Invalided, and a Substitute in the Box, Plainfield Had An Easy Time Winning.

Manager Flynn and his team of baseball warriors were again snowed under by the Plainfield baseball team on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. This time the Westfielders took an 11 to 3 count, but the one-sided score was more or less the result of a hard luck story.

The visitors banked their chances of victory largely on George Ortlieb, the twirler who held Plainfield in hand during the first contest and who gave such a sterling exhibition of the twirler's art against Dunellen last week. Ortlieb, however, was severely injured when he was hit in the head by a smash from the bat of Eddie Stallings in the first inning. Stallings, who was the second man to face Ortlieb, banged a liner directly at the pitcher's box. Ortlieb staggered and fell.

He gamely returned to the box after a few minutes, but he was unfit for service. His control was noticeably affected by the jarring crack, and he retired in the fourth. Ulrich came in from right field to take his place.

Frederickson was also hit by a ball off the bat that resembled closely the one hit by Stallings, but the ball glanced off the edge of his finger and he was able to continue in the game.

Plainfield began its runfest in the first inning. After Cosgrove had been disposed of, Stallings got to first through the injury to Ortlieb, was advanced to third on Harter's hit, and scored when the centrefielder threw wild trying to catch him stealing third. Harter went to third on the wild heave and counted on Bill Stallings' double to centre. Two runs.

In the second inning Emery got a berth on first via the free ticket route, Nelson fanned, Frederickson walked, Cosgrove hit to short, Kurfuss forcing Frederickson, but threw wild to first allowing Emery to score. One run.

Third inning: Harter walked and was advanced to third on W. Stallings hit past first. Stallings started for second and the ball caught him in the back. He took third and Harter scored. Driscoll's sacrifice fly to left brought in Stallings. Two runs.

In the sixth inning Driscoll walked and stole second. Emery walked, Nelson singled to centre, Driscoll was called out at the plate on what proved to be a very doubtful decision. Emery counted on a wild pitch, Nelson going to second. Frederickson singled and took second on a passed ball, on which Nelson scored. Cosgrove and Eddie Stallings both got four wide ones and Harter doubled to left bringing in all three. Five runs.

The home players completed their scoring at their last appearance at the bat when the visitors's second baseman let Frederickson's roller go through his legs. Cosgrove flied out to third and Eddie Stallings brought Freddy home on a three base hit.

Westfield's lone trio of tallies came in the fifth. Ulrich was presented with a berth at the first station, and went to second on Fisher's single to right. Kull fanned and Kurfuss walked filling the bases. Egler got a three base hit to right field bringing the three runs.

Manager Flynn seems to have signed up a crack player in Egler. The former Newark Athletic's player was the whole show both at bat and in the field. He brought Westfield's three tallies across the rubber on a beautiful three-bagger.

Eddie Stallings, as usual, wielded the willow to good advantage for the home aggregation and Harter clouted the ball freely when hits were needed.

NEARLY GOT NO-HIT GAME TO HIS CREDIT

Slocum Holds Somerville Punchless Until the Ninth —Wins 4 to 1.

In a pitchers' battle at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, the team of that place playing under the name of Raritan, were defeated by the Bound Brook baseball team by the score of 4 to 1. Louis Slocum, the Plainfield twirler, was on the mound for the visitors, and until the ninth inning had a no-run, no-hit game up his sleeve. After being held without a run or hit for eight innings the Raritan bunch came back in the last round with three bingles and one run. Bound Brook put the game away in the seventh when Powers, Mullin, Grimes and Nolan each got a hit and Powers stole home. Grimes and Nolan also scored in this inning and Lidgate brought one home in the eighth.

Eddie Kratt was on the mound for the home nine and although he fanned ten, his delivery was touched up for a total of eight hits, which netted the Bound Brook's all of their four counts. Slocum, although he cheated himself out of a position on the pinnacle of fame, fanned twelve batters and held the hits to three, all in the ninth. In the fifth inning Slocum retired the side on three pitched balls assisted by Bollinger who was credited with the three put-outs, and Mullin who made three assists out of the three hits which were all easy rollers to short. Bound Brook made the two errors that were scored in the contest, but neither of them was costly.

The star of the game proved to be Mullin, another Plainfield boy, who played third base for the Bound Brook team, and made a number of sensational catches and cracked out the only extra base hit of the contest, a two-bagger.

DUNELLEN HAS AN EASY TIME BEATING CRANFORD

Dunellen wound up its three-game series with the Cranford baseball team at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon, by defeating the visitors 12 to 3. Unlike the two previous contests, one of which went thirteen innings, the final contest was loosely played and a number of bunched misplays and heavy wallops soon put the game on ice. Manager Bogardus' charges lambasted the offerings of Cavanaugh, an ex-leaguer, for a total of ten healthy swats, two of them being pretty two baggers by Martin and MacLaughlin. After the third stanza the veteran iron man was invincible and allowed but three hits and held the opposing side scoreless.

Billy Coyle, the midget Plainfield short stop, was the whole show at the bat for the home nine. He walloped the ball on every appearance at the plate and although he is credited with only three bingles, spectacular fielding was the only thing that kept the others from being counted as such. Although he made a wild heave to Barnes in the fifth, Coyle fully redeemed himself with a number of classy stops and lightning throws. MacLaughlin and Martin were also there with the stickwork for the Dunellenites, each getting two pretty licks.

Dunellen began her runfest and won the game in the second round, when it annexed a quintet of counts. Every man came to the bat in this inning when errors and wild twirling figured prominently. MacLaughlin led off with a three bagger, Barnes got on by Krissman's error, and both counted on Coyle's single. Schott was hit by the pitcher, Elliott drew a free trip to first and the trio came across on an infield error. Dunellen pushed runs across at will from then on and it became only a matter of how many scores would be made. Cranford scored its three runs in the third.

MacLaughlin retired the side in four pitched balls in the fifth inning. Coyle got all the assists and Barnes the put-outs.

PICK-UP NINE GOOD ENOUGH.

Owing to the fact that the majority of the members of the Scotch Plains ball team have signed with other teams for Saturday games, Manager Alberts was compelled to take a pick-up nine over to New Providence Saturday afternoon. The lineup included but three of the regular players, Alberts, Frentz and Wiltse. However, his selection was good and the 'Plains won after one of the best games the New Providence fans have witnessed this season, the score being 1-0 in favor of the 'Plains. The lone tally was an earned run in the sixth. Wiltse and Garrison did the battery work for the 'Plains, while Fulton was on the mound for New Providence with Williams on the receiving end.

DISOWNED BRIDE AND HUSBAND ARE HAPPY

Ocean Grove, Aug. 5.—Parental ire in far off Rahway had no effect on the spirits of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Borden, runaway newlyweds, when a number of their friends tendered them a wedding supper at the Norman House, Bath avenue, Friday night.

Despite the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Ayers, the bride's parents, have disowned her as the result of her marriage July 29 to Mr. Borden, also of Rahway, the young couple were happy.

Among those in attendance were Miss M. U. Shulthin and Mrs. F. R. Schoeck, of Newark; Miss J. E. Lewis and Miss L. V. McComb, of Nutley; Miss M. A. Leach, B. G. Hingle, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hingle, of Rutherford, and F. T. Borden and R. W. Miller, of Rahway.

THANKED FOR RETURN OF $6,000 IN JEWELS

Long Branch, Aug. 5.—A "thank you" was the reward of a conductor of an Atlantic Coast electric railway car who returned diamonds and jewels valued at $6,000 lost by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick MacGlown, of West Fifty-fourth street, New York, guests at a hotel here.

The jewels were in a package that was picked up in a car by a negro. The packet looked to be of value and the conductor advised the negro to let him take it to headquarters. The negro acquiesced.

The losers soon entered a claim and readily identified their property, which consisted of half a dozen diamond rings and several brooches and stickpins. After thanking the conductor, thanking him with apparent sincerity, they returned to their hotel.

THREE DAIRIES CLOSED.

Trenton, Aug. 5.—Three dairies were closed during July by the State as shown by the report for the month by the Division of Creameries and Dairies of the State Board of Health. One was in Hudson county, one in Hunterdon and one in Morris. The inspections numbered 300. Of this total 130 dairies were above 60 per cent. of the perfect mark and 176 below. The Division of Food and Drugs inspected 672 samples and found 144 below standard. Fifty suits were begun, thirty-three of these applying to milk violations. The Division of Sewerage and Water Supplies analyzed 383 samples and abated 214 cases of stream pollution. Ninety cases were referred to the Attorney-General.

CHATHAM PRINCIPAL TO WED.

Chatham, Aug. 5.—Word has reached here that Miss Emily Boardman, of Brumansburg, N. Y., principal of the High School, is to wed Dr. William Tilton, a professor of biology in Pomona College, California, in September. The announcement came as a surprise as Miss Boardman was reappointed principal by the Board of Education last June. She has held the position the past seven years. With the announcement of Miss Boardman's prospective marriage comes the announcement that she will resign. This has caused regret because of Miss Boardman's efficiency as a teacher.

DISOWN CORPSE OF LAKE HOPATCONG VICTIM

Dover, Aug. 5.—Despite the positive identification of the body found in Lake Hopatcong, near the Mt. Arlington dock, as that of John Purcell, of Paterson, brothers of Purcell have refused to recognize the remains as those of their kin. The body was buried by the authorities Saturday morning. Purcell's brothers came from the Silk City in response to a telephone message.

The identification was made by John Putoz, of Camp Ivanhoe. Putoz said he recognized the body by the heavy head of hair and by a hole in the left pant leg about the knee. The identification was substantiated by the postoffice key which was found in the victim's pocket. Putoz visited the postoffice at Nolan's Point and the key opened box 233, which is rented by the South Paterson Athletic Club, the members of which occupy Camp Spac, in Byram Bay.

Purcell, who was in charge of the camp, has been missing since July 23, and was last seen leaving Nolan's Point in a flat-bottom rowboat.

Postmaster Richards, at Nolan's Point, said Saturday that Purcell had the only key that would unlock the box. Putoz, who knew Purcell about twelve years and had been in his company almost every day during the season at the lake, is confident as to the identification.

E. J. Feeney, treasurer of the South Paterson Athletic Club, was reached by telephone at his office in Paterson Saturday afternoon and a description of the man given him. Mr. Feeney mentioned the hole in the knee of the khaki trousers worn by Purcell and, when told the hole was there, said he felt sure the body was that of Purcell.

TO PAY CITY $87,000 FOR BATH PRIVILEGES

Asbury Park, Aug. 5.—The Public Grounds Commission has awarded to Mitchell & Frey the bathing privileges along the beach front for the next three years. Their bid was $87,000, which includes all the privileges of the swimming pool at the foot of First avenue. Mitchell & Frey, who are residents of Jersey City, have had the contract for several years.

The largest bid received for the privileges of selling confectionery along the boardwalk, was from a company of local business men, and was $39,800. W. J. Couse, the present lessee, bid $36,000. The commission deferred action for a week. Bechtel & Koch will control the sale of novelties on the boardwalk for the next three years and John L. Schneider was again awarded the contract for rolling chair privileges.

NEW THEATRE PROPOSED.

Morristown, Aug. 5.—A proposal to rent a theatre to be constructed has been made the McAlpin estate by the Klaw & Erlanger interests. The site desired is in the rear of the present United States Hotel, with a wide foyer entrance from Park place. The estate is considering the construction of a modern hotel on the site, provided an agreement is reached with the theatrical firm.

PICTURES IN THE CAPITOL.

Among the most interesting features of the capitol at Washington are the numerous paintings of departed statesmen and events of importance in our national history. In the wide gallery back of the house of representatives are portraits of the various speakers of the house. The likeness of each speaker is hung in this hall of fame upon his retirement from office.

The portrait of every speaker can be found there, with but one exception. The missing face is that of Nathaniel Macon of North Carolina, who was speaker from 1801 to 1807. Macon was a modest, unassuming man of simple manners, attired always in the coarse homespun of the day, although an exceptionally able official. A lover of horses and cattle, he entered the pedigree of his own blooded stock in his family Bible. Macon never posed for his picture. Although every effort has been made to discover a portrait of him, the search has been without avail.

A service of barely five minutes in the speaker's chair won for one man a space on the wall of this gallery. Schuyler Colfax, speaker of the house, was elected vice president and took the oath of office on the 4th of March, 1869. On the morning of that day Colfax resigned the speakership, and Theodore M. Pomeroy of New York was elected speaker for the remaining few minutes of the session.

The picture of Thomas B. Reed was painted during the last year of his term of office. When it was shown to him he looked at it closely. He noticed the protruding lips, the florid complexion, the heavy, flabby cheeks and massive neck.

His eyelids partly closed and his countenance grew cold. Slowly and with his inimitable drawl he commented:

"I hope that my dearest enemy is satisfied now."

Then with an expression of irony on his countenance he turned and left the room.

Of the many portraits from life in the capitol the most valuable is one of the Gilbert Stuart pictures of Washington. There are two portraits of Washington by Stuart. One of these Stuart portraits of Washington cost the government $5,000. This is the most expensive portrait in the capitol. However, other pictures in the building have been infinitely more expensive—for instance, the great "Battle of Lake Erie," at the turn of the senate staircase, showing Commodore Perry leaving his flagship at the height of the battle, cost $30,000.

SLEUTHS FAIL TO ARREST GUNMEN

BECKER ARRAIGNED TODAY

Lieutenant Charged With Planning Rosenthal Murder to Plead—Jack Rose, on Verge of Collapse From Fear, In Dread of Assassination on Journey to Court.

New York, Aug. 5.—From Inspector Hughes, in charge of the central office men in the Catskill mountains word came to Deputy Commissioner Dougherty that they were still hunting Louis Rosenszweig ("Lefty Louie") and Harry Horowitz ("Gyp the Blood").

The news from Tannersville, Greene county, around which the New York detectives and deputy sheriffs have been operating, was that the two men, accused of the murder of Rosenthal, had slipped through the police lines and that the hunt was over so far as the Catskills is concerned.

One of the central office men who appeared under the circumstances to be extraordinarily loquacious said that the detectives were withdrawing from the mountains and returning to New York because they had information that "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood" would surrender at police headquarters. Headquarters, said this communicative sleuth, had been informed of the forthcoming surrender and had therefore ordered back the Catskill squad.

Dougherty Makes a Denial.

Mr. Dougherty flatly denied the story. He said that he was in charge of the hunt for the fugitives and that he had every reason to believe that Rosenszweig and Horowitz were hiding in one of the little villages west of the town of Catskill. He had given no orders, he said, for a discontinuance of the chase. On the contrary, he was continuing by phone the direction of the Catskill squad. It was untrue also, said the deputy commissioner, that the police had received word that the two would surrender.

"Maybe somebody is interested in circulating that story," he added. "I am working now on the same theory that I started on," said Dougherty. "The men we want were in the Catskills recently, and I believe they are now. We think we have them located in a comparatively small district. Rosenszweig and Horowitz are running out of money, and they can't conceal themselves very much longer. If any of my men have withdrawn from Tannersville—and no such information has come to me—they did it because their faces were getting too familiar to the natives. Probably they had been accurately described to Rosenszweig and Horowitz. Let us suppose that it was desirable to station around Tannersville new men who have not become known to the natives. Inspector Hughes may have taken this step. If he did it was probably a wise move."

The report from Tannersville was that ten central office men had left that town, leaving two on guard. The ten who departed took a train going to Kingston. But even Tannersville had a notion that perhaps the withdrawal of the main force was for the purpose of fooling the fugitives into the belief that the hunt was over.

"It would have been a sensible trick," said Dougherty. "There is no doubt that Rosenszwig and Horowitz have been hiding closely since "Lefty" Lewis was caught. I wish I could get word to them that we had given up the chase."

Becker Arraigned Today.

Lieutenant Becker will be taken from the Tombs to Part II. of the court of general sessions to say whether he desires to change his plea of not guilty. And Jack Rose will be brought from the west side court prison to Coroner Feinberg's court in an adjourned hearing. Mr. Whitman will be busy also with the newest prisoner, "Whitey" Lewis, with Rose Webber and Vallon, and with witnesses who proffer corroboration of the stories of the informers.

Rose is afraid to leave his prison. He told his lawyer today that he was afraid he would be shot going to or from the criminal courts building. He asked Lawyer Sullivan to appear for him before the coroner and to agree to another adjournment of the hearing.

"Rose is as badly scared," said Mr. Sullivan, "as he was the night he confessed. His nerves have gone all to pieces. He begged me to get District Attorney Whitman's consent to a postponement."

OFFER CRANE JOB OF WILSON TREASURER

Hasn't Indicated as Yet That He Will Accept.

New York, Aug. 5.—National Chairman William F. McCombs would not admit that Charles R. Crane was even a tentative choice for campaign treasurer. Josephus Daniels, another member of the Democratic national committee, was also reticent. But it can be said on the authority of a man who knows the gist of the Wilson-McCombs conference that Mr. Crane will have the job if he will accept it. Whether or not he would accept was not known here.

Mr. Crane is president of the R. F. Crane company, elevator manufacturers, of Chicago. He had always been a Democrat until he voted for Mr. Taft in 1908. In 1910 he was appointed United States minister to China, but on the eve of his departure from San Francisco he was recalled. The reasons for the recall have never been officially stated, but it was generally understood he was thought to have talked indiscreetly as to the purpose of his mission. It has also been said that Japan dropped a hint that another selection would be more acceptable to that nation.

A POET'S GUARDIAN.

Paludan-Muller's Fierce Little Wife Kept Him Secluded.

The famous poet of Denmark, Paludan-Muller, was closely guarded in his later years by an eccentric wife, greatly his senior. Of her preposterous oddity, writes Edmund Gosse in "Two Visits to Denmark," stories were everywhere current in Copenhagen. She kept him as much as she possibly could from all intercourse with the outer world. During a visit to Copenhagen the host of Mr. Gosse decided to invite the poet to dine, and his daughter and guest were sent on a mission to invite him.

If we could secure him for a night convenient to him, writes Mr. Gosse, all that was brightest and best in Copenhagen was to be constrained to come too. But fortune was against us. If we had found him alone it is possible that success might have crowned our efforts. When we arrived with our dinner invitation on our lips we were damped by being told the poet had gone out for a walk, but that Mrs. Paludan-Muller would receive us. The fierce little lady, in fact, closed our retreat by peeping round the edge of the door and commanding us to enter. Miss Aline Fog, overwhelmed by the event, lost her presence of mind and blurted out the invitation, which it would have been wiser to suppress.

The answer came at once: "Impossible, my dear lady, impossible! I could not sanction it. Mr. Paludan Muller is weak; he is good natured; he is only too ready to go into society. It is my privilege to prevent it. I say to him: 'You are too delicate, my dear, to mix with others. You must positively consider your health.'"

Miss Fog feebly asked whether the poet might not himself be appealed to. "such old friends; so small a party; so early an hour." The lady was quite obdurate, however. "I could not trust him with your message. He is so weak, so good natured. His place is at home with me. I do not wish to dine abroad. Why should he?"

MONSTER ICEBERGS.

One Five Miles In Length Grounded at Cape Race In 1884.

The first glimpse of icebergs is likely to bring disappointment to one who has feasted his imagination upon descriptions of their ponderous bulk and imperturbable demeanor. The glistening white, marble-like blocks dotting the blue expanse to the horizon seem too small to be guilty of the disasters charged against them. They do not seem capable of causing the shipwrecks and suffering that lie at the bottom of the universal homage paid them by the mariner.

As one approaches them they gain in grandeur and impressiveness. They range from 50 to 300 feet in height, and one that rose above the water to an elevation of 836 feet has been recorded. They vary in length and breadth, bergs a mile long and a quarter to a half mile wide being not uncommon. It is reported that one which was five miles in length ran aground in 1884 on Cape Race, and persons from the headlands of St. John's saw one three miles in length pass that point in 1893. One nearly five miles long was seen off the coast of Labrador in 1905, and in April, 1892, observers in the neighborhood of Notre Dame bay, on the northeast coast of Newfoundland, saw one which is said to have been nine miles long and more than half a mile in width and 200 feet high. A similar one is reported to have been passed by the steamer Portia off Cape Fogo, Newfoundland, five years later.

Curious characteristics are seen sometimes when approaching an iceberg in the neighborhood of the gulf stream. It will be bearded with icicles formed from the dripping of the monster itself, and occasionally a cataract will be seen pouring from its crest into the sea, the source of which is a small lake formed on the top by the sun's rays and fog.—New York Tribune.

Fully Assimilated.

Ray S. Baker, the author, in an argument on immigration cited the marvelous speed wherewith the immigrant family, be it German or French or what not, becomes assimilated into the national life.

"An instance of this assimilation occurs to me," he said. "I know a worthy Neapolitan, one Paoli Cenci, who came to this country three years ago. Paoli's little son, Francesco, an American citizen of seven, looked up from his schoolbooks the other evening to ask:

"'Say, pa, what year was it you Italians discovered us in?'"—Exchange.

Commissioners to Assess $51,000 On Property Owners For Sewerage Construction—Asst. Fire Chief Gets Increased Pay.

The Union County Board of Taxation in a communication to the Common Council, at its meeting, last night, submitted corrected amounts to be raised by taxation in Plainfield this year, an error having been made recently. The corrected figures are as follows: General purposes, $202-000; contingencies, $15,000; schools, $88,000, making a total of $305,300.

There was also received from the Board of Freeholders a copy of a resolution adopted at the last meeting, setting forth that there is to be raised the coming year for county expenses, $450,000, and notifying the assessors to meet at Elizabeth today, as required by law.

Charles S. Maltby, of 974 Park avenue, in a communication to the Council complained that Walter Apgar is making a dumping ground of the property adjoining his and that the same is a nuisance. He stated that he had reported the matter to the Board of Health, but that body had paid no attention to his complaint. The communication was referred to the street committee.

The Board of Health, in response to a request from the Council, submitted a record of inspections of trolley cars in this city during June and July. This showed a record of 21 clean, 6 fair, 3 dirty and 2 poor. This was referred to the laws and ordinance committee. Another communication from the Board of Health requested the city to enforce the "peace and good morals" ordinance in assisting the Board to keep clean various yards about the city. This was referred to the public affairs committee.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, at the request of many petitioners, sent to the Council a petition requesting that action be taken to abate the soft-coal smoke nuisance in the city. Mr. Moy, commenting on the matter, stated that he considered this to be a menace to health and he did not believe that the abatement of the nuisance would prove any hardship. Councilman Holt had the communication referred to the committee on laws and ordinances, explaining that it was planned to take action upon the return of Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that twenty-seven permits had been issued during the past month, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of eighteen sewer permits during the same period.

Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, in a communication to Councilman C. C. Randolph, explained that he had examined the dog pound and found it to be an unfit place to keep canines; yet he added that with some changes it could be made to answer the purpose until October 1. A copy of the above was ordered sent to the S. P. C. A., which had complained about conditions at the pound.

Overseer of the Poor H. L. DeForest in his monthly report disapproved of the practice of some people in giving alms to inmates of the Industrial Home. He also reported that the city farm is doing well under the direction of the caretaker.

Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts of $119.81 for July and disbursements of $40.21, the balance, $79.60, having been forwarded to the city treasurer.

A resolution offered by Councilman P. J. Reville, and adopted, provided for borrowing $18,000 for street improvements. Later Councilman Holt offered resolutions providing for the issuing of $18,000 worth of 5 per cent. bonds, for the above purpose; presenting a form of bond, and fixing Tuesday night, September 3, as the time when bids will be received for the bonds. Other resolutions by Mr. Holt, which were adopted, authorized Hawkins, Delafield & Longfield, bond experts, to pass on the bonds, and placing the order for printing the bonds with the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company at an expense not to exceed $50.

Councilman P. J. Reville, for the chairman of the finance committee, who was absent, offered a resolution giving Assistant Fire Chief A. D. Jennings an additional $25 a month for clerical work in connection with the work of the building inspector. The resolution was adopted, but Mr. Reville voted in the negative.

Resolutions offered by Councilman Gloak, and adopted, provided for the establishment of sidewalk lines on Sherman avenue and West Third

SECRETARIAL BERTH FOR MR. WHITESIDE

One-time Newspaper Man Leaves Pastorate to Serve Under Bishop Henderson.

Rev. Francis E. Whiteside, a former newspaper worker here known to many Plainfielders, who has been a Methodist minister since 1904 when he was graduated from Drew Seminary, has resigned the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church at Islip, L. I., to take the position of secretary to the college department of the General Conference Commission On Evangelism of the Methodist church. His headquarters will be at Chattanooga, Tenn., to which city he and his family will remove September 1. The work in which he will be engaged is in charge of Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, whose residence is at Chattanooga. Mr. Whiteside's resignation from the Islip pastorate will take effect August 25.

Mr. Whiteside, after leaving the seminary, was associated with Bishop Henderson in the work at the East Side Parish, New York. His first charge was at East Norwich, L. I., where he remained from 1905-1906. He was then sent to East Quogue, L. I., where he served the church at that place from 1907 to 1908. At the end of that year he was transferred to Islip, where he has been for the past three years and a half. His church has released him so that he can take the new position at Chattanooga without delay. The resignation was received with keen regret.

The selection of Mr. Whiteside for the position is a signal recognition of his ability. It was while Bishop Henderson, who was then pastor of a large Brooklyn church, was conducting evangelistic services in this city, that Mr. Whiteside was converted and led to enter the ministry. His work ever since has been closely watched by friends, and there is no surprise over the fact that he was the first one selected for the position at Chattanooga.

Mr. Whiteside and his family have been spending a few days here. They were called to Plainfield by the death of Mrs. Whiteside's sister, Miss Jessie Isabel Hockridge.

WESTFIELD MAYOR MAKES SUGGESTION ON ROAD WORK

Mayor Dennis made a short speech at the Westfield Council meeting last night in which he advocated that all the road work be held over till next year when it could be done under one large contract. In this way the work will be started early in the year and will be completed in the same year and not be held over through the winter with the roads torn up. Town Engineer Vars said that better prices on the work could be obtained in midwinter when the contractors are not so busy.

Colonel Hine, of the Public Service Railway Company, presented a petition for permission to change the trolley curve at Park and Summit avenues. The petition was referred to road, sewer and water committee for consideration.

William Horan, of New York City, was awarded the contract for sewer work. His bid was $14,665.85. Liddell & Pieffer, of Perth Amboy, were awarded the road improvement contract. The traffic regulation ordinance was passed on first reading and the building ordinance passed on second and third readings.

Numerous small business and sidewalk and road improvement ordinances were passed on.

BIG EXCURSION TRAIN.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has engaged three sections of twelve coaches each for the annual excursion to Asbury Park on Thursday, and this will insure plenty of room for everyone planning to go. The excursion will leave Plainfield at 8:10 o'clock in the morning and everyone intending to go is requested to be prompt. This is the only excursion from Plainfield to Asbury Park when children's tickets are sold for seventy-five cents, the object being to make it chiefly an outing for the children. Returning, the excursion will leave Asbury Park at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

HOPE EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of Hope chapel to Asbury Park is announced for Saturday, and this outing promises to be one of the best of the season. There are many people who find Saturday a convenient day for such a trip and the usual large crowd is expected this year. The train will leave the Grant Avenue Station at 7:55 o'clock in the morning and the North Avenue station at 8 o'clock and returning will leave Asbury Park at 8 o'clock in the evening. The committee has engaged two sections with a view to making the trip in comfort.

WARNING TO MOOSE

Party Members Under Suspicion of Intended Defection Will Be Challenged to Swear to Support Candidates If They Enter Primaries.

Called together by the City Committee for the purpose of discussing the local political situation and endorsing a city ticket, members of the Republican party to the number of fifty assembled in the committee's rooms in the Frost building last night. But nothing on the lines projected was accomplished. In fact, the only business transacted resolved itself into the appointment of Harry C. Runyon as chairman and Roger F. Murray as secretary of the meeting, together with a discussion of the intentions of the Bull Moose party during the campaign.

In this connection, a motion was passed with several dissenting that the Republican City Committee take steps to inform the voters that according to law if they voted for a majority of the Republican nominees at the last election they must vote the Republican ticket at the coming primaries or not at all, and that if challenged they must swear their intention of supporting the Republican candidates. Any who were suspected of intended defection will be challenged at the booths.

This motion followed a statement of the chairman that the Bull Moose faction were going to contest every city and county office and that if they obtained a majority of votes complete control would be placed in their hands. Consequently it was up to the members of the Republican party to see that their candidates were elected.

A discussion then followed as to the best ways and means of thwarting any such aim of the Bull Moose party. Roger F. Murray was of the opinion that it would be unwise at this juncture to take any definite action until they saw what was done at the Chicago convention, and whether it was the intention of the "Progressives" to cut themselves entirely loose and have a third ticket at the coming election. He did not think the Progressives would take part in the New Jersey Republican primaries; but in those States in which they had control they would control as Republicans.

The chairman asked for opinions regarding the political conditions in the county but with the exception of a remark that "things were pretty well mixed" nothing was forthcoming.

When the question was raised about the naming and endorsement of a city ticket former Judge William Newcorn said that at present he considered it inadvisable to discuss candidates for the various elective positions in the city. Those present concurred in this view and a motion for adjournment being in order the meeting disbanded.

DEATH CLAIMS FORMER PLAINFIELDER ABROAD

A cablegram has been received here by friends informing them of the death of Henry A. Beguelin at Epleatures, Switzerland, on August 1. Mr. Beguelin was formerly a resident of Plainfield. He left here about fifteen years ago and had since been making his home in Switzerland. He was a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. He was a nephew of Tell A. Beguelin, of this city.

This is the first instance of a member of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, dying in a foreign country, and it may be difficult to secure the necessary proof of death required before death benefits are paid to relatives. In any event the work of establishing proof of death is likely to take some time.

$1 FOR BABY CAMP.

The King's Daughters Baby Camp fund was increased today by $1, a contribution for that amount being received by the Plainfield Daily Press from "E. L. H.," a friend of the worthy charity. More than $100 has thus far been received at this office for the fund, but a great deal more will be needed to carry on the work until fall.

COUPLE'S VACATION BECAME HONEYMOON

Miss Dufford and Chester Harriman Wed In Maine and Wire News Home.

The announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Dufford, of West Front street, of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Eliza Dufford, to Chester L. Harriman, of North Plainfield, was received with considerable surprise among the young friends of the bride and bridegroom. The couple were married on Saturday, July 20, at Bucksport, Maine, where both were spending a month's vacation. The ceremony was performed by a Presbyterian minister of that place.

Immediately following the marriage, a telegram was sent to the parents of the bride announcing the fact. While Mr. and Mrs. Dufford knew that their daughter intended to be married they were surprised upon receiving word that she and Mr. Harriman had decided to wed while on their vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Harriman returned home Saturday night from Bucksport, but as Mr. and Mrs. Dufford had gone to Whitehouse, they did not see the couple until their return home last night.

The bride is a member of Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school, where she has been active. For several years she held a position as stenographer and typewriter with the Barrett Manufacturing Company, of New York. Mr. Harriman has been making his home with his brother-in-law, Cyrus Small, of Rockview avenue, North Plainfield. Both his parents are dead. He has also held a clerical position with a New York concern. The couple will continue to reside in Plainfield.

NORTHEAST SECTION WILL BE SEWERED

Council Acts On Many Petitions From Property Holders.

Steps were taken at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night, to install sanitary sewers in the northeasterly section of the city, in accordance with numerous petitions; also to make provision for allowing the construction of a sanitary sewer to connect with Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, as well as to include Fanwood and Scotch Plains whenever the new trunk line sewer is built. When a main sewer is built through East Second street to connect with Bonnie Burn, it will probably be made large enough to take in Fanwood and Scotch Plains at some future time. The usual assessments will be made for these sewers on the property owners, and the city at large will not stand the whole expense.

George W. Fuller, sanitary engineer, was engaged to prepare plans, specifications, etc., for the new sewers at a cost not to exceed $150, and Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman was requested to prepare the necessary ordinance covering the plans.

The streets and avenues through which it is proposed to lay sewers include the following: East Front street, east to Leland avenue; Woodbine avenue, St. Mary's avenue, Jackson avenue to Hill street; East Seventh street east of Leland avenue; Henry place, Lorraine avenue, Leland avenue, Lorraine avenue; Randolph road, Park to Woodbine avenue, Midway avenue, West Sixth street, Watchung avenue, East Seventh street, Berckman street, East Second street, Netherwood avenue, Grant avenue, through West Third street, Terrill road, city line to brook.

WILLIAM BELLES BURIED.

The funeral of William D. Belles, of Somerville, who died suddenly of tuberculosis, Sunday afternoon, at the home of his sister, Mrs. P. B. Sheppard, 55 Watchung avenue, after a few days of severe illness, was held this afternoon from the Duth Reformed church, Somerville. The burial was in Somerville cemetery. Mr. Belles had been suffering from weak lungs for several years, but tuberculosis set in only recently. On the advice of his physician he came to Plainfield two weeks ago for a change of air. He was sixty-three years old, and a member of the Somerville Painters' Union, being engaged as a painter and paperhanger at that place. Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. May Swager and Mrs. Ruey Densmore, and a son, Louis, all of Somerville, and two sisters, Mrs. P. B. Sheppard, of Watchung avenue, and Mrs. Andrew Mattis, of North avenue.

DEATH WAITS AT JOURNEY'S END

WEDDED 2 YEARS AGO

Husband and Baby Daughter With Her On the Homeward Trip—Widely Known In Local and N. Y. Society.

Mrs. Florence Wildey McGee, wife of W. Vaughan McGee, died suddenly at the Herald Square Hotel, New York, last night, within a few hours after she and her husband and their six month's old daughter arrived from Japan. Mrs. McGee had not been well for some time and it was thought that the change incidental to returning home would be a great benefit. Her death, which was due to heart trouble and complications, is a great shock to her many relatives and friends, who had looked forward with much pleasure to her homecoming after a long absence abroad.

Mrs. McGee, who was the daughter of Charles S. Wildey, of this city and New York, left her home about a year and a half ago, accompanied by Mrs. Walter M. McGee and the latter's daughter, Miss Elizabeth McGee, for Japan. Mr. McGee, who is employed by the Standard Oil Company, had then been in Japan about two years and upon the arrival of the party, arrangements were made for the wedding. The couple made their residence in Manchuria, where Mr. McGee's headquarters were located. About six months ago their daughter was born.

Mrs. McGee, like her sisters, Mrs. Morris J. Dumont and Mrs. Hart S. Farlee, was an expert tennis player, the reputation of the sisters in the popular game being almost country-wide. She was a member of the Plainfield and New York society. Arrangements will be made today to have the remains brought to this city and the announcement of the funeral will be made later.

PRIEST PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE MRS. ELLEN CARNEY

The funeral service of Mrs. Ellen Carney was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's R. C. church, North Plainfield, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Father Baldwin, assisted by Father Ryan, of Somerville, and Father Hogan, of St. Mary's church, this city.

Following the mass, Father Baldwin spoke impressively of the christian life of the departed and of her devotion to her home and church. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall-bearers were four nephews, David T. Kenney, Andrew E. Kenney, John J. Kenney, Thomas Waldron and two grandsons, Andrew and John Carney.

TOO MUCH GIN.

Too much gin was responsible for the appearance of Martha Randolph in the city court, this morning, on the complaint of James Babbitt, of 34 Somerset street, who charged her with being drunk and disorderly. "Martha" stated in answer to City Judge William G. DeMeza that she was housekeeper for Babbitt, and admitted having taken "too much." But she added that Jim had also a fair share of the potation. He confessed to the soft impeachment. Both were admonished against the intemperate use of the beverage and promised to leave it alone.

PSEUDO ATYPICALS.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan spoke this morning before the Teachers' Training Course, conducted by the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, at its school, Herbart Hall, Watchung Crest. His topic was "Pseudo-Atypical Children from a Physician's Standpoint." This afternoon W. H. Groszmann, the principal of Herbart Hall, speaks on "Physical Training, II."

PLAN OF BATTLE IN ROOSEVELT SPEECH

(Special by American Press Asso.)

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The National Progressive party convention reassembled at 12:45 this afternoon. Col. Theodore Roosevelt escorted by a committee of fifteen then entered the hall, being accorded a most enthusiastic reception.

The delegates rose to their feet and cheered wildly for thirty minutes. Col. Roosevelt was visibly affected by the cordial welcome of his followers. After the cheering subsided, the Colonel began his speech. At its conclusion the permanent organization will be effected. Indications point to the choice of Senator Beveridge as the permanent chairman.

It was generally hoped by the delegates that the platform would be short, although it was also realized that as it was to be modelled in accordance with the declaration of Col. Roosevelt today it would be impossible to make it the 10,000 word document that many of the leaders wanted. It was certain, however, that it would declare for scientific revision of the tariff, the Roosevelt plan of trust regulation, an honest, enforceable plan of employers' liability and workingmen's compensation, radical conservation of natural resources, the settlement by the adult men and women of each State of the woman suffrage question, a strong army and navy, reform of the courts, and laws everywhere which would make more easy the "rule of the people." The minimum wage issue, child labor, workmen's insurance and old age pensions were also to have attention.

(By Leslie R. Fort.)

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6.—Colonel Roosevelt's keynote speech was the one big thing of the National Progressive Convention today and its delivery will take up all of the afternoon session except for the effecting of a permanent organization.

In his speech the Colonel sounds the call for the entire campaign and deals with the many issues of the day in as thorough a manner as they have ever been dealt with at any time in the past.

The convention came together again at noon and the officers were announced after which the Colonel was introduced. The few contests in the southern states will be reported on by the credential's committee during the session of the afternoon and after these minor matters are attended to the gathering will adjourn until tomorrow when the nomination will be made.

The Vice Presidential nominee seems to still be in doubt with many delegates favoring a southern Democrat, if a strong one can be found, and others favoring Governor Hiram Johnson, of California. The latter would make a splendid candidate but the people of his own State want him to stay with them where he is

ENGINEER ESTIMATES SEWER TRUNK COST

Fuller's Figure Is $373,000—Maps Filed With Common Council.

The maps, profiles, estimate of cost of the proposed trunk line sewer prepared by George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, were presented at the August meeting of the Common Council, last night, and on motion of Councilman F. L. Holt they were referred to the sewage committee to be taken up by the "steering committee," before being sent to the State Board of Health for approval or rejection. The report from Mr. Fuller was not read, but it was stated after the meeting that the estimated cost of construction was $373,000.

The plans are prepared for what is known as the "no pump" line, extending along the mountain in the borough and township about which there now seems to be some dispute, some of the councilmen having expressed a wish for the direct line through Dunellen. In this connection there was also received a communication from the sewage commission naming A. A. Tilney and Councilman F. E. Mygatt as arbitrators to settle matters in dispute. The communication was filed.

The "steering committee" at its last meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman, and while no date was fixed for another meeting, it is expected that a conference will be held soon to go over the plans and estimates as furnished by Mr. Fuller. The communication from the sewerage commission in reference to some points in dispute is similar to the one received by the Borough Council, last week, and will be considered later.

Everett & Co., of New York, offered $100.67, while Rhoades & Company, of New York, bid $100.668. It has not been announced what action was taken.

KILLS HIMSELF AT SHORE.

Police Believe Man Was Despondent Because of Financial Trouble.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—Selecting one of the most public places in Atlantic City, an unidentified young man stepped into the entrance of a partly finished apartment building and blew out his brains. The body was found by a milkman.

A thorough search of the pockets failed to find any papers or other means of identification. Detectives are now at work on the theory that the man was a visitor who had become despondent because of financial trouble, as no money was found in his clothes.

BECKER IS URGED TO RETAIN LITTLETON

Raise Big Defense Fund For Accused Policeman.

New York, Aug. 6.—It seems likely that Congressman Martin W. Littleton will be asked to take charge of Lieutenant Becker's defense. Friends of Becker in the police department who are raising a defense fund of approximately $50,000 are urging the lieutenant to retain Mr. Littleton.

The news that Littleton, whose last big criminal case was the defense of Harry K. Thaw in Thaw's second trial, will be the lawyer for Becker leaked out after Robert H. Elder, who appeared, with John Hart, for Becker when the lieutenant was arraigned before Judge Mulqueen today, withdrew from the case. Mr. Elder, it is known, was not satisfied with his position and decided to get out.

The story that was told after Mr. Elder withdrew was to this effect—the money to pay for Becker's defense is to come not from the accused policeman, but from friends of his in the police department who have decided for whatever reason to stand by him. Some of them wanted Becker to retain William T. Jerome. But Becker bucked at Jerome because he had been told that Jerome was a close friend of Police Commissioner Waldo. Becker knows that he can expect no assistance of any sort from the commissioner.

HOLD MILLIONAIRE UNDER $100 BOND

He Is Charged With Assault During Regatta.

FASHIONABLES SEE BOUT.

Boats of Wealthy Men Collided and Each Accuses Other of Poor Seamanship—Then They Mix It In Lively Fashion and Use Strong Language.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—George Fish, millionaire yachtsman, summering at Ocean City and well known in New York and Philadelphia clubdom, was held under $100 bail to keep the peace by Magistrate Jagnetty on the charges of assault and battery preferred by William R. Stanart, a prominent resident of Audobon, N. J.

The alleged assault occurred on July 27, during the regatta of the fashionable Venitnor Yacht club of Longport. From the testimony of the witnesses the principals were in collision with their boats. They accused one another of poor seamanship. With scores of wealthy yachtsmen and society women as the audience the pair mixed it in a lively battle, in which Fish was the victor. It was said that the language he used wasn't exactly polite either.

Stanart demanded an apology and waited patiently for such an action. Then he took out the warrant, and Fish submitted to the process. The courtroom was jammed with fashionables.

WAR ON BIRDS WITH NOISE.

Montclair Has a Bombardment With Blank Shells.

Montclair, N. J., Aug. 6.—Six men armed with shotguns invaded the Crescent here and opened war on the thousands of grackles, starlings and robins that have been making life miserable for the dwellers in the fashionable street all summer. The armed men were deputies of the state game and fish commission under the leadership of James M. Stratton of Long Branch, whose official title is protector. The war against the birds was a bloodless one, the deputies using only blank shells.

It was reported at first that the birds were being slaughtered in the same way as they were killed last year, just about this time, and among some there was great indignation until it became known that only blank charges were being fired. It is the purpose of the state officers to continue the attack on the birds for several nights.

RESCUES DROWNING GIRL.

Fisherman Swims to Miss White In Ocean at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—Miss Mabel Taylor White of New York, a daughter of the late John R. White, superintendent of the federal bureau of engraving and printing, Washington, was saved from drowning a mile off the upper beach by Ralph Davis, a former life guard.

The girl was sailing a small boat when the sheet rope parted. She sent the craft into a sand bar, repaired the damage and then gave the boat a shove with the intention of climbing aboard over the stern. The skiff had shot out into the current and was fifty yards away when Miss White decided to swim to it. She soon became exhausted, and Davis, who had been fishing, swam with the girl to the sand bar, where he revived her.

Beachey Seriously Hurt.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 6.—Hillery Beachey, aviator, lies in a serious condition at Nicholns hospital as a result of his biplane colliding with a chicken coop when he attempted to land after a flight here. The aeroplane was smashed to bits, and Beachey was buried under the wreckage.

ANOTHER PUBLIC PARK.

Has Plainfield enough public parks? The question has been submitted to the Daily Press by a resident who takes great interest in the welfare of our people as a whole, and whose opinion on the subject is worth considering. He thinks that there should be one or more big and attractive outing places added in the city, and suggests that the city acquire part of the Martine tract located east of Ninth street and north of Prospect avenue for the purpose. Perhaps it might be well to say that the suggestion comes from one who would in no way be financially benefitted in case such a park were laid out.

No one disputes the fact that Plainfield is growing steadily, with a most desirable class of citizens. Yet with the growth there is becoming less and less open space, such as could later be dedicated to the use of the public, in the form of parks and playgrounds. It is true that the houses are not being built close together and until now few if any two family houses have been put on small lots in the residential section, as is the case in the Oranges and some of the other suburbs nearer to New York. Yet with all this, the large tracts of vacant land are becoming few and far between.

The purchase of land, and building of a public park is a thing which cannot be done hurriedly, without consulting landscape architects and others who are well versed in the proper method of laying out such places. If the city is to have more of these recreation centres for the population which will eventually be here, now is the time to think about their location and construction, before all the available sites become cut up into building lots. The city fathers could well spend a little time investigating the subject, giving some thought to the comfort and convenience of future generations.

CAMPAIGNING.

Governor Wilson is preparing to visit big cities and talk to the people, flanked by impressive figures in party and State councils; Colonel Roosevelt is making ready to moose all over the acutely debatable territory; while President Taft remains in a state of dignified immobility, preparing only to exhale more dignity as the campaign warms up. It is a state of affairs decidedly unfair to the President. He should be out in the hustings with the rest of them. If the nomination was worth campaigning for, so is the office.

"But what of the dignity of the Presidency?" ask other eminently dignified citizens in accents of horror. Pish! There are other mouth-filling and soul-satisfying phrases, if you want to chart your ethical course with such things. What of the dignity of Republican Simplicity and the virtue of Close Contact With the People? By what line of reasoning does a thinking American arrive at the conviction that it is undignified for the President of the United States to talk to his fellow-citizens on questions of state policy and government?

A President can be as dignified in defending his administration and his party before the public as in a mock retirement, from which, as everybody is quite aware, he has a large Finger in the Pie. A fig for bunkum! Anyway, as far as William Howard Taft's case goes, it won't hurt, whether it be dignified or no, because he has already shown that he isn't above campaigning while filling the chair. He has eaten lamb; he might as well go out and feast on sheep.

Owners of motor cars in Califon have given notice to the committees of Tewksbury, Lebanon and Washington townships that they must see that the supervisors place the roadways in such condition that they will not tend to damage their cars in running over them. The motorists referred to recent court decisions in favor of automobile owners, and to the law requiring the removal of loose stone by supervisors, in serving notice on the townships that they would be held responsible for any damage incurred by the cars while traveling over the unsatisfactory portions of the roads. The courts have ruled that unnecessary waterbreaks and "thank-ye-ma-ams" are not defensible in law when they cause annoyance or hardship to users of the roads.

There are worse ways of spending a day in vacation time than trolleying to Trenton and sailing down the Delaware to Philadelphia. Trenton has plenty of accommodation for the lunch-seeker and Philadelphia will feed him well for little money at dinner time. Take that trip in the spirit of one who comes from abroad to see historic sights, and you will return enriched in spirit and holiday memories.

A new face appeared on the milk wagon this week. It is Frank Howley, who has been permanently employed by J. W. Crater.—Hampton Correspondence of the Hunterdon Gazette.

There is something hauntingly attractive in a mental picture of Frank Howley's face floating up Hampton garden paths in the rosy dawn with a bottle of milk in its teeth.

Does the cool, clear weather please you? Think of the value such weather as this must have in helping strengthen and cure the babies in The King's Daughters' Camp, and contribute so that the greatest good to the greatest number of ailing little ones be achieved.

BATTLE OF MARATHON.

The Most Decisive Day In the History of the World.

The single day in the world's history which was fraught with the most tremendous consequences to mankind was the day on which the battle of Marathon was fought. The handful of tiny states that inhabited Greece had developed faculties which indicated that man had advanced another stage toward the highest ideals.

Foremost among those little nations was Athens, which state, too, contained the germs of human freedom. It was the forerunner of the democracies of the world. But the very existence of Athens and Greece was threatened by the huge barbaric empire of Persia. Darius had sent out his hordes of warriors to add the Grecian states to his vast dominions. Face to face his forces met the Athenians on the plains of Marathon.

Hitherto invincible in the field, the Persians looked upon the little army opposed to them with contempt. The Greeks themselves hesitated to hazard a battle with the conquerors of the world. Their generals debated the question, and the decision to fight the Persians was caused by the eloquence of the immortal Miltiades. He led his 10,000 Greeks against the Persian host and gained a decisive victory. The glorious day of Marathon beat back the advancing tide of eastern despotism and barbarism and saved the freedom and civilization of the western world.—Pearson's Weekly.

Seventeenth Century Grocers.

Department stores would have fared hard in the seventeenth century unless their proprietors could have induced parliament to grant more privileges than were allowed to other shop keepers. The articles that a grocer might sell were definitely prescribed. They were "raysons, currants, sugar, spice, sope, candle, molasses, gunpowder, shot, match, tar, pitch, rosin, tobacco, cotton yarn, starch, biling, prunes, figs, linseed oil, lead, olives, figs, Spanish white alabaster, alum, almonds, brimstone, lampblack and candle rushes.

No Money, No Marriage.

"A fortune teller told me that you are going to marry me," said the young man with the prominent socks.

"Did she also tell you that you are going to inherit a very large fortune?" inquired the girl with the matinee hair.

"She didn't say anything about a fortune."

"Then she is not much of a fortune teller, and you had better not place any reliance in anything she says."—Washington Herald.

THE FRANCIS BACON PIANO CO.

ESTABLISHED 1789.

PIANOS AND PLAYER PIANOS

An exhibit of these famous pianos will take place at our store, beginning Wednesday, August 7.

This piano has the distinction of being made by the oldest piano company in America, having been established in 1789 by John Jacob Astor. It was in the Francis Bacon factory that the makers of many of the standard pianos of the present day learned their trade, and on the company's payroll are found the names of Henry and Charles Steinway, of Steinway & Son's, and many others.

Arrangements have been made whereby we can sell these pianos at a discount of 20 per cent. from their regular prices during this exhibit.

The Tremaine Piano and Player-Piano made by the same company will be featured in a Club Plan, with very reasonable payments.

The Tremaine Piano has an unexcelled quality of tone and is artistically and beautifully made.

Visitors always welcome. W. E. MacCLYMONT, Sales Manager.

BROOK AND MOSQUITO EVILS BEFORE THE BOARD

Mosquitoes and Green brook were the subjects of discussion at the North Plainfield Board of Health meeting, held in the Borough Hall, last night. Although only four of the members were present, namely, Dr. A. H. Dundon, A. E. Giddes, A. E. Kenney and F. E. Vanderhoef, the mosquito question was discussed at length, and it was decided to speak to the county officials in charge of the mosquito extermination and see what could be done in this respect.

The subject of cementing the bottom and walling the sides of the brook between Somerset and Duer streets also brought forth a long discussion. Health Officer Olif said that the brook was not in bad condition, but that it was almost an impossibility to keep it clean. The practicability of covering the brook and using it for a street was a suggestion readily received. No definite steps were taken. As the board has no funds to make the improvements, it would rest entirely in the hands of the owners of the adjoining property.

Health Officer Olif's monthly report was read and placed on file. He reported few complaints and an exceptionally small number of cases of contagious diseases.

WORKMAN LOSES 2 FINGERS.

Louis Gett, aged 24 years, an Italian employed at the hair factory on North avenue, caught his right hand in one of the machines this morning, and as a result will lose several fingers. Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned and he had the man removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. He was obliged to amputate two fingers and others may have to be removed. Gett is married and resides on North avenue.

DAVID NUGENT INJURED.

David Nugent, aged 29 years, employed as a teamster on some construction work at Holly Park, was thrown off his wagon, yesterday afternoon, receiving bruises and cuts. He was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he is still under treatment. His injuries are not serious.

HOSPITAL TO JAIL.

John Lavelle, of Bayonne, was discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, and taken to New Brunswick to await trial for assault on Chas. Lavaret, a New Jersey Central Railroad detective. The alleged assault took place at the Dunellen railroad station about four weeks ago, when Lavaretti claims that he was attacked by Lavelle, and in the tussle that followed, his revolver was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering Lavelle's thigh and lodging in his hip. The bullet was extracted at the hospital.

FRIENDS' MEETING.

The religious Society of Friends, of Watchung avenue, expect S. Elizabeth Stover to attend the meeting tomorrow evening at 7:45.

Paint that Stays Painted

That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

LOBSTER RECIPES.

NOTHING is easier than to kill your lobster before putting it into the pot of boiling water.

Open and reverse a large pair of scissors. Hold the head of the lobster between the open handles and with the other hand give the body a slight twist. The twist breaks the spinal cord, which runs under the shell, and if the head is held firmly the creature is instantly dead.

A Delectable Salad.

Boiled Lobster Salad.—Boil two medium sized lobsters and when cold pick to pieces. Make a dressing by beating the yolks of two eggs with a teaspoonful of salt, a bit of cayenne, a half tablespoonful of powd red sugar and a teaspoonful of mustard moistened with vinegar. Add gradually a cupful of olive oil. When thick whip in the strained juice of a lemon. Beat five minutes, then add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. When ready to serve add a quarter of a cupful of cream whipped to a stiff froth. Stir well and mix with the lobster. Serve in a salad bowl lined with crisp lettuce leaves and pile whipped cream on the top.

Casserole of Lobster.—Take the meat from a freshly boiled lobster, mince it and put in a casserole with one and one-half ounces of butter rolled in flour. Stir over a slow fire until quite hot, then add a dash of nutmeg, a dessertspoonful of vinegar to which a grain or two of cayenne and half a saltspoonful of white pepper have been added and two tablespoonfuls of good gravy. Heat again and when thoroughly hot serve in the halved shells with breadcrumbs sprinkled on top.

Novel Patties.

Lobster Patties.—Chop finely the meat of a lobster, then season it with salt, lemon juice, cayenne pepper and a little curry powder and add all to a sauce prepared as follows: Take equal parts of fresh butter and flour, work them well together, set in a stewpan and stir until dissolved. Add a gill of white stock or water and just as it comes to the boil stir in enough cream to make it a nice consistency.

Prepare the patty cases by rolling out puff paste to three-eighths of an inch in thickness and cut it with a cutter three inches in diameter, then mark in the center with a small cutter. With the smaller cutter also cut as many tops as you have cases. Bake the pastry and then remove the inner circle and take out all the soft part of the paste that you can without damaging the case. Fill up each case with the lobster mixture and set in the oven just long enough to heat through.

MIDSUMMER FROCK.

The Dolly Varden Garden Party Costume.

FOULARD DRESS IN PINK AND WHITE.

Charming are the midsummer frocks in Dolly Varden style. This one of figured foulard in pink and white pattern opens over a chiffon petticoat, on which are pink satin buttons.

The skirt flounce and trimming touches are also of pink satin.

For the Tailor Made Hat.

The hat of tailor made persuasion which is so useful an adjunct of the tailor made suit may be altered in various ways by being provided with several changes of trimming. A novel notion that has occurred to a girl with good ideas can be turned to account. When a new crown band, ribbon or bow is added to the hat a necktie to match it in color should be chosen. In this way a dark suit may be given a touch of brilliance which will add greatly to its appearance.

Supposing a band of cord and beads be added to the hat, then the soft white collar may be fixed together in front by an ornament, made on a safety pin, of beads and cord to match the band.

Another day a band of colored velvet ribbon with donkey ear bows at the sides will diversify the appearance of the hat, and then the collar will be finished with a large bow to match, fastened upon the blouse with fancy pins.

One of the prettiest trimmings for the tailor made hat on a fine day is a closely plaited frill of cream colored lace, with a frill to match worn upon the blouse. Strictly speaking, such a hat is not, of course, entitled to the name of tailor made. It is the "betwixt and between" hat that is particularly useful at this season of the year. Neither too severe nor too dressy, made of honey colored straw with posy rings at the sides, from which spring taffeta "wings," such a hat is extremely becoming.

Women as Inventors.

The Scientific American proves that most of the articles invented by women have to do with farming and farming apparatus.

The first patent granted to a woman was for a process of straw and silk weaving, invented by Mary Kies.

The second was to Mary Brush for a corset and the third to Sophie Usher for a toilet lotion made of cream of tartar and violet water.

Then came Phoebe Collier with an invention for sawing wheel fellies, and Miss Buckley invented a new way to make a sheet iron shovel.

Recently a combined toaster, and warming pan was invented by Agnes Phelps of Chicago, with Florence King as her attorney and two women witnesses.

Altogether only a little more than 8,000 patents have been granted to women, while men have nearly 1,000,000 to their credit.

Dad Has a Word to Say.

The daughters of an east end household, ardent suffragists, were talking politics.

"Taft will sweep the country," declared Mabel.

"Wilson will sweep the country," asserted Maud.

"Roosevelt will sweep the country," averred Mehitable.

At this point dad took a hand.

"Never mind about who's going to sweep the country," said he. "Who's going to sweep this here kitchen? That's the question now."—Pittsburgh Post.

Advertising Pulls—It Doesn't Jerk

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You woudn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. JIM STEWART OUTPOINTS MC CARTHY IN LIVELY BOUT

In the best heavyweight boxing contest that has been staged in New York in many years Jim Stewart, of Brooklyn, last night outpointed Luther McCarthy, of Springfield, Mo., in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden. The contest marked the debut of the Westerner in New York, and while it was unsuccessful for him as regards victory, if was nevertheless impressive, and McCarty, on his showing against the Brooklynite, bids fair to be an important factor in the heavy weight division in the future.

Stewart's strong finish gained him the honors, as up to the eighth round McCarty had held his own. In the last two rounds Stewart clearly outpointed the Westerner and gained the verdict. But when the battle was over Stewart knew well that he had been in a fight, and considering the short experience which McCarthy has enjoyed in the roped arena, his experience was a revelation.

It was the hardest contest in which McCarthy, only twenty years of age, has yet engaged. The only other boxer of any note wrom McCarthy has fought was Carl Morris and the Sapulpa engineer had previously been defeated by Stewart McCarthy handled himself like a natural fighter and showed all the qualifications of a top notcher, although in the crude form that must have been expected in view of his inexperience.

With all his crudeness, McCarthy made a most favorable impression

GIANTS NOT EXPECTED TO EQUAL CUBS' MARK

The New York Giants' ambition to establish a record for the greatest number of baseball games won in a season has suffered a rude shock in the last three or four weeks. In fact, the chances of equaling the mark of 116 victories and thirty-six defeats, set by Chicago in 1906, are too slim to be worth considering. Only sixty games remain to be played, so that it would be necessary for the Giants to win forty-seven and lose only thirteen in order to reach the high water mark. It is more than likely, however, that the New York team will better its mark of a year ago, when it won the National League pennant with ninety-nine victories and fifty-four defeats.

WHITE STORE CLERKS ON OUTING TO LAKE HOPATCONG

Six large touring cars were required to take the employes of "The White Store" on their annual outing today. The employes, in the charge of A. E. Force, head of the firm, left the store on West Front street about 8:30 o'clock this morning for Lake Hopatcong.

The start on the return trip will be made so that Plainfield will be reached before dark. This idea of giving the employes of "The White Store" a day's outing every summer, was original with Mr. Force and the men and women always look forward to it with a great deal of pleasure.

FUNERAL OF THOMAS McGANN.

The funeral service of Thomas McGann will be held at his late residence at Stony Hill tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and at St. Mary's R. C. church, that place, at 10 o'clock. The burial will take place in St. Mary's cemetery, this city.

The Healing Laugh.

Merriopathy is the science of the healing laugh. Merriopathy is better than homeopathy or allopathy for curing all the gloom diseases and grouch complaints that make life miserable. The wise physician well understands the therapeutic value of fun and a cheerful spirit. Medicine may be a necessary and powerful agent in the treatment of illness, but it may fail where fear and melancholy join hands with the disease. Laughter is one of the best medicines in the world and lengthens life as well as brightens it.—Christian Herald.

Pointing the Path of Duty.

"Don't you think women ought to vote?"

"Of course I do," replied Mr. Growcher. "Man is oppressed by economic conditions which only women can understand. What women want to do is to get together and legislate to prevent hat shops from collecting $40 for a handful of straw and a bunch of feathers."—Washington Star.

So Funny.

"I wonder," said the head of the family, surveying a contemplated purchase of a family steed, "if he will kick."

"Oh, pa," giggled his daughter, "it's funny, but that's exactly what George asked about you."—Baltimore American.

Cordial.

Mrs. Jenkins—Mrs. Smith, we shall be neighbors now. I have bought a house next you with a water frontage. Mrs. Smith—So glad! I hope you will drop in some time.—Everybody's.

Literally.

Policeman (to suspicious stranger at midnight)—What are you doing in this store? Burglar—Can't yer see I'm takin' stock?—Boston Transcript.

Next to excellence is the appreciation of it.—Thackeray.

Laing and Harry B. MacDonald, commissioners, to make the assessment on property owners for benefits. An ordinance was introduced by Mr. Holt providing for the laying out and opening up of Rushmore avenue from South Second street to the city line. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. Mr. Gloak reported that the work of installing a storm sewer on West Eighth street, west of Grant avenue, is progressing.

The petition of Mobus Brothers for permission to remove a dwelling at 220 Plainfield avenue from one point to another on the same lot was granted on motion of Councilman C. C. Randolph.

The League of American Municipalities invited the city to send representatives to the annual convention to be held at Buffalo, September 18, 19 and 20. This was filed.

THREATENED SUICIDE; BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Somerville, August 6—The body of Lawrence Tunison, twenty-two years of age, was found in the Raritan River near the Finderne bridge Sunday, by boys.

Tunison had been missing for some time. About two months ago he left home telling his father that he was tired of life and was going to drown himself.

No attention was paid to the threat until he had been absent for some time. Tunison was a butcher employed by Roth & Co., here.

RE-ELECT McADAMS.

Elizabeth, Aug. 6 (Special).—The Union County Board of Elections met at the Court House this morning and organized by re-electing Robert H. McAdams, of Elizabeth, chairman; George Stewart, of Elizabeth secretary; Peter Tillman, of Rahway, clerk, and Oliver Conlon, of Elizabeth, marshal. Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield, the new Republican member, and Fred Zior, of Rahway, who was reappointed, both took the oath of office. After the board organized the certificates of those eligible to serve as election officers were presented and it was announced that a majority had passed.

STEWART FOR MAYOR?

Percy H. Stewart, of West Eighth street, is reported has consented to seek the Mayoralty nomination on the Democratic ticket at the coming primaries, and his friends are predicting that he will not only get the nomination, but will be elected. Mr. Stewart was born and always lived in Plainfield. He was graduated from Yale University Class '90. He is a member of the D. K. E. fraternity and Skull and Bones. He is now engaged in the practice of law in New York city. He is a member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and has always had more or less interest in civic affairs.

Philosophical Phelix Says:

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The Mt. Ararat combination has come and gone and left the victory behind it. It is now beginning to look as though a third game would be unnecessary, let alone a fifth.

Saturday was pitcher's slaughter day on the Oval and besides knocking Ortlieb out of the box with a bang on the head the Plainfield hitsmiths lambasted the offerings of one Ulrich to the four corners of the lot.

All great pitchers have their bumps, so that makes "Germany" Ortlieb a great heaver.

Cavanaugh, the Cranford's new twirler, was there with the looks and should receive much robin blue stationary from the Dunellen fair sex who just simply could not hold their seats.

If Adam Schott were an aviator he would some time be hit on the head by a pitched planet. As it was he got in the way of a fast one from the Cranford twirler.

"Old Warhorse" McLaughlin was there in the pinches Saturday afternoon. He wore his familiar old confidence smile both at the bat and in the field and this alone seemed to have tantalizing effect on the opposing batters.

Billy Coyle is an optimist—even a bad start did not put him out of the running for the hitting laurels on Saturday. He was the whole show at short for the home team and got away with three pretty hits.

In one inning on the Oval Saturday, Frederickson retired the side with three balls. Some stunt that, but Slocum duplicated the feat at Raritan and McLaughlin did it with four at Dunellen.

The effect of drinking milk and Appollinairis cocktails seems to have a bad effect on the Spicer baseball players. After holding the Commercials hitless up to the seventh, Dolan weakened and the game went wrong.

Staten Island outing again! What?

If the R. G. E. combination wins the cup in the Manufacturers' Baseball League the players are going to take a trip around the world. If the Commercials ever win a pennant or any other ornament, Manager Stires is going to take his players on a trip through the axis of the earth.

No player in the Manufacturers' League can define an error, but he knows every fiber and vein of a base hit.

Heard some people say it was too windy for baseball Saturday.

Never could satisfy some people, no matter what kind of weather is on top.

They kick when it is too warm and when it is too cool—one satisfaction, when they are panning the weather they are leaving their neighbors alone.

Saw Captain Brynarski and Manager Hetfield, of the Y. M. C. A. Ajax with heads together the other day.

From the above it would seem as though there might be something doing in local basketball circles before long.

FISHING NOTES.

In a letter received from one of the Grace Church choir boys who is in camp in the choir bungalow at Manasquan, N. J., he says that an 8½ pound bluefish was caught in the surf Sunday morning. Natural squid (inkfish) bait was used and the capture of such a large bluefish as this one and the 17-pound 14 ounce fish recently caught at Point Pleasant is very unusual. These fish are not plentiful at that point and seem to be hunting singly—not in schools.

Down at the banks now the deep sea flounder, the halibut, is biting. While local fishermen are engaged in catching fluke, sea bass and porgies, the Boston fishermen are catching halibut and other "winter" fish.

The cool evenings are bringing out the surf fishermen at Asbury Park and Belmar. Even the Avon summerites are fishing in the surf.

Shark river crabbing parties are popular with the women and children from the seashore resorts and every day they can be seen wending their way to the boathouses with packages of meat for bait and lunch baskets. Shark river is shallow even at high tide and for this reason it is safe for the women and children to visit. Catches of fifty and seventy-five crabs are common, and, now that the soft shell crabs are in the mud, the country boys will be added to the multitude.

Weakfish, kingfish, fluke and bluefish are biting best along the coast. Shedder crabs are used for bait and the same kind of tackle does for all fish.

The fishing steamer Taurus had a successful week, as every place the captain anchored there was fish. Many humpback sea bass were taken, and some of the catches made by the fair sex anglers surprised such old timers like Oberg and Flynn. One woman caught eleven humpback bass and a few smaller ones, and another caught eight in an hour's fishing. The men folks that fish from the lower decks made large catches every day.

The early morning and early evening attraction at Culvers Lake is the fishing. The pastime has increased wonderfully up that way, and no one seems to be able to account for it.

Just where the point of Coney Island called Sea Gate projects into the ocean there is a channel that has long been a favorite spot for weakfishing. Any fine day a fleet of boats can be seen anchored there. The fishermen use just enough lead to keep the bait below the swift-running tide, and fish weighing five pounds are frequently caught in this manner.

Green Pond summer visitors are fishing instead of playing lawn tennis. They claim that the price of beef is out of reason and that they can do better by catching catfish, sunfish, eels or bass. Some of the girls are learning to fish instead of knit and it is hardening muscles and tanning up the skin in fine shape.

The Newark end of the Enos Forked River porch was well patronized last week. Every new arrival that registered from Newark was hailed and assigned to a chair, and then he had to tell all he knew about fishing.

It has been the custom for many years for certain men to go out to the fishing banks on the large boats and fish for profit. Among the so-called regulars are several watchmen who, after working all night, take the boat early in the morning, sleep all the way to the fishing banks, fish for two hours and sell their catch, and then sleep all the why home. The catch of these regulars are spread on the lower deck and sold to the chaps that didn't get any fish or to those that only went out for a sail. The larger the catch the cheaper the fish. When the catch is extra large the fish are sold in bunches ranging from twenty-five cents to a dollar and when the catch has been exceptionally poor one fish will bring a dollar. The regulars have no advantage over the other passengers when it comes to position on the boat, but they are experts at the game and rarely come home without having made their expenses.

A correspondent writes that crabs were never known to be so plentiful as they are now at Elizabethport, within a short row of Smith's boathouse.

When fish are scarce, fish stories are in order, but just now there are plenty of fish and there are also plenty of men with a few days off who have never tried their hands at fishing and who do not know just where and how to go about it, although they hear and read of the great hauls being made while meat is so dear.

MANUFACTURERS GET READY TO CHALLENGE

Delegation Will Bear a Defi to the S. S. League Meeting Friday.

At the Manufacturers' League meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night, it was voted to send a delegation to the Sunday-school League meeting next Friday night in order to issue a post-season challenge to that organization. Rather than make the series too one sided, it was decided best to play the games between two picked all-star aggregations instead of pitting the pennant winners against each other.

The good material in both leagues is so widely scattered about the six contestants that no one nine represents the strongest aggregation in the leagues. The protest in regard to the game between the Spicer and Saurer aggregations came up before the meeting last night, but it was voted to hold it over until the next meeting, when President Kimball will be present. Twelve members attended the board meeting last night, and several matters of business were disposed of and plans discussed for the winding up of the season in some fitting way.

E. C. Ostlin, of the Y. M. C. A., was in the chair last night, after a vacation of a month, and took charge of the league again. During his absence the duties have been well taken care of by C. C. Thompson, who acted as secretary.

ROYAL GIANTS WANT GAME.

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royal Giants baseball team, would like to sign up a game with some fast amateur nine for next Saturday afternoon on the Filmore Avenue grounds. The colored aggregation has been plaiyng some of the fastest ball teams in this section during the past month and would make a first-class attraction for any fast combination. Simmons will take his team to Newark Sunday afternoon where they will play a double header at Morris Park. The first game will be played at 2:30.

ENTRY BLANKS OUT.

Entry blanks for the Scottish Clan athletic meet to be held on Parker Field August 17, arrived this morning and can be obtained at the Daily Pres office. Handsome prizes are offered in every event and the program includes every kind of an athletic competition that is ordinarily scheduled in meets of this kind.

ALL STAR TEAM OF MFG. LEAGUE

Picked to Represent the Organization Against Sunday-school Combination.

GOOD NINE AVAILABLE

Numerous Likely Aspirants Makes Picking Close—Four Aggregations Represented—Several Heavy Sluggers.

Now that the Manufacturers' Baseball League season is rapidly drawing to a close, a post season series between an all-star aggregation from the organization and one from the Sunday-school League is beginning to be talked of. It was at first talked of pitting the winners of the cups in each league against each other in a three game series to decide the supremacy, but the R. G. E. nine, which is generally considered as the winner of the Maufacturers' cup, outclasses by far any of the rival league contestants and the officials of the factory league feel that a series of this kind would be nothing less than a farce. The calibre of players in the two organizations, taken as a whole, is about uniform and although it is exceedingly difficult to pick a team which is representative of the combined strength of the six contestants the nine given below is about as near as one can come to it.

Because of the fact that every member on the Manufacturers' League governing board is connected with at least one of the contestants in the league it became impossible to pick a representative nine that would show without any partiality the combined strength of the organization. It was finally decided to leave the picking of this aggregation to the sporting editor of the Daily Press because of the fact that this paper is the donor of the silver cup to be awarded to the league winner.

Fleming, of the R. G. E. team, seems to have a shade on the best of any of the other twirlers in the league and he would therefore be accepted as first choice for this all important position. Fleming has established somewhat of a strikeout record for himself this season and has also won a large majority of his contests. A close second to Fleming and a pitcher who would make a fine man to hold for reserve duty would be Van Zant, of the Commercials. This pitcher has not won as many games as Fleming and has not made such a sensational showing, but this has probably been due to the calibre of players he had behind him in comparison to those Fleming had holding up his reputation in the field. The R. G. E. bunch are a natural set of hitters and have pulled many contests out of the fire for their box artist. The Commercials, on the other hand, had frequent spells of weakness at the plate and they have fell down a number of times when hits were needed to win the game.

Garrelson is the most likely candidate to hold up the receiving end of the battery. His heavy stickwork and fast playing behind the bat makes him a worthy advocate for this position. He has a fine whip and his throws to second are speedy and accurate.

Conover is the popular choice for the initial sack berth, but J. Monross is a close runner up. Dunning is also a good guardian of the first corner but he lacks seasoning and therefore could not be considered. Conover is an old hand at the game and is said to be a regular Hal Chase as far as fielding and batting are concerned.

Kelts, the heavy hitting and snappy little second sacker of the R. G. E. combination has been selected to look after the keystone sack on the all-star aggregation. He is an old hand at the game and is death to pitchers when members of his team are on the sacks with a run needed. He is a long distance hitter and rarely comes through a game without an extra base bingle.

Third base belongs without any question to Limbloom another one of Kelts teammates. He is the hardest hitter in either league and attracted special notice when he first entered the league when he pounded out four two base hits in the first game. He has duplicated the feat several times since and besides his wonderful hitting ability is an unusual fine guardian of the difficult corner.

The short position was one of the hardest positions to decide and three likely aspirants have sprung up in Frank Clarke of the Commercials, William Mullin of the Public Service, and DeNitzio of the R. G. E. Clarke is a heavy hitter and fast man on the bases but has only been in the organization for a short time and therefore could be considered as eliminated in a close race of this kind. Mullin is said to have gone back in his work of late and does not play the same snappy and consistent game as he did in his younger days as a ball player. DeNitzio therefore remains as the lone choice and he is perhaps the best fitted performer at this position. He is a veteran player, a heavy slugger and a terror on the bases.

The outfield has become a matter of much contention among the eighteen aspirants for these berths and in order to narrow it down to three without causing a great deal of hard feeling it has become necessary to eliminate several fast players. The left corner of the lot belongs to Jack Fritts, the old Y. M. C. A. player and also formerly a member of the Plainfield baseball team. He covers a large territory and is a good man with the willow.

O'Loughlin, of the Spicers, is considered the best in the center of the garden and his experience in the game gives him a good advantage over the other contestants.

For the right field position, Thompson, a teammate of O'Loughlin, is worthy of the place. He is a good hitter and like Fritts can cover a large area of ground.

This completes the playing department of the nine and with a team like this to buck up against the Sunday-school League will have to go the limit in order to pull off a win. Manager Stires, of the Commercials, has been selected to take charge of the business end of the aggregation and he is well able to look after anything that may come up along this line. A field captain is necessary to the success of any amateur nine and Jack Fritts has been named to lead the men on the field.

The lineup of the team and the organizations with which the players are now playing are as follows:

Garrelson, Public Service, catcher.
Fleming, R. G. E., pitcher.
Conover, Commercials' first base.
Kelts, R. G. E., second base.
Limbloom, R. G. E., third base.
DeNitizio, R. G. E., short stop.
Fritts, Commercials, left field, captain.
O'Loughlin, Spicers, center field.
Thompson, Spicers, right field.
Stires, Commercials, manager.

WILDNESS COST GAME.

Wild pitching cost the Banks team its game with the Saurer nine of the Manufacturers' Baseball League on Saturday afternoon and it was compelled to take the short end of a 15 to 8 score. Demler, who started in the box for the coal chasers, was wild at the outset and after two innings he was relieved by Ricketts who was wilder than his predecessor. Ricketts and Demler were pounded for a total of ten wallops at least half of them being for extra bases.

TEMPLE BAPTIST TEAM TO PLAY ROSELLE SATURDAY

The Temple Baptist team of the Sunday-school Baseball League will play at Roselle Saturday afternoon, as no game is scheduled for them in the league on that date. Manager Conger, who lives in Roselle, has signed up a game with Roselle High School nine and a good game is expected, as the Temple's have struck a winning stride now and the Roselle combination gave the Plainfield High School several close shaves last year. Unlike most High School teams, the Roselle nine keeps its team organized through the summer months, and has been playing a number of past games with teams of that section.

Speech as Temporary Chairman at Chicago.

DEFINES PARTY POLICIES.

Direct Primaries to Insure Freedom From Boss Rule—Declares For Woman Suffrage—Regulation, Not Destruction, of Big Business—Aldrich Tariff Condemned.

We stand for a nobler America. We stand for an undivided nation. We stand for a broader liberty, a fuller justice. We stand for social brotherhood as against savage individualism. We stand for an intelligent co-operation instead of a reckless competition. We stand for mutual helpfulness instead of mutual hatred. We stand for equal rights as a fact of life instead of a catch word of politics. We stand for the rule of the people as a practical truth instead of a meaningless pretense. We stand for a representative government that represents the people. We battle for the actual rights of man.

To carry out our principles we have a plain program of constructive reform. We mean to tear down only that which is wrong and out of date; and where we tear down we mean to build what is right and fitted to the times. We hearken to the call of the present. We mean to make laws fit conditions as they are and meet the needs of the people who are on earth today. That we may do this we found a party through which all who believe with us can work with us, or, rather, we declare our allegiance to the party which the people themselves have founded.

[After making the point that both the old parties were divided within themselves between reactionaries and progressives, Mr. Beveridge went on:]

This unintelligent tangle is seen in congress. Republican and Democratic senators and representatives, believing alike on broad measures affecting the whole republic, find it hard to vote together because of the nominal difference of their party membership. When sometimes under resistless conviction they do vote together we have this foolish spectacle—legislators calling themselves Republicans and Democrats support the same policy, the Democratic legislators declaring that that policy is Democratic and Republican legislators declaring that it is Republican, and at the very same time other Democratic and Republican legislators oppose that very same policy, each of them declaring that it is not Democratic or not Republican.

This condition makes it impossible most of the time and hard at any time for the people's legislators who believe in the same broad policies to enact them into logical, comprehensive laws. It confuses the public mind. It breeds suspicion and distrust. It enables such special interests as seek unjust gain at the public expense to get what they want. It creates and fosters the degrading boss system in American politics through which these special interests work.

How Bosses Flourish.

This boss system is unknown and impossible under any other free government in the world. In its very nature it is hostile to the general welfare. Yet it has grown until it now is a controlling influence in American public affairs. At the present moment notorious bosses are in the saddle of both old parties in various important states which must be carried to elect a president. This Black Horse cavalry is the most important force in the practical work of the Democratic and Republican parties in the present campaign. Neither of the old parties' nominees for president can escape obligation to these old party bosses nor shake their practical hold on many and powerful members of the national legislature.

The special interests which suck the people's substance are bipartisan. They use both parties. They are the invisible government behind our visible government. Democratic and Republican bosses alike are brother officers of this hidden power. No matter how fiercely they pretend to fight one another before election, they work together after election. And acting so this political conspiracy is able to delay, mutilate or defeat sound and needed laws for the people's welfare and the prosperity of honest business and even to enact bad laws, hurtful to the people's welfare and oppressive to honest business.

The Bane of Sectionalism.

But an even more serious condition results from the unnatural alignment of the old parties. Today we Americans are politically shattered by sectionalism. Through the two old parties the tragedy of our history is continued, and one great geographical part of the republic is separated from other parts of the republic by an illogical partisan solidarity.

The south has men and women as genuinely progressive and others as genuinely reactionary as those in other parts of our country. Yet for well known reasons these sincere and honest southern progressives and reactionaries vote together in a single party, which is neither progressive nor reactionary. They vote for a dead tradition and a local fear, not a living conviction and a national faith. They vote not for the Democratic party, but against the Republican party. They want to be free from this condition; they can be free from it through the national Progressive party.

Direct Nominations.

The root of the wrongs which hurt the people is the fact that the people's government has been taken away from them. Their government must be given back to the people. And so the first purpose of the Progressive party is to make sure the rule of the people. The rule of the people means that the people themselves shall nominate as well as elect all candidates for office, including senators and presidents of the United States. What profiteth it the people if they do only the electing while the invisible government does the nominating?

The rule of the people means that, when the people's legislators make a law which hurts the people, the people themselves may reject it. The rule of the people means that when the people's legislators refuse to pass a law which the people need the people themselves may pass it. The rule of the people means that when the people's employees do not do the people's work well and honestly the people may discharge them exactly as a business man discharges employees who do not do their work well and honestly. The people's officials are the people's servants, not their masters.

[With the vast natural resources of the country and its comparatively sparse population, the speaker said, American industry should never suffer depression or even uncertainty, yet hundreds of thousands of workmen found it difficult to gain a living, while the exploitation of the labor of women and children degraded great classes of the population.]

With the growth of big business came business evils just as great. It is these evils of big business that hurt the people and injure all other business. One of these wrongs is overcapitalization, which taxes the people's very living. Another is the manipulation of prices to the unsettlement of all normal business and to the people's damage. Another is interference in the making of the people's laws and the running of the people's government in the unjust interest of evil business. Getting laws that enable particular interests to rob the people and even to gather criminal riches from human health and life is still another.

Other nations have ended the very same business evils from which we suffer by clearly defining business wrongdoing and then making it a criminal offense, punishable by imprisonment. Yet these foreign nations encourage big business itself and foster all honest business. But they do not tolerate dishonest business, little or big.

What, then, shall we Americans do? Common sense and the experience of the world say that we ought to keep what the good big business does for us and stop the wrongs that big business does to us. Yet we have done just the other thing. We have struck at big business itself and have not even aimed to strike at the evils of big business. Nearly twenty-five years ago congress passed a law to govern American business in the present time which parliament passed in the reign of King James to govern English business in that time.

For a quarter of a century the courts have tried to make this law work. Yet during this very time trusts grew greater in number and power than in the whole history of the world before, and their evils flourished unhindered and unchecked. These great business concerns grew because natural laws made them grow and artificial law at war with natural war could not stop their growth. But their evils grew faster than the trusts themselves because avarice nourished those evils and no law of any kind stopped avarice from nourishing them.

Sherman Law Condemned.

Nor is this the worst. Under the shifting interpretation of the Sherman law, uncertainty and fear is chilling the energies of the great body of honest American business men. As the Sherman law now stands no two business men can arrange their mutual affairs and be sure that they are not lawbreakers. This is the main hindrance to the immediate and permanent revival of American business. If German or English business men, with all their disadvantages compared with our advantages, were manacled by our Sherman law as it stands, they soon would be bankrupt. Indeed, foreign business men declare that if their countries had such a law, so administered, they could not do business at all.

Even this is not all. By the decrees of our courts under the Sherman law the two mightiest trusts on earth have actually been licensed, in the practical outcome, to go on doing every wrong they ever committed. Under the decrees of the courts the oil and tobacco trusts still can raise prices unjustly and already have done so. They still can issue watered stock and surely will do so. They still can throttle other business men, and the United Cigar Stores company now is doing so. They still can corrupt our politics and this moment are indulging in that practice.

We mean to put new business laws on our statute books which will tell American business men what they can do and what they cannot do. We mean to make our business laws clear instead of foggy, to make them plainly state just what things are criminal and what are lawful. And we mean that the penalty for things criminal shall be prison sentences that actually punish the real offender instead of money fines that hurt nobody but the people, who must pay them in the end.

And then we mean to send the message forth to hundreds of thousands of brilliant minds and brave hearts engaged in honest business that they are not criminals, but honorable men in their work to make good business in this republic.

The Tariff.

The next great business reform we must have to steadily increase American prosperity is to change the method of building our tariffs. The tariff must be taken out of politics and treated as a business question instead of as a political question. Heretofore we have just done the other thing. That is why American business is upset every few years by unnecessary tariff upheavals and is weakened by uncertainty in the periods between.

What, then, shall we do to make our tariff changes strengthen business instead of weakening business? Rival protective tariff nations have answered that question. Common sense has answered it. Next to our need to make the Sherman law modern, understandable and just our greatest fiscal need is a genuine, permanent, nonpartisan tariff commission.

Neither of the old parties can honestly carry out any tariff policies which they pledge the people to carry out. But even if they could and even if they were sincere the old party platforms are in error on tariff policy. The Democratic platform declares for free trade, but free trade is wrong and ruinous. The Republican platform permits extortion, but tariff extortion is robbery by law. The Progressive party is for honest protection, and honest protection is right and a condition of American prosperity.

A tariff high enough to give American producers the American market when they make honest goods and sell them at honest prices, but low enough that when they sell dishonest goods at dishonest prices foreign competition can correct both evils; a tariff high enough to enable American producers to pay our workingmen American wages and so arranged that the workingmen will get such wages; a business tariff whose changes will be so made as to reassure business instead of disturbing it—this is the tariff and the method of its making in which the Progressive party believes, for which it does battle and which it proposes to write into the laws of the land.

The Payne-Aldrich tariff laws must be revised immediately in accordance to these principles. At the same time a genuine, permanent, nonpartisan tariff commission must be fixed in the law as firmly as the interstate commerce commission.

Child Labor.

These are samples of the reforms in the laws of business that we intend to put on the nation's statute books. But there are other questions as important and pressing that we mean to answer by sound and humane laws. Child labor in factories, mills, mines and sweatshops must be ended throughout the republic. Such labor is a crime against childhood because it prevents the growth of normal manhood and womanhood. It is a crime against the nation because it prevents the growth of a host of children into strong, patriotic and intelligent citizens.

Only the nation can stop this industrial vice. The states cannot stop it. The states never stopped any national wrong, and child labor is a national wrong. To leave it to the state alone is unjust to business, for if some states stop it and other states do not business men of the former are at a disadvantage with the business men of the latter, because they must sell in the same market goods made by manhood labor at manhood wages in competition with goods made by childhood labor at childhood wages.

Toward women the Progressive party proclaims the chivalry of the state. We propose to protect women wage-earners by suitable laws, an example of which is the minimum wage for women workers—a wage which shall be high enough to at least buy clothing, food and shelter for the woman toiler.

The care of the aged is one of the most perplexing problems of modern life. How is the workingman with less than $500 a year and with earning power waning as his own years advance to provide for aged parents or other relatives in addition to furnishing food, shelter and clothing for his wife and children? What is to become of the family of the laboring man whose strength has been sapped by excessive toil and who has been thrown upon the industrial scrap heap? It is questions like these we must answer if we are to justify free institutions. They are questions to which the masses of people are chained as to a body of death.

Votes For Women.

We Progressives mean that America shall answer them. The Progressive party is the helping hand to those whom a vicious industrialism has maimed and crippled. We are for the conservation of our natural resources, but even more we are for the conservation of human life. Our forests, water power and minerals are valuable and must be saved from the spoilers, but men, women and children are more valuable and they, too, must be saved from the spoilers.

Because women as much as men are a part of our economic and social life women as much as men should have the voting power to solve all economic and social problems. Votes for women are theirs as a matter of natural right alone; votes for women should be theirs as a matter of political wisdom also. As wage earners they should help to solve the labor problem, as property owners they should help to solve the tax problem, as wives and mothers they should help to solve all the problems that concern the home. And that means all national problems, for the nation abides at the fireside.

The Scrap Book

Queered Himself.

One serio-comic episode in which Labouchere was the principal actor was thus described by "Labby" himself in London Truth:

"I HAD FORGOTTEN MY AUDIENCE."

"The worst mess that I ever got into was at a dinner in a country town where I took the chair. Having got through all the usual toasts, a friend prompted me to propose the health of the mayor's wife. I drew a picture of a sort of modern Cornelia. I dwelt upon the matron's domestic virtues, her unselfish love for her distinguished husband, and prayed heaven that I might find such a wife. Carried away by my subject, I had forgotten my audience. Suddenly I perceived that some were looking down, others staring at me as though their eyes would come out of their heads, others smiling in a curious manner, while the mayor himself was glaring at me like a wild beast. I discovered afterward that the mayoress had fled from the domestic heath a few weeks previously with a Don Juan of a grocer. I have never been asked since to take the chair at a dinner in that town."

The Rainy Day.

The day is cold and dark and dreary.
It rains, and the wind is never weary.
The vine still clings to the moldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold and dark and dreary.
It rains, and the wind is never weary.
My thoughts still cling to the moldering past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart, and cease repining.
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining.
Thy fate is the common fate of all—
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

An Invitation Declined.

"Dodgin" was the strange and somewhat unfortunate name of the new manager of a large factory. In that factory was a workman who liked to sneak off to a shed at about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and smoke a pipe and look over the afternoon paper for half an hour or so. One day soon after the arrival of the new manager, as the workman sat reading and smoking in the shed, Dodgin appeared. "Who are you?" Dodgin asked sternly, frowning at the idle workman.

"WHO ARE YOU?"

The workman frowned back.

"Who are you?" said he.

"I'm Dodgin, the new manager," was the reply.

At this the workman smiled. "So am I," he said. "Come on in and have a smoke!"

Crushed With Joy.

Graham Ferguson has just returned after an absence of six months on "the other side." Fergie did not spend all his time abroad at the home of his Ayrshire ancestors; he visited Switzerland and Italy and did not neglect Paris. It was in this famous city that he witnessed a strange sight.

"When I was in France," he told a newspaper friend, "I saw a duel!"

"Oh! One of those French duels, eh? Nobody was hurt, I presume?"

"You are wrong there. One of the contestants was seriously injured."

"One of the contestants? Surely you mean a bystander or a second or a surgeon?"

"No, sir; one of the duelists. He had a rib broken."

"You astound me! One of those toy rapiers could not smash a rib, surely?"

"Rapier nothing! The brave man's rib was broken in the embrace with his opponent after the duel was over."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Resigned to His Fate.

A rather turgid orator, noted for his verbosity and heaviness, was once assigned to do some campaigning in a mining camp in the mountains. There were about fifty miners present when he began. But when, at the end of a couple of hours, he gave no sign of finishing, his listeners dropped away. Some went back to work, but the majority sought places to quench their thirst, which had been aggravated by the dryness of the discourse.

Finally there was only one auditor left, a dilapidated, weary looking old fellow. Fixing his gaze on him, the orator pulled out a large six shooter and laid it on the table. The old fellow rose slowly and drawled out:

"Be you goin' to shoot if I go?"

"You bet I am," replied the speaker. "I'm bound to finish my speech, even if I have to shoot to keep an audience."

The old fellow sighed in a tired manner and edged slowly away, saying as he did so:

"Well, shoot if you want to. I may jest as well be shot as talked to death."—Kansas City Times.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION

doing great work, and he personally does not want the nomination, but, if it is for the good of the cause he is willing to be drafted.

The New Jersey delegates have been organized with former Governor Fort as chairman, Adrian Lyons, of Perth Amboy, as vice chairman; Everett Colby as vice president of the convention; George L. Record as member of the resolution's committee; James G. Blauvelt, rules; Joseph E. Cannon, of Jersey City, credentials, and John E. Gill, of Trenton, rules. Former Governor Fort has also been chosen to represent the State on the national committee.

Colonel Roosevelt's speech followed the reports of the different committees. He got a tremendous reception.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech strikes a keynote for his followers and supporters in the new party. It lays down the plan of battle to be waged by the National Progressive party. He discusses those principles under twelve subdivisions—namely, the helplessness of the old parties, the right of the people to rule, the courts and the people, constructive control of the trusts, rights of the wageworker, the farmer, the tariff, the high cost of living, currency, conservation, Alaska and international affairs. "The two old parties," he said, "are husks, with no real soul within either, divided on artificial lines, boss ridden and privilege controlled, each a jumble of incongruous elements and neither daring to speak out wisely and fearlessly what should be said on the vital issues of the day." As opposed to this incongruity and insincerity of action he asserted that the National Progressive platform will be "a contract with the people," with definite and concrete provision to be carried out if the people ratify the contract on election day as exactly and honestly "as if it were actually enforceable under the law."

No Help From the Old Party Machines.

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic platforms or managers show any adequate recognition of the mighty fact "that we are now in the midst of a great economic evolution." This irresistible movement for economic change and improvement must be guided "by common sense and the highest ethical standards" in order to prevent reasonable evolution from becoming dangerous revolution. The Democratic party, as is indicated by its present record in congress, lacks the common sense and the Republican party, by its record of stolen delegates at the Chicago convention, lacks the ethical standards.

"The men who presided over the Chicago and Baltimore conventions and the great bosses who controlled the two conventions—Mr. Root and Mr. Parker, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy, Mr. Penrose and Mr. Taggart, Mr. Guggenheim and Mr. Sullivan—differ from one another, of course, on certain points, but these are the differences which one corporation lawyer has with another corporation lawyer when acting for different corporations. They come together at once as against a common enemy when the dominion of both is threatened by the supremacy of the people of the United States. * * * If this country is really to go forward along a path of social and economic justice there must be a new party of nation wide and nonsectional principles, a party where the titular national chiefs and the real state leaders shall be in genuine accord, a party in whose councils the people shall be supreme, a party that shall represent in the nation and the several states alike the same cause, the cause of human rights and of governmental efficiency." The reassertion of the states' rights doctrine of the Democratic party cripples and forecloses any real or genuine relief to the people. It reduces their promises to hopeless and empty phrases. The mission and spirit of this progressive movement will thrill the republic from end to end.

The Right of the People to Rule.

"The actions of the Chicago convention and to an only less degree of the Baltimore convention have shown in striking fashion how little the people do rule under our present conditions." In order to assure this popular rule Mr. Roosevelt urged the adoption of presidential primaries, popular election of senators, the short ballot, efficient corrupt practices act, qualified use of the initiative and referendum and recall. The recall should be applied to administrative officers.

Mr. Roosevelt asserts that the adoption of these new methods of political administration is not antagonistic to representative government. "All I desire to do by securing more direct control of the governmental agents and representatives of the people is to give the people the chance to make their representatives really represent them whenever the government becomes misrepresentative instead of representative. I have not come to this way of thinking from closest study or as a mere matter of theory. I have been forced to it by a long experience with the actual conditions of our political life."

The Courts and the People.

Under this head Mr. Roosevelt strongly emphasizes the necessity of the sovereign people preserving a check on every branch of public service. Under this head Mr. Roosevelt reiterates his now well known views regarding the courts. "The American people and not the courts are to determine their own fundamental policies." This does not mean that the people are to interfere in cases which involve merely questions of justice between individuals except that "means should be devised for making it easier than at present to get rid of an incompetent judge." But when a judicial decision involves an interpretation of what the people mean by the constitutions which they have framed and laws passed by the people are nullified because the courts say those laws are contrary to the people's will as expressed in their constitution there must be a "reference to the people of the public effect of such decisions under forms securing full deliberation," to the end that the people may rectify this alleged defect in their constitution by a popular vote having all the force of a constitutional amendment. "Our purpose is not to impugn the courts, but to emancipate them from a position whenever they stand finally in the way of social justice. * * * I am well aware that every upholder of privilege, every hired agent or beneficiary of the special interests, including many well meaning parlor reformers, will denounce all this as 'socialism' or 'anarchy'—the same terms they used in the past in denouncing the movements to control the railways and to control public utilities. As a matter of fact, the propositions I make constitute neither anarchy nor socialism, but, on the contrary, a corrective for socialism and an antidote to anarchy."

Constructive Control of the Trusts.

In addition to punishment for wrongdoing by the trusts, the imperative demand is effective and complete regulation. The views of President Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin in his scientific work on trust regulation are in harmony with the program of the National Progressives. "The present conditions of business cannot be accepted as satisfactory." The reason for this is explained, in Mr. Roosevelt's opinion, by the fact that "those dealing with the subject have attempted to divide into two camps, each as unwise as the other." One camp has fixed its attention only on the need for prosperity—"prosperity to the big man on top, trusting to their mercy to let something leak through to the mass of their countrymen below, which, in effect, means that there should be no attempt to regulate the ferocious scramble in which greed and cunning reap the largest rewards." The other camp has so fixed its attention upon the injustices of the distribution of prosperity, "omitting all consideration of having something to distribute, and advocates action which, it is true, would abolish most of the inequalities of the distribution of prosperity, by only the unfortunately simple process of abolishing the prosperity itself." The tendency of those now in control of the Republican party is to give special privileges to "big business" and to correct the evil of such a course when they become crying by sporadic lawsuits under the anti-trust law. The tendency of the Democrats, judged both by their record in congress and by the Democratic platform, is to abolish all business of any size or efficiency, on the ground that all bigness is badness and littleness and weakness a sign of virtue. "What is needed is action directly the reverse of that thus confusedly indicated."

There should be applied to all industrial concerns engaged in interstate commerce in which there is either monopoly or control of the market the principles already adopted "in regulating transportation concerns engaged in such commerce. The anti-trust law should be kept on the statute book to be invoked against every big concern tending to monopoly or guilty of anti-social practices. At the same time a national industrial commission should be created which should have complete power to regulate and control all the great industrial concerns engaged in interstate business—which practically means all of them in this country. This commission should exercise over these industrial concerns like powers to those exercised over the railways by the interstate commerce commission and over the national banks by the comptroller of the currency and additional powers if found necessary." The commission "should have free access to the books of each corporation and power to find out exactly how it treats its employees, its rivals and the general public. * * * Any corporation voluntarily coming under the commission should not be prosecuted under the anti-trust law as long as it obeys in good faith the orders of the commission. The commission would be able to interpret in advance to any honest man asking the interpretation what he may do and what he may not do in carrying on a legitimate business." When corporations not submitting themselves to the regulations of the commission or clearly evading or violating its orders are prosecuted under the anti-trust law and convicted, the commission should have the duty of seeing "that the decree of the court is put into effect completely." Only in this way can there be avoided "such gross scandals as those attendant upon the present administration's prosecution of the Standard Oil and the tobacco trusts," a prosecution which has merely resulted in increased prices to the public, injury to the small competitor and actual financial benefit to the trusts themselves.

"The Progressive proposal is definite, it is practicable. We promise nothing that we cannot carry out, we promise nothing which will jeopardize honest business. * * * Our proposal is to help honest business activity, however extensive, and to see that it is rewarded with fair return, so that there may be no oppression either of business men or the common people. We propose to make it worth while for our business men to develop the most efficient business agencies for use in international trade, for it is to the interest of our whole people that we should do well in international business. But we propose to make those business agencies do complete justice to our own people. Where these concerns deal with the necessaries of life the commission should not shrink, if the necessity is proved, from going to the extent of exercising regulatory control over the conditions that create or determine monopoly prices.

"It is imperative to the welfare of our people that we enlarge and extend our foreign commerce. We are pre-eminently fitted to do this because as a people we have developed high skill in the art of manufacturing; our business men are strong executives, strong organizers. In every way possible our federal government should co-operate in this important matter. Any one who has had opportunity to study and observe first hand Germany's course in this respect must realize that their policy of co-operation between government and business has in comparatively few years made them a leading competitor for the commerce of the world. It should be remembered that they are doing this on a national scale and with large units of business, while the Democrats would have us believe that we should do it with small units of business, which would be controlled not by the national government, but by forty-eight conflicting state sovereignties. Such a policy is utterly out of keeping with the progress of the times and gives our great commercial rivals in Europe—hungry for international markets—golden opportunities of which they are rapidly taking advantage."

Social and Industrial Justice to the Wageworkers.

Referring to the opening sentence of his address, namely, "that we are now in the midst of a great economic revolution," Mr. Roosevelt presented an advanced and comprehensive plan to insure the rights and better conditions for labor. He gives it the paramount place in his speech. "The first charge upon the industrial statesmanship of the day," he said, "is to prevent human waste. The dead weight of orphanage and depleted craftsmanship, of crippled workers and workers suffering from trade diseases, of casual labor, of insecure old age and of household depletion due to industrial conditions are, like our depleted soils, our gashed mountain sides and flooded river bottoms, so many strains upon the national structure, draining the reserve strength of all industries and showing beyond all peradventure the public element and public concern in industrial health." He proposed several specific methods for preserving and improving "our human resources, and therefore our labor power." Wage scales and other labor data should be made public; all deaths, injuries and diseases due to industrial operation should be reported to the authorities; wage commissions should be established in the nation and states to determine the minimum wage scale in different industries; the federal government should investigate all industries with a view to establishing standards of sanitation and safety; there should be mine and factory inspection according to standards fixed by interstate agreement or by the federal government; national and state legislation should establish standards of compensation for industrial accidents and deaths and for diseases clearly due to industrial conditions; for the adoption by law of a fair standard of compensation for casualties resulting fatally which shall clearly fix the minimum compensation in all cases; the monetary equivalent of a living wage varies according to local conditions, but should be sufficiently high to make morality possible and to provide for education, recreation, proper care of the children, maintenance during sickness and reasonable saving for old age; excessive hours of labor should be prohibited for all wage workers, and night labor of women and children should be forbidden; one day of rest in seven should be provided by law; continuous twenty-four hour labor should be divided into three shifts of eight hours by law; tenement house manufacture should be entirely prohibited, and labor camps should be subject to governmental sanitary regulation; all industries employing women and children should be specially subject to government inspection and regulation; insurance funds against sickness, accident, invalidism and old age should be established by a charge either in whole or in part upon the industries; the suffrage should be granted to women if for no other reason to enable working women to combine for their own protection by the use of the ballot. "As a people we cannot afford to let any group of citizens or any individual citizen labor under conditions which are injurious to the common welfare. Industry, therefore, must submit to such public regulation as will make it a means of life and health, not of death or inefficiency.

The Farmer.

"The country life commission should be revived with greatly increased power; its abandonment was a severe blow to our people. The welfare of the farmer is a basic need of this nation." The country school should be brought in touch with country life. For this reason the Progressives approve of government co-operation with the farmer to make the farm more productive. Co-operative associations of farmers both for the production and the selling of agricultural products should be encouraged. "So long as the farmer leaves co-operative activities with their profit sharing to the city man of business, so long will the foundations of wealth be undermined and the comforts of enlightenment be impossible in the country communities.

"In every respect this nation has to learn the lessons of efficiency in production and distribution and of avoidance of waste and destruction. We must develop and improve instead of exhausting our resources. It is entirely possible by improvements in production, in the avoidance of waste and in business methods on the part of the farmer to give him an increased income from his farm, while at the same time reducing to the consumer the price of the articles raised on the farm. Important although education is everywhere, it has a special importance in the country. The country school must fit the country life. In the country, as elsewhere, education must be hitched up with life. The country church and the country Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations have great parts to play. The farmers must own and work their own land. Steps must be taken at once to put a stop to the tendency toward absentee landlordism and tenant farming."

The Tariff.

On the tariff he says: "I believe in a protective tariff, but I believe in it as a principle approached from a standpoint of the interests of the whole people, and not as a bundle of preferences to be given favorite individuals." He believes the American people favor the principle of a protective tariff, but are in rebellion against the wrongdoing and unjust application of that policy and the abuses in past legislation. "It is not merely the tariff that should be revised, but the method of tariff making and of tariff administration." "The first step should be the creation of a permanent commission of nonpartisan experts" of "ample powers" to secure "exact and reliable information." "The present tariff board is entirely inadequate in point of powers reposed in it and scope of work undertaken." The tariff commission in Germany affords a splendid model. This commission must scientifically determine "the difference in the cost of production here and abroad," the effect on "prices to the consumer," insure full justice to the pay envelope of the wage earner. The commission must not attempt to encroach on the tariff making power of congress. It shall report with full publicity and promptly. The tariff shall be revised schedule by schedule to avoid the "staggering blows to business" incident to former general revisions. The effect will be to wipe out the "log rolling and vote trading" secured by special interests in the past. "Only by this means can tariff be taken out of politics." "The substitution of a tariff for revenue only, as proposed by the Democratic platform, would plunge this country into the most widespread industrial depression we have ever seen." The revision shall be downward and not upward and secure a square deal not merely to the manufacturer, but to the wage worker and to the general consumer.

The High Cost of Living.

"The cost of living," says Mr. Roosevelt, "has risen during the last few years out of all proportion to the increase of most salaries and wages." What is first necessary is "fearless, intelligent and searching inquiry into the whole subject, made absolutely by a nonpartisan body of experts with no prejudice to warp their mind, no private object to serve, who shall recommend any necessary remedy heedless of what interest may be hurt thereby and caring only for the interests of the people as a whole." The Republicans promise such an inquiry, but their rank dishonesty of action at the Chicago convention "makes their every promise worthless." It is hopeless to turn to the Democratic party for relief, because first the Democratic party "affects to find the entire high cost of living in the tariff," ignoring the patent fact that the problem is world wide, equally pressing in free trade England and in highly protected Germany. Moreover, if the Democrats are sincere they must take all duties off the products of the farmer, and we "certainly cannot afford to have the farmer struck down." Various elements, economic, political and social, are pointed out by Mr. Roosevelt as contributing to the high cost of living. But effective legislation regarding it can only be framed on a comprehensive scale after a thorough, scientific and prompt inquiry.

"There is no more curious delusion than that the Democratic platform is a progressive platform. The Democratic platform, representing the best thought of the acknowledged Democratic leaders at Baltimore, is purely retrogressive and reactionary. There is no progress in it. It represents an effort to go back—to put this nation of 100,000,000, existing under modern conditions, back to where it was as a nation of 25,000,000 in the days of the stagecoach and canalboat. Such an attitude is toryism, not progressivism."

The Currency.

Mr. Roosevelt declares that our present bank currency based on government bonds is unscientific and urges the adoption of a system which shall provide "elasticity in the credit and currency necessary for the conduct of business, free from recurring panics." The control of such a system should be in the hands of the government and must be free from "manipulation by Wall street or the large interests."

Conservation.

Under this head Mr. Roosevelt reaffirms his well known policy on the conservation and reclamation of national resources. We must conserve our soil, our forests, our mines, not only for our own benefit, but for the benefit of our children and descendants. "The public should not alienate its fee in the water power which will be of incalculable value as a source of power in the immediate future" and "we should undertake the complete development and control of the Mississippi as a national work, just as we have undertaken the work of building the Panama canal.

Alaska.

"In Alaska the government has an opportunity of starting in what is almost a fresh field to work out various problems by actual experiment." It should at once construct, own and operate all the railways in Alaska. It should keep the fee of all coal fields and allow them to be operated by lessee with the condition in the lease that non-use shall operate as a forfeit. A system of land taxation should be tried which promotes the actual use of land and discourages the holding of land for speculation. The telegraph lines should be owned and operated by the government.

International Affairs.

"In international affairs this country should behave toward other nations exactly as an honorable private citizen behaves toward other private citizens." Our small army should have efficiency; the navy must be steadily built up until "it proves possible to secure by international agreement a general reduction of armaments;" the Panama canal must be fortified. Panama canal tolls on deep water commerce should be uniform to all nations, including ourselves. American coastwise vessels should pass through the canal free, for this would be no discrimination against foreign nations and would give us reasonable competition with transcontinental railways. No foreign treaty should be entered into which we do not mean to scrupulously observe in every particular.

Conclusion.

In summing up the specific policies expounded in his address Mr. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"Now, friends, this is my confession of faith. I have made it rather long because I wish you to know just what my deepest convictions are on the great questions of today, so that if you choose to make me your standard bearer in the fight you shall make your choice understanding exactly how I feel—and if, after hearing me, you think you ought to choose some one else I shall loyally abide by your choice. The convictions to which I have come have not been arrived at as the result of study in the closet or the library, but from the knowledge I have gained through hard experience during the many years in which, under many and varied conditions, I have striven and toiled with men. I believe in a larger use of the governmental power to help remedy industrial wrongs because it has been borne in on me by actual experience that without the exercise of such power many of the wrongs will go unremedied. I believe in a larger opportunity for the people themselves directly to participate in government and to control their governmental agents, because long experience has taught me that without such control many of their agents will represent them badly. By actual experience in office I have found that, as a rule, I could secure the triumph of the causes in which I most believed, not from the politicians and the men who claim an exceptional right to speak in business and government, but by going over their heads and appealing directly to the people themselves.

"I am not under the slightest delusion as to any power that during my political career I have at any time possessed. Whatever of power I at any time had I obtained from the people. I could exercise it only so long as and to the extent that the people not merely believed in me, but heartily backed me up. Whatever I did as president I was able to do only because I had the backing of the people. When on any point I did not have that backing, when on any point I differed from the people, it mattered not whether I was right or whether I was wrong, my power vanished. I tried my best to lead the people, to advise them, to tell them what I thought was right; if necessary I never hesitated to tell them what I thought they ought to hear, even though it would be unpleasant for them to hear it, but I recognized that my task was to try to lead them and not to drive them, to take them into my confidence, to try to show them that I was right and then loyally and in good faith to accept their decision. I will do anything for the people except what my conscience tells me is wrong, and that I can do for no man and no set of men. I hold that a man cannot serve the people well unless he serves his conscience, but I hold also that where his conscience bids him refuse to do what the people desire he should not try to continue in office against their will. Our government system should be so shaped that the public servant, when he cannot conscientiously carry out the wishes of the people, shall at their desire leave his office and not misrepresent them in office, and I hold that the public servant can by so doing better than in any other way serve both them and his conscience.

"Surely there never was a fight better worth making than the one in which we are engaged. It little matters what befalls any one of us who for the time being stands in the forefront of the battle. I hope we shall win, and I believe that if we can wake the people to what the fight really means we shall win. But, win or lose, we shall not falter. Whatever fate may at the moment overtake any of us, the movement itself will not stop. Our cause is based on the eternal principles of righteousness, and even though we who now lead may for the time fail in the end the cause itself shall triumph. Six weeks ago, here in Chicago, I spoke to the honest representatives of a convention which was not dominated by honest men, a convention wherein sat, alas, a majority of men who, with sneering indifference to every principle of right, so acted as to bring to a shameful end a party which had been founded over half a century ago by men in whose souls burned the fire of lofty endeavor. Now to you men who in your turn have come together to spend and be spent in the endless crusade against wrong, to you who face the future resolute and confident, to you who strive in a spirit of brotherhood for the betterment of our nation, to you who gird yourselves for this great new fight in the never ending warfare for the good of humankind, I say in closing what in that speech I said in closing: We stand at Armageddon, and we battle for the Lord."

CITY TICKET IN MOOSE PROGRAM

Moy Announces In Chicago That Plainfield Progressives Will Contest All Offices.

TO IGNORE PRIMARY

Mayor Says He Will Fight For New Party In the Open Field and Is to Seek Re-election By Petition.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (Special).—Plainfield will have a local ticket of the National Progressive party in the field at the November election. All doubt on that score is now dispelled and the ticket is assured because of the splendid reception the new movement has received following the great convention in progress here.

Mayor George W. V. Moy has decided positively and finally that he cannot enter the Republican primary this fall, as he is determined to do all within his power to aid the Roosevelt national and state tickets. The Mayor stated positively to the Daily Press correspondent here this morning that he will secure nomination by petition and that he will probably have a full local ticket in the field to run with him. He says that nothing decisive has been thought about the balance of the ticket, except for one or two offices.

Mayor Moy's declaration that he will seek re-election in this manner is probably the first to be made in the State of New Jersey, at least for a local office. A few have become avowed candidates for Congress, but the Plainfield executive leads the field as a candidate for a purely local office under the standard of the new party.

Mayor Moy's action will probably simplify matters in the Republican primary, but will present a three-cornered fight at the election, the result of which is problematical. The Mayor sincerely believes that before November the sentiment will change so that with three tickets in the field the Bull Moose party will lead.

This statement on the part of the Mayor settles finally and positively that he will not be the candidate of the new party for Congress from the Fifth District and it strengthens the chances of former Representative Charles N. Fowler, if he decides to seek the nomination.

TO HEAD NEW DEPARTMENT IN WESTFIELD SCHOOLS

Miss Sara C. Davis, supervisor of domestic science in the Philadelphia Grammar Schools, was chosen as teacher in the domestic science department to be started in September at the Washington School, Westfield. The appointment was made last night at the regular meeting of the Board of Education.

Two rooms have been finished off in the basement of the High School building where the gas cooking apparatus and the desk equipment have been installed. The new course will be along the same lines pursued in the larger cities and will be taught to all the girls in the High School.

Mr. Grapes, of the building committee, reported that the Grant School was nearly completed and that the desks had been ordered and shipped. Numerous small business was passed on.

DULL CITY COURT SESSION.

There was but a brief session in the city police court this morning. City Judge William G. DeMeza, on the complaint of the Board of Health, ordered Morris Berlowitz, of 252 West Third street, to abate a nuisance by having a quantity of decaying vegetables and other matter carted out of his cellar. Defendant promised to do so at once. The case of Julia Angelina against Angelina Lombardi and Joseph Pagglorio, of St. Mary's avenue, for disorderly conduct, was adjourned to August 15.

Dogs are making heavy inroads on chickens about South Plainfield. Mrs. Miles, on Plainfield avenue, had sixteen killed Sunday night, on Monday, Mrs. J. Maguire, six, and Mrs. M. D. Teeple, ten. Last week Mrs. Melvin Shrope had five killed by dogs. In all those cases the dogs and the owners are known, but about two weeks ago Mrs. William Ball had nineteen fowls killed at night and she hasn't learned whose dog did it.

Elizabeth, Aug. 7 (Special).—Contracts aggregating more than $100,000 were awarded yesterday afternoon by the county road committee for the paving of State Aid and county roads. The committee members, with Director John N. Cady and County Engineer Jacob Bauer, went to Trenton yesterday morning and secured the endorsement of Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, State Road Commissioner, who expressed his satisfaction with the bids. The State Aid road contracts were awarded as follows:

Morris avenue, in Springfield township for a disance of three miles, to C. H. Winans & Co., of Linden, at a cost of $41,747.54; to be paved with Amiesite.

Westfield avenue in Springfield township, to C. H. Winans & Co., $16,944.50; to be paved with Amiesite.

Springfield avenue, also known as Seven Bridge Road, in Springfield township, to the Weldon Contracting Co., of Rahway, $34,000; to be paved with Amiesite.

The Weldon Construction Co. was also awarded the contract for the paving of South and Westfield avenues under the railroad bridge at Westfield and from North to South avenue, with bitulithic; and continuing on South avenue for 4,000 feet toward Fanwood, with Amiesite, $12,403.45. This is a county road.

Contracts for four culverts in Plainfield were awarded as follows: One at the easterly side of South avenue, at Leland avenue, $305; the other at the westerly side of South avenue, at Leland avenue, $324.50. Contracts awarded to T. Foster Callahan.

Two culverts are to be built at Terrill road and South avenue and South avenue to cross the sidewalk at Leland avenue at a cost, respectively, of $422 and $100. C. A. Peterson, of Westfield, got these two latter contracts. The work on the culverts is to be completed within three weeks.

The committee secured $3,000 additional from Colonel Stevens which is appropriated from the State Motor Vehicle Fund to the county. This will make the total fund $23,000. The money will be used to resurface North Broad street, Elizabeth, at a point running for a 1,000 feet through Lyons Farms.

The road committee members are Henry Krouse, chairman; Peter H. Meisel, C. A. Smith, S. P. T. Wilbur, Thomas H. Pierson.

TRAYNOR'S APPLICATION BLIGHTED BY COUNCILMEN

The application of John Traynor for a wholesale liquor license on Somerset street, the city, which was presented to the Councilmanic license committee, of which Councilman W. W. Wilson is the chairman, has been withdrawn by counsel, Judge Walter L. Hetfield. This was done after a caucus of the councilmen when it was learned that a sufficient number of votes could not be secured to grant the application. Mr. Wilson called a conference of the members for the purpose of ascertaining how the councilmen felt about the application, and the sentiment expressed showed that a majority were in favor of continuing the established policy of not increasing the number of licensed places.

A question was raised to the effect that some of the signers to Mr. Traynor's petition did not own property within the prescribed number of feet as required by law, but Judge Hetfield, who had a survey made, declared that all the signers fulfilled the legal requirements. However, this point was not given much consideration in view of the fact that the Council has practically taken the stand not to grant licenses to any new applicants.

It was generally believed that Mr. Traynor, who is employed by Mrs. Lena Hoerster, desired the license so as to meet the recent decision of the courts to the effect that wholesale liquor dealers in one municipality cannot deliver liquor outside of that municipality.

CANCER CURED BY UNUSUAL MEANS

TREATED BY DR. YOOD

Case Attracts Much Attention Among Medical Men, Who Have Largely Depended On the Knife for Removing Cancerous Growths.

An unusual cure of cancer has been reported by Dr. Raphael Yood, of this city, and the case has attracted much attention not only on the part of laymen, but the medical fraternity as well. So far as known it is the first case of the kind known in this vicinity, if not the State. The patient was John Moore, of 63 Mountain avenue, North Plainfield, who was suffering from a cancer on the lower lip.

The growth, which was one of long standing, was about the size of a hazel nut and had given Mr. Moore considerable trouble. The cause was the constant smoking of a pipe, and the cancer was steadily eating its way into the tissues when Dr. Yood was called into the case.

Instead of resorting to the knife for the removal of the growth, Dr. Yood treated it with what is known as frozen gas. He had read of the possibilities of this treatment in medical journals and was thus led to try it in this case. Mr. Moore called regularly at the doctor's office to receive the treatment and both patient and physician were surprised to notice that the cancer was gradually disappearing. At the end of less than three months the growth was entirely removed and today there is not even a scar or mark of any kind to indicate that there was a cancer on the lip. Mr. Moore is greatly elated over the cure. Sufficient time has elapsed to allow for the appearance of symptoms of a return of the cancer, and Dr. Yood is satisfied that a perfect cure has been effected.

It was through Dr. Yood's treatment of Mrs. Catherine Egany, of 69 Mountain avenue, for a cancer of the upper lip, that Mr. Moore came in touch with the physician. In the case of Mrs. Egany the cancer was smaller, and owing to her advanced age, Dr. Yood did not use the same method in removing the growth.

WHITE STORE CLERKS HAD "PERFECT DAY" AT THE LAKE

The annual outing of the employes of "The White Store" at Lake Hopatcong, yesterday, proved to be a delightful affair. There were forty-two in the party. The start was made from the store on West Front street about 8:30 in the morning and it was about 10 o'clock when the Lake was reached. Six automobiles were engaged for the trip, including A. E. Force's own car. Mr. Force was in charge of the outing and personally gave his attention to seeing that the program as outlined was carried out.

The trip to and from the Lake was made by the way of Murray Hill, New Providence, Morristown, Morris Plains, Rockaway, Dover and thence to Lake Hopatcong. At noon the party all sat down to a fine picnic lunch. The afternoon was spent in bathing, boating and fishing, while some enjoyed the merry-go-round and other attractions. The return trip was started about 5:30 and it was 8 o'clock when the Plainfielders arrived home, all delighted with the outing.

NEW HEAD IS NAMED FOR H. S. DEPARTMENT

J. R. Evans Takes Place of Late Mr. Macnab—No Netherwood Quarters.

J. R. Evans, of Lockport, N. Y., has been engaged by the Plainfield Board of Education as the head of the commercial department of the High School to succeed the late James D. Macnab, who had charge of that department for fifteen years. The announcement was made at the August meeting of the board held at the High School last night. Dr. H. M. Maxson stated that Mr. Evans has the highest recommendations as a teacher and felt satisfied that he would maintain the standard set by Mr. Macnab.

Mr. Evans is a graduate of the State University of Ohio and of the Marietta Commercial College. He taught fifteen years or more in the commercial schools and public schools of Ohio and New York and at present is in charge of the commercial department in the High School at Lockport, N. Y. The National Business Teachers' Association has elected him as its secretary and the New York State Board of Regents engaged him to prepare a State document on commercial teaching for the teachers of that State.

The board conferred with the engineer and architect as to the proposed plans to enlarge the High School building, and it was decided to meet again tonight to go over the plans more thoroughly. They call for twenty-one additional classrooms, with a swimming pool, separate lighting plant and a larger auditorium. It is also possible that a separate water plant may be established at considerable saving both in the cost of electric light and water. It is believed that the plans will be ready to be submitted to the contractors sometime this month and that the bids can be received early in September.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the borrowing of $7,000 to meet current bills, and bills amounting to about $6,000 were ordered paid. The sum of $100 was ordered transferred from the general fund to that of the manual training. The custodian of school funds reported a credit of $2,764.40 to the board on August 1, and the tax collector reported the collection of $2,084.65 for school purposes. The annual audit of Suffern & Sons, expert accountants, was presented and filed.

The question of leasing quarters in the Netherwood section of the city for school accmmodations until a school is built was considered in response to the petition from the Netherwood Residents' Association, and the board decided that inasmuch as the budget for the year was made up it would be impossible to do anything in that matter at present. The board notified the association to that effect. It was suggested that rooms in the parish house of St. Stephen's church be engaged, but it was found that the expense would be too great.

THE BIRTH OF A NEW PARTY

Some Personal Observations by Press Editor at the Chicago Gathering.

ERA OF BUSINESS MAN

Practical Politicians of Old Have Given Way at Chicago to New Order of Things and a New Element Will Lead.

BY LESLIE R. FORT.

(Telegram to the Daily Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 7. One cannot write of the National Progressive Convention without having foremost in thought the great sincerity of purpose displayed by everyone of the twelve hundred or more delegates. The scenes at the Coliseum are such as will be imprinted on the memory of those present as long as they live. Probably there has never been gathered together before in the history of the nation, such a determined group of men, intent upon any purpose, whether the gathering was of a political or a business nature. True there is the usual excitement incident to such gatherings, the bands, speeches and crowds in the hotel lobbies, but beneath it all there remains one solemn impression which cannot be overcome, that the delegates are here for business and that business is to wrest the political control of this great nation from the hands of the bosses who have become supreme in both of the old parties.

When one studies the history of the formation of the Republican party in 1856, it in many ways parallels the political situation of today. Then, history tells us, there was a meeting at Pittsburg, such as that held in Orchestra Hall here on June 22, at which the Declaration of Independence was first made. Later a great convention, called as the one here has been called, was held in Philadelphia. Many men prominent in both of the old parties of the time refused to have anything to do with the new movement, ridiculing the idea that a new party could live. And yet that new party developed such strength in its first year that it forced the election of a President by a minority of the total vote cast, and resulted in the forming of the Republican party to last until 1912, and at the same time it was the end of one of the old parties.

Will history repeat itself this year? The answer is in the minds of the thousands of determined men gathered here, in the affirmative. They believe, from what they have learned from each other, and from the people of their home states, that they will be successful. And the men who express such belief are not the so-called "practical politicians," who always say that the result in their various states will be favorable to their cause, predictions which are made for the benefit of the cause, and not because they sincerely believe what they say will come true.

Analyze the general make-up of the men who are gathered here. They have but one purpose in mind: to bring back to the people what justly belongs to them. There are many old time politicians here—no one disputes that. But outnumbering them ten to one are hundreds of practical and successful business men, who have never taken part in politics before, but are now doing so because they believe that it is time for them to step in and take a hand in the business affairs of their communities, states and the nation. Perhaps no better example to illustrate this point can be found than in the national committeeman from Missouri, Mr. Walker. He is a retired business man from St. Louis, and although retired is still a young man. Never before this year has he taken any part in politics, other than to cast his vote, and until 1896, when Bryan first ran, he was a Democrat. For the good of the new cause he has remained home from an annual trip abroad, and given his whole time to getting the new party on its feet—purely because he believes that the time is here for a change. His case is but one of many that one hears of, and yet probably seventy per cent. of the men who are "just plain delegates" have taken up the work of the new party with no personal or selfish though in view.

There are none of the hand picked delegates such as come here from New York, or went to Baltimore from that state, whose one thought was to Chicago, Aug. 7.—The National Progressive party convention reassembled at 11:30 o'clock this morning, when the temporary organization was made permanent. Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge took the chair. A recess was taken shortly afterward until 1 o'clock to give the rules committee a chance to report. Shortly after 1 o'clock the session was resumed and the rules committee reported that at future Progressive conventions there be one delegate for 5,000 voters instead of 10,000 as was proposed.

The committee also reported that the name of the new party should be the Progressive Party in such States where the term Progressive is not used by any other political party. The report was adopted. The report of Trenton, Aug. 7.—A case unusual to the history of the Catholic church in the United States has just been made public by the announcement of Mrs. James Logue, a parishioner of one of the Catholic churches here, that she is preparing to send to the Pope a claim for money loaned to Father Missle, who, until the time of his death, was pastor of the church at Basking Ridge.

WOMAN TO SEND POPE CLAIM FOR ALLEGED DEBT

Mrs. Logue avers she cannot get the money back. The priest died without having made provision for repayment. Mrs. Logue says the sum with interest now amounts to $3,000.

SOMERSET MINING LANDS IN A FORECLOSURE ACTION

Trenton, August 7.—Application was made to Chancellor Walker yesterday by the Bankers Trust Company of New York City for the foreclosure of a mortgage for $315,000 upon the real estate and personal property of the Alpha Copper Company. The real estate consists of mining lands in Somerset county, this state. The complainant, in its bill filed in Chancery, charges that the Copper Company is insolvent. George H. Gardiner, of New York City, is also named as a defendant in the suit. The Alpha Copper Company is a corporation of the State of Arizona and this mortgage was given to secure an issue of $315,000 of general lien twenty year, 6 per cent. gold bonds, the issue having been authorized March 11, 1909.

The bill shows that this mortgage and the deed of trust under which it was given were subject to a mortgage of $65,000 given by the American Copper Mining Company to Albert H. Hovey, and subject to a mortgage given to the Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company as trustee for $2,500. It is further alleged in the bill of complaint that the Defendant Company was without funds to pay the semi-annual installments of interest upon the $315,000 bond issue due on October 1, 1909; April 1 and October 1, 1910; and April 1, 1911. It is shown that Thomas W. Joyce, one of the bond holders, has recovered a judgment in the Supreme Court of New York for $37,819 for back interest due him in his bonds. Joyce also recovered a further judgment against the company for $4,708, and under this judgment some of the property of the company in Somerset county was sold at Sheriff's sale to George H. Gardiner, and this is what brings him into the suit as a defendant.

The complainant charges that the Defendant Company is insolvent and wholly unable to pay its debts and that the bond holders cannot be protected except through a foreclosure of this mortgage.

RAHWAY POLICE "SHAKE-UP."

Rahway, Aug. 7.—The local police force was given a general "shake-up" Monday by Chief David H. Ramsey, who, with the exceptional of Patrolman Peter Bartz, who covers a section of the Fourth ward, transferred every man on the force. Day Desk Sergeant William Kinneally, who has held the position for several years, was assigned to night patrol duty in the Third ward. Desk Sergeant Ferdinand Giese was transferred to day duty, and Patrolman James Thompson was promoted to succeed Giese as night desk sergeant. Patrolman James Crahan, who had the Main and Ferry street post, was transferred to the First ward, Patrolman Jacob Reimer going from the Third ward, to succeed him. The shake-up came as a surprise. Chief Ramsey's explanation for the changes is "for the good of the service."

The testimony of a Plainfield citizen
Can be easily investigated.
What better proof can be had?

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 1005 S. Second St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "There was a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made my condition worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and various other remedies but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They did such good work in correcting my trouble that I heartily recommend them." (Statement given August 25, 1908.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT.

Mrs. Driscoll was interviewed on January 29, 1911, and she added to the above: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I have been for the past five years. They made a lasting cure in my case."

WOMEN GONE, BEACH MYSTERY

NOT DROWNED, GUARDS SAY

Each of Missing Philadelphia Matrons Leaves a Young Child as Well as Husband — Mr. Fulton Identifies Clothing of His Wife at Shore Resort.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Joseph Fulton, Jr., twenty-three years old, and Mrs. Thomas Cunningham, twenty-four years old, have mysteriously disappeared. Their clothes have been found in a bath house here. A queer fact is that the women wore the oldest clothes they owned when they entered the bath house.

That was Sunday afternoon. The ocean was like glass, and the beach was patrolled by numerous life guards, who declare it would have been impossible for two women to drown and not be seen.

The first news of the mystery came when Fulton was notified in Philadelphia that the clothing of his wife had been found. Accompanied by his father, he came here, where he identified the clothing of his wife and also that of Mrs. Cunningham. The women went to Atlantic City attired in their best gowns, taking lounging gowns with them. It was the latter that were found in the bath house.

Mrs. Fulton leaves a three-year-old boy, while Mrs. Cunningham had a girl one year older.

Mr. Howland does not believe that he has started cross lots for Chicago, but is inclined to think that the dog is sticking around Montclair somewhere, probably chasing from one bulletin board to another for news of the convention.

Small boys distributed circulars all over the town offering $10 reward for the return of Chappie and $5 reward for any definite information as to what has happened him.

The body was removed to the West New Brighton morgue. The man's face is badly bruised and four teeth are broken, and his friends believe he met with foul play.

OIL THE NOTCH ROAD.

What is it that causes the North Plainfield Township Committee to hesitate in throwing oil on the troubled roadway between the Somerset street trolley terminus and Demler's corner?

The Notch road is the feeder to a network of other roads, and it bears the brunt of concentrated automobile traffic throughout the touring and jaunting season—which has come to be reasonably long. Drivers of slow-going carriages and wagons swallow quarts of dust between Johnston's Drive and the Washington Valley road under the present conditions, and the despised pedestrians swallow bushels of it.

The man who walks nowadays deserves little consideration, but pity for the downtrodden calls for the manifestation of what little is his due. Plainfielders and North Plainfielders to a considerable number are fond of Sunday strolls through the Notch, and the township should be hospitable enough to give them air and not pulverized stone and topsoil to breathe. Township taxpayers have no hesitancy about using and enjoying the well-kept roadways of the borough and the city.

If it be foolish to rely on the sentimental side of a municipality, then let the users of the Notch thoroughfare rest their cast against the flying dust on a material consideration. A macadamized road used as much as is the one through the Notch cannot be built to last unless it is treated with tarvia or some such preparation. Automobile tires tear the untreated macadam to pieces as successfully as it they were invented for that particular purpose. The Township Committee must invest liberally in oil, if it doesn't want to invest much more liberally in cracked stone and labor.

The Taft and Sherman banner hung out on Park avenue by the Taft Club is the same one used four years ago. This sheds light on the stubborn demand of "organization" men all over the country for the renomination of the old ticket. None of the "regular" clubs will have to buy banners. Also light is shed on the source of the Colonel's war fund before Chicago. The banner-makers were behind him.

A directory of the plutocrats of Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck, Germany, just published, shows that the fortune of Bertha Krupp von Borlen has increased in three years from $45,000,000 to $70,000,000.—News Item.

This effectually disposes of the notion that persons of humble means have no opportunity of bettering their condition in an Old World monarchy.

If the New Yorker who was run down and injured by the automobile ambulance of a hospital is indignant, one must sympathize with him. Young ambulance surgeons need practice, and one is willing enough that they should have it, but it is coming it a little strong to use an ambulance in bagging subjects. That rather shocks one's sense of the fitness of things.

"Metuchen Burglar Posed As Theologian."—Large Headline in New Brunswick Times.

A startling innovation in caption-writing. Every other headwriter in the United States would have put it "Metuchen Theologian a Burglar." Let sensitive clerics and Sunday-school superintendents do something to show their appreciation of the dawning of a better day.

Suffragettes cut the wires of all the public telephones in an Edinburgh station the other day and left placards reading "No Votes, No Peace." The first time woman has been known to include a cessation of talk in her scheme to disturb man's peace.

There is at least one thing highly gratifying to the members of the party in the question as to the plural of Bull Moose. It indicates general acceptance of the fact that there are enough of them to make the plural necessary, anyway.

The wife of a prominent Philadelphian has sued him for divorce within six months after marriage, and friends of the couple say their trouble began on their honeymoon. Well, when does marital trouble usually begin?

Nobody in Plainfield cares a rap about 1 a. m. excise raids in the Tenderloin. All Plainfielders have rushed for the last train by that time. Thus once more is the superiority of residence in the suburbs demonstrated.

Speaking of raids in the Tenderloin, its funny how wives and friends of perfectly respectable men in all New York suburbs scan the lists of arrests when a raiding story gets into the papers.

And still again we say: "Remember the Baby Camp on the Mountain."

FRIENDS GIVE SURPRISE PARTY TO MRS. WADE

A birthday surprise party was given Mrs. P. W. Wade by a number of her friends at her home on East Second street, last night. Cards, refreshments and a social chat were the main features of the evening's pleasure.

Mrs. Wade was the recipient of many handsome gifts. Guests were present from New York, Bound Brook, Dunellen and this city.

EX-CONVICT TELLS HOW HE WAS CONVERTED IN PRISON

A service of unusual interest was held at the Salvation Army camp-meeting at Wayside Park, last night. The speakers were Brigadier W. O. Hunter and Envoy Thomas Anderson, representatives of the Army's work among the prisoners. The platform was made to represent a prison cell, and Envoy Anderson was dressed in a convict's garb.

The envoy gave a very interesting story of his life, relating how while he was serving a ten years' sentence in the penitentiary the Salvation Army entered the prison to conduct a service and although he was in solitary confinement and was unable to see the singers and speakers, the services touched his heart that he knelt in his cell and gave his heart and life to God. After his release he devoted his life to helping and saving other convicts for the past twelve years. He now holds the position of assistant secretary of the Army's prison work.

The Envoy gave an interesting talk on prison conditions today and years ago, showing how it is possible for the prisoner to reduce his sentence by good behavior and how while in prison he can by his good conduct rise to a position where he may not have to wear the convict's garb.

A record week-night attendance marked the service. This afternoon and evening the services will be conducted by Staff Captain Mabee and Ensign George Cooke. These leaders are two of the Army's best vocal soloists and have traveled almost around the world in evangelistic work.

Seven have professed conversion since the opening of the camp, one of which was a drunkard.

PEACH AND CREAM FESTIVAL.

Under the auspices of the Women's Relief of the G. A. R., a peach and ice cream festival will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening on the lawn at the home of Captain and Mrs. W. C. Smith, Grandview and Watchung avenues, the borough. The lawn will be attractively decorated and several features are promised.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS' BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Denver, Col., Aug. 7.—The twenty-seventh biennial convention of the Knights of Pythias, which opened here yesterday, is said to be the most extensively attended convention in history of the organization. About 1,000 members of the order, many accomplished by their families, are attending.

The program of the opening session included addresses by Governor Shafroth and Mayor Arnold and Judge George M. Hanson, of Calais, Me.

PRISONERS' FOOD COSTS ONLY 12 CENTS A DAY

New Brunswick, Aug. 7.—According to the statement of Warden William H. Donomore, of the Middlesex county jail, submitted to the Board of Freeholders at its meeting it cost the county but twelve cents a day to feed each prisoner. There was an average of fifty-three prisoners during the month. The total cost for feeding the prisoners during the month was $198.20, or $6.39 per day.

The statement of the warden showed that the prisoners were given meats and potatoes. The purchase of three dozen eggs at thirty cents a dozen was also included in the statement.

NEW BRUNSWICK FIGHT ON STREET HEAD ENDS

New Brunswick, Aug. 7.—Cornelius McCrellis is now street commissioner of this city. Abraham Jelin, who had been fighting McCrellis for the position since January 8, resigned at a meeting of Common Council, after it had been decided to pay Jelin $400.77 as his salary from January 1 to July 1.

Jelin claimed that his term did not expire until January 1 of next year, and McCrellis contended that he was legally elected by a majority of Common Council on January 8 to fill the position.

The election of McCrellis in January was brought about through a deal with the Republicans by Alderman Kinney, who is a Democrat.

Both Jelin and McCrellis continued to act as street commissioner. Most of the property belonging to the city was turned over to McCrellis. At a meeting of Council July 15 a resolution was adopted by a vote of 7 to 6 recognizing McCrellis as street commissioner.

This resolution was returned to Council vetoed by Mayor Morrison on the ground that the courts have not yet determined the legal street commissioner, and that the city was involving itself by the adoption of such a resolution. The veto of the Mayor was defeated. Following this action Jelin resigned.

Alderman Nicholas announced that Mr. Jelin did not care to fight the case further. Both McCrellis and Jelin are Democrats. Alderman Kinney did not favor Jelin, and for this reason started the move that caused Jelin's retirement.

J. W. HARRISON ENCOUNTERS INTERESTING FAKE ANTIQUE

An aged clerical-looking man walked into J. W. Harrison's second-hand furniture store on Madison avenue, yesterday morning, and shook the proprietor warmly by the hand, saying "Hello, Harrison, how are you; it's years since we met."

Harrison was taken somewhat aback by the familiarity of the greeting and the unfamiliarity of the face of the stranger, and did not respond to the other's advances. Seeing which the stranger exclaimed:

"Why, is it possible you don't remember your friend Booth from Scotland?"

Mr. Harrison said it might have been possible that he had met him there or somebody o fthat name, but could not recall the time or occasion. The stranger then seated himself and began tearfully to narrate a hard luck story of how he had been a missionary who had done yeoman service in foreign fields, but had now fallen on hard times. A stranger in this country, he said, he did not know where to turn for succor until he had heard Mr. Harrison was in Plainfield and had come to him. He only wanted the price of his board and rooms until he got something to do.

A pretty astute judge of second-hand materials, Mr. Harrison decided the old antique was not genuine and told him to make himself scarce. He did. Subsequently Mr. Harrison rang up the police and gave a description of the man whom he believed to be a religious fakir. Mr. Harrison is a religious worker, and his visitor probably thought he would be easy game.

THE FRANCIS BACON PIANO CO.

ESTABLISHED 1789.

PIANOS AND PLAYER PIANOS

An exhibit of these famous pianos will take place at our store, beginning Wednesday, August 7.

This piano has the distinction of being made by the oldest piano company in America, having been established in 1789 by John Jacob Astor. It was in the Francis Bacon factory that the makers of many of the standard pianos of the present day learned their trade, and on the company's payroll are found the names of Henry and Charles Steinway, of Steinway & Son's, and many others.

Arrangements have been made whereby we can sell these pianos at a discount of 20 per cent. from their regular prices during this exhibit.

The Tremaine Piano and Player-Piano made by the same company will be featured in a Club Plan, with very reasonable payments.

The Tremaine Piano has an unexcelled quality of tone and is artistically and beautifully made.

Visitors always welcome. W. E. MacCLYMONT, Sales Manager.

Every conservative shopper realizes a tendency to more advantageous prices in the month of August, especially in home furnishings, such tendencies being augmented by prevailing conditions: A time when the major part of humanity is either enjoying a vacation or longing for comfort in most any place but home surroundings, which holds their shopping expectations in suspense unless prompted by a stimulus to investigate the possibilities of a great saving. We have made such a reduction of prices that it really seems like a dream of the "full revision of the tariff." Our customers will find this their great profit retaining opportunity. Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

ROAST CHICKEN.

ROAST or baked chicken may be prepared on baking day, when it is necessary to have a fire in the range, and what is not eaten of the fowl or fowls may be served later cold. The use of white meats in summer is recommended by those who aim to teach us how to keep cool in warm weather.

If you have a good oil or gas stove with an oven the chicken may be roasted in that. In a fireless cooker, supplied with the soapstone plates, the chicken can be at least partly prepared. When almost done it may be taken out of the boiler and browned in the oven of the oil or gas stove.

Roast chicken is excellent cooked in a paper bag. Stuff it nicely, rub it over with butter and put a slice of bacon over the breast. Cook in a well greased bag for three-quarters of an hour to an hour.

A year old chicken makes the best roast. The smaller broilers are not so good for the oven. They roast away, the meat seeming to shrivel and dry in the steady heat.

With the Giblets.

Roast Chicken With Giblet Sauce.—Clean the fowl and stuff it with the following mixture: One cupful of stale breadcrumbs, one tablespoonful of melted butter, a tablespoonful of chopped parsley and seasoning to taste.

Close the openings by sewing with coarse thread.

Place two slices of bacon in the bottom of the roasting pan, lay the chicken on them, cover the bottom of the pan with water, add salt and bake in a quick oven for fifteen minutes to close the pores.

Allow fifteen minutes to every pound of chicken and baste every ten minutes, first with water and then with the drippings. Baste the breast of the chicken with butter fifteen minutes before it is done, dredge with flour and return to the oven to brown. When taken out remove the threads and serve.

For the sauce put the giblets in a pan with cold water, place over a moderate fire and simmer while the chicken roasts. Chop them fine, add a teaspoonful of flour to the drippings in the roast pan and stir over the fire until brown. Add a half pint of the stock in which the giblets were boiled, stir until the sauce boils, add the chopped giblets and season to taste. Serve in gravy boat.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

A New Book on Equal Suffrage.

"How We Won the Vote in California," a book of 70 pages by Selena Solomons, gives an outline of the suffrage movement in California and describes the great campaign of 1911 when the amendment was finally carried. In the closing chapter the author gives an interesting account of her experience in serving as an election clerk in her precinct at the recent presidential primary. We cull at random a few sentences: "Arriving at the polls promptly at a quarter to six in the morning, I found my five masculine colleagues assembled there in the clean booth built of new sweet smelling pine wood, with all the election paraphernalia on hand. Glancing around I saw a vase of flowers on the impromptu shelf. One of the men coyly confessed to having placed it there, and on being asked whether it was the custom, he also confessed that it was not, adding apologetically, 'But we never had a lady there before.'

"One 'anti' voted in my precinct. After exercising the citizen's privilege won for her at so high a cost, she turned to me and exclaimed 'I think it's just awful!' And from the safe vantage ground which by this time she had gained she volunteered the further new and startling thesis that 'Women didn't have sense enough to vote.'"

"The great problem of the anti's was solved that day in my precinct. As simply and naturally as though from time immemorial it had been the custom at election, a lady entered the booth in company with her husband and a girl baby, which was wheeled by its father in a go-cart.

"In view of anti-nightmare and delirium tremens anent the degradation of the polls, it behooves me here to make my solemn affidavit that during the honor of my clerkship no lady in a drawing room could have received more courteous treatment. During all that time not a single profane or coarse word assailed my ears, such as, alas! those members have frequently been contaminated with on the streets, in the cars and at the theatres."

Miss Solomons tells an amusing story of a cook in the family of a Berkeley suffragist, who was offered a half day off, that she might vote at her leisure. She thus addressed her astounded mistress:

"No, ma'am! No holiday for me on 'lection day. Not much. I aint goin' to let my doin's prove all them silly folks right what have said that the women would neglect their house and their children, and their work, to go and vote! Not much, ma'am! I'm goin' to put in a good, full day of work, I am, and come back and git dinner just the same as I allus do—and vote, besides!"

Suffragists all over the country enjoy reading of how campaigns have been won. The little book is published by the New Woman Publishing Company, 733 Bay street, San Francisco. Price, 35 cents.

Interesting Items Concerning Suffrage.

From the new Portuguese Republic comes the report that under the Electoral Law just passed, the vote has been given to women over 25 years of age, who have passed a certain educational test.

The Prohibition Party in convention at Atlantic City recently included in its platform suffrage for women on the same terms as men.

At the Republican State Convention recently held in Des Moines, Iowa, a suffrage plank was adopted amid much cheering, applause and waving of handkerchiefs.

"Every single political party in Pennsylvania has endorsed woman suffrage this year and thus far there is no other state that holds a like record," says the Woman's Journal. "This headlong plunge away from conservaism follows close upon the heels of the phenomenal official courtesies exturned by the city of Philadelphia to the State Suffragists Convention last fall, when meetings were actually held in the Mayor's own office at his invitation and when the City Hall itself bore the blazing electric sign 'Welcome Pennsylvania Woman's Suffrage Association.' Tales of Philadelphia slowness will hereafter have to be reversed at least so far as suffrage is concerned."

The National Suffrage Convention will be held in Philadelphia from Nov. 21 to 25 inclusive, and the program prepared even at this time is a feast of good things. The first evening, No. 21, will be Campaign Night and promises to be a tremendous celebration of the victories sure to be gained for suffrage in several more states in addition to the six Campaign States where women already vote.

CHARLES WALLANDER DEAD.

Hampton, Aug. 7.—The funeral of Councilman Charles Wallander, forty-seven years old, who died at his home in this borough Sunday night of pneumonia, will be held today in the Musconetcong Valley Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. Ward C. Peabody, assisted by Rev. W. S. T. Metzger, pastor of the First Lutheran church in Glen Gardner, and Rev. J. H. Meyers, of Jersey City, a former pastor of the church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Musconetcong Valley cemetery. Mr. Wallander was a machinist and was employed by the Taylor Iron and Steel Company at High Bridge. Six years ago he was elected a member of the Borough Council. He was president of the Council one term. Mr. Wallander was a member of the First Lutheran church of Glen Gardner, a past master of Lebanon Lodge No. 6, F. and A. M., also of that place, and past master of Minerva Lodge No. 60, I. O. O. F., of this place. The different organizations and the borough officials will attend the funeral and the services at the grave will be in charge of the Masonic fraternity.

PLAYGROUND PICNIC.

There will be a "special" at the Bryant School playground next Saturday afternoon, when the mothers and children of that neighborhood will hold a picnic. The affair is in charge of Miss Moe, who is supervisor of the playground, and is to consist of special games, after which lemonade will be served. The public is invited to attend.

RARE OPERATION PERFORMED ON THE HEART OF A MAN.

Thirty-six Feet of Gold Wire Wrapped Around the Aorta.

An operation on the heart was performed recently in Bellevue hospital, New York, in which thirty-six feet of gold wire were wrapped around the aorta, the great artery leading from the heart, and a current of electricity sent through the wire, which reduced the swelling of the artery sufficiently to allow it to perform its natural functions.

No anaesthetic was used during the operation, but the incision, which was made in the back of the patient between the fifth and sixth ribs, was sprayed with cocaine. At the close of the operation, which lasted about four hours, the physicians expressed themselves as satisfied, and while the operation is not expected to entirely cure the patient, it is expected to prolong his life.

The patient who underwent the operation was Oscar Nielson, fifty years old, a cabinetmaker, suffering from a swelling of the aorta, which had grown to such an extent that it was only a question of a short time when the vessel would break and death follow.

After the incision was made the gold wire, attached to a cannulated needle, was run through and wrapped around the aorta. The wire was thinner than a hair, and after it had been wound around the heart in spring fashion the end in the needle was taken out and attached to an electrical machine, the current of which was turned on and sent through the wire. The electricity hardened the artery, and in a short time the blood started to circulate freely through the aorta, and at the same time the heart was allowed to perform its functions. The patient was under observation for a period, after which the wound was closed.

This is the second operation of its kind performed in this country. The previous operation took place five months ago, the patient at that time being Henry Griffin. Twelve feet of gold wire were used on Griffin, after it was said that he would not live a week. Two weeks later he left the hospital and is now well and hearty.

NOTIFY MARSHALL AUG. 20.

Monster Celebration Planned, at Which Wilson May Be Present.

Governor Thomas R. Marshall will be notified of his selection as the Democratic nominee for vice president of the United States on Aug. 20 at the coliseum in the state fair grounds at Indianapolis.

Tenative plans to turn the notification into a monster celebration were made at a meeting of Democratic candidates for state offices, National Committeeman Thomas Taggart, State Chairman Bernard Korbly and members of the state committee.

Governor Marshall has been at work for some time upon his speech of acceptance. It will be his first public utterance since his nomination for the vice presidency, and in it will be embodied the platform upon which he will stand if elected.

It has been reported that Governor Wilson, the presidential nominee, may go to Indianapolis for the ceremony, and it was decided to bend every effort to get the New Jersey governor to attend. Democrats of national prominence from all over the country are expected.

OFFICIAL MOSQUITO CATCHER.

Philadelphia Has One, and He Draws $3.85 Per Day.

Director Morris L. Cooke of the Philadelphia department of public works has appointed Harry Hoening as the official mosquito slayer at a salary of $3.85 per day. There has been an appropriation of $5,000 made to rid the Quaker City of mosquitoes, and Hoening will, he says, begin at once to use "modern methods to extinguish the melodious midsummer mischief makers."

The title of "diptologist" has been conferred upon him, and he will not only dip into the stagnant pools to exterminate the insects, but he will dip into the public treasury once a month for his well earned salary. Mr. Hoening will have charge of the work and expects that his efforts will be fraught with much success. His methods are unique, and as a mosquito assassin his record is said to excel anything that the United States government has in its employ.

LEAVES 93 DESCENDANTS.

Fifty Great-grandchildren Among Mourners For Cousino, Aged 92.

Ninety-three direct descendants—six children, thirty-seven grandchildren and fifty great-grandchildren—were left by Isidore Cousino, aged ninety-two, whose funeral was held recently at Erie, Mich.

Cousino was dean of his family, wealthy landowners, whose ancesters were French pioneers in this section of the country. He died a few hours after six of his close kin were killed and three injured when a Lake Shore train hit their automobile.

Until a year ago, Cousino rode a horse and personally supervised his farming.

PASTOR, LEGLESS, SOON TO RESUME HIS WORK

Asbury Park, August 7—Rev. S. Ross Clements, who suffered the loss of both legs and one arm as the result of a fall under the whels of a train one month ago, will be back at the manse of the First Congregational church here, of which he is pastor, in eight days. Doctors at the Monmouth Memorial Hospital, where the members were amputated, say that the ordinary observer will never know that the clergyman met with an accident.

The pastor, it is said, suggested that, because of his condition, it would be proper for him to resign, but it is considered unlikely here that the church would consider such a proposition.

THE PECTORAL FINS.

Without Them a Fish Would Stand Upon Its Head.

The pectoral fins of a fish are the two fins, one on each side, just back of the head. These fins aid the fish to some extent in swimming. They are small oars which the fish feathers very beautifully and are of value chiefly to preserve its equilibrium. It is with these fins that the fish maintains its horizontal position in the water when not swimming. Without them the fish would stand on its head. Sometimes a fish loses one or both of its pectoral fins by disease or by accident. A fish without pectoral fins is in a bad way.

While most fishes keep a horizontal position in the water when not swimming, there are fishes that do not. One of these fishes is the filefish, which when motionless suspends itself in the water, head downward, at an angle of forty-five degrees or even nearer the perpendicular. A filefish kept in an aquarium which had lost both its pectoral fins inclined over backward past the perpendicular when motionless to about the same angle that it would have kept in the other direction if its pectoral fins had been intact, so that when not in motion it seemed to be lying at an angle on its back.

In the same aquarium there was a striped bass weighing about a pound and a half, one of whose pectoral fins was attacked at the tip by fungus, which gradually encroached upon it. Finally the diseased portions of the fin were cut off with a pair of sharp shears, the cut being made within the sound part of the fin. At first the fish was like a man in a boat pulling one long oar and one short one—it couldn't hold a course. But it soon accustomed itself to its new condition, and thereafter it got along very comfortably.

LANCE FAMILY REUNION.

Glen Gardner, Aug. 7.—A reunion of the Lance family was held at the home of John T. Lance, in Buffalo Hollow, near this place, it being the eighty-sixth anniversary of Mr. Lance's birth. Among those present from this place were Mr. and Mrs. John T. Force, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar N. Lance. Those from High Bridge present were former Governor and Dr. Voorhees, Dr. Low, Rev. and Mrs. Conkling and Mrs. Mary Anderson. Besides these was the immediate family and a number of neighbors, who enjoyed a sumptuous dinner prepared for the occasion.

BARROW PUSHER FINED.

Roselle Park, Aug. 7.—For pushing a wheelbarrow loaded with ice along a sidewalk, Fred Cummings, of Grant avenue, was yesterday fined $2 and costs in police court. The ordinances permit baby carriages and invalid chairs, but no other vehicles to use the sidewalks. Leonard Hoffman, of Flibert street, made the complaint after warning Cummings to take his wheelbarrow into the street. Cummings pleaded guilty.

Rev. Dr. H. E. Cobb, of the Collegiate church, West End avenue, New York, will preach at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Bob Bogardus says that as long as his charges proved too strong for the Cranford nine last Saturday he will have to let them get a hold on Bound Brook's goat this week.

Bound Brook has not forgotten that pounding it received from the Dunellenites in their previous meeting and says the visitors will go home by their famous tin can route this trip.

Bogardus has opinions of his own, however, and he says that if the balls do not get lodged in those tin cans full of blooming tomatoes in the outer garden the boys from the Dunellen town will bring home the bacon.

And still we hear the echo of those three hits made off Cavanaugh last Saturday afternoon by the smallest player on the Dunellen team. Take notice Slocum. Feed him balls this trip.

Copper a bet on the Dunellenites to win this all important game.

Several of the local amateur league games will be postponed Saturday on account of the Hope Chapel excursion.

There's a reason, the weather man says rain.

Joseph Carrol, the former West End A. C. player who performed for the Public Service team last Saturday, proved a valuable addition to the gas workers. He was there with the snappy work on the initial sack and although he made three questionable misplays none of them amounted to anything as far as actual scoring was concerned.

Dave Driscoll's clan managed to set Brunswick on fire Sunday afternoon by their win over the Tarrytown nine. Several pets were in the lineup as usual.

While Wallie Cosgrove walked to the plate five times, he was charged with but one time at bat. As he poled out a triple that time, he finished the day with a 1,000 batting average. He received free transportation three times and sacrificed another time.

Are the Giants slipping?

The Cubs are certainly going great guns.

A stern chase is a long chase, however, as the Cubs will find..

Tewanian, the game little Indian runner from Carlisle, who upheld American prestige at the Olympic games through his wonderful showing in the 10,000-meter race in which he ran a close second to Kohlemainen, the marvel of the sports, will be a starter in the Olympic supplementary on Saturday afternoon at the Vailsburgh (Newark) motordrome cinder track.

TRIPLE TIE IN THE PLAYGROUND LEAGUE

Athletics, Cubs and Pirates Are Even Up For First Place.

PARKER FIELD BASEBALL LEAGUE STANDING.

Result of Yesterday's Contest.
Athletics, 9; Cubs, 3.

By bunching eleven of their twelve hits in the first, fifth and seventh inning, the Athletics' baseball team of the Parker Field Junior League, won a 9 to 3 victory over the Cubs' team, that up to this time had the top rung all to itself. The Athletics' victory not only tied them for first place, but also pulled down the Cubs win column so that the Pirates were able to enter into a triple tie. Coughlan was the leading hitsmith with a triple and a double, and his general all-around work was a feature of the contest.

The Athletics got a total of nine hits off the delivery of Henderson and six of these were made between short and third, the weakest spot in the opposing team. Today's game will mean a break in the tie for the cellar position.

SUNDAY BASEBALL TO COME BEFORE LEGISLATURE AGAIN

The Sunday baseball question gives evidence that it will be up in the next session of the Legislature with more persistency than ever. The question has recently been agitated in Mercer county, following which the Trenton police authorities declared they would not permit Sunday games there, and now Sunday baseball is finding numerous advocates in one or two of the North Jersey counties. In several recent sessions of the Legislature bills permitting Sunday baseball games have been passed by the Assembly, but failed to get through the Senate. Heretofore Hudson county has been practically the only one favoring this Sunday sport. It is said, however, that the friends of baseball in some of the other counties may join with Hudson next winter in demanding a Sunday baseball law. The New Jersey Law and Order Society and the Sabbath Observance Union are alive to the situation and will line up their forces against any invasion of the present Sunday laws.

TY COBB DAY IN DETROIT AUGUST 30

Georgia Peach Will Complete His Seventh Year In the Big League On This Date.

Celebrations of anniversaries in baseball being the proper caper just now, as witness the dinner given John J. McGraw on the completion of his tenth year as manager of the New York Giants, Detroit fans can, if they so desire, have a hip-hip-hurrah time on August 30 next and make a Ty Cobb day of it. For it was on August 30, 1905, that the swatting Southerner, winner of the Chalmers cars offered as awards to the country's leading hitter in 1910 and to the American League's most valuable player in 1911, played his first game in the junior organization.

Ty's debut took place in Tigerville in a game against the Highlanders which was a Detroit victory 5-3. Cobb helped the Tigers take the game by rapping out a double, Jack Chesbro being the first big league gunner he faced.

St. Louis fans saw Cobb for the first time on September 2 1905, when he failed to make a hit off either Ables or Buchanan. Eight days later, on the occasion of his debut in Chicago, Cobb again went hitless, Frank Paderewski Smith being on the rubber for the Sox.

When Cobb played his first game in Cleveland, he touched Bob Rhoades for a single; on his debut in Washington, he procured a double off Tom Hughes, and appearing in a Philadelphia ball yard for the first time, he collected two hits off "Chief" Bender.

In Cobb's first games in Boston and New York he went hitless, Cy Young and Jack Chesbro being the men he faced.

When Cobb made seven successive hits in a double-header played in Philadelphia on July 17, he didn't approach anywhere near the major league record for the number of drives made in a twin bill. The record, as near as baseball archeologists can agree, was established on July 13, 1897, by Ed Delahanty, of the Phillies, in a double-header with Louisville. Going to bat nine times, Del peeled off eight singles and a triple.

The St. Louis Browns will be in Navinville on August 30, which day undoubtedly will be made some kind of a Ty Cobb affair if the Thumping Tiger continues mauling the pitchers as he now is doing.

LOCAL ATHLETES TO INVADE FAR HILLS

Many Handsome Prizes Attract Plainfield Followers of the Cinder Path.

The field and track meet held here on July 4 seems to have placed Plainfield on the athletic map. Since this meet the Y. M. C. A. has been receiving daily announcements of similar affairs to be held throughout the State. Most of the meets are carded for Labor Day, and a large group of representative athletes from this city are planning to compete in the Far Hills Athletic Club meet on that date. It will be a handicap affair open to all members of the Amateur Athletic Union and besides the variety of field and track events carded there will also be a ten-mile modified marathon race. The meet will be held on the Far Hills Athletic Club field and the field at that place has one of the fastest five lap cinder tracks in the country. The prizes offered are solid gold diamond studded medals, for first place in each event, a solid silver medal for second place and a solid bronze medal for third place in each event.

There are also two exceptionally fine meets scheduled to be run off in Jersey City, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus and the All Saints' Athletic Association. Both of the meets will be held under the direction of the Amateur Athletic Union, and gold, silver and bronze prizes will be awarded in each event.

LOCAL TRIO AT BOUND BROOK.

A mid week game of baseball is being played this afternoon at the North Oval summer camp, back of Bound Brook, between the representatives of that place and the St. Joseph's ball tossers of Bound Brook otherwise known as Capano's All Stars. The camp nine is made up of mostly city boarders but the principal parts on the nine will be played by Louis Slocum, Tommy Mullin and Joseph Carty, of this city. Slocum is carded to twirl and captain the nine, Mullin will do the backstop work, and Carty is the Hal Chase of the nine. Their opponents will be made up largely of former Bound Brook High School players and the battery of the school watch has but one contest last season will work this afternoon. Mathews will do the box work with Capano at the other end. North Oval camp has started the national game for the benefit of its patrons and a fairly good diamond has been laid out. Games will be played every Wednesday and the team is open for games which can be had by addressing the camp.

BIRTH OF NEW PARTY

de the bidding of Boss Barnes or Boss Murphy, or as others of their kind wanted them to do. Every man one meets can talk intelligently and interestingly of the real issue which in their opinion is facing the country today. This is even true of the few colored delegates, all of whom are from northern not southern states. It is a great spectacle, and one that cannot but thrill the mind and heart of every man who has the good fortune to witness it. There is almost a religious aspect to the gathering, which was never more evidenced than on Monday when the whole convention as a unit stood and sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," not the parodies which have been written to the air, but the good old words which appear in the old fashioned hymnal. And they sang all five verses, too, with a precinter leading them from the platform.

It is a great movement, which while perhaps it may not be successful cannot fail.

NO FIGHT AGAINST FORT AS NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

(Special.)

Chicago, Aug. 7. Rumors of dissension in the ranks of the New Jersey delegation to the Progressive national convention, which was expected to develop into a row at a meeting at headquarters last night, did not bring forth the expected trouble.

Former Senator Everett Colby has been expressing his disapproval of the action of the delegation in choosing Governor Fort as national committeeman, and it was thought that he would try to bring about a movement to upset such action at the meeting last night and to speak Borden D. Whitting, his law partner.

Senator Colby was not at the meeting Monday and had not suggested to any member of the delegation after they arrived here the thought that Mr. Whitting would accept election to the place.

It was said by several of the delegates that they had been given to understand by one of their number, who had consulted Mr. Whitting before leaving New Jersey, that he would not be able to take the position because of the pressure of business and that he was going to retire from active participation in politics.

With this thought in mind James E. Bathgate, Jr., George L. Record, Frank B. Jess and others talked the matter over coming out on the train and found that Mr. Fort was the choice of all with whom they talked at that time.

When the meeting was called Monday, after other business had been transacted, Frank B. Jess proposed the name of the former Governor for the place and he was unanimously chosen. Soon afterward Mr. Colby, who had not been present and who had been with the members of the delegation but little after their arrival here, expressed his regret at the action. He said the delegation had been misinformed and that Mr. Whitting would stand and would have found the time to give to his duties had he been chosen.

Yesterday he talked the matter over and said that he was going to bring it up at last night's meeting. The delegates talked the matter over and hoped to find some way to bring about a solution of the problem without causing friction, and as the meeting gathered it was seen that there was a strong sentiment to sustain the action of Monday in case the matter was brought up again. Senator Colby was in the meeting, but took no part in any of the discussions. He did not bring up the subject.

It is understood that had former Governor Fort withdrawn there would still have been opposition to Mr. Whiting for the place from some of the Hudson, Passaic and Essex county delegates. The action of naming Mr. Fort on the National Committee leaves the State chairmanship an open matter. Edmund B. Osborne is one of those suggested for the place, although it is understood that there will be some opposition to him.

Senator Colby was chosen as the member of the committee from New Jersey to notify the Presidential candidate, and Colonel John H. Adamson, of Clifton, will notify the Vice-Presidential choice.

An informal secret ballot was taken as to the choice of the State on the Vice Presidency, with the result that Governor Johnson, of California, received twenty votes; Judge Ben Lindsey, six, and General Luke E. Wright, one, with others merely voting that they favored a Democrat.

K. C. EXCURSION TOMORROW.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, have completed all arrangements for the annual excursion to Asbury Park, tomorrow, and a record-breaking crowd is expected. It will be more especially a children's outing and 1,500 tickets have been distributed among the children of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes. There will be three sections of twelve coaches each. The excursion will leave Plainfield at the usual hour. A large committee will be in charge for the purpose of personally giving their attention to the comfort and convenience of the excursionists.

BABY PARADE AUGUST 21.

The famous baby parade will take place at Asbury Park on Wednesday, August 21 and not August 31, as stated in these columns on Monday. The New Jersey Central will run a special train on that date, leaving Grant Avenue station at 8:43, Plainfield 8:47, and Netherwood 8:50 a. m. Round trip tickets from Plainfield $1.25; children 50 cents.

WILSON MAKES KEYNOTE SPEECH

Formally Notified of Nomination by Ollie James.

HE FAVORS LOWER TARIFF

"We Stand in Presence of Awakened Nation," He Says—Urges Gradual Revision Downward of Schedule. Sherman Law, Ineffective, Should Be Amended.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 7.—In the presence of hundreds of prominent Democrats from all parts of the country Governor Woodrow Wilson was formally notified today that he is the regular Democratic candidate for president. The notification took place at the "Little White House."

The committee, besides hundreds of prominent Democrats from all parts of the country, came on many trains. At 1 o'clock a luncheon was served. Senator James briefly notified Governor Wilson of his nomination, and Governor Wilson delivered his speech of acceptance, which in part is as follows:

Mr. James and Gentlemen of the Notification Committee—Speaking for the national Democratic convention, recently assembled at Baltimore, you have notified me of my nomination by the Democratic party for the high office of president of the United States. Allow me to thank you very warmly for the generous terms in which you have, through your distinguished chairman, conveyed the notification and for the thoughtful personal courtesy with which you have performed your interesting and important errand.

I accept the nomination with a deep sense of its unusual significance and of the great honor done me and also with a very profound sense of my responsibility to the party and to the nation.

We stand in the presence of an awakened nation, impatient of partisan make believe. The public man who does not realize the fact and feel its stimulation must be singularly unsusceptible to the influences that stir in every quarter about him.

Plainly, it is a new age. The tonic of such a time is very exhilarating. It requires self restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little.

It is in the broad light of this new day that we stand face to face—with what? Plainly not with questions of party, not with a contest for office, not with a petty struggle for advantage, Democrat against Republican, liberal against conservative, progressive against reactionary. With great questions of right and of justice, rather—questions of national development, of the development of character and of standards of action no less than of a better business system, more free, more equitable, more open to ordinary men, practicable to live under, tolerable to work under, or a better fiscal system whose taxes shall not come out of the pockets of the many to go into the pockets of the few and within whose intricacies special privilege may not so easily find covert.

Tariff and Politics.

The tariff question as dealt with in our time at any rate has not been business, it has been politics. Tariff schedules have been made up for the purpose of keeping as large a number as possible of the rich and influential manufacturers of the country in a good humor with the Republican party, which desired their constant financial support. The tariff has become a system of favors, which the phraseology of the schedule was often deliberately contrived to conceal. It becomes a matter of business, of legitimate business, only when the partnership and understanding it represents are between the leaders of congress and the whole people of the United States instead of between the leaders and small groups of manufacturers demanding special recognition and consideration. That is why the general idea of representative government becomes a necessary part of the tariff question.

We do not ignore the fact that the business of a country like ours is exceedingly sensitive to changes in legislation of this kind. It has been built up, however ill advisedly, upon tariff schedules written in the way I have indicated, and its foundation must not be too radically or too suddenly disturbed. When we act we should act with caution and prudence, like men who know what they are about and not like those in love with a theory. It is obvious that the changes we make should be made only at such a rate and in such a way as will least interfere with the normal and healthful course of commerce and manufacture. But we shall not on that account act with timidity, as if we did not know our own minds, for we are certain of our ground and of our object. There should be an immediate revision, and it should be downward, unhesitatingly and steadily downward.

It should begin with the schedules which have been most obviously used to kill competition and to raise prices in the United States, arbitrarily and without regard to the prices pertaining elsewhere in the markets of the world, and it should, before it is finished or intermitted, be extended to every item in every schedule which affords any opportunity for monopoly, for special advantage to limited groups of beneficiaries or for subsidized control of any kind in the markets or the enterprises of the country until special favors of every sort shall have been absolutely withdrawn and every part of our laws of taxation shall have been transformed from a system of governmental patronage into a system of just and reasonable charges which shall fall where they will create the least burden.

Tariff Causes High Prices.

We begin to perceive some things about the movement of prices that concern us very deeply and fix our attention upon the tariff schedules with a more definite determination than ever to get to the bottom of this matter. We have been looking into it at trials held under the Sherman act and in investigations in the committee rooms of congress, where men who wanted to know the real facts have been busy with inquiry, and we begin to see very clearly what at least some of the methods are by which prices are fixed. We know that they are not fixed by the competitions of the market or by the ancient law of supply and demand, which is to be found stated in all the primers of economics, but by private arrangement with regard to what the supply should be and agreements among the producers themselves. Those who buy are not even represented by counsel. The high cost of living is arranged by private understanding.

I am not one of those who think that competition can be established by law against the drift of a worldwide economic tendency; neither am I one of those who believe that business done upon a great scale by a single organization—call it corporation or what you will—is necessarily dangerous to the liberties, even the economic liberties, of a great people like our own, full of intelligence and of indomitable energy. I am not afraid of anything that is normal; I dare say we shall never return to the old order of individual competition and that the organization of business upon a great scale of co-operation is, up to a certain point, itself normal and inevitable.

Sherman Law Amendments.

Power in the hands of great business men does not make me apprehensive, unless it springs out of advantages which they have not created for themselves. Big business is not dangerous because it is big, but because its bigness is an unwholesome inflation created by privileges and exemptions which it ought not to enjoy.

The general terms of the present federal anti-trust law, forbidding "combinations in restraint of trade," have apparently proved ineffectual. Trusts have grown up under its ban very luxuriantly and have pursued the methods by which so many of them have established virtual monopolies without serious let or hindrance. It has roared against them like any sucking dove. I am not assessing the responsibility; I am merely stating the fact. But the means and methods by which trusts have established monopolies have now become known. It will be necessary to supplement the present law with such laws, both civil and criminal, as will effectually punish and prevent those methods, adding such other laws as may be necessary to provide suitable and adequate judicial processes, whether civil or criminal, to disclose them and follow them to final verdict and judgment.

T. R. WILL BE NAMED

committee on resolutions is expected to be the next order of business, after which the nominations will be made and it seems to be the general opinion that Governor Johnson, of California, will be the running mate with Col. Roosevelt.

Chicago, Aug. 7—Negroes and liquor were the only harmony disturbers today when the Progressive National convention met for its final session.

"Roosevelt and Johnson" was the ticket scheduled for adoption with a harmonious whoop.

Only the fight in the resolutions committee on the negroes and liquor threatened to cause trouble upon the floor of the convention. Haggard and worn from an all-night session, the resolutions committee recessed for breakfast this morning.

Gov. Hiram Johnson, of California, entered the convention as an odds-on favorite for Vice-President. Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, was the only other prominent candidate. Southern delegations, however, declared their loyalty to Col. John M. Parker, of New Orleans. Tennessee urged the name of Gen. J. H. McDowell, a former Confederate leader. Gov. Johnson's election, however, seemed certain. Gen. Luke Wright, of Tennessee, was eliminated from consideration.

Following his tremendous greeting yesterday, Colonel Roosevelt last night called a halt in the handshaking, hurried back to his room for a bath and a late dinner and got to work with William Flinn on the Pennsylvania situation. Then Senator Dixon and O. K. Davis dropped in to go over the list of those who will second Mr. Roosevelt's nomination. The names of Governor Johnson and Miss Jane Addams head the list. The others are Judge Ben Lindsey, John Parker, former Governor Garvin of Rhode Island, Henry J. Allen of Kansas and General Horatio C. King of New York.

Mr. Roosevelt went to the National Progressive headquarters to meet more delegates. Then the conferences with the Bull Moose leaders began again in the colonel's room and were continued until a late hour. Mr. Roosevelt expects to finish the work here by Thursday morning and to be back in New York on Friday.

Mr. Beveridge is to be retained as permanent chairman of the convention, Judge Lindsey of Colorado feeling that he ought not to accept that place at this time.

Cheer T. R. For Fifty-two Minutes.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The National Progressive party greeted in the second session of its convention in the Coliseum the man who is to be its first candidate for the presidency, ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. While the nomination was not made until today, Colonel Roosevelt appeared before the convention on his occasion to make what he has described for the last several weeks his "confession of faith."

This act was an innovation in the annals of American politics. No candidate for the presidency of either an old or a new party has appeared before the body who nominated him. But the convention is Roosevelt, and Roosevelt is the convention. Therefore, he was utterly sure of his audience, and a vast one it was, a total of 15,000 souls. The convention proper was made up of about 2,000 delegates and alternates and their friends from every state and territory. The remainder of the gigantic assemblage comprised personal followers of Roosevelt in many states and adherents of the Progressive cause as illustrated and illuminated by the men who surround him and who have brought about the formation of the new party.

It was a great assemblage of enthusiasts. It is safe to say that the vast majority had been Republicans. Yet on all sides were Democrats and independents. All represented a concrete mass of voters and would be voters opposed to the two old parties.

When Temporary Chairman Beveridge announced that the guest of the convention was at hand, Colonel Roosevelt appeared quickly on the platform and stood beneath the great sounding board of the convention.

Instantly terrific cheers ascended. Every man and woman arose. They shot up from their seats with jubilant faces. A sea of bandanna handkerchiefs fluttered. American flags of all sizes enveloped the atmosphere. Hats with bandannas for bands, hats in rings, canes, umbrellas, handkerchiefs, state banners were frantically waved.

Remarkable Demonstration.

The band began to play. It could not be heard. High above its strains and effectually drowning them were the tumultuous plaudits. Megaphones roared, the fifers and drummers shrieked and boomed. Roosevelt stood there in the old familiar attitude, his left hand in his trousers pocket, his right lifted aloft waving salutes, his body swaying in ecstasy, his whole frame electrified by the welcome.

The Georgia delegation hoisted its woman delegate to its shoulders as it marched. Roosevelt on the platform was pointing to different sections of the convention very much more after the fashion of a commander reviewing his troops. Next, old men delegates were lifted to the platform so that they might grasp Roosevelt's hands. Banners passed the rostrum on which were read, "Pass prosperity round."

Still more old men delegates were lifted to the platform, all wearing bandannas, all tearing them from their throats and danced with delight. Roosevelt was smiles all over.

Several of the veterans threw their arms around his neck. A Boy Scout waved two fringed American flags over him. A march of the standards was begun. Oklahoma, Nebraska, Minnesota, Ohio, Washington, New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Montana and California all in turn marched before the platform waving, yelling, howling, chanting, "We want Teddy; we want Teddy!" Amid the tumult could be faintly heard the strains of the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner." Quickly they were caught up by the audience and in a minute, with the rolling of the drums and the banging of the minute gun machine in the band loft, the 15,000 swung into the rhythm of the war song.

Miss Jane Addams, delegate at large for Illinois, came next. The next instant the band and the fife and drum corps and the minute gun machine played "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and every voice in the hall sang this militant religious melody.

Mrs. Roosevelt Seen In Box.

By this time the demonstration had lasted thirty-three minutes. Chairman Beveridge banged his gavel for order. The audience took that as a signal for further commotion. The singing, shouting and racket lasted for another seven minutes when Mrs. Roosevelt was spied in the box which was occupied by the diplomats in the Republican national convention.

The delegates and alternates turned toward Mrs. Roosevelt and sang that they wanted Teddy and cheered, and Mrs. Roosevelt bowed and retired to the rear of the box.

Beveridge was again banging for order, and by this time Roosevelt was waving his hand, indicating that he would like the audience to quiet down. After several minutes this was accomplished. The demonstration lasted exactly fifty-two minutes. A flashlight of the great assemblage was then taken. Three of the flashlight bags took fire, and for a moment it was thought that something like a panic might ensue, but the band came quickly to the rescue and the fire department yanked the burning bags from their fixtures and smothered the flames. Temporary Chairman Beveridge, standing by Colonel Roosevelt, then presented the ex-president with these words:

"The hour and the man—Theodore Roosevelt."

T. R. MEN WIN KANSAS.

Indications That the Electors Will Carry State by 25,000.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 7.—Definite returns of the primary elections held in Kansas will not be known before tonight on state, congressional and legislative tickets. Only a few scattering returns from a dozen of the 200 precincts of the state have been reported, and they show that the Roosevelt electors are leading the Taft ticket and indicate that Roosevelt will beat Taft in Kansas by 25,000.

Stubbs is leading Curtis for United States senator. Arthur Capper, Republican, is nominated for governor over Frank Ryan, and it appears that George P. Hodges has won the Democratic nomination for governor. Scattering returns show that Congressmen Anthony and Campbell, regulars, will be nominated by small majorities.

LIVE BULL MOOSE FOR T. R.

Hurried by Express From Trenton Park to Chicago Convention.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 7.—Trenton is sending to the Bull Moose convention at Chicago a real live bull moose, which has been an attraction for visitors at Cadwalader park here.

The animal was sent here recently by a firm of naturalists at Yardley, Pa. The firm was asked to rush the animal to Chicago, and it was sent by express.

It is understood that the bull moose was ordered as a mascot for the convention. While the animal was at the park here it attracted great attention.

FISHING NOTES.

Kingfish are coming in. Sunday the fishermen at Water Witch caught quite a few in the Shrewsbury River in what is known as the weakfish hole. The pounds at Belford picked up some and several were caught from the Keansburg pier. Fishing parties from Morgan's felt the small-mouthed fighters picking at the bait, but thought they were lafayettes until several large ones were caught. Then they put on smaller hooks. Kingfish rarely come this side of Keyport Harbor, but we look for them on the Morgan flats before next Sunday.

Every creek that runs into the Meadows between Elizabethport and Newark is the feeding place for crabs during the high tide. The boys are having great fun catching them from the shore.

While sailing to the Cholera Banks the other day fishermen saw several large whales, also some porpoises. They did not interfere with the fishing, however, for they caught a fine mess of large, humpback sea bass.

Off shore, at Long Branch, two big blackfish have been taken of late by men in the Orion. Last Friday George Harm caught a blackfish weighing 11½ pounds and yesterday, at the same grounds, Arthur Amend took a 10-pound fish. These big blackfish were taken on skimmer clams for bait. Orion fishermen yesterday caught sea bass in numbers.

At the Kills, near Newark, there is a run of large blue crabs. A boatman says that if 20 boats were out there he believes they would all get a bashel apiece. Fishermen say they never saw anything like it, and in ten years there has not been so many and such large ones as there is now. For lovers of crabs this no doubt will be welcome news, and this man's word is as good as most men's bonds. One boat, he says, came ashore with two bags well filled.

For fishing the outlook is not at all satisfactory but pessimists will still see glory ahead of them.

A jolly party visited Barnegat Bay for a day's fishing on Saturday last and brought home about 100 fair-sized weakfish.

PAPER CURRENCY TO BE REFORMED

Plans to Reduce Size of Old Notes by One-third.

WILL EFFECT A BIG SAVING.

Nine Hundred Thousand a Year to the Government and $200,000 to the National Banks—Also to Have Uniform Design For Each Denomination.

The size of all United States currency and national bank notes probably will be reduced by one-third and their designs revolutionized for the sake of economies to the government, convenience to the public and safety against counterfeiting. This decision practically has been reached by the secretary of the treasury, Mr. MacVeagh. It is proposed to make the dimensions 6 by 2½ inches. The paper money now in circulation measures 7.28 by 3.04 inches. The designs of all paper money—United States notes and certificates and national bank notes—would be systematized and made uniform for every denomination.

This move is expected to save the government about $900,000 annually and the national banks, which pay for the plates for their notes and part of the cost of redemption, about $200,000. The economies would be effected in steel for the plates, in paper and in labor.

For many months the only deterrent to the step by executive authority has been the belief that it would be necessary for congress to appropriate about $1,000,000 to replace the national bank note plates which have been paid for by the national banks. This problem has been solved by a plan to have the general design of all national bank notes uniform, requiring only one engraved plate for each denomination, and to place on the notes by surface printing the name, location and charter number of the bank. This would do away with separate plates for each bank.

Time Required For Change.

Eighteen months would be required to effect the change by the preparation of the designs, engraving of the plates and printing of the notes. To meet the objection that for a time at least there would be two sizes of currency in circulation it has been suggested that the government print in advance a sufficient quantity of the notes of the new size to be exchanged at the subtreasuries and national banks on a fixed date. The change could be substantially accomplished within a few days, treasury officials believe. There are now nineteen different designs of currency. The change would reduce these to nine. Each denomination would be characterized by a distinctively American historical portrait engraved in the center of the note. In time the portrait would be a distinguishing feature of each denomination and would be a safeguard against counterfeiting, especially the prevalent practice of raising a note to a higher denomination.

The department is considering using portraits as follows: $1 note, Washington; $2, Jefferson; $5, Lincoln; $10, Cleveland; $20, Jackson; $50, Grant; $100, Franklin; $500, Chase; $1,000, Hamilton.

PHILADELPHIA MINT.

Nearly $13,000,000 Coined In a Year, Annual Report Shows.

During the past year the Philadelphia mint turned $13,000,000 worth of metal into good jingling money. In addition it coined half a million pesos for the republic of San Salvador. This is shown in the annual report, which has just been issued.

Inspectors are sent from Washington every year to go over the books at the mint, to weigh the metal on hand and see that the building is overhauled in the search for any gold dust which may be lying around. Scarcely any loss resulted from the handling of the metals this year.

In detail the report of the mint states the values of the various coins made in twelve months: Double eagles, $2,606,580; eagles, $1,041,080; half eagles, $1,830,835; quarter eagles, $890,595; total gold coinage, $6,369,090; half dollars, $904,332.50; quarter dollars, $1,004,166.25; dimes, $2,948,066.50; total silver coinage, $4,856,565.25; five-cent pieces, $1,159,388.20; cents, $609,981.95. The total value of the 120,448,796 pieces coined was $12,995,025.40.

LAUGHTER AND TEARS.

Why an Outburst of the One May Cause a Flow of the Other.

What is laughter and why do tears so often accompany it?

On each side of the throat is an artery called the carotid. At the level of the laryux this divides, one branch, which carries blood to the brain, being called the internal, the other, which distributes blood to the face, being called the external. These two branches joined about the level of the eyes by the ophthalmic artery, which forms a canal between them. This communication is the cause of the close connection between the brain and the tear glands, between laughter and grief, both of which are generators of tears.

Physiologically, a burst of laughter is nothing but a strenuous effort, like lifting a heavy weight. In both cases the muscles of the throat and stomach contract.

When laughter is excessive the whole body is convulsed; every muscle is contracted. In the place of normal respiration come short intermittent respirations, insufficient to free the lungs from the semi-asphyxia produced by the contraction of the throat muscles. The face shows the congestion of the blood vessels of the head. Apoplexy may in rare cases result. These muscular contractions compress the external carotid, which can no longer supply the brain with blood. In consequence this rushes up the internal carotid, which becomes choked and dilated. It can stand the pressure only because the ophthalmic artery relieves it. Taking this route the blood congests the tear glands, which overflow.

Tears are exactly the same as the liquid part of the blood. So it is a fair deduction that the action of crying is equivalent to a certain loss of blood, which relieves the congestion of the brain. This is why women feel so much better after a good cry.

The facial contortions of weeping persons are caused by the automatic contraction of such muscles as are needed to compress the tear glands and so help to squeeze out the tears.—New York World.

OUTWITTED A LION.

Clever Tactics of a Plucky and Ingenious African.

The little bushman of South Africa is not only small in size, but feeble in mind. Yet there is on record an encounter between a bushman and a lion which shows the man as cool in danger and fertile in resource.

This bushman, while a long way from his home, was met by a lion. The animal, assured that he had his victim completely in his power, began to sport and dally with him with a feline jocosity which the poor little bushman failed to appreciate. The lion would appear at a point in the road and leap back again into the jungle, to reappear a little farther on.

The bushman, however, did not lose his presence of mind and presently hit upon a device whereby he might outwit his foe. This plan was suggested by the lion's own conduct.

Aware that the beast was ahead of him, the bushman dodged to the right, and, feeling pretty sure of the lion's whereabouts, resorted to the course of quietly watching his movements.

When the lion discovered that the man had suddenly disappeared from the path he was a good deal perplexed. He roared with mortification. Then he espied the bushman peeping at him over the grass.

The bushman at once changed his position, while the lion stood irresolute in the path, following with his eye the shifting black man. In another moment the little man rustled the reeds, vanished and showed himself at another point.

The great brute was first confused and then alarmed. It evidently began to dawn upon him that he had mistaken the position of matters and that he was the hunted party.

The bushman, who clearly recognized the situation, did not pause to permit the lion to recover his startled wits. He began to steal gradually toward the foe, who now, in a complete state of doubt and fear, turned tail and decamped, leaving the plucky and ingenious little bushman master of the situation.—Harper's.

GREAT HORN SPOONS.

The Ones That Are Made by Natives of Southern Alaska.

Horns of the Rocky mountain sheep, the buffalo and the mountain goat are made into dishes, ladles and spoons. Some of these are carved, while others are both carved and inlaid with shell. The decoration is sometimes geometric, but often a conventional representation of animal forms. This is especially true of the spoons of the Indians on the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska. A few of these spoons are so large, so wonderfully artistic and so well made from the horn of the rare Rocky mountain sheep that even a moderately good one may appropriately be called a "great horn spoon." These are of a rich, golden yellow color. By far the greater number of horn spoons in this same region are made of the horn of the mountain goat, and these are black. A few have black handles of goat horn and golden bowls of sheep horn. All these handles are usually carved to represent traditional or mythical men, animals or monsters belonging to the lore of the individual family, just as among our people silver spoons bear the family monogram.—Detroit Free Press.

Church Tower Belfries.

Probably you have noticed that the openings in the belfry of a church are usually filled with a number of slanting boards, sometimes covered with lead. These are improperly called louvres, and many persons imagine that they are so arranged as to keep out the rain. The right name for these slats is abatsons, a word that means to throw down.

Their use is not to keep out the rain, because the wet does not hurt the bells at all and rain can beat in through the openings very easily. They are designed to turn the sound of the bells downward, so that persons on the ground can hear them better. In the middle ages some of these abatsons were beautifully carved and decorated.—New York Press.

TRYING TO PROVE HE IS NOT DEAD

Veteran's Effort to Get Pension Blocked By Error In War Office Record.

SISTER MAY HELP HIM

Schellinger Discovered Her Recently After Long Separation and Now He's Saving to Pay For Journey to Her Home In Philadelphia.

It is recorded in the War Department at Washington that Franklin Schellinger died in Andersonville Prison, but Franklin Schellinger is still alive and has been trying for years to prove it. Mr. Schellinger lives on East Second street, near Watchung avenue, where he is engaged in business as a cobbler, and when a reporter for the Plainfield Daily Press called on him today he humorously remarked that he refused to believe himself dead despite the official records in Washington.

Mr. Schellinger was seventy-five years of age on August 1, and to use his own expression, he is a pretty lively corpse. Notwithstanding his advanced years he possesses a remarkable memory and promptly recalls incidents in history as well as his own life with unusual accuracy. The fact that he is on the war records as being dead would make no especial difference to him were it not for the reason that for years he has been trying to get a pension for service in the Civil War—a pension he has needed keenly of late years. He has just learned that his only relative, a sister, is living in Philadelphia, and as soon as he can get the money together he plans to visit her for the purpose of having her assist him in establishing the fact that he is alive and is entitled to a pension. His sister's name is Mrs. Sally Orphall.

Mr. Schellinger was born at Cape May. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in Co. F, East Division, Second Massachusetts Cavalry, walking the entire distance from Philadelphia to Boston for that purpose. He says that he served three years, and six months of that time was in Libby Prison and Belle Isle, being taken a prisoner while guarding Confederate property which had been taken by the Union forces.

After the war Mr. Schellinger returned to his home in Cape May and since then has lived in various parts of the country. He came to Plainfield about three months ago, since which time he has been greatly interested in the work of the Salvation Army. He is deeply religious and quotes Scripture with ease and accuracy. He is a firm believer in the saying that "The Lord will provide." He has very limited means, but he declares that the Lord always brings him help just when he needs it most.

In discussing the difficulty he had experienced in trying to prove that he is alive and entitled to a pension, Mr. Schellinger said that time and again he had engaged lawyers to look after his claims, in each instance he heard nothing of his case after the lawyer got his retainer.

"I am through paying money to lawyers," declared Mr. Schellinger. "From now on I will look after my own interests and when I see my sister I know that she will be able to help me. Two years ago I went to Boston and interviewed the Governor of Massachusetts, but after I thought I had proved my claim he never did anything for me. He wanted me to get affidavits from members or officers of my company, but as they are all dead, or at least a majority of them, this was impossible. I have been unable to find any living members of the company."

Mr. Schellinger says that he served under General Phil. Sheridan and vividly describes some of the most important scenes and incidents of the struggle between the north and the south. If he gets his pension—and he is confident he will—it will seem like riches to him. He is now living in one room divided by a curtain. He works at his trade in one part and sleeps in the other. He says that he has found many good friends here who occasionally drop in to see him. Before they go away they generally leave a little contribution to help the old soldier on his way and make life more comfortale for him.

Mr. Schellinger is trying to arrange affairs so that he can visit his sister next week. Through correspondence he has been able to learn her address.

AUTO HITS BICYCLIST.

Eugene Pierson, colored, of Webster place, was knocked off his bicycle yesterday afternoon by an automobile, at East Seventh and Berckman streets. The bicycle was smashed, and Pierson's leg was badly cut. The driver of the auto neither stopped the car nor looked back to see if the man had been killed. The number of the car was obtained and the police are looking for the owner and driver.

MAY ISSUE BONDS FOR BRIDGE FUNDS

Subject Likely to Be Taken Up at Freeholders' Special Meeting.

Elizabeth, Aug. 8 (Special)—The Board of Freeholders will hold a special meeting next Thursday to receive bids for the county road bonds which are to defray the cost of the many road improvements now planned. After the meeting the board will attend the ceremony incident to the return of the old flag owned by the Fourteenth New Jersey Volunteers to this city. The flag was presented to them by citizens. The courthouse will be the scene of the presentation.

It is also likely that the board will take up the matter of a bond issue to bolster up its depleted bridge account at this meeting. At the meeting held last week the county collector informed the board that if the bridges, which it was planned to reconstruct and repair, were all taken care of the board would have overdrawn its appropriation.

Director Cady then appointed a special committee, of which Henry Krouse is chairman, to confer with the collector on the matter. The committee held a meeting and it was the consensus of opinion that the board should take a bond issue to tide its bridge account over until the new fiscal year.

ICE SCALES COME IN FOR AN EXAMINATION

Superintendent Schwartz Holds Up Wagons On the Street—Two Confiscations.

A. W. Schwartz, superintendent of weights and measures for Union county, paid a surprise visit to Plainfield yesterday afternoon. In consequence of complaints that had been made to him he held up ten ice wagons between the hours of three and five on Front street and several of the other main thoroughfares. Some of the drivers were irate when he started an inspection and examination of their scales, but wilted on seeing his badge.

With the majority of the scales no fault could be found, as they were up to standard, but two of them were confiscated. No prosecutions will follow as it is not the intention of the department to prosecute on this occasion.

This is the first official examination of ice scales that has been instituted in Plainfield. On several other trips here the weight and measure sleuth has visited grocery stores.

It is the intention of Superintendent Schwartz to make flying trips to the many towns throughout the county and if he finds any infractions of the scale law after his primary visit, prosecutions will immediately follow. His offices are located at the Courthouse annex, Rahway avenue, Elizabeth. One of the rooms has been converted into a storage department where all the results of his numerous seizures are placed, carefully catalogued and arranged.

AUTOMOBILE DITCHED.

The automobile of Howard W. Cobbs, colored, of 637 West Third street, is in Thompson's garage for repairs as the result of an accident in Westfield, last night, when the front spring broke and caused the car to run into an excavation on the New Jersey Central property on South avenue. Cobbs had been for a ride with Rienza Crudup and Elizabeth Jones, of this city, and was driving down the Boulevard, Westfield, when the car lunged forward, crossed the sidewalk and ran into an excavation near the railroad. The woman jumped out but Crudup, who was unable to move, was cut by the glass of the broken windshield. The car was so badly damaged that it had to be towed back.

FUNERAL OF TH. CARPENTER.

The funeral service of Theophilius Carpenter was held at 8 o'clock last night at his late home near Mt. Pleasant. Rev. O. M. Demcott, of Paterson, officiated. The burial took place today at New Milford, Pa. Mr. Carpenter was a veteran of the Civil War, being a member of Co. F, 50th Regiment, N. Y. Vols. Engineers. He served throughout the war. He is survived by a wife, several daughters and sons.

Instead there will be a double-header between the R. G. E. and Banks and R. G. E. and Commercials.

LARGEST EXCURSION CROWD OF SEASON

It required three sections of twelve coaches each to take the members and friends of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, to Asbury Park, this morning. It is estimated that the excursion was the largest of the season from this city. This was due to the fact that the Knights of Columbus plan to make it a children's outing. More than 1,500 tickets were distributed among the children of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes. In this way many of them who would not otherwise have had an opportunity are given a day's outing at the shore.

Despite the large crowd that accompanied the excursion, there was no confusion. The order preserved at the railroad stations was noteworthy. The last section stopped at Clinton and Grant Avenues, picking up the people in that section of the city. The first and second sections left about 8:15 and the third one fifteen minutes later. Returning tonight the excursionists will leave the shore at 6:30 o'clock.

Asbury Park, Aug. 8 (Special)—The Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus excursion from Plainfield arrived here about 10 o'clock and found the weather perfect for a day at the shore. The committee in charge estimates that there are 3,000 excursionists from Plainfield, the largest in the history of Watchung Council.

R. R. MEN CHASE ARMED ITALIAN

Latter Tried to Shoot Member of Drill Engine Crew on North Avenue.

FINDS REFUGE IN HOUSE

Locked Doors and Shuttered Windows Bar Angry Pursuers—Arrest of Fugitive and Man Who Fled With Him Expected Today.

Armed with weapons of various kinds twelve angry men rushed from the freight yard of the New Jersey Central at Richmond street yesterday afternoon in pursuit of two fleeing Italians, one of whom had drawn a revolver on L. H. Sornberger, a drill engine worker. The Italians were mounted on bicycles, but some of their pursuers commanded handy bicycles and the pursuit went on.

Suddenly the Italians leaped off their bicycles and disappeared into the house of Michael Mango, at 320 Richmond street. The door was banged and when the pursuers arrived in a body they found the door locked and the windows shuttered. They swore a bit but went away without attacking the house

About an hour an a half later the police were informed of the incident and started an investigation. They learned that the Italians, whose names they refused to give out, were standing talking to two girls on North avenue near the freight house when Sornberger passed by and made some remark to the girls. One of the Italians resented this, approaching the railroad man and said so with strong language. The other retorted with a blow in the face.

The Italian drew a revolver from his hip pocket and pointing it at Sornberger's breast pulled the trigger twice. The revolver missed fire both times.

Sornberger hurried to the freight yard, and informed his fellows there of what had occurred. Seizing whatever weapons they could lay their hands upon a dozen yard workers started off on the pursuit that has already been described.

When the crowd dispersed from around Mango's dwelling the door was cautiously opened and the two fugitives emerged and rode off in the direction of South avenue. The police will arrest them today if they have not left town.

BONNIE BURN IDEAL SAYS SUPERINTENDENT

Dr. Runnells Arrives From New England and Inspects His New Charge.

Dr. J. E. Runnels, the newly-appointed superintendent of Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, accompanied by Mrs. Runnells, arrived here last night from their former home at Glencliff, N. H., having made the trip in their automobile. This morning Dr. Runnells and Dr. W. H. Murray, the head of the board of governors of the Sanitorium, visited the tuberculosis camp when the new superintendent had an opportunity to inspect the place.

Dr. Runnells in speaking of the Sanitorium afterward expressed himself as being much pleased with the location and the general plan, as well as the buildings. He said that he did not see how a better location, convenient to those who will have use for the camp, could have been chosen. He considered the elevation and the rolling country as most desirable features for the work.

The doctor and his wife expect to move into their new quarters the latter part of the month and for the present they are stopping at the Queen City Hotel. Dr. Runnells has been engaged in this work for several years and comes highly recommended for the position he has taken.

It is expected that the Sanitorium will be ready for patients the last of September or first of October. There will be accommodations for about one hundred patients. Those in charge of the work may find it necessary to ask the State Board of Health for permission to build a small sewage bed at the camp until Plainfield is ready to connect the Sanitorium with its sewage system. This matter will be taken up in the near future.

TALKS TO TEACHERS OF PSEUDO ATYPICALS

Dr. Buchanan Describes Causes of Apparent Defectiveness—Dr. Groszmann a Delegate.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan spoke yesterday before the students of the Teachers' Training Course, which is being conducted by the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, at Watchung Crest. He made an earnest plea for the proper care of pseudo-atypical children. By pseudo-atypical children he meant those who were perfectly capable of normal development, except that they suffered from some physical difficulties which were a hindrance, but could be easily overcome.

He discussed special difficulties, as defective hearing, defective sight, and difficulties in other sense organs, the presence of adenoids and enlarged tonsils, improper food, and finally, matters relating to sex hygiene and education.

Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, the Educational Director of the association, has been appointed a delegate of the American Academy of Medicine to the International Congress on Hygiene and Demography, to be held in Washington in September. He was elected Secretary of the Department of special education at the Chicago meeting of the National Education Association a few weeks ago. The president of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, Dr. A. Emil Schmitt, of New York City, was appointed delegate to the International Congress on Hygiene and Demography.

TO PLAN THE MOOSE STATE FIGHT AUG. 13

(Special.)

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Enthused with the great speeches delivered in the closing hours of the first convention of the Progressive party, the New Jerseymen, who took an active part in the gathering, left here late last night on a special car. They will arrive home via the Pennsylvania Railroad tomorrow morning.

Before leaving the plans for the campaign in the State were informally discussed. It was decided by former Governor Fort, after a conference with a dozen men of the delegation, to call the State committee together next Tuesday afternoon at Trenton to arrange to make the greatest fight which Progressives had ever made in the State.

The campaign will go into every county and there will be candidates for practically every office that will be in the gift of the people this fall. Authority for calling the committee was given Mr. Fort by the recent Asbury Park convention. No man who attended the convention which closed here yesterday feels that the Progressive movement is going to fail.

When they left last night, there was not a man in the party who did not express himself as satisfied that with the two fighters chosen yesterday, and the splendid reports received from other States, Mr. Roosevelt, they say, has more than an even chance to win the election.

Both Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Johnson will campaign in New Jersey. This is assured, and Governor Johnson told the Jerseymen last night that he looked forward with pleasure to coming to them later in the campaign and renewing acquaintances.

With no delegation have the Jersey men been more "chummy" than with the Californians, and many friendships, which promise to be lasting, have sprung up. Former Governor Fort did not leave with the delegation last night. He remained to attend a meeting of the national committee, which was in progress at midnight. He will leave on the eighteen-hour train this afternoon, and reach New Jersey at about the same time as the rest of the men from that State, whose trip will take thirty hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund B. Osborne, of Montclair, will also return on the faster train.

There was great rivalry to second the motion of Judge Lindsey making the nomination of Governor Johnson unanimous yesterday afternoon, and former Judge Adrian Lyon, vice-chairman of the New Jersey delegation, secured the honor, attracting the attention of Chairman Beveridge because of his strong-lunged announcement that New Jersey wanted to do this "trick."

FORMER GOVERNOR FORT NATIONAL VICE CHAIRMAN

Chicago, Ills., Aug. 8 (Special)—The national committee of the Progressive party organized soon after the convention last night, and held its first meeting today.

Senator Dixon is chairman and former Governor John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, is vice-chairman. When Governor Fort's name was presented to the New Jersey delegates in caucus as a candidate for national committeeman, a fight on him, headed by Everett Colby was expected. It didn't develop, and the former executive was elected without apparent opposition.

Politicians in and out of the new party figure that his selection as vice-chairman ought to please New Jersey Progressives. It is an honor to the State and indicates the important part New Jersey is expected to play in the third party organization in the East.

—"All things come about to him who waits," but sometimes they come about ten per cent. higher than if he hadn't waited; therefore, don't wait, but order your coal of Geo. O. Stevens at once. ***

—The pessimist sighs for yesterday; the optimist thinks the happiest day of his life is tomorrow.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Th delegates to th Progressive convention, after nominating Roosevelt and Johnson for President and Vice-President last night, left Chicago today, full of enthusiasm, for their homes in various parts of the country.

Members of the National Progressive Committee met with the candidates today to choose an executive committee and a treasurer and to select national headquarters. Oscar Straus, of New York, was the preference of most of the committee for treasurer.

Senator Dixon, of Montana, assumed his duties today as chairman of the National Committee. He was unanimously chosen at a preliminary meeting of the committees last night. Former Gov. John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, is vice-chairman of the committee and Oscar K. Davis, manager of the Roosevelt primary campaign, is secretary.

The selection of four women to be honorary members of the national committee was a difficult problem faeing the committee today. Prominently mentioned for the places were Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, and Miss Elizabeth Dabney, of California. They are expected to line up the woman suffrage vote for the new party. They will see real service as political managers.

A central headquarters, probably at Chicago, with several branch "distributing agencies" is planned by the Progressives. A Southern branch office, perhaps two, is certain. There will be headquarters at New York, Atlanta, San Francisco and portland, Ore. Medill McCormick and Col. Chauncey Dewey, of Chicago, will be in charge of the main Chicago office.

Roosevelt and Johnson discussed their stumping plans today. They have practically agreed that Gov. Johnson shall spend most of his time in the East, while Roosevelt combs the West.

It was precisely 8 o'clock, Eastern time, when the nomination of Roosevelt and Johnson was completed last night. The convention had been in session since 10 o'clock in the morning. The delay was caused over an exhaustive discussion on the platform in the Committee on Resolutions.

OLD PASTOR RETURNS TO GERMAN CHURCH

Dr. Hauser Chosen By Reformed Congregation to Succeed Rev. Charles H. Schneegas.

Dr. George A. Hauser, of Warrenville, was unanimously elected to the pastorate of the German Reformed church, from which he retired nearly a decade ago, at the meeting of the congregation held in the church last night. There was a large attendance at the meeting and many of the older members were present to cast their votes for the former pastor, who takes the place of the Rev. Charles H. Schneegas, who left the pulpit in June.

The other candidate for the place was Rev. Harry Unglaub, of Newark. When it was found that Dr. Hauser had received the majority of votes, a motion was passed to elect him unanimously.

Dr. Hauser was pastor of the church for several years. He retired about ten years ago to live on his farm in Warrenville. Since his retirement, he has been to Europe and received a degree of D. D. He has been preaching recently at Coontown and Mt. Bethel. He will enter on his duties on August 18.

After the meeting of the congregation the regular meeting of the consistory was held at which it was decided to suspend the regular services next Sunday.

BOY INJURED BY FALL.

Edward Goff, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goff, of Pond place, is suffering with general lacerations about the head and body as the result of a fall from the second story of a frame building at Prescott place and Third street, a distance of 17 feet. The boy was playing in the building, which is only half completed, when he slipped and fell through the floor beams of the second story. He struck his head on the beams of the ground floor and fell through to the cellar. Some carpenters working on the building picked up the unconscious boy and carried him to his home where he received medical attention.

TEST YOUR LUNGS.

A Simple Method by Which One May Measure His Development.

People often suffer from weak, undeveloped lungs without suspecting it. True, small, feeble lungs are usually associated with a small, narrow or sunken chest, but not invariably. By means of the misuse of physical culture it is possible to develop large chest muscles, thus acquiring a big chest measurement, while the lungs remain small and ill nourished.

Again, lung mischief is often so slow and insiduous in its approach that the trouble is not discovered until it is firmly established. Here, however, is a simple test which will tell you whether your lungs are healthy or not:

Take as deep a breath as you can, and then, in a slow but distinct voice count from one onward as far as you can without taking in more breath. The number of seconds you can continue counting is a pretty reliable index to the state of your lungs, so you should have some one to time you.

If your lungs are sound and normally developed your range will be between twenty and thirty-five seconds. If your limit is between ten and twenty seconds, there is no need to be alarmed; probably your lungs are merely in need of exercise, to be readily obtained by regular deep breathing in pure air. A range of less than ten seconds, however, points to more or less mischief, and you should not delay in having your lungs examined by a medical man.—London Answers.

Chair of the Giant Idris.

One of the mountain peaks of north Wales is known as the Chair of Idris, or Cader Idris, as the Welsh people call it, because its top is hollowed out like an immense couch. According to local tradition, whoever spends a night in the Chair of Idris will on the following morning be dead, raving mad or endowed with the loftiest poetical inspiration. No one seems to know exactly who Idris was or when he lived, but he must have been a giant if his body was in proportion with his celebrated "chair." Mrs. Hemans has a fine poem with the Chair of Idris as the theme, and Tennyson also mentions it in "Ænid."

Tart!

In the days when Mrs. George Cornwallis West was Lady Randolph Churchill she mixed considerably among politicians and political affairs, and one story told of her shows how she scored off Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and the late Sir William Harcourt. They were chaffing her about some paintings she had done.

"But why not paint us?" one of them asked. "Where can you find more attractive models?"

"Impossible!" Lady Randolph exclaimed. "I could never paint you black enough!"—London Tit-Bits.

Fifth Monarchy Men.

The fifth monarchy men formed a religious sect that sprang up in the days of Charles I. of England. They were so called from the fact that they asserted that in the last days the four ancient monarchies, the Assyrian, the Persian, the Babylonian and the Roman, would be restored, and to them would be added a Christian monarchy, or fifth monarchy, of which Christ would be the king.

WILSON READING SPEECH.

Democratic Candidate Snapped on Porch of "Little White House."

Echoes From Horses' Skulls.

Those curious twists and turns superstitions take are to be found in the introduction of horses' skulls in or about the church buildings in England and Scotland, the reason alleged being to help the sound in church. This habit is unquestionably a relic of heathenism where an animal was sacrificed. Some years ago, when an old meeting house in Edinburgh was pulled down, the sounding board space above the pulpit was found to be filled with horses' skulls. In some parts of England there still exists the idea that if a horse's head is buried in a field there will be an echo.

Quite Frank About It.

"So you are going to marry Tom?"

"You saw the announcement, didn't you?"

"Yes, but"—

"It wasn't a fake."

"But, dearie—I never thought that Tom would be your choice."

"Tom ain't my choice. He's my chance. Have you any other questions to ask, darling?"

Darling decided she hadn't.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Energy of Will.

Energy of will is the soul of every great character. Where it is there is resolute character; where it is not there is faintness, with effeminacy, despondency, neglect of duty and failure. "The strong man and the waterfall," says a proverb, "channel their own path."

J. S. LYLE LEAVES MUCH TO CHARITY

Young Widow Gets $500,000 Outright and Residue.

WIFE WILL BE EXECUTRIX.

Among Charitable Bequests, Aggregating $425,000, Are $50,000 to Board of Foreign Missions of Presbyterian Church and $25,000 to Children's Aid Society.

Hackensack, N. J., Aug. 8.—The will of John S. Lyle of Tenafly, N. J., for years a silent partner of Lord & Taylor, New York, was probated in this city. His young widow, Mrs. Julia Gertrude Lyle, who had nursed his first wife, gets the bulk of the extensive estate, receiving $500,000 and the homestead, valued at $200,000. She is named as sole executrix and gets the balance of the residuary estate, said to be worth several million dollars.

Among the charitable bequests, aggregating $425,000, are these: Board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, $50,000; board of foreign missions of the Reformed Church of America, $50,000; board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, $50,000; Presbyterian hospital, New York, $50,000; American Bible society, $50,000; American Tract society, $50,000; Children's Aid society, New York, $25,000; New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, $25,000; Charity Organization society, New York, $25,000; State Charities Aid association, New York, $25,000; New York Eye and Ear infirmary, New York, $25,000.

A concluding paragraph of the will reads: "I have not made any provision for any relation who may be a cousin or second or third cousin of mine or related in any degree to me, because I do not feel that my association with or interest in them is such as to make it in any sense proper or obligating upon me as a moral duty so to do."

DECLINE TO HONOR EDISON.

Proposal to Name West Orange School After Him Voted Down.

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 8.—That an inventor as well as a prophet is not without honor save in his own country, was illustrated here when Mrs. George Merck, a member of the board of education, failed to get her colleagues to agree with her as to the propriety of naming a new public school after Thomas A. Edison.

In the Oranges every public school bears besides its official number, a name by which it is best known to the general public. The names are derived from historical figures and from streets, usually the latter. Mrs. Merck, who is the pioneer woman member of a West Orange board of education, suggested that a school which the board is to build at once be given the name of Edison.

The majority of the board, however, decided that Fairmount would be a better name, because it is to front on Fairmount avenue.

BISHOP'S WIFE INJURES BOY.

Mrs. Hoffman Picks Up Injured Child and Carries Him to Hospital.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 8.—While driving her own electric limousine, Mrs. Hoffman, wife of Bishop H. S. Hoffman of the Reformed Episcopal church, with headquarters in Philadelphia, ran over a six-year-old boy, Mora Kornblaw. One of the child's legs was broken below the knee.

According to the witnesses to the accident, she was blameless. The boy jumped from the steps of an ice wagon in front of the automobile.

Mrs. Hoffman's woman companion, as soon as she saw the little fellow covered with blood, fainted. The bishop's wife picked up the child, climbed into the limousine, called in a neighbor to hold the injured boy and then drove the car to the hospital as fast as she could go. On reaching the ward Mrs. Hoffman said to the doctor:

"Do everything that can be done. Spare no expense. Oh, do save him!"

STILL SEEK MISSING WIVES.

Husbands and Fathers of Kensington Women Keep Up Hunt.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 8.—The search for the two young married women of this city, who disappeared after donning bathing suits at this resort Sunday evening, is being conducted by the husbands and fathers of the missing women, who are being assisted by the city detectives and police.

The missing women are Mrs. Irene Fulton and Mrs. Eva Cunningham, both of Philadelphia.

Almost every hotel in the section in which the young women are believed to have stopped is being visited by their parents and husbands. Mrs. John King, mother of Mrs. Fulton, still entertains hope that her daughter is alive.

Kept Sober, But—

After a banquet a prominent man was asked by a close friend:

"Well, did you manage to stay sober?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "but my health was drunk."—Judge's Library.

NO PLACE FOR DRINKERS.

If there is one occupation in which sober, clear-minded men are needed it is in the railroad service. While all roads have a more or less stringent rule about the use of intoxicants by their employes, the Lackawanna authorities have recently taken a step which is probably more stringent than any ever before made by a similar corporation. When they had that terrible wreck on July fourth, near Corning, New York, it was testified at a hearing later that the engineer was under the influence of liquor, and although he denied this, the Lackawanna officials have decided that there must never be such a charge made again.

The new order notifies the employes that any one of them found taking a drink, while either on or off duty, will be immediately discharged, and a few of the men who are moderate drinkers, are undoubtedly complaining about the ruling. There is not the slightest excuse for a man being permitted to take any part in the operation of a train who is even a mild drinker. Some day he may overstep the line, and his superiors not notice it when he starts out on his run. The result, as in the case of the Corning week, can easily be the loss of dozens of lives. To make sure that the order be enforced, the Lackawanna officials have decided to look into the personal affairs of the men, and have notified them that they must be very careful in the sort of recreation chosen. It is intimated that those who gamble, or indulge in other forms of dissipation besides drinking, will be brought to account. The stand taken by the officials of the road is a splendid one, and means that the service will be materially benefitted. It is an example which other railroads would do well to follow.

Don't worry about the price of meat as long as beans are in the market, says Dr. R. E. Doolittle, Dr. Wiley's successor as head of the Government's pure food sub-bureau. Beans are the best substitute for meat, the doctor points out, and everybody who pays household bills knows the difference in price. The information is good enough, but at its best it points the way to only a temporary remedy. As soon as enough people eat enough beans to make it worth while a Bean Trust will sprout and flourish.

With "cases" on its list all the time and plenty of land available it would seem to the casual observer to be worth while for the Organized Charities managers to consider plans for putting indigent men and women of Plainfield at work truck gardening. Bigger cities with less land near the centers of distress have found the plan successful. There is no question at all of the acquirement of land enough not far from the center of the city. The association can secure the use of more land than it can put into use.

Regular detectives, detectives from District Attorney Whitman's office and Burnes operatives are all after the uncaptured conspirators in the Rosenthal case. If gang-chasing becomes much more active, only a rich man will be able to afford a murder. With killings quoted at from five to ten thousand dollars apiece.

The potential value of a life to a community, a nation or to all mankind is incalculable. The man or woman who saves the life of a child may confer a priceless boon on posterity. That is one of many thoughts that should inspire you to give aid to The King's Daughters' Baby Camp on Johnston's Drive.

Gangsters, gunmen and other individuals wedded to the art of taking money away from defenseless fellow-citizens seem to have a fondness for mountain and seaside resorts. And why not? The landlords can teach them a lot.

If the city does set out to acquire a second park, it might give some thought to making it look like a park and not a few lots on which the trees have been allowed to grow.

A MUSICIAN'S ROMANCE.

Fanelli's Triumph, That Came After Thirty Years of Misery.

The life story of M. Fanelli, the composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques," reads like a romance. How easily it might have read like a tragedy this incident will show.

In his youth Fanelli had been courageous and ambitious, full of dreams of the music he was going to write for the world to hear and admire. But misfortune followed misfortune. He found it impossible to get a hearing for his compositions, and one by one his dreams began to fade.

Ten, twenty, thirty years went by. Fanelli, all hope crushed by continued adversity, was earning a pittance by playing night after night in an orchestra. None of his colleagues suspected his genius, for he kept his ambitions locked in his heart, as he kept the symphony, the masterpiece of his youth, locked in his desk.

Then one day Fanelli, in search of work as a copyist, called upon Gabriel Pierne, one of the great musical celebrities of Paris. Asked to show a sample of his writing, Fanelli produced the symphony, which he had brought with him. Pierne looked at it and saw that the writing was clear; then he saw something more, for he continued reading the music eagerly.

"Who is this Fanelli?" he asked at length.

"Myself," answered the composer. "I wrote it nearly thirty years ago."

"Leave this with me and come again in a few days."

So Fanelli went out, while Pierne, too enrapt to say goodby, stood by the window, poring over the music. A few days later he announced to the delighted but dazed Fanelli that he was going to produce the symphony at one of the Concerts Colonne.

On the eventful night Fanelli himself took a seat with the musicians. Tears came into his eyes as he heard the first strains of his work, neglected for so many years. He was not alone in his emotion, however, for as the music proceeded tears came into the eyes of the other musicians, the director, the audience. The music took them by storm. When it was over a burst of applause broke out, rose and swelled and would not die away. The composer alone sat quiet, as if in deep thought. Finally he got up, walked over to Pierne, and with a full heart expressed his gratitude.

"Again I thank you, M. Pierne," he said, taking his leave, "Good night, and a good appetite to you."

Pierne wondered at this strange farewell, but at last the meaning dawned on him. The applause that was still ringing through the hall had brought to Fanelli not only fame, but what for the moment was of even more importance to him, the promise of easier living. The composer of "Tableaux Symphoniques" had left the scene of his triumph to enjoy a much needed and rare treat—a good dinner.—Youth's Companion.

Self Conscious Greatness.

One day in the train—on one of Victor Hugo's journeys to or from Brussels—he happened to find himself in the company of two English ladies who spoke French. Hugo knew but one word of English—Christmas, which he always pronounced "Christmus." In the course of conversation these ladies observed that it must be inconvenient for him not to know English when he was passing through that country. To which the great man's reply was, "When England wants to talk with me she will learn my language!" "From their astonishment at this answer," said Hugo in relating the story, "it was evident they did not know who I was!"—"Victor Hugo, His Life and Work," by A. F. Davidson.

The Game of Lacrosse.

The game known as lacrosse was originally played by the Canadian Indians, and from them adopted successively by the French and English settlers, and by them introduced to the United States. The object of the game is to drive the ball through goals situated at each end of the field. The players are usually twelve on a side. In 1867 the Lacrosse Association of Canada was formed, and an Indian team visited Great Britain, creating great excitement. The game is one of real importance in the English sporting world.

Pennsylvania Flood and Cloudbursts

CLOUDBURSTS and overflowing streams spread death and destruction broadcast over the southwest counties of Pennsylvania recently. Threescore or more lives were lost, while damage to homes and industries was very heavy.

Several towns were left without railroad, mail, telephone and telegraph connections. Scores of families were rendered homeless. Railroad tracks were torn from the roadbed and twisted and bent as though made of lead. There were many freak incidents of the flood reported, one of which was a pool table top tossed upon the railroad tracks after having been carried miles.

Floods in that particular region are of annual occurrence, for which preparation is made, and comparatively little damage is done. The recent cloudburst, however, followed more than twenty-four hours of torrential rains, and every stream was full and soon overflowed its banks.

As the waters drained away the power of the elements was seen in the heavy rocks that had been split, railroad iron lifted from solid beds and dropped into rivers and the deep corrosion marking the earth where the water made new courses.

For a radius of a hundred miles around Pittsburgh scores of small bridges were torn from their moorings and broken to pieces in the raging streams. Some of the bridges held long enough to clog up streams and back water far into the towns.

Cellars by thousands were submerged, and in many cases the water reached the second and third floors of buildings. Hundreds of families were driven from their homes and suffered greatly. Residences and buildings were damaged or completely demolished. Thoroughfares were torn up by the mile, while others were piled high with tons of debris carried by the flood waters. Poles were uprooted and wires dropped to the streets, blocking traffic and causing darkness.

Besides the damage in west Pennsylvania counties, there were death and property loss in eastern Ohio and in West Virginia.

In the flooding of Superba mine at Evans station, three miles north of Uniontown, Pa., thirteen men were drowned and thirty-seven escaped after a most harrowing experience. The men were drowned about 4,000 feet from the mouth of the mine, their only avenue of escape. The majority of the victims were married and had large families. The men who escaped were forced to swim part way to the pit mouth through water ranging in depth from their waists to their necks.

An exhibit of these famous pianos will take place at our store, beginning Wednesday, August 7.

SMITH SPECTER AGAIN DISTURBS DEMOCRATS

Trenton, August 8 (Special).—As the result of the politics which manifested themselves at Sea Girt yesterday afternoon in connection with the notification ceremony it is evident that the United States Senatorship nomination is giving the Democratic State leaders considerable concern. The trouble is a multiplicity of candidates and the fear that because of this former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., may be able to capture thep rize. The Wilson followers look upon former Senator Smith as the rch enemy of this administration and do not hesitate to declare that his election to the United States Senate would be a climity.

It had been thought that while the various candidates were at Sea Girt yesterday a conference might be arranged at which one of the candidates could formally be decided upon, the others retiring from the field, or if this plan could not be agreed to, a compromise candidate be selected and all those now in the field retire. Former Judge Robert S. Hudspeth, of Hudson county, the New Jersey member of the National Committee, and former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of this city, were both mentioned in connection with the proposed compromise. No progress whatever was made with the proposition and the booms of the leading candidates were actively fostered throughout the day. As the situation presented itself, there is little likelihood but that the fight will have to be fought out in a scramble at the primaries in September.

Former Judge John W. Westcott, of Camden; Congressman William Hughes, of Paterson, and State Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, all of whom are avowed candidates, were on the grounds and each had his followers who were working in his interest. There was talk that Judge Westcott will not have the solid support of South Jersey in his campaign for the place, but his friends claim that any defection there will be slight. The contention that Judge Westcott should be he candidate is based largely on his speech nominating Governor Wilson for the presidency at Baltimore.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

STUFFED VEGETABLES.

WHEN you are tired of vegetables served in the ordinary way try sending them to the table stuffed.

Potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, artichokes, etc., may be served this way in their seasons:

Stuffed Cucumbers.—Take a large cucumber, pare it, cut off the top, scoop out the seeds, fill with a mixture of chopped cold meat, a few breadcrumbs, seasoning and a little stock or water to moisten.

A very nice stuffing is made with some sausage meat or some chopped kidneys, flavored with onion juice and parsley.

Fix on the top with white of egg, brush over with melted butter, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and cook for twenty-five minutes in a thickly greased paper bag.

Tempting Fare.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes.—First bake the potatoes, as usual, in the skins. When done cut the tops off lengthwise, scoop out the interior, place in a hot bowl and mash, adding salt and pepper to taste, with one tablespoonful of butter and one of milk to every two potatoes. Mash this and beat up lightly, then fill into the potato shells, dot with butter, then bake until light brown.

Stuffed Baked Peppers.—Take one-half pound of pork, one-half pound beef, one small onion, chop fine, one-half cupful grated cheese, one-half cupful breadcrumbs, moistened with milk, two tablespoonfuls melted butter or olive oil, one teaspoonful salt, dash of red pepper, two eggs and mix well. Take a dozen green peppers, cut off tops, remove seeds and stuff with the dressing. Put on the tops and place on end in baking dish and add one quart tomatoes. Bake one and one-half hours and baste often.

Delicious Tomatoes.

Stuffed Tomatoes.—Take six ripe, firm tomatoes, a cupful of macaroni, a tablespoonful of grated cheese, a tablespoonful each of butter, flour and breadcrumbs, a cup of milk, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of onion juice and pepper to taste.

Wash the tomatoes, cut off the tops and remove the centers.

Put the macaroni on with two quarts boiling water, add half of the salt, boil thirty minutes, drain and blanch. Add the sauce, which has been made as follows:

Put the butter into a saucepan; when melted add the flour, then the cold milk, slowly stir until smooth and creamy, then add the cheese, onion, one-half teaspoonful salt, pepper and paprika. Boil one minute.

Mix the macaroni and the sauce together and fill into the tomatoes, sprinkle the breadcrumbs over the top and bake twenty minutes.

NEW WRINKLES.

Some of the new fall gowns have the panniers looped up well toward the back.

Many striking combinations of colorings are used for afternoon wraps.

Among the very newest effects in real cluny is a small vandyke point design, headed at the top with a narrow band of fine insertion. Each point is finished with a tiny tassel of the linen thread.

Few wardrobes will be considered complete this season without several all white dresses, whether they be of linen, serge, crape, agaric cloth or the very inexpensive cotton materials that look like linen.

Drawers that are wide enough for freedom and comfort, yet perfectly smooth over the hips, are demanded by the present fashion. The ones pictured fulfill these requirements.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

"I wonder," said one mother, whose children are particularly happy little things, and also well behaved, "why so many mothers keep the things they want to talk over with their children until bedtime. I know at least three mothers who wait till their children are in bed then sit down and labor to bring them to the right state of feeling about the little naughtinesses they've committed during the day." I'm reminded of the custom by something I read just now in a household magazine. A mother—supposed to be an expert in child management—conducts a page on the subject—describes some little piece of selfishness of which her small daughter was guilty.

"I waited till night, till she was in bed," the account goes on, "and then I put it to her gravely, etc." Now we all know what "putting a thing to a child gravely" means. It means, in the part of the child, first, resistance, more or less, then tears, then remorse, at least that's the usual course, and its a gamut of emotions no child should be put through at bedtime. Before it lies down the child's mind should be wiped clear of everything but happiness. A gentle romp, unexciting stories, talk about happy things, some bedtime songs from mother—these things should go before every child's sleep.

"The child once condemned from birth as morally depraved, has come into his own place as divine. The child welfare campaign is but a belated recognition of the fact of Christ's word, that 'Such is the Kingdom of Heaven.' The church has been changing its attitude toward the child. It is not to be doubted that the status of the child was clearly announced when Christ said, 'Suffer little children to come unto me; forbid them not, for of such belongeth the kingdom of God.' Very clearly Jesus considered the child as God's child, and within the bounds of his kingdom. If He recognized the little children as subjects of His kingdom, can His church do less. This vein changes the method of dealing with children somewhat. The work becomes not so much the rescuing as that of preserving the child as a member of the kingdom of God, so that its rescue may never be necessary."

Miss Elizabeth Harrison said in a recent address at the International Kindergarten Union: "One of the leading journals of the United States which has a million readers, recently printed an article entitled 'The Girl at the Head of Her Class.' It was written by the principal of one of the largest girl's high schools in America and was a strong and vigorous protest against the curriculum of the average high school, claiming that most of the studies required for graduation from these schools were utterly useless to a girl in her after life and that four years of her time, health and mental vigor were, therefore, wasted. The writer then suggested that instead of latin, algebra, ancient history, higher mathematics, etc., she might learn cooking, dressmaking, millinery, household accounts, domestic economy, household decoration, household sanitation, household hygiene, nursing, sex hygiene and music—all of them well worth a young woman's attention.

"But my interest in the article came from the fact that 'not one word was said concerning child nurture' or the value of understanding the instincts, impulses, desires, ideas and aspirations of little children, of the importance of knowing how to develop their sense perception of how to guide their imagination, of how to strengthen aright their will power, of how to best lead them out of childish capriciousness into rational thinking, of how to quicken their social consciousness, of how to train them to respect labor, and to desire to be of service in the world. The entire realm of child psychology was ignored and yet nine-tenths of the girls who attend high school ultimately become mothers, and half of the other tenth will be teachers of young children.

"I believe with all my heart that every girl who ever expects to become the mistress of a home (and what girl does not expect it) should prepare herself to manage that home economically, wholesomely, and with pleasure to herself and her household. This is just as much her duty as it is the duty of every young man to know how to earn a living before he takes upon himself the responsibilities of a home and family. But there is something more important than good housekeeping and good business ability and that something is 'the spirit of the home.' I have known untidy women who were good homemakers and good mothers, and I have known good fathers who were poor business men.

"Dr. Weir Mitchell in his novel, 'The Iron Master,' makes the hero of the story, in speaking of a dear, lovable, ne'er do-well family say, 'They are unprosperous people because the wife is not the husband.' Have we not all of us known such families? Take Louise Alcott's home life as an example. I am not advocating lazy women nor am I defending inefficient men, but I am trying to show that as the life is more than meat and body more than raiment, so, too, the spiritual atmosphere of a home means more than its furniture or its social rank or even its food. Man does not live by bread alone."

We take our share of fretting,
Of grieving and forgetting;
The paths are often rough and
Steep, and heedless feet may fall;
But yet the days are cheery,
And night brings rest when weary
And somehow this old planet is a
God world after all.

There's always love that's caring,
And shielding and forbearing,
Dear woman's love to hold us close
And keep our hearts in thrall.
There's home to share together
In calm or stormy weather,
And while the hearth-flame burns
It is a good world after all.

Miss Maley, Socialist Candidate For Governor.

MISS ANNA AGNES MALEY.

The Socialist candidate for governor in the state of Washington is a woman. Miss Anna Agnes Maley. This very efficient and clever lady was born in Minnesota thirty-nine years ago. Reared on a farm, at thirteen Miss Maley went to Minneapolis, where "she worked for her board" and attended school until a three years' course in the high school was completed. After graduating she taught in country schools until she was twenty-two years of age, when she took up stenography.

Later Miss Maley returned to school, doing special work at the University of Minnesota and in the Rand School of Social Science of New York city. From 1909 till 1911 she was a special organizer of women for the National Socialist party. For the past year she has been connected with a Socialist paper published in Washington state.

Miss Maley is already in the field campaigning, and she is regarded as likely to win second among the candidates for governor, and her election is not impossible if the old parties remain split as they are at present.

"I care nothing for myself personally," said Miss Maley recently. "It is the principles, aims and methods of the National Socialist party that I desire to see succeed. Our party has stood upon this unmodified platform since its organization—social ownership and democratic control of the socially necessary industrial property."

Queen Mary "Sassed" by Lady Constance.

"Lady Constance Stewart Richardson, the beautiful young woman who danced over here some time ago, has offended Queen Mary," said a diplomat's wife, according to the Washington Post. "She actually told the queen to stand out of the light at a picture exhibition.

"Lady Constance, you know, is capable of anything. They are telling an anecdote about her at the Bath club.

"She was walking in Piccadilly the other day—so the anecdote runs—and a young man attempted to pass her on the right when she also turned that way. The young man veered to the left, and Lady Constance did the same. And there they stood for a minute or more, overcome by that ridiculous something which makes two people face to face on a wide sidewalk dodge simultaneously this way and that without being able to pass each other by.

"Lady Constance after nine or ten of these awkward movements smiled demurely and said:

"'Well, I'm sure if you want to dance I don't mind. But what's it to be—the turkey trot or the grizzly bear?'" —The right man in the right place should be doubly sure of not being left.

—No man has more money than brains who has brains enough to hang onto it.

STILL STRIVING TO OUST MONTCLAIR BIRDS

Montclair, Aug. 8. — Protector James M. Stratton, of Long Branch, and Game Warden Frederick J. Hall, of Bloomfield, assisted by several deputy wardens, are supervising the work of ridding the residents of The Crescent, Montclair, of the nuisance caused by large numbers of birds lodging in the trees of that thoroughfare.

Only a small number of birds went to the Crescent trees last night. Blanks were fired, however, as on the preceding evening. The firing will be continued on several succeeding nights.

RAT CATCHER IS HIRED BY PERTH AMBOY BOARD

Perth Amboy, Aug. 8.—The Board of Health has engaged James A. Hogg, a professional rat-catcher, to make a survey of the waterfront of Perth Amboy and devise ways and means of exterminating the rats. This is a part of the campaign being waged by the local health authorities and Dr. C. W. Naulty, federal quarantine officer at this port, to prevent the spread of the bubonic plague should an infected steamship touch here.

Mr. Hogg will present his report at a special meeting of the Health Board next Tuesday night.

COMMITTEE RECTIFIES ILLEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Bernardsville, Aug. 8.—On advice of counsel, two special meetings of the township committee were pronounced illegal at the monthly meeting held at Basking Ridge. The committee got around the difficulty by voting to ratify action taken at the condemned meetings.

Chairman Frank B. Allen, who was absent from the two sessions complained of, informed the committee that the law as to the manner of calling special meetings had not been followed. In this he was confirmed by counsel, Frederick J. Faulks.

The question of widening Main street at Bernardsville, a county road, was raised. Mr. Faulks said that where a road had been taken over as a county road the municipality could not change the boundary lines. The township engineer and counsel were authorized to confer with the county authorities to see if the street may not be widened to sixty-six feet.

Assessor Joseph E. Buck asked and received $100 for extra work in distributing exemption circulars. Overseer of the Poor James F. Guerin asked for an allowance of $300 which was granted. The sum of $300 was appropriated to the Mine Mount Improvement Society. Treasurer Fred E. Ballentine was authorized to borrow $2,000 in anticipation of taxes with which to pay current bills.

At a meeting of the Board of Health following the committee meeting a communication from Daniel J. O'Brien was read. He complained that he had been bitten by a dog owned by August Oliver, of Church street, Bernardsville, and asked to know what he should do. The board decided that the case was one for the courts.

Four cases of diphtheria and one of measles were reported.

HYMN IN M. E. HYMNAL IS NAMED AFTER T. R.

Ocean Grove, Aug. 8.—In the Methodist hymnal there is a "particularly strenuous" hymn called "Theodore," but it was not generally known that it had been named after Colonel Roosevelt until Carl E. Price made the fact public at the organists' convention yesterday. The hymn was written by Peter C. Lutkin, dean of the College of Music in the Northwestern University. When Professor Lutkins first played the tune for Professor Charles U. Stuart the latter said, "That is strenuous."

"We'll have to name it 'Roosevelt,'" was the reply.

Then it was agreed between the two professors that "Theodore" should be substituted for "Roosevelt."

ODD TERMINATION TO DOVER HORSES' FLIGHT

Dover, Aug. 8.—A team of work horses belonging to James Gardner ran away about noon Tuesday. In turning into Sussex street from Canal street they ran on the sidewalk in front of Meisner's saloon, the pole of the wagon knocking one of the doors off the hinges and breaking windows. Both horses fell to the walk.

One of the animals acted as if it had broken its right hind leg. Dr. John Sheridan, a veterinary, expressed that opinion, and requested Chief of Police Byram to shoot the horse. The chief fired one shot. To the amazement of the crowd, the horse jumped to its feet and walked off.

Instead of killing the animal the chief shot out its left eye. An examination disclosed that in falling the horse had thrown its stifle joint out of place, and in regaining its feet had thrown it back in place again. The animal, however, was hurt internally, and later in the evening had to be killed.

NO JEWISH RESTORATION SAYS GOSPEL EVANGELIST

Work in the Gospel Tent on Darrow avenue is still going on vigorously. Last night an interested audience gave marked attention to the evangelist while he spoke on "Will the Jews Be Restored as a Nation Before the Second Coming of Christ?"

The speaker's remarks were based upon Matthew 21:8-11. He said the trouble with ancient Israel was, they were looking for a great Ruler to come and restore the Jews as a nation, and rid them from Roman bondage; but when he came as the lowly Nazerene of prophecy, whose career did not measure up to the expectation of the Jews, they as a nation were determined to put him to death.

He also showed that though the crucifixion of Christ filled up the cup of their iniquity, yet God's offers of mercy are yet extended to the Jew as well as to the Gentile; but no promise of restoration as a nation but salvation through individual consecration to God.

Subject for tonight, "The Antediluvian World; the World That Now is and the World That is to Come." Friday night, "Is Peter the Rock or Foundation of the Gospel Church; and What Are the Keys of the Kingdom?"

LONG ESCAPED INMATE BACK IN REFORMATORY

Rahway, Aug. 8.—With four escapes to his "credit" and a deserter from the United States army, Isaac Williams, twenty-seven years old, was returned to the State Reformatory here Tuesday, from which he took French leave for the second time, July 11, 1907. A four-year term in the New York State prison at Auburn was concluded by him Tuesday and he was turned over to Charles Moore, one of the officers of the reformatory.

Williams was committed to the institution here Nov. 27, 1903, on charges of breaking and entering from Bergen county. His first escape was on September 25, 1905. The following month he was arrested in Middletown, N. Y., and returned to the authorities here. After his second departure he was captured after three days in Chester, N. Y., and committed to the jail there.

When the jailer visited his cell the following morning Williams was no where to be found and nothing was heard of him until December, 1909, when he was picked up in Buffalo as a deserter from the army. He had enlisted after breaking jail. He was then committed to Fort Porter as a government prisoner, from which he also effected an escape. At Hammondsport, N. Y., he again fell into police toils and was sent to Auburn.

1912 BASEBALL RESUME OF THE SPICER ATHLETIC ASSO'N REPRESENTATIVES

Originators of the Manufacturers' Baseball League Movement Have Had a Successful Season--Scott and O'Loughlin Have Proved Themselves to be Valuable Assets to the Aggregation--O'Loughlin Leading Batter.

Although it occupies fourth place in the Manufacturers' Baseball League and has done nothing sensational along the baseball line during its initial year in the game, the Spicer baseball nine is one of the best organized and equipped teams in the league. It is one of the nines that have been the pride of the organization and the formation of a league such as has been run this year came as an original suggestion from members of the Spicer Athletic Association. The team consists of a number of Plainfield's best known ball players who were in years gone by generally conceded to be the best playing the game in this locality. The team has a remarkable batting average with four of the men hitting over the 300 mark and Captain Billy O'Loughlin leading off with a grand total of sixteen safe bingles in ten games for a percentage of 500. Manager C. C. Thompson comes next with a mark of 344 and is closely followed by J. Pangborn and Reick who are both over the 300 mark.

The players on the Spicer baseball team represent some of the best of the athletic talent in this city and chief among them is Jim Scott the best all around athletic in the Spicer athletic association. He is also an old Y. M. C. A. player and has been covering first base and a fielder position for the Spicer nine, and has also shown up well on the pitcher's mound.

Billy O'Loughlin, hailed as the most popular man in the employ of the Spicer company, leads the nine on the field and his snappy fielding has added a whole lot to the playing ability of the aggregation. He is an old team mate of Scott's on the Y. M. C. A. championship combination and has been playing the game on local sand lots since he could walk. He is also known as an umpire of some merit having taken up this phase of the game when he sustained an injury to his knee while playing with the association aggregation.

Player	G	AB	R	H	Av.
O'Loughlin	9	32	10	16	.500
Thompson	10	32	4	11	.344
A. C. Jaeger	5	20	3	5	.250
J. Pangborn	1	3	0	1	.333
T. Jangborn	2	4	1	1	.250
Reick	8	32	6	10	.312
Scott	10	35	8	10	.286
Kiely	9	37	5	10	.273
Downs	8	32	5	7	.219
A. Jaeger	5	11	4	2	.181
Dolan	10	34	6	6	.177
Wyckoff	6	22	3	3	.140
Colfax	2	8	0	1	.125
McComb	3	15	0	1	.066

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

Charles Glidden, originator of the automobile tour which bears his name, has telegraphed from Bangor, Me., to Walter E. Flanders, of Detroit, who furnished the car for the present pathfinding trip of the 1912 tour, congratulating him on his enterprise. He also conveyed his best wishes to A. H. Westgard, who is at the head of the trip.

The New Jersey Automobile Trade Association, at the meeting of its Board of Directors to be held the latter part of this week, will very likely be put on record as backing up State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Job Lippincott, in the latter's campaign to compel the obervance of the fifteen-day reciprocity touring privilege by out of State motorists.

George Blakeslee, president of the trade association, and chairman of the board of directors, is an ardent advocate of the Lippincott proposition, and he will very likely champion the commissioner's cause at the board meeting. President Blakeslee thinks that it is up to the autoists to see that the law is enforced, lest the reciprocity act is repealed or curtailed to a large extent by the next Legislature.

The route on the west side of the Hudson River from this section to Newburg is very rough because of road construction and wornout conditions. This is especially true from this city up through Bloomfield and Montclair to the Pompton pike. From Fort Lee to Hackensack, the route taken by New Yorkers, is also badly worn. Then for about two miles between Hackensack to Arcola there is a fine amiesite road. Worn macadam, with a mile of sandy road, is found to Hoboken. Then comes seven miles of good macadam, to be followed by a detour over a poor dirt road to Suffern.

Leaving Suffern, rough macadam is followed to Ramapo. At this place the route is again closed, owing to road construction and a five-mile detour is necessary via Sterling Lake, mostly through woods and over some very narrow, but good, road to Tuxedo. The next few miles to Woodbury are good macadam. The balance of the route to Newburg will be found torn up in several places as a contract has been let to repair the same, and barrels of oil and piles of sand are now placed on both sides of the road.

Novel methods of awarding prizes and boosting business have been adopted by a company of wholesale grocers, of Galipolis, O., who will make their sixtieth annual prize award sometime this month. Two automobiles are the chief prizes. The grocery company adds up six months' purchases by each customer and invites each one to submit to the judges one business motto for each $200 worth of goods purchased.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Job H. Lippincott has prepared an amendment to the automobile law regulating the display of a light and license tag on the rear of automobiles.

SPICER FOLLOWERS ARE PESSIMISTIC

Enthusiastic Fans Can't See How Their Favorites Can Lose to R. G. E.

The Spicer dope slingers are spreading a notice of the defeat of the R. G. E. combination which is carded to take place on Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon. Although the R. G. E. bunch are well on the road to Pennantville, the Spicer informants say that a wooden box has been ordered for the league leaders and they are wont to begin their trip toward a six foot plot of real estate dealing next Saturday. In fact the joint makers can't conceive how they can possibly drop the contest and as their sympathies are keyed up to a high pitch for the Commercial aggregation they are going to help the latter bunch to win the trophy by spoiling the lamp-makers' brightest hopes. Spicer's hold forth the idea that their nine is invincible against the R. G. E. and they are backing their favorites to the limit, while on the other hand the top notchers are equally as confident and say that they will cinch the pennant by a win over the Fourth street aggregation this week. The R. G. E. manager states that he will have his strongest lineup on the field and this is enough to pull any contest out of the fire. Such well known baseball players as "Smiling" Jimmy Montross, DeNitzio, Limbloom and Fleming will be in the lineup and this will form a combination that will be hard to get around. Fleming has been fooling the best of the batters in the league and is generally conceded to be the best moundsman in the organization.

Spicer's end will be held up by such ball tossers as Jim Scott, O'Loughlin, Reick and the Jaeger brothers. Scott says he never felt in better trim and will be able to put them over the pan in great style. The whole team will be equipped with a complete new outfit of universal joints and the nine should play together like clock work.

The Fourth street leaguers will have their big "sixty" on the side lines which, under the leadership of Miller and Murphy, has done some remarkable work along the Hughey Jennings line. The leaders are holding daily sessions with their charges and are instructing them in the inside art of playing baseball such as playing the game from the side lines and winning games by means of vocal play.

Philosophical Phelix Says:

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

A select crowd of twirlers are occupying the surrounding baseball mounds this season and seem to have things all their own way until they are brought together. Slocum, Fredrickson, Ortlieb and MacLaughlin make up the "Big Four."

Will somebody please offer a solution for those ninth inning rallies that are becoming so popular in the two local amateur leagues?

Will somebody else please tell how it is that Pitcher Stewart, of the Temple Baptists, gets away with so many strikeouts every game and then as a rule loses out?

Then again, will someone else (not the same one) tell why it is that certain Plainfield fans look so happy when it looks like a beating for the home pill chasers?

A certain few sorehead seem to take sides with the opposing team at every opportunity.

The Temples evidently knew that two games in the row would be too much for their followers to swallow and so they politely handed the contest to the Monroes.

Manager Bob Bogardus was quite grieved on Saturday over the non-appearance of certain faithful feminine rooters at the game. He raised the price to two bits. There's a reason? That's the woman of it.

He says they will make good on the "tin can" trip to Bound Brook next Saturday, however.

Let's hope so anyway. The men looked lonesome at the little diamond around the corner in Dunellen, when Cranford took the field.

Then Bob has signed up Wolfe, a former Central New Jersey Leaguer for his team. Wolfe is one of the hardest hitters in this section and should prove a big help to the Dunellen nine.

What is the use of raising a crop of "White Hopes" now that Johnson has declared his intention of retiring.

Astute managers will have to think up another catchy phrase for advertising, when the big champion quits the game.

If either Langford or Jeanette are conceded the crown, the present batch of hopes may yet have a chance to shine.

FISHING NOTES.

Many went for crabs from Acker's boathouse, Seawaren, Sunday, and all returned with large catches. Those who went out fishing brought back small catches of weakfish and it looks as if the weaks would soon appear at the red buoy and cinder beds feeding grounds in goodly numbers.

One of New Brunswick's best lovers of fishing, who has been in the habit of spending Sundays fishing in the Raritan, above the Five Mile Dam, complains of the vast amount of oil, which covers the water and spoils fishing in general. This particular sportsman was fishing on Sunday, and says the oil was so thick that it covered the fishing line, and killed the catfish he was catching. He is unable to understood where the oil comes from, but believes it must possibly be from some factory in or near Bound Brook. He thinks Game Warden Charles Steuerwald should look into the matter.

Sewaren crabs are in fine shape and thousands of them are caught every day from Acker's boats. Anchor anywhere and use meat, fish heads, eels or killies, as the crabs like all of them.

All last week there was a streak of oil and gasolene on the water from the lower bay to Seabright that was half a mile wide. An oil-laden barge sprung a leak and sank in forty feet of water, and at the rate the oil is oozing out it will take weeks to empty the cargo. On the incoming tide the oil spreads over the entire bay and a fish cannot be caught within a mile of it.

If you want a few hours' fishing with plenty of salt air thrown in take the afternoon Coney Island boat from New York city and fish from Steeplechase pier, returning on the evening boat. Fluke can be caught in the afternoon and weakfish in the evening. The run of fluke is nothing new, but the weakfish are a surprise, as seldom can they be caught from any pier.

On the fishing steamboat Taurus at the Cholera Banks yesterday the general opinion was that this is the best humpback season for the last ten years. For several weeks the daily catch has been very good, and yesterday the sport was continued in a likely manner. A great number of the heavier fish were over five pounds each and several touched the six-pound mark.

OLYMPIC WINNERS TO SHOW IN NEWARK

Good Jumping and Foot Racing Card at Newark Motordrome Saturday & Sunday.

With the results of the Olympic fest at Stockholm fresh in the mind and the great showing made by our boys in the games, the management of the Stadium-Motordrome, in Newark, has arranged to hold an athletic carnival in conjunction with the motor races at the Stadium next Saturday and Sunday. Among those who will compete in the games are the two Adams boys, Platt and Ben, of Newark, who made such a wonderful showing in the broad and high jumps; Strobino, who finished third in the Marathon, and a number of other point winners who are now wearing laurels from the recent games.

They have also made arrangements with Queal and Wood, who are matched for a side purse of $1,000 a side, winner take all of the runners' share of the gate receipts, in a ten-mile race, to take place on the new cinder track inside the quarter-mile saucer.

A. E. Wood is the world's fifteen-mile foot-racing champion and Billy Queal the American distance title holder.

The card for the motorcyclists will be one of the best that Manager Paul Derkum has put on, and will include the record-smashing Hasha, who has earned a strong place in the hearts of Newark motorcycle fans. Ray Peck Flickenstein, Johnnie King, Freddie West and the other boys who are thrilling the spectators in this new game, that is taking such a strong hold on Newark. Summing up this card, it looks as if Newark is in for the best series of sport that has yet been pulled off. Eddie Hasha is now riding in his best form, and those who visit the Stadium are always looking for Eddie to smash another record, and in Hasha's own words "it won't be long before some new time is hung up. Judging from the way Hasha is putting it over on old Father Time, doing two miles in 1m. 17s., his first mile at 39 1-5s. and the second in 37 4-5., it looks as is he was already keeping his word.

DISHONEST BORO SERVANT CONFESSES LINEN THEFTS

Annie Wolobeck, a servant in the employ of William W. Warnock, of 22 Craig place, was arrested last night by Chief Weiss, of the North Plainfield police, on a charge of stealing linens from the Warnock home worth $30. When questioned by Chief Weiss, she denied having taken anything, but after an hour's examination she broke down and admitted having taken the linen.

She had been in the employ of Mrs. Warnock for one year, but nothing had happened to arouse their suspicions until yesterday when Mrs Warnock missed about a hundred premium coupons. On going into Annie's room she found the missing coupons under the bed. Later in the day Miss Ray Warnock went to her room and found that linens and underwear had been taken from her trunk. When questioned, Annie said she knew nothing about the missing goods, but when Mrs. Warnock telephoned to the police Annie disappeared.

Chief Weiss went to a neighbor's house where Annie was known to visit and found her there. She again denied taking the goods, but later said her cousin would show him where the articles could be found. Marshal Keller accompanied Annie's cousin to a residence on Kensington avenue, where a suit case was found which contained over half the missing articles. Later in the evening a maid employed at the Kensington avenue house appeared at the police station with two more pieces of linen which belonged to Miss Warnock. Only about half of the missing linen has been located and it is supposed that some of the other companions of Annie's have them stored away in their rooms.

When Mrs. Morris Abrams, of Grove street, heard of the arrest she went to the station house and found that some of the articles in the suit case belonged to her. Annie had been in the habit of visiting Mrs. Abrams' servant.

The trial of the girl will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning before Justice Snape. Lawer V. W. Nash, Jr., has been employed as counsel by Mr. Warnock, who says he does not want to send the girl to prison, but merely wants the stolen things returned.

PLAN MOOSE CAMPAIGN

Colonel Roosevelt was put in nomination by Comptroller William A. Prendergast of New York and the nomination had been seconded by Judge Benjamin Lindsey of Colorado, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Alexander T. Hamilton of Georgia, General Horatio C. King of New York, Colonel P. Lloyd of Florida, General John H. McDowell of Tennessee, Henry J. Allen of Kansas, ex-Governor Garvin of Rhode Island, John J. Sullivan of Ohio and Robert S. Fisher of Arizona.

Governor Johnson had been put in nomination by Judge John M. Parker, Democrat, of New Orleans, and the nomination had been seconded by C. S Wheeler of California, James R. Garfield of Ohio, Bainbridge Colby of New York, Frederick Landis of Indiana, Raymond Robbins of Illinois, Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Governor Vessey of South Dakota, William Flinn of Pennsylvania and John R. Clede, a negro, of New York.

Great Audience Sings Doxology.

Colonel Roosevelt, arm in arm with Governor Johnson, appeared before the convention, and they were greeted with the wildest plaudits, a very bedlam of a demonstration, and formally accepted the nominations. The great audience of 15,000 souls sang the Doxology to the accompaniment of a band, the fife and drum corps, a quartet of trombones and cornets, and with the benediction the convention adjourned.

At that moment the banner was dropped from the girders on the roof of the Coliseum with this legend:

Roosevelt and Johnson,
New York and California,
Hands across the continent.
For there is neither east nor west,
Border, nor breed, nor birth.
When two strong men stand face to face.
Though they came from the ends of the earth.

From the very first moment to the last this convention has had the appearance of a great religious revival. Senator Dixon and others remarked at the close of the scene:

"This is not politics; this is religion."

Like Great Moral Movement.

On the last day of the convention all the semblance of a great moral movement was retained. At its opening there were but 6,000 in the hall. It was raining and muddy, but later in the day great crowds filled the Coliseum. The first militant religious melody sung by the convention was, "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

This was varied at times by the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and the national melodies, all of which were sung heartily, almost soulfully, by the audience. The musical efforts of the convention have indeed been thrillingly interesting.

When Comptroller Prendergast began his speech nominating Roosevelt he was greeted as New York's next governor, and from start to finish he was generously applauded. When he closed by saying, "I present to you America's greatest statesman and lion hearted citizen, Theodore Roosevelt," he turned on another demonstration similar to that when Colonel Roosevelt appeared and spoke before the convention.

WILLIAM A. PRENDERGAST

New York Comptroller Who Made Speech Nominating Roosevelt.

There were thundering cheers, the rolling music, the flags, the banners, the fifers and the drummers, the banging of the minute gun machine, yells, shrieks, cheers, howls, in fact a very crazy bediam of enthusiasm. The great audience sang the "Red, White and Blue," "Onward, Christian Soldiers," "Star Spangled Banner," "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Dixie," and at times turned and shouted a welcome to Mrs. Roosevelt, who again bowed and retired to a quiet corner in her box. This time the demonstration lasted forty-one minutes.

North and South United.

Then came the seconding speeches. Although the rules adopted by the convention declare that no seconding speech shall last longer than five minutes all broke the rule except Miss Addams and General King. The general in closing his brief remarks declared, "This Progressive party is determined that the people of this country shall not have a government of the bosses, by the bosses and for the bosses."

Colonel Lloyd is an old Confederate soldier, with four Union bullets in him, and at the close of his speech General King flung his arms about Colonel Lloyd, indicating a fraternal feeling between the north and the south, and this brought out one of the howlingest demonstrations of the day.

Major General McDowell's speech was another to the effect that the sectional feeling must be obliterated. He declared that Colonel Roosevelt was the man to wipe out any remaining prejudice or sectional lines, and he closed by saying:

"Confronting my brave comrade on the other side, I want to see this nation united."

This called for another wild scene. The thousands sang "Dixie," the band and the trombones and the cornets all joining in.

In due time, when the seconding speeches were over, William D. Lewis, dean of the Law school of the University of Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee on resolutions, read the platform. This document differs widely, most drastically, from the platforms of the Republican and Democratic national parties. Especially does it condemn the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the Democratic tariff plank at Baltimore, and in addition it demands the immediate repeal of the Canadian reciprocity act.

T. R.'s Speech of Acceptance.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Colonel Roosevelt, in his speech accepting the National Progressive party's nomination for president, said:

Mr. Chairman, and men and women who in this convention represent the high and honest purpose of the people of all our country, I come forward to thank you from my heart for the honor you have conferred upon me. To say that of course I accept. That I hold it—and now I am measuring my words. I have been president, I have seen and known much of life—and I hold it by far the greatest honor and the greatest opportunity that has ever come to me to be called by you to the leadership for the time being of this great movement in the interests of the American people. And friends, I wish now to say how deeply sensitive I am to the way in which the nomination has come to me and to tell those who proposed and seconded my nomination that I appreciate to the full the significance of having such men and such a woman put me in nomination, and I wish to thank the convention for having given me the running mate whom it has given.

I have a peculiar feeling toward Governor Johnson. Nearly two years ago, after the election of 1910, when what I had striven to accomplish in New York had come to nothing; and when my friends, the enemy, exulted—possibly prematurely—over what had beaten me, Governor Johnson, in the flush of his own triumph having just won out, wrote me a letter which I shall hand on to my children and children's children because of what the letter contains, and because of the man who wrote it, a letter of trust and belief, a letter of ardent championship from the soldier who was at that moment victorious, toward his comrade who at that moment had been struck down.

High Praise For Governor Johnson.

In Governor Johnson we have a man whose every word is made good by the deeds that he has done—a man who at the head of a great state has practically applied in that state for the benefit of the people of that state the principles which we intend to apply throughout the Union as a whole. We have nominated the only type of man who ever ought to be nominated. As for the vice presidency, we have nominated a man fit at the moment to be the president of the United States.

Friends, I have come here not to make any extended speech to you, merely to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the honor you have conferred upon me and to say that I appreciate it exactly as I knew that you meant it, for the greatest chance, the greatest gift, that can be given to any man is the opportunity if he has the stuff in him to do something that counts in the interests of the common good.

I appreciate to the full the burden of responsibility, the burden of obligation, that you have put upon me; I appreciate to the full that the trust you impose upon me can be met by me only in one way, and that is by so carrying myself that you shall have no cause to regret or to feel ashamed for the action that you have taken this afternoon.

And, friends, with all my heart and soul, with every particle of high purpose that is in me, I pledge you my word to do everything I can, to put every particle of courage, of common sense and of strength that I have at your disposal and to endeavor so far as strength is given me to live up to the obligations you have put upon me and to endeavor to carry out in the interests of our whole people the policies to which you have today solemnly dedicated yourselves to the millions of men and women for whom you speak.

I thank you.

Platform of Progressives.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The platform adopted by the National Progressive party in part is as follows:

The Progressive party, believing that no people can justly claim to be a true democracy which denies people rights on account of sex, pledges itself to the task of securing equal suffrage to men and women alike. We pledge our party to a constitutional act that will compel strict limitation of all campaign contributions, expenditures and detailed publicity of both before as well as after primaries and elections.

We pledge ourselves to work unceasingly in state and nation for effective legislation looking to the prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases, overwork, involuntary unemployment and other injurious effects incident to modern industry; the fixing of minimum safety and health standards for the various occupations and the exercise of the public authority of state and nation, including the federal control over interstate commerce and the taxing power to maintain such standards; the prohibition of child labor; minimum wage standards for working women, to provide a "living wage" in all industrial occupations, the general prohibition of night work for women and the establishment of an eight hour day for women and young prisoners; one day's rest in seven for all wage workers; the eight hour day in continuous twenty-four industries; publicity as to wages, hours and conditions of labor, full reports upon industrial accidents and diseases and the opening to public inspections all tallies, weights, measures and check systems on labor products; standards of compensation for death by industrial accident and injury and trade disease which will transfer the burden of lost earnings from the families of working people to the industry and thus to the community; the protection of home life against the hazards of sickness, irregular employment and old age through the adoption of a system of social insurance adapted to American use. We favor the organization of the workers, women and men, as a means of protecting their interests and of promoting their progress.

For Legal Procedure Reform.

The Progressive party in order to secure to the people a better discrimination of justice, and that means to bring about a more general respect for the law and the courts, pledges itself to work unceasingly for the reform of legal procedure and judicial methods. We believe that the issuance of injunctions in cases arising out of labor disputes should be prohibited when such injunctions would not apply when no labor disputes existed.

We also believe that a person cited for contempt in labor disputes except when such contempt was committed in the actual presence of the court or so near thereto as to interfere with the proper administration of justice should have a right to a trial by jury.

We are opposed to the so called Aldrich currency bill because its provisions would place our currency and credit system in private hands.

We believe in a protective tariff which shall equalize conditions of competition between the United States and foreign countries, both for the farmer and the manufacturer, and which shall maintain for labor an adequate standard of living—primarily the benefit of any tariff should be disclosed in the pay envelopes of the laborer. We declare that no industry deserves protection which is unfair to labor on which it is operating in violation of federal law. We believe that the presumption is always in favor of the consuming public. We demand tariff revision because the present tariff is unjust to the people of the United States. Fair dealing toward the people requires an immediate downward revision of those schedules wherein duties are shown to be unjust or excessive. We pledge ourselves to the establishment of a nonpartisan scientific tariff commission reporting both to the president and to either branch of congress.

ENGLAND ACTS IN SPY CASE.

Seeks Particulars Regarding Arrest of British Yachtsman in Germany.

London, Aug. 8.—Though England can do nothing short of declaring war to help the five British yachtsmen arrested at Eckednfeorde charged with spying on Germany's coast defenses, Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey telegraphed to the Berlin embassy for full information concerning the case.

The English view is that the men were obviously perfectly harmless tourists and some newspapers urge retaliation upon German tourists in England.

AMERICAN SUICIDE IN FRANCE.

Paris Police Seek Relatives of Albert Twyford Through Embassy.

Paris, Aug. 8.—Through the United States embassy the police are trying today to get in communication with relatives of Albert Twyford, believed to be an American, who shot himself on the bank of the river Aiffer and died in a hospital at Vichy.

Twyford told his name on his deathbed, but it is not known where he lived or why he committed suicide.

MEN WHO ARE ON THE TRAIL OF NEW YORK'S POLICE "SYSTEM"

Charles S. Whitman, a Fearless and Determined Prosecuting Officer.

William J. Burns Is Considered the Ablest Detective In the World.

By FREDERICK R. TOOMBS.

THE man who assumes the duties of district attorney of New York county must be a fighting man. Opposing him are all the allied interests of the predatory underworld and the predatory upper world.

And he must be a fighter with his brains as well as with the army of muscle created to execute his orders.

Such a man is Charles S. Whitman, the present New York district attorney, who is the central figure in the expose of the amazing conditions in the municipal government revealed by the killing of the gambler Rosenthal, the arrest of gangsters and gamblers and the indictment of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for first degree murder.

Whitman courageously drew out the sordid story of the crime from unwilling witnesses, who were trembling under the fear of the underworld's revenge when they got free, and revealed the trail of the "system" leading from the grafters lower down to "the men higher up." And now there is a chance to break the so called alliance of the crooks, the police and those of the politicians who prey on the Empire City of the Empire State.

Whitman has always shown distinct ability in public office in addition to moral courage. He is a man of unswerving convictions, believing that a public office is a public trust.

As assistant corporation counsel he showed himself a man of force and action. As city magistrate and as judge of the court of general sessions he won a reputation for fairness and for insistence on the strict enforcement of the law.

One of his accomplishments as judge was to break up the so called "bail bond system," which had fastened an evil grip on the lower courts. This "system" was the making of unwarranted arrests of women of the street and women alleged to be such by patrolmen and detectives so that professional bondsmen could go bail for them and derive a bonus or commission. Vast sums were divided among police officers, court attendants and bondsmen by this means until Whitman put a stop to the unconscionable practice.

As District Attorney Whitman has set a very high standard of efficiency. His percentage of convictions well substantiates this statement. He has taken the office out of politics, and the professional "Mr. Fixits" about the criminal courts building in the past have been driven to pastures new.

His conviction of the members of the poultry trust, which controlled and juggled prices in the east, with headquarters in New York city, was a typical example of the Whitman style of serving the public. These men, powerful, wealthy, crafty and defended by eminent counsel, had taken advantage of certain loopholes in the state statutes during their operations, and it seemed impossible to convict them. They chuckled in their sleeves.

Whitman did not chuckle. He went to Albany instead and forced amendments throught the legislature, against strongest opposition, which enabled him to secure fines and prison sentences against the members of the combine.

Cynical New York smiled derisively when Whitman prosecuted Banker Joseph G. Robin, Millionaire William J. Cummins and President Reichmann of the Carnegie Trust company for improper financial methods. Surely were not these men born to the purple with the inalienable right to do as they pleased with other people's money?

Robin pleaded guilty, and Cummins and Reichmann were convicted of felonies.

And so the crooks, high and low, are shivering at the possible outcome of the Rosenthal-Becker disclosures.

They know what Whitman is. They know that they cannot "fix things up" as they used to do, and they hurl bitter, belated lamentations at the reform fusion ticket movement of 1909, which swept him into office.

WILLIAM J. BURNS, who is assisting District Attorney Whitman in the latter's efforts to fathom the mysterious "system" in the New York police department, is perhaps the ablest detective in the United States, if not in the world.

Wherever there has been an honest attempt during recent years to bring influential grafters to justice William J. Burns has been called in to do the work as he was called in on this occasion. Wherever there has been graft Burns has unraveled the most intricate systems of depredation, has brought the guilty before the bar of justice, and there has submitted such incontrovertible evidence of guilt that big grafters have been convicted and sentenced to prison.

His work in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case, his capture of the McNamaras, their confessions and sentences to prison last year are fresh in public memory.

Burns has been in detective work the greater part of his life. For twenty-two years, up to 1903, he was in the government secret service and handled nearly all the big cases for the government. In 1903 he was detailed by Secretary Hitchcock of the department of the interior to investigate land frauds which had just been unearthed. The work he did resulted in the conviction of a United States senator, a congressman, a large number of federal, state and city officials and a few millionaire citizens of California.

The people of California remembered Burns, and when they had more house-cleaning to do he was called in, with the result that Abe Ruef, the political boss of San Francisco, Mayor Eugene Schmitz and other big officials were convicted and sentenced to prison. In this latter case Burns was offered at first $100,000 in cash to let the guilty escape. Those who offered the bribe could not understand why any man would refuse, and when they met with a determined refusal at the hands of Burns they decided to make the offer in another way—a way by which there was no possibility of the recipient of the bribe being caught. They were again refused and went away wondering what manner of man was Burns.

Bribes in various forms have been offered Burns frequently. When he was in the government service in 1891 George Manning, a noted counterfeiter, who had been brought to justice, offered him $2,000 if he would allow the principal witness to escape. In Lancaster, Pa., Burns was offered $40,000 in 1907 if he would stultify himself. These offers had but one effect—increased determination to bring about conviction of the guilty.

Burns was born Oct. 19, 1861, in Baltimore. His parents, Michael and

WILLIAM J. BURNS.

Bridget Burns, were born in Limerick, Ireland, and came to this country in youth. Their son William was educated in the public schools of Columbus, O., and graduated from a Columbus college. He was first employed as a clerk in a store, and his next business step was in detective work. In 1885 he took part in unearthing tally sheet forgeries in Columbus and Cincinnati, his first notable case.

In 1890 Burns ran down the Philadelphia-Lancaster counterfeiters. These men—Taylor, Bredell, Jacobs and Kendig—bought a paper mill which made treasury note paper exactly like that used by the government. They put out thousands of $100 bills that were accepted by United States subtreasuries. They robbed the government of $260,000 in counterfeiting cigar stamps, which they used in their cigar factories in Lancaster. It took Burns a year to get evidence in this case, but he sent each of the counterfeiters to prison for twelve years.

He recently effected the arrest of a number of Detroit city officials on a charge of grafting.

JAGGED CAPE RACE

One of the North Atlantic Traps That Mariners Dread.

ROCKY, FOGGY AND DEADLY.

This Gray, Grim Menace to Vessels That Come Within Reach of Its Icebergs, Gales and Wild Currents Is One of the Graveyards of the Ocean.

In Harper's Magazine George Harding describes Cape Race, that menacing point of Newfoundland that is a terror to the mariners of the north Atlantic coast.

Every great trade route of the world has in season some peculiar danger to navigation which brings disaster to vessels plying its lanes. In the north Atlantic, for ships bound east and west over the busy northern route, the particular menace is Cape Race. In this neighborhood there is an extraordinary conjunction of perils. Fog, icebergs, submerged rocks, northeasterly gales, a sheer shore and singularly treacherous current create a large possibility of catastrophe.

Cape Race is a bluff, jagged bit of coast scarcely provided with strand and a multitude of submerged rocks are scattered from the breaking water at the foot of the cliffs as far to sea as the Virgin rocks, which outlie ninety miles. The polar current, "which runs like a river" past the gray cape, is so variable in the direction of its flow that it may race southwest at one time and flow northeast at another. In the spring and early summer—and often as late as the fall of the year—icebergs come down with the current and lie sluggishly off the coast, hidden from the sharpest eyes of the ships' lookouts in the dense accumulations of fog.

It is the fog, almost continuously raised by contact of the polar current with the warm waters of the gulf stream, which for centuries has made a menace of this cape of evil name. There is little relief from it. It is so continuously present, indeed, that the cape foghorn is frequently blown for hundreds of hours at a stretch. * * *

The route of the transatlantic lines from American ports runs past a hundred miles to sea, and it is the vessels that go astray in the fogs off the beaten track which come to grief and give the coast its grewsome name. In a single month an Atlantic liner, crowded with passengers, and four tramp steamers were totally wrecked within twenty miles of one another. And once ashore a craft has small chance. The stupendous cliffs, with deep water to their jagged edges and exposed to the swells of the open ocean, have allowed but one vessel of the seventy that have been wrecked there in the past twenty years to be refloated.

The craft on the rocks is furiously pounded to pieces by the first heavy sea. * * * The Regulus, a tramp steamer of near 2,000 tons, utterly vanished with the whole ship's company between dark and dawn, leaving her propelled fixed in the cliffs twenty feet above sea level, where it remains to this day.

Steamers have gone so close to the cliffs in the fog that the fishermen on the heads, unable to even discern an outline of the blind craft, have clearly heard that panic on the bridge when the captain reversed the engine room signals and in the same breath ordered the lifeboats manned. After that they have listened to the churning of the screw, to the orders from the bridge and to the gradual departure of the vessel from her dangerous position.

Once, at a point beyond range of the fog whistle, a fisherman heard from the fog not only the orders to reverse the engines and man the lifeboats, but a loud command to one of the officers to guard the liquor. Vessels often slip past in the mist, themselves unseen, their presence, peril and escape from disaster told only by voices coming muffled from the obscurity at sea. Sometimes skippers send boats ashore to inquire the way, but often they go by in care free ignorance without the faintest notion that they have escaped catastrophe by the miracle of a hair's breadth.

"I heard a feller go by today," said a fisherman of Chance cove. "I allowed he'd fetch up on Fish reef by the sound of his course and waited to see, but he skipped her, and a close skim too!"

It is a coast to beware of. The better it is known the more it is feared. The skipper of a New York-St. John's liner, for a moment at a loss for a reckoning in the fog, took no chances, but instantly turned tail and headed for the open sea, where he lay for six days waiting for the fog to lift.

It is no wonder the deep sea skipper shakes in his sea boots when the fog captures him in a treacherous current off that coast. Some of the rusted hulls of his forerunners in predicament serve as landmarks for off shore fishermen, and on the wind swept barren of the heads, in graves marked by crosses raised by kindly hands and snugly stowed away for good and all in the little graveyards of the settlements, lie the bones of hundreds of men who have been cast up by the sea.

No End to Grabbing.

ciated from the government's statistics. There are 25,000,000 children of school age in the United States, and some 14,000,000 of them are in school on the average day. At the same time more than half of the half million teachers are under twenty-four years of age. Half of the teachers have not taught more than four terms, and half have only a high school education or even less.

The National Education association has seventeen departments, which deal with as many different classes of educational problems.

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You wouldn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. If you can't find the necessary time to devote to advertising your business properly phone us. We have an expert who will put up your "Copy" that will bring sure results.

POLICE TRAP LAID BY ROCKEFELLER, JR.

Private Detective Paid For Pretended Disorderly House.

New York, Aug. 8.—Through the efforts of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., evidence has been obtained against crooked policemen. Starr J. Murphy, the personal representative of the Rockefellers in social service work and philanthropy, will lay before District Attorney Whitman a mass of information collected by private detectives who were working under John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Assistant District Attorney James B. Reynolds.

The evidence is the product of a year's work by Detective Charles G. Roe, who was brought here from Chicago by Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Reynolds. Detective Roe operated in the Tenderloin a pretended disorderly house and obtained evidence against a police inspector. This inspector is said to have received $600 a month for protecting the pretended disorderly house. The rate of $600 a month appears from the evidence gathered by Roe to have been the usual assessment against such resorts.

HOMER CRANDELL 2D KILLED.

Chatham, N. H., Aug. 8.—Homer Crandell 2d, the seven-year-old son of Frederick Crandell of New York, the nephew whose marriage incurred the enmity of Edwin Hawley, but who received a large share of the railroad owner's estate, died as the result of being hit accidentally on the head by a stone thrown by his ten-year-old brother, Richard. Blood poisoning developed from the wound, and the lad's death was very sudden.

On the day of the boy's death the funeral of his grandfather, Homer Crandell of Chatham, was held.

FINDING A PAWN TICKET.

Sometimes It May Be Just Walking Into a Trap.

"While walking through one of the prominent streets the other day," said an innocent looking individual, "I espied an important looking piece of paper on the sidewalk and, picking it up, found it to be a pawn ticket for a diamond scarfpin which some careless person had apparently dropped.

"According to the ticket, the pin had been pledged several weeks before for $15. 'How am I to find the owner?' thought I. 'Shall I take it to the pawnbroker? Perhaps if I do the owner will never see it anyway. The pin must surely be a good one and doubtless worth three times the amount for which it was pledged. Why not appropriate it to my own use?'

"The name on the ticket was Brown, and my conscience was relieved when I found several hundred of that name in the directory. I soon made up my mind and started for the broker's office. I asked to see the pin before redeeming it, stating that I had bought the ticket, and upon the payment of 25 cents was allowed to examine it.

"It looked all right to me, although I am not a qualified judge of diamonds, so I paid the principal of $15 and the interest of $1.80 and the pin became mine.

"The next day I showed it to an expert, who declared it to be worth far less than the amount I had paid for it.

"'It is a trick of some people,' he said, 'to defraud unwary persons like yourself. The scheme consists of issuing tickets for spurious pieces of jewelry for amounts many times in excess of their value and dropping them on the sidewalk in different parts of town where unsuspecting persons might find them and redeem them, as you did, thus yielding a handsome profit to the perpetrators.'"—Philadelphia Record.

AN HOUR'S WALK.

You Would Hardly Think It Meant Traveling 85,253 Miles.

Have you ever thought of the distance you travel when you are out on an hour's stroll? Possibly you walk three miles within the hour, but that does not by any means represent the distance you travel. The earth turns on its axis every twenty-four hours. For the sake of round figures, we will call the earth's circumference 24,000 miles, and so you must have traveled during the hour's stroll 1,000 miles in the axial turn of the earth.

But this is not all. The earth makes a journey around the sun every year, and a long but rapid trip it is. The distance of our planet from the sun we will put at 92,000,000 miles. This is the radius of the earth's orbit—half the diameter of the circle, as we call it. The whole diameter is therefore 184,000,000 miles, and the circumference, being the diameter multiplied by 3.1416, is about 578,000,000.

This amazing distance the earth travels in its yearly journey, and dividing it by 365 we find the daily speed about 1,586,000. Then we get the distance you rode around the sun during your hour's walk, divide again by twenty-four, and the result is about 66,000 miles. But this is not the end of your hour's trip. The sun, with its entire brood of planets, is moving in space at the rate of 160,000,000 miles in a year. That is at the rate of a little more than 438,000 miles a day, or 18,250 miles an hour.

So, adding your three miles of leg travel to the hour's axial movement of the earth, this to the earth's orbital journey and that again to the earth's excursion with the sun, and you find you have traveled in the hour 85,253 miles.

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once a day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtides, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.—New York Sun.

Made the Sea Run.

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher after the first selection at the musicale, "I have had some exciting experiences. Coming over here from London a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the immigrants. You should have seen the heavy sea running!"

And the big, rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

Longing.

He—What a glum and dismal wife you are! I don't belive you could be lively or pleasant to save your life. She—I may be a dull wife, but just give me a chance and see what a merry widow I would make.—London Stray Stories.

JOURNAL OF TOUR THROUGH EUROPE

Miss Leighs Takes Up the Story of the Press Party's Journey.

INCLUDES JULY 10-18

Accident In Amsterdam In Which Miss Smith and Miss Hudson Escape Injury—Tourists Get Lace In Brussels and Cologne In Cologne.

Wednesday, July 10—We left Amsterdam and Holland for Belgium, a country of many interesting features. There was a gentleman from St. Louis stopping at our hotel, who we arrived at the station he presented our own party with roses. He took this means of showing his joy at meeting some folks from the U. S. A. We always have a feeling of joy when we meet a countryman.

We traveled on the Belgium Railroad from Amsterdam to Antwerp, Belgium. As we enter each new country, we are met by the customs officers. Usually they walk through the train, look at the suitcases, mark them with chalk, and that settles the matter. Occasionally the officer may ask to have one or two cases opened at random. It seems to be simply "a matter of course."

We had lunch in Antwerp and then visited the remarkable cathedral built in 1352. It is a seven-aisled church and contains Rubens' masterpiece, the famous "Descent from the Cross," painted in 1612, and also the "Raising of the Cross," painted in 1610. The difference in the style of these two works shows the effect of the Italian influence upon Rubens between 1610 and 1612. The former is a marvelous picture.

We saw also Shut's and Rubens' "Assumption of the Virgin," and De Vinci's "Head of Christ," painted on marble. The wood carvings are marvelous also. As we left this edifice, the chimes of the forty bells in the tower announced the hour. It was beautiful music.

Then we saw the old Town Hall, built in 1564, the Guild Halls, an allegorical statue, the Inquisition Prison, the quays, docks, the marvelous dry docks, and the site of the old fortifications. The entire city has new fortifications 'round it and her port is the destination of ships from many countries.

After a fifty minute ride, we arrived in Brussels, spelled Bruexelles in Belgium, a truly modern city. We were delighted with the broad, well lighted streets and the splendid high buildings. The hotel "Des Colonies," where we stayed was a very fine hotel.

July 11—The carriages in which we ride about the various cities are usually barouches and it takes about eight to carry our party. Unfortunately a trolley car hit one carriage in which Miss Smith and Miss Hudson were riding with three other ladies while we were in Amsterdam and a wheel was smashed and the horse badly cut, but all of the occupants escaped uninjured, though somewhat frightened.

In Brussels we had large 'buses something like tally-hos. We visited the Market Square that has existed since 1699 where flowers are very numerous. This market is supposed to be the finest in Europe. Around this historic square we saw the town hall or hotel de ville with its wonderful tapestries, court rooms and painting and the "Center Stone" from which all distances are measured in Brussels, the old Guild Houses built in the sixteenth century, and the King's house. Then as we drove out we saw the Martyrs Square that was erected to the memory of those who fought for the Belgian Independence from Holland, that was gained in 1830. Each year the few remaining veterans have a parade and decorate the tombs of the dead heroes as our Civil War veterans do on Decoration Day.

We passed by beautiful gardens, the monument of Leopold I., the house where Lord Byron wrote "Child Harold," and the Royal Park on our way to the famous Wiertz Museum. This was a very interesting place to me. Wiertz was a poor Belgium artist and the government, seeing his ability, provided him with means and a home with the understanding that at his death all his works would belong to the government. He lived up to the agreement and his quaint little home contains every picture he ever sketched or painted. No one in the whole world can say he owns a Wiertz picture, because they are all in the possession of the Belgium government. His masterpiece, "The Rosebud," is grand. Most of his works portray his horror of war and capital punishment. He never sold a picture and once said, "A real artist never sells his work."

Our next stop was the Cathedral, started in 1220, which contains the finest stained glass windows in the world. Then we passed the Palace

CO. K MEN DETAILED TO JOIN WAR GAME

Lieutenants Hort and Phillips Among the Officers Assigned Parts In Maneuvres.

Trenton, Aug. 9 (Special)—Several officers and enlisted men in the Second and Third Regiments, N. G. N. J., have been detailed by order of Governor Wilson, as Commander-in-Chief temporarily, to join the First Brigade for participation in the war maneuvers which begin next week in Connecticut, the big feature of which is to be an attack on the city of New York. The First Brigade was ordered to join the other State troops who will have a part with the United States Regulars in mimic warfare, but being shorthanded the vacancies were filled by this detail from the Second Brigade. The officers from the Second Regiment in the detail are:

Captain W. Kempton Browning, of Camden, of the Medical Corps, to the Signal Corps; First Lieut. Andrew C. Koehler, of Company M, Somerville; Second Lieut. Arthur R. Phillips, Company K, Plainfield, and Second Lieut. Dennis A. Dooley, Company B, of Trenton, all to the Fourth Regiment. First Lieut. Nathaniel H. Hort, Company K, Plainfield, is detailed to the First Brigade staff as aide-de-camp.

Captain Carroll M. Francis, of the Medical Corps of the Third Regiment, is detailed to the Fourth Regiment. The following Third Regiment officers are also detailed to the Fourth Regiment: First Lieut. Geo. L. Selby, Company C, of Camden; First Lieut. A. Morton Mather, Company F, of Camden, and First Lieut. Harry W. Schneider, Company L, of Atlantic City.

JACOB SACHAR BUYS HARBURGER PROPERTY

Will Build Several Fine Residences, One of Which His Family Will Occupy.

One of the largest sales of unimproved residential properties announced recently, has been made by the Armstrong Mulford real estate agency, whereby Jacob Sachar, of West Third street, has become the owner of the tract of land at Giraud avenue and West Front street, known as the Harburger estate. It has a frontage of 425 feet, extending from Giraud avenue and West Front street to property owned by Winfield S. Angleman. This is the first change in the ownership of the property since 1864.

Mr. Sachar will improve the property at once for residential purposes. He will build several fine dwellings, one of which, to be located at Giraud avenue and West Front street, will be occupied by Mr. Sachar and his family.

The deal whereby Mr. Sachar becomes the owner of the tract of land, does not include the fine old colonial house and the property upon which it stands at Giraud avenue and West Front street. That is still retained by the Harburger estate.

Other deals made by Mr. Mulford include the sale of a large tract on Cedar Brook Terrace near Watchung avenue for the Martine estate, to G. F. Earle, who will build a handsome home in the near future. H. W. Foreman, of the United States Express Company, has rented Mrs. Smart's house, 538 West Seventh street, and will take possession at once. Dr. Raphael Yood has leased the dwelling at Grant avenue and West Fourth street from September 1 and will remove his office there. G. W. Anderson, of Neshanic, has rented 312 East Front street and will take possession September 1.

DAILY PRESS TOURISTS DUE TO ARRIVE SUNDAY

Miss Mabel H. Vail, one of the Plainfield Daily Press European tourists, writes from Paris under date of July 28, as follows:

"This delightful trip will soon be over. It has been one that I shall never forget. We have seen a lot in Paris. We go to London on Monday and then to Shakespeare's home. All are well and happy."

The Plainfield party is due to arrive in Philadelphia on Sunday if the steamer is on time and the young women will probably reach home sometime that day or evening. Miss Agnes Leighs, one of the party, is not returning at this time, having arranged to visit relatives in England for a while longer. No doubt relatives of the party will go to Philadelphia Sunday to meet the incoming steamer.

SALARY DELAY NOT UP TO MAYOR MOY

Council Took Signing of Warrants Out of His Hands Year Ago.

Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who attended the Progressive convention at Chicago, arrived home this morning, making the trip by the way of Niagara Falls, where he stopped for a short time. Speaking of the convention, Mr. Moy was very enthusiastic and expressed himself as confident of the success of the new party's ticket at the coming election.

When informed that he had been criticized for leaving the city without making any provisions for the payment of salaries to the city employes, the Mayor enjoyed a good laugh.

"Why," said Mr. Moy, "don't you know that the Common Council took that matter out of my hands last year? It is not up to me to sign the warrants for the payment of salaries. That work was delegated to the President of the Council.

"If you will remember there were one or two bills presented which I refused to sign, one of them being for the payment of the dead horse which was one of a team purchased for the fire department. The Council then decided that to prevent my holding up any bills it would transfer the authority of signing bills to the President of the Council, thereby relieving me of the duty of signing the bills. My absence from the city should have made no difference with the employes and they should have received their money as usual."

GIRLS SAY FREIGHT YARD WORKERS ANNOY THEM

The whereabouts of the two Italians, one of whom drew a revolver on L. H. Sornberger, a drill engine worker in the C. R. R. freight yard, on Wednesday afternoon, has not yet been ascertained, though the police have instituted a thorough search of the section where they were last seen. It is their opinion that they have left the city.

Investigating the incidents surrounding the attempted shooting Detective Sergeant Flynn had a conversation with the two Italian girls who were present at the time. They are employed by the Standard Hair Company, of North avenue, and they allege that they are subjected to daily annoyance by men working in the freight yard.

MUCH SUCCESS ATTENDS W. R. C. PEACH FESTIVAL

The peach and ice cream festival which was held on the lawn of Mrs. William C. Smith on Grandview avenue by the Women's Relief Corps, auxiliary to Winfield Scott Post, 73, G. A. R., last night, was attended by more than 100 people and was a decided success. All the eatables and a large number of aprons were sold to the benefit of the general treasury.

The corps was a committee of the whole and acted under the direction of Miss Try Mattox as chairman. Announcement was made that a regular, business meeting of the corps will be held tonight at which Miss Mattox would report as to the financial success of the festival.

FINED FOR SWEARING.

Louis Rosenthal, of 422 West Third street, was fined $10 or forty days in jail for using profane language on August 2 to Eugene and Eddie Bershad, sons of Morris Bershad, of 621 West Fourth street. Counsel J. Henry Crane appeared for the Bershad boys and Judge W. L. Hetfield represented Rosenthal. After examination of witnesses on both sides in which it was elicited that there was some bad feeling between the defendant and the boys' father the court ruled as above.

PLAN TO WIDEN NOTCH ROADWAY

North Plainfield Twp Committee Arranges to Get Estimates On Improvement.

WILL SPREAD OIL ALSO

Appropriate Fifty Dollars Toward Bettering the Road to Washington Rock Memorial—Dugway Road and Interhaven Av. to Be Repaired

The North Plainfield Township Committee met in the Improvement Society's hall in Watchung, yesterday afternoon, with a full attendance of members. A resolution was passed to substantially repair Dugway Hill and Interhaven avenue and to get an estimate on the cost of oiling the much-travelled road which extends from the end of the Somerset street trolley line through the Notch. It was also voted to get an estimate on the cost of surveying and widening the same thoroughfare.

If the projected movement of the Notch road is made it will meet a general demand among users of the thoroughfare, who include people from a wide range of territory. The road is the stem on which a network of roads from the "back country" converge. It is said to bare more traffic than any single street in Plainfield, with the possible exception of North avenue and West Front street.

It is the roadway into Plainfield for the residents along the roads to Stirling, Basking Ridge, Morristown, Mt. Bethel, Mt. Horeb and all the rest of the towns in the Plainfield hinterland. Because it leads to favorite spots and to the country of the finest scenery in New Jersey, it is a favorite roadway for automobilists of this city. Under the present conditions pedestrians and drivers of vehicles that move slower, than the swift-going cars are apt, more often than not, to travel through the Notch in a welter of dust.

Widened, repaired and oiled, the road would be one of the prettiest in this section.

The committee adopted a resolution to appropriate fifty dollars to be expended for the improvement of the road leading to Washington Rock. A special police officer was appointed to serve on Mountain avenue and at Hand's brick yard. The general budget of the township when made up showed a total of $6,500.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MC GEE HELD IN NEW YORK TODAY

The funeral service of Mrs. Florence Wildey McGee, wife of W. Vaughan McGee, was held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Brick Presbyterian church, New York. Rev. Dr. Janes, the assistant pastor, officiated. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends, including a number from this city, where Mrs. McGee lived before her marriage. There were also many beautiful floral tributes. The burial took place in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. McGee died in New York Monday night, a few hours after she and her husband and six-months-old daughter arrived from China, where they had been living.

ENTERTAINED AT "500."

Mrs. Elizabeth Woodard, of 29 Willow avenue, gave a "500" party at her home, yesterday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. William Buell, of New York, who is visiting her. There were three tables. Mrs. Margaret Wilson won first prize and Mrs. Buell the second. Refreshments were served after the play.

GREEN'S HEROIC TEST OF A NEW FRIENDSHIP

Tells Court He Lay Quiet While Sanderson Took $7 From His Pocket.

To test the friendship of Albert Sanderson, colored, of West Third street, Caesar Green, who occupied the rooms in the same house, told City Judge William G. DeMeza today that he quietly submitted with partially closed eyes to have $7 extracted from his trousers. The test and its failure took place on Sunday morning, so Greene alleges, after several drinks of whiskey had been drunk by the twain. After waiting in vain for four days for the return of his money Greene swore out a warrant for the arrest of Sanderson.

The latter was represented in court this morning by Judge Walter L. Hetfield. The story unfolded by Greene was an odd one. He told of how he had known the defendant for about a week; that on Sunday morning he borrowed a razor from him, his own being blunt. Sanderson brought the razor to his room and asked him if he had anything to drink. He replied that he had not. Then the other, he alleges, said that he would get some, and later returned with a half pint of whisky, of which they drank several glasses. Sanderson next told him, he said, that if he became a member of a "club" he could get it when he liked. Later Sanderson, according to Greene, came to his room and cautiously turned the handle and peeped in. The complainant said he pretended to be asleep just to "find out what his friend would do." His "friend," according to him, tip-toed into the room and an approaching, slipped his hand into his trousers pocket and took the money. He remained quiet until the other was leaving the room when he yelled at him and pursued him. But he had disappeared. He later charged Sanderson with the theft he vigorously denied it.

The defence was a complete denial that Sanderson had ever taken the money. Judge Hetfield called Policeman MacDonald, who testified that several nights ago he had heard Greene having an argument with the ticket agent at the North Avenue station and accused him of retaining a dollar belonging to him.

The court held that complainant had not sustained his case and dismissed the charge.

FARMER'S WAGON IS WRECKED BY TROLLEY

Driver Thrown Out and Passengers Jarred—Produce Scattered About Street.

A west bound Fourth Street trolley car collided yesterday afternoon at the corner of Spooner avenue with a horse and wagon driven and owned by Richard Faulkner, of Mount Horeb. The horse was badly cut about the shoulder and legs, but Faulkner escaped with slight injuries.

The wagon was smashed and its contents comprising eggs, apples, peaches and sweet corn strewn around.

Several women on the car were considerably shaken up by the force of the impact and the sudden application of the brakes. The car was in charge of Motorman Robert Wallace and the conductor was Michael McCarthy. Different versions are told by eye-witnesses as to how the accident happened, but the story as far as can be ascertained is, that Faulkner was coming up Spooner avenue preparatory to crossing Fourth street when the trolley car coming at a fast rate struck his rig. He endeavored to swing the horse out of its way and partly succeeded in doing so, with the result that the car struck the horse and wagon a glanting blow throwing them clear off the track.

Faulkner was hurled out of the wagon, to the road, but did not appear to be much hurt. The trolley car was stopped within a length of itself and, several of the passengers leaped off and rendered aid to Faulkner and prevented the horse from bolting.

The names of those who had witnessed the accident were taken by both the conductor and Faulkner, and Faulkner stated his intention of instituting suit against the company.

SAYS MRS. VON OHL SHOT AT HIM TWICE

Patrolman Craig Gets a Hair-Raising Reception On An Official Mission.

Patrolman Craig run up against an adventure last night quite unexpectedly. He had received orders to proceed to Lane avenue and tell Mrs. J. Caroline Von Ohl that she must keep her horses from roaming at large as there had been several complaints made, and it was nearing dusk when Craig entered the lane leading to her home. Everything was unearthly quiet. Craig felt a depression of spirits and to keep up his courage started to whistle that popular ditty "Everybody's Doing It." Then he cautiously approached the house.

Without a moment's warning two shots rang out and two bullets crashed into the adjoining shrubbery very much wide of their mark, for which Craig was devoutly thankful. Taking his courage in both his hands he shouted out who he was and his mission.

"I don't care," replied a voice which Craig says he recognized as Mrs. Von Ohl's, "who comes here, I am going to shoot him."

The patrolman, then in his polite manner, asked her to accompany him to the police station, but she ungraciously refused to do so and closed her door with a bang.

Today Craig swore out a warrant for Mrs. Von Ohl's arresest and the case will come up for hearing on Monday.

HOPE EXCURSIONISTS WILL HAVE LONG DAY AT SHORE

The Hope chapel excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow will afford those who go ten full hours at the shore. Leaving Grant Avenue at 7:55 o'clock in the morning and Plainfield at 8 o'clock, the excursionists will arrive early at the Park, while the return journey will not be started until 8 o'clock in the evening. This will be the twenty-fifth annual excursion of Hope chapel, and in all those outings there has not been a single accident.

Two sections of twelve coaches each have been engaged, for it is expected that there will be a large crowd, especially owing to the fact that many persons are able to get away on Saturday. The committee in charge comprises Donald McInnes, chairman; Thomas Hendry, Alexander Gordon, Alexander Doig, Robert Sowden, George A. Broadbent, Leslie Sutton, George H. Condict, Dr. D. G. Atwood and Frank Rimmer.

R. R. DETECTIVES STIR DUNELLEN

Officials Say They Made Arrests and Searched Houses Without Warrants.

ONE PRISONER BEATEN

They Are Alleged to Have Drawn Charles Wyckoff into a Fight By Taunting Him As He Sat On His Porch.

Charles Wyckoff, of Dunellen, was badly bruised and cut yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock when New Jersey Central Railroad detectives arrested him at his home on Chestnut street, a short distance from the tracks. It is claimed that the detectives used blackjacks freely on Wyckoff and his nephew, J. H. Hartman. They also arrested an Italian woman, and two Poles who had been stealing coal. They took the prisoners to New Brunswick, where they were arraigned and fined. Wyckoff and Hartman were fined $10 apiece on a disorderly charge.

The detectives said that they went for Mrs. Wyckoff also, yesterday, but she had gone on an excursion to Asbury Park. They returned this morning and took Mrs. Wyckoff to New Brunswick.

The action of the detectives has aroused much indignation among the Dunellen officials, as it is claimed that they mercilessly beat Wyckoff and the others without warrants. They also searched Wyckoff's house and others in the vicinity without showing search warrants. Marshal Tinsman, of Dunellen, says that when he asked the detectives what right they had to arrest Wyckoff and the others when not on railroad property without warants, they told him to mind his own business. They said they were not going to bother with Dunellen, but would take the prisoners to New Brunswick.

Mrs. Kepler, of Westfield, daughter of Mr. Wyckoff, who was visiting at the home of her father, said that the detectives insulted her and beat her father without any cause. She said:

"Father was sitting quietly on the back porch with J. H. Hartman, who came here on Wednesday. A detective who was passing along the street made some remark to father and one word led to another. The detective walked to the porch and drew a black-jack which father knocked from his hand. Hartman stooped to pick up the weapon when another detective stepped from behind a tree and struck him on the head. After a fight in which father was badly cut and bruised, the men searched the house. They crossed the street and searched the houses over there."

Thomas Wyckoff said:

"The detectives have been laying for Mr. Wyckoff and made a threat that they would get him. They want to get me because I defended a woman that they were maltreating."

This is the second occurrence recently in which the railroad detectives have injured people in making an arrest. Among the 10 railroad men were Chief Gray, of Jersey City, and Detective Laveratte, who shot a Bayonne boy, accused of stealing oil cups. The boy was recently taken from Muhlenberg Hospital to the New Brunswick jail.

Mr. Wyckoff is widely known about Dunellen. He conducts a boarding house there and is generally well thought of.

HEARING ADJOURNED.

The case of Annie Worobeck, who stole $30 worth of linens and underwear at the home of W. W. Warnock, on Craig place, was brought before Justice Snape this morning in the North Plainfield court. John P. Owens, of Front street, counsel for the girl, pleaded not guilty and requested that the hearing be adjourned to a later date as he had not had sufficient time to make arrangements for the case. He said that the $200 bail would be provided before tomorrow morning so that the girl could be released. Justice Snape announced that the hearing would be held next Tuesday at two o'clock.

FORGET NOT THE CAMP.

The citizens of the city have responded very generously to the appeal in behalf of the Baby Camp on Johnston Drive, but the Camp will be kept open until after Labor Day, and more money will be needed. If there are others who wish to help the poor children of the poor and their mothers, contributions will be gratefully received by Mrs. A. M. Most, 38 Myrtle avenue.

ENFORCE DOG ORDINANCE.

That the North Plainfield police have not forgotten the dog ordinance was shown this morning when four dog owners were arraigned before Recorder Gano and compelled to license their pets.

It Was Revised.

Mr. Slow was calling on Miss Reid, who was exerting all her arts to land him. In the course of conversation he asked Miss Reid if she had a revised edition of the New Testament in the library.

"No, Mr. Slow," she replied; "I regret to say we haven't."

"What's a revised copy?" asked Bobby, who had been permitted to sit up later than usual.

"You are rather young yet, Bobby, to understand such matters," said his sister kindly. "A revised copy means that certain changes have been made in the Bible which were considered necessary to a better understanding of the text. Now you had better run off to bed—there's a good boy."

The young man could scarcely conceal his admiration.

"Well, if that's what it is," said Bobby, "our family Bible is revised, 'cause pa changed it the other day. He scratched out the date of your birth and made it three years later. He told ma something about you and Mr. Slow and said that it wouldn't do any harm nohow and if Mr. Slow wanted to look at it it might do a deal of good."

Presently the young man went away, and a family consultation was held. It resulted in Bobby passing a sleepless night.

Perpetual Youth.

'Tis yet high day. Thy staff resume
And fight fresh battles for the truth,
For what is age but youth's full bloom,
A riper, more transcendent youth?
A weight of gold
Is never old.
Streams broader grow as downward rolled.

At sixty-two life has begun;
At seventy-three begins once more;
Fly swifter as thou nearest the sun
And brighter shine at eighty-four.
At ninety-five,
Shouldst thou arrive,
Still wait on God and work and thrive.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

He Was One of Them.

A dru[illegible] from home on Sunday, dropped into a church to hear the sermon. In winding up his discourse the dominie announced that there would be a meeting of the board immediately following the service.

The service closed, and the worshipers filed slowly out, but not the drummer. The members of the board had gathered around the pastor, and there was the drummer as big as life. The pastor shook hands with him, told him how glad he was to welcome him at the church and invited him to come again, but the drummer stood fast.

In desperation the pastor addressed the drummer and said, "My friend, you heard me announce that there would be a meeting of the board at the close of the service, did you not?"

"Sure thing!" the drummer replied. "And here am I. I'll bet a dollar none of these men was any worse bored than I was."

Chopped Both Ends.

During Gladstone's last contest for the university, in the days of public voting, Professor Smith was one of the tellers. A certain don who never could manage his h's wanted to vote for the Tory candidates, Sir William Heathcote and Mr. Gathorne Hardy, but lost his head and said, "I vote for Glad"— then, suddenly correcting himself, exclaimed, "I mean for 'Eathcote and 'Ardy." Thereupon Smith said, "I claim that vote for Gladstone." "But," said the vice chancellor, "the voter did not finish your candidate's name." "That is true," said Smith, "but then he did not even begin the other two."

A Greater Scoundrel.

A famous master of Trinity college, Cambridge, had been a friend in earlier days of one Jemmy Gordon, a London solicitor. But Jemmy went to the bad, was struck off the rolls and lived from what he could get from old acquaintances. One day he met the master and asked for a shilling.

"Gordon," thundered the master, "if you could show me a greater scoundrel than yourself I would give you half a crown." And he stalked stiffly away to his rooms. In half an hour's time the butler announced that Mr. Pompous, the esquire beadle, wished to see the master. Now, the master had a special detestation of the beadle, who when admitted curtly asked what he wanted, replied:

"Mr. Gordon informed me that you desired to see me."

Said the master, "Gordon has made an ass of you!"

In ten minutes more the butler came again, grinning, and said:

"Mr. Jemmy Gordon has called and says you owe him half a crown, sir."

A Compliment For the Bride.

In describing his own wedding Mr. W. A. Butler in "A Retrospect of Forty Years" records the remark of a guest of which he well says, "For genuine Quaker wit, this will be found hard to match."

I must relate a striking salutation that the bridal couple received from a Quaker client of mine, a shrewd dry goods merchant. Presented by an usher, he surveyed the bride, whom he had never seen before, and then, with the utmost deliberation, proceeded to say:

"William, I think thy bride has shown more judgment in her choice than thee has."

Fortunately, before I could turn to resent this strange salutation, he continued as follows:

"Because it takes some penetration to discover thy good qualities, but hers can be seen at a glance."

The Work of Our Tubs.

On Monday we wash and hang on the line
Dolly's white dresses, so dainty and fine.
Oh, how we love to rub up and down
In the foamy white suds each pretty gown!
When the bubbles pile high and shine in the sun
A handful we throw at each other for fun.
We hang out these tiny things all in nice rows,
For Dolly is proud of her pretty white clothes.
The wind whistles through them, trying to play,
And shakes them and twists them, near tears them away.
As they wave back and forth and jerk all about,
Just having a jolly time 'cause they are out,
Don't you think we look like the real washer maid,
With sleeves rolled up high and in aprons arrayed,
As we stand in the doorway with hands on our hips,
While words of great pride come forth from our lips?
For we are so proud of our tubs and the duds
Filled to the brims with foamy white suds.

Buttonholes of Wool.

A good deal of time and labor can be saved by doing all the buttonholes on men's flannel shirts and on children's woolen frocks that have to be washed with wool thread the color of the material.

Buttonholes worked in cotton often stretch and fray out in the washing, but woolen ones keep their shape and even if they shrink can easily be stretched enough to fit the button.

BURGLARS IN MURRAY HILL.

New Providence, Aug. 9.—The residence of Ralph B. Peck, in Murray Hill, was entered by burglars early yesterday morning. Mr. Peck believes he scared the intruders off when he got up to take some cough medicine. A small quantity of silverware and some cigars were all that were missing. The intruders forced an entrance through a window opening to the butler's pantry on the first floor. There was every indication that the visitors had gone to every room on the lower floor of the house and were preparing to pack up the booty when frightened off.

PASTOR AS BAND LEADER.

Long Branch, Aug. 9.—The Franklin Park Cornet Band is camping in Palmer's Woods, in this city, and will remain for the next ten days. Rev. E. H. Keator, of the Franklin Park Reformed church, is conductor of the band. Mr. Keator is also pastor of the Franklin Park church, and with his wife and two children, Nina and Clauda, and Mrs. Keator's cousin, Miss Alice Wells, is spending the month of August at the Gootheil cottage in Broadway. The band was organized two years ago by the pastor. The musicians are members of his church, and last year they camped in the Catskills.

CIVIL SERVICE UP AGAIN.

Paterson, Aug. 9.—This county is to have an election on the civil service act once more, next fall, when a referendum submitting to the people whether or not all county employes shall be placed under the civil service law will be acted upon. The election has been made mandatory because of the fact that a petition with more than 500 signers was submitted to the freeholders at their last meeting.

TO BUILD THEATRE ON FARM.

Holmdel, Aug. 9.—In addition to the features already possessed by the 200-acre farm which was once owned by the turfmen Gideon and Daly, then passed to the ownership of the late Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, and now belongs to Paul Armstrong, the playwright, there is to be built by the dramatist a theatre all his own.

THE NEW PARTY.

Never before in the history of this country has there been held such a convention as that which closed at Chicago on Wednesday night. Never before have such a determined, intelligent and aggressive group of fighters gathered with the one thought of making politics better, and in the interest of the whole people.

There are those who will ridicule the Progressive party—until after election. There were scores of newspaper men who were sent to Chicago to ridicule the convention, but they found after their arrival that there was nothing at which to poke fun. It is a fact that a number of newspaper men who had been sent to Chicago to send back humorous stories of the gathering, wired to their papers that there was nothing humorous to write, and that the convention was as large and sincere as any they had ever attended. The accounts of the gathering in the New York Sun and Times, two newspapers bitterly opposed to Colonel Roosevelt, were absolutely accurate and showed conclusively that the Progressive party is not an organization for the other two parties to make light of. Other New York papers, not so honest in presenting the news to their readers, published false and misleading accounts which were a disgrace to the profession.

A determined group of men have gone forth from Chicago to battle in their various States to restore the government to the people and take it from the bosses who now to a large extent control matters. These men no longer belong to either of the old parties. They may have been Republicans or Democrats until they went to Chicago, but now they are part of a movement with a title much more appropriate to the times. The opposition press tells us that Roosevelt is the whole thing, but the party is bigger than even that great man. Had Colonel Roosevelt been suddenly taken away on Wednesday morning the movement would have gone on without any hesitation, and some great champion of the people's rights, such as California's fighting Governor, would have been chosen as the party's standard bearer. Colonel Roosevelt has been given to the nation perhaps to make the new party possible, but the spirit of the thousands of workers in the ranks will perpetuate it for all time.

There is no predicting what the new party will do this fall. Those who attended the convention were sanguine enough to predict victory. It is quite evident that the Republican candidates will not be elected. Even the press of the party expresses that fear.

When the present Republican party was formed in 1856 it was not victorious. Four years later it elected Lincoln. Those in the Progressive movement will not be cast down if they do not win this year. They are battling for principle, and for the rule of the people and with such splendid slogans will win a great victory in the end, if not at once.

MORE THAN LAWS NEEDED.

The arrival of Dr. Runnells, the superintendent, to take active charge of the work at Bonnie Burn Sanitarium as soon as it shall be ready for the reception of patients brings again prominently to the public mind the fight that is being waged locally against tuberculosis.

Many thousand words have been written in the effort to educate the people in the part they must play in checking the spread of the disease, but many thousand—many, many thousand—more must be written and preached before the importance of the preventive measures that the every-day citizen can take in his every-day life will be realized.

It is not enough that cities and states are establishing sanitoria and passing laws to bring more light and air to workers and the dwellers in the slums. It is not enough that cities and states are passing laws regarding expectoration in public places and the screening of food placed on sale from the flies.

These things will help, but without the active and constant co-operation of the public all the sanitoria that may be built and all the laws that the lawmaking bodies can pass will leave many loopholes for the spread of the Terror. The people must get in the habit of letting more light—more sunshine—into their living rooms, of letting more air into their sleeping rooms all the year 'round, and they must learn to be as angrily intolerant of promiscuous spitting as they are of sanitary transgressions which lead to offenses against their nostrils. Once let the average man become as indignant over careless expectoration by his neighbor as he is over malodorous garbage in his neighbor's yard and a big step in the fight against tuberculosis will have been taken.

Another big step will be taken when it becomes as instinctive for men and women to shrink from the presence of the fly as they do from those other creatures known to be poisonous. A fly is as much out of place in a cleanly family's home as a pile of foul dirt in the corner of the dining room. The correlated ideas it should suggest are the same, and so is its menace.

TWO KINDS OF ROBBERY.

A train robber has been nominated for county attorney in Oklahoma. He says a train robber is better than a "public yegg." For "public yegg" read "thieving official" to get his thought. A. L. Jennings is the name of the ex-robber—he became an "ex-" robber when President Roosevelt cut a ten-year sentence short with a pardon. He was a member of the famous Dalton gang.

His nomination shows the curious difference in public opinion regarding certain forms of crime in the East and the West. Jennings, ex-robber and ex-convict, was named at a primary election over a half-dozen opponents.

Like as not the people of Oklahoma City—or, at any rate, a goodly number of them—look on Jennings as a red-blooded citizen with plenty of "hustle" and much nerve; worthy of honor and trust as long as he doesn't give any alarming symptoms of going back to his old trade. They are not only willing to forgive his past, but accord it something like admiration. In their eyes he is what the villagers of effete New England would term "a good deal of a man."

But public opinion in New England would never apply that term to one who had robbed, say, a Boston and Maine train at any stage in his career. He would stand about as much chance of being nominated for office in a town the size of Oklahoma City, as a tenderfoot who wore glasses would have of being named for town marshal in any self-respecting Western "metropolis."

So much for the difference in public opinion. One isn't so sure that privately even a New Englander wouldn't have at least more respect at heart for a bold train robber than for a hypocritical, faithless public official.

It is hardly too much to say that Bonnie Burn Sanitarium is a monument to Freeholder Hervey K. Doane's public service. He gave not only time and thought as chairman of the committee in charge of the construction, but he brought to the work an earnest desire to effect the establishment of the best equipped haven that the victims of the White Plague in Union county might find anywhere. Mr. Doane's efforts to realize an ideal in the establishment of Bonnie Burn were splendidly seconded by fellow-members of the committee, the Board of Freeholders as a whole and by public sentiment, but as the actual head of the committee in direct charge of the work he is entitled to a leading place in the ranking of those to whom credit is due for making the sanitarium an actuality. Mr. Doane goes before the voters at his party's primary as one who has done good service in the interest of the people.

Lovely campaign they are having in South Carolina. Governor Blease picked up a child who brought him a bouquet at one of the meetings, and said: "Look at the love this baby has for me." Whereupon an attentive voter in the rear called out: "She doesn't know you." Tender sentiment fled from the Governor's breast. "Come uptown, you dirty liar," he roared, "and I will give you the worst beating a coward ever got." The police prevented further trouble. Yes indeed, a lovely campaign.

The katydids were heard singing their chilling little lay last night. Six weeks to frost. Among the victims will be several political booms.

DR. GRENFELL REALIZES ONE OF HIS PET AIMS

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, whose work in Labrador is so well known in this city, and with whom W. H. Webster, formerly of this city, is associated, has realized his ambition to provide for the fishermen of Labrador a home and social center in St. Johns, Newfoundland, when the King George V. Institute for Sailors and Fishermen was dedicated. The building cost about $100,000, a large portion of which was raised by the American Grenfell Committee, of which Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke is chairman.

President Taft and King George sent congratulatory messages on the day of dedication. Dr. Grenfell was first sent to his great work on the coast of Labrador by the English Deep Sea Mission, of which W. F. A. Archibald is chairman. Mr. Webster, who is associated with Dr. Grenfell, formerly resided at Truell Court and he was prominent as a worker in Hope chapel. Before going to Labrador he was married to Miss Stewart, who was a nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital.

FOUR KILLED BY EXPLOSION ON N. Y. ACQUEDUCT JOB

New York, Aug. 9.—Four men were killed, seven were hurt, two of them probably fatally, and thirteen others had a narrow escape in an explosion that occurred at 5:50 o'clock this morning in the high pressure tunnel just north of the shaft at 106th street and Central Park West. The cause of the accident was exactly the same as that which happened on Monday, July 29, near the Ninety-third street shaft, when four men received injuries that caused their death. As in the previous accident, a steam drill pounding holes into the rock 260 feet under the street early today came in contact with a charge of dynamite that had failed to go off at a previous explosion and spread havoc among the workers near it.

Those killed this morning were Papa Mandolina, driller, of 109th street and Third avenue; John Kusiyak, of 213 Second street; John Gondallo, of Jerome avenue, the Bronx, and Charles Curtie, of 142 Cherry street. Those injured are Charles Cantaro, of 255 West 105th street, scalp wound and internal injuries; Angelo Aoisoe, of 229 East Seventy-fifth street, scalp would and injuries of the body; Peter Surzella, of 206 Jerome avenue, lower jaw, arm and two ribs broken; Ernest Bucnello, of 105 East 110th street, lower jaw, arm and two ribs broken; Leo Getano, of 109 First avenue, scalp wound, and two unidentified men who received fractured skulls and were removed in a dying condition to the J. Hood Wright Hospital.

The victims of this morning's accident belonged to the night shift and were in charge of Supt. James Cullen.

of Justice and went into the Royal Museum of paintings. Here we saw Rubens' "Crowning of the Virgin," a marvelous picture, and some wonderful pieces of sculpturing besides many other paintings.

Besides Mr. Novara, we usually have a local guide in each city and the gentleman who met us in Brussels, took us to a reliable lace store. Brussels is known as a great lace making city and nearly all of our party spent large sums for pieces of this beautiful handiwork. The streets are dotted with stores where one can buy all sorts of articles made of real Brussels lace. Some of our party hired an automobile to take them about fifteen miles into the country to the Battlefield of Waterloo. They saw the monuments and many relics.

July 12—We left Brussels with a feeling that we would have been pleased to remain there many days longer. We had lunch on the train and arrived in Cologne, Germany, late in the afternoon. As the Cathedral was only a block from the Hotel Minerva, we walked over to it and found it a marvelous structure. It is 532 feet long and 532 feet high. It covers 64,500 square feet and was started in 1248. The old windows were made in 1322. The original church was started by Charlemague, centuries before Christ, and we saw part of its mosaic floor on an old tomb over a thousand years old. We saw also the original plan of the building made in 1220, gorgeous robes adorned with gold leaf trimmings, several shrines including St. Ethelbert's relics, the skulls and bones of the eleven thousand virgins of St. Ursula who was an English princess and took these virgins on a pilgamage to the Holy Land. While on the journey, they were massacred. From the street we could see some of the wonderful pinacles that number of five thousand all together, as we went to the beautiful St. Agnes chapel of the Church of St. Ursula. On the way to the hotel most of us bought some of the famous eau de cologne.

July 13—At 8:45 we left Cologne on the "Borrusia" for a trip up the Rhine. I shall not attempt to describe the scenery and views because I do not think many mortals could begin to portray the glorious sights. That trip is stamped in my mind forever. The river is not very wide and the shore on each side seems so close to the boat. The splendid view of Cologne and its stately cathedral, the green fields in the country, the vineyards for the famous Rhine wine, on all the hills, the enormous statue of Kaiser Wilhelm, the father of the present Emperor, at the part of Coblenz, the fine bridges and the old historic and legendary castles on the mountains besides this smooth river. Some of them have interesting stories connected with them, such as the Mouse Tower, Wessel, Rheinfels, Marksburg, Rolandseck and Pfalz Castle with its statue of Blucher, who crossed the river at that point with his army in 1813.

TIMELY FRUIT SALADS.

WITH the fruits now in season many cooling and delightful salads may be made.

Apples, peaches, pears, plums and grapes all make nice salads. With a little practice the housewife can invent new ways of serving them.

Tasty Salads.

Pear Salad.—Peel three or four large ripe pears. Cut them in halves lengthwise and core them. Simmer gently until tender in water containing just a little sugar. Use the sugar in proportion of one tablespoonful to two cupfuls of water and flavor with the juice of a lemon. Drain, cool and serve with a dressing made by mixing some pear pulp with minced celery and grapefruit and a little mayonnaise.

Peach Salad.—Take firm, fresh peaches, cut in halves and fill the cavities with a mixture of minced walnut meats, bits of pear and a little celery or minced parsley and chill. When serving garnish with parsley and serve with whipped cream dressing.

For a Hot Day.

Mixed Fruit Salad.—Grate an orange and two lemons. Boil a pound of sugar in a quart of water for about five minutes. Add the grated rind of an orange and two lemons. When cold, strain. Then put in the juice of three lemons and an orange and strain again. When cold, freeze, turning slowly at first, rapidly at the last. Put this in a border mold, pack in salt and ice two hours. Cut three oranges in half, take out the pulp, add half a pound white grapes cut in halves, one banana cut in dice, a grated pineapple and half a bottle of maraschino cherries. Sprinkle with half a cupful of powdered sugar, put in kettle and pack in salt and ice. They must not be frozen, but must be ice cold. At serving time plunge mold in hot water, turn the water ice on a high dish, fill with the iced fruit and serve.

Apple and Celery Salad.—Take some tender young celery, wash in cold water. Cut in thin slices and place in a dish. To each cupful of celery add a cupful of apples cut in thin slices and half a cupful of nut meats. Toss with mayonnaise dressing, into which has been folded a generous portion of cream whipped to a stiff froth.

Milady's Mirror

Laughing a Wrinkle Cure.

Laughing is one of the very best remedies for wrinkles. The old, saying, "Laugh and grow fat," is certainly a good rule to observe, for laughing is usually accompanied by a happy, care free mind, and there is no better wrinkle eradicator than a contented disposition.

It is simply wonderful how smooth and soft a face becomes if its owner is given to frequent outbursts of hearty laughter. Smiling alone won't do. Laugh with your mouth and eyes and don't be afraid that it will spoil the beauty of your features, for it will not. It may in course of time produce dimpled cheeks or chin, but these are a much coveted possession and sure to increase and enhance one's beauty.

If ill health is the cause of wrinkles the best and only thing to do is to consult a doctor. He will soon find out what the trouble is and will treat you accordingly. And why should you wait until the wrinkles have become so deep and pronounced that it will be a difficult matter to remove them?

If the wrinkles were occasioned by worry look the trouble square in the face and see if it is necessary to worry to such an extent if there is not one way out of it. In nine cases out of ten the trouble will seem much reduced on second sight, for no sorrow is so severe that there is not at least one ray of sunshine to be got out of it if one has only the firm intention of finding it.

Treating the Hair After Sea Bathing.

While salt and water very weak is a good tonic for the hair and scalp, sea bathing with the salt left in the hair is about the worst possible thing, and this is the month when women go down to the seashore and stay around in the surf hours at a time.

As a daily shampoo with clear soft water would soon take out all the luster and leave an almost dry scalp, the best way to manage is to keep the head covered, and the best thing for a cap is silk rubber cloth. This can be had now in so many tints as well as patterns, checks, stripes, etc., that there is no excuse for such a cap being unbecoming. But the cap should cover the hair, and a narrow rubber run through a hem will keep it in place.

After the surf riding or the swim the hair should be let hang as long as possible before being dressed, and if there seems any dampness use a little brush—a toothbrush is good—with a few drops of cologne, parting the locks at inch intervals and rubbing the scalp until it glows. But if there is any salt in the hair it will have to be sprayed out. This does not mean a thorough shampoo, but a good spray with perfectly fresh, clean water, first warm, then cold, and a good rubbing after. The idea is to get the hair dry without the real washing entailed by a regular shampoo.

Good Freckle Lotion.

For freckles there is a lotion which is very good indeed. It consists of chopped cucumbers or cucumbers cut in slices with all the juice in them. They are then bound upon the face in such a way that the juice will dry on.

For freckled and chapped hands there is a bath of witch hazel and cucumber juice in equal parts. This can be applied to the skin with a little sponge. After it has been on fifteen minutes it can be washed off with soap and water, for there is something unpleasant about the nicest lotion when it is allowed to dry upon the skin.

The summer skin is a matter of much anxiety, for in the summer all would have a nice complexion, yet it is extremely difficult when the sunshine brings its blemishes, and the very winds are laden with tan and freckles.

The Time For Massage.

Night is the time to massage the face for the removal of wrinkles. The tired lines must be smoothed out and the muscles of the face braced up before sleep is sought, so that all strain and tension are removed from the features during sleep.

First all dust should be taken away from the skin. Many women will say in reply to this: "There is no dust or grime to remove. My face is quite clean." You are making a big mistake there, for it is really quite impossible to prevent the pores of the skin from collecting some dust during the day.

Sunburned Faces.

Orange flower cream (soothing for sunburned faces) is made as follows: Melt two ounces of white wax in a double boiler, add to it four ounces of oil of sweet almonds and when barely hot remove it from the fire and add to it four ounces of orange flower water.

Beat it with a fork till it is light and creamy, then pour it into small jars, which should be tightly covered. Keep it in a cool place.

—The next saddest thing to a funeral is a man that owes you money.—Baltimore Sun.

Wife of England's Premier Is an Enthusiastic Skater

MRS. HERBERT ASQUITH, wife of the prime minister of England, is one of the women who are credited with a large share in the political success of their husbands. Before she became the second wife of the middle aged cabinet minister, who was not then marked for the first place in the British government, she was Margot Tennant, famous as one of the two or three most brilliant women in London society and, the story goes, the original of Dodo in E. F. Benson's once popular novel of the same name. It has been charged against her that she has forced the grave parliamentarian she married too much into the whirl of smart society, but her influence as a political hostess is admitted even by her critics. Mrs. Asquith is an expert skater and takes great pleasure in her favorite winter sport when she visits Switzerland. Our photograph shows her on the rink at Muerren, one of the well known Alpine resorts.

YOUNG GIRL'S COSTUME.

Linen and Lace Dress Suitable For Graduation Exercises.

This charming creation might be used by the girl graduate as a class day gown, the college or class color being used for the petticoat, the lining of the coat, the sash, the hat and other accessories. The coat is of fillet, while the tunic is of embroidered linen trimmed with cluny lace. It falls over a petticoat of satin which is matched by the color of the coat lining, the sash, the facing of the hat and one of the tones in the striped parasol.

Carried out entirely in white or lined with some delicate tint, this gown would be suitable for a morning commencement where hats are worn.

Coats and Jackets.

A novel note is the use of a little taffeta jacket as a wrap for the lingerie dress. These touches of color add smartness to the afternoon toilet.

This season attention is being given to trimming the backs of coats. Some show loops, braid and buttons, others overlappings seams, and a few are made with the back exactly like the front.

The Russian influence is seen in the Cossack blouses, the "bluff" coatees (of bright colored taffeta or satin) to be worn with lingerie dresses and in the separate coats of taffeta or voile.

The Usual Roast.

To roast beef place the joint in the bottom of a baking pan and sprinkle lightly with pepper. Take a cupful of water in which is one teaspoonful of salt and pour it over the beef. Have the oven very hot and then place the pan in it. Baste every few minutes. Turn it several times so that it may not burn. When done serve with the gravy from the pan.

CANDIED FRUIT.

A Delicious Confection That May Be Made at This Season.

Peaches may be very easily candied when fresh ones are to be obtained. Slice them and boil until clear in a syrup made with half their weight in sugar. When done lay on platters which have been placed in the sun and let them dry. They should be turned occasionally to let the air reach all sides. They are put away in glasses or jars, each row being separated by a round of glazed paper and sprinkled with sugar.

The fresh peel of grapefruit, orange or lemons may be candied nicely according to this recipe: Remove all the pulp and the thin membrane from the inside of the peel. Place the peel in cold water and bring to the boiling point. Boil about half an hour or until tender enough to be pierced with a straw. When cool cut with fancy cutters about an inch in size into hearts, stars, etc. Measure equal quantities of sugar and water to cover the peel and bring to the boiling point. Put in the peel, cover the vessel and simmer slowly for about half an hour or until the skin is transparent; then uncover and boil rapidly till the sirup has reached the soft stage, or the stage to which sugar is boiled when making fondant. Remove from the fire immediately, but keep covered and in a warm place. Dip out on a flat plate about two tablespoonfuls of the pieces at a time. Stir lightly till the sugar grains a little; then take up each piece separately with two long pins and place (the yellow side uppermost) on waxed paper to cool. Set away for several hours to harden.

How to Wear Flowers.

The long flower, worn by itself or with one or two others, is always far more artistic than the tight bunch, so one can well understand the determined effort to bring back again this arrangement more like the old fashioned masculine buttonhole than anything else, just for a change.

Most women appreciate this change, for the little stiff bouquet, if not natural looking, is at least tremendously smart. For day wear it is appropriate, especially in these days of ubiquitous coats and skirts or long paletots.

Many women never cared for the tumbling artistic sheaf or single branch worn with outdoor attire, certainly not for walking.

For evening wear the "hard" bouquet is not overattractive unless it is absolutely "in the picture" with a certain "hard" type of gown. One blossom with its own foliage, if possible, growing with its personal bud and leaves all on its own natural stalk, is the ideal flower.

Timbale Cases.

For timbale cases beat the yolks of six eggs to a cream and add salt to taste. Mix five tablespoonfuls of flour with six of milk, removing all lumps. Stir in the juice of a lemon and the beaten yolks of six eggs, then adding the beaten whites. Dip the timbale iron in the batter and fry cases in hot fat. They should be a golden brown.

A Morning Exercise.

Rising twenty times on the toes every morning is an excellent exercise to strengthen ankle and instep. This exercise will also keep the ankles from growing thick and will make them supple and strong, so that they will not be apt to sprain easily if a misstep is made.

CUBS LOSE TO GIANTS IN ELEVENTH INNING

Game Puts Cubs Out of First Place But Protest Is Filed.

MONDAY'S GAME.
Pirates vs. Athletics.

The Giants team which is at present monopolizing the cellar position in the Parker Field Junior Baseball League, took an eleven inning struggle from the Cubs' team that was up to this time leading the league standing. The 10 to 9 loss put the Cubs in second place and left the tie for first place to be fought out between the Pirates and Athletics.

The winning run was scored by Dilts in the eleventh round after he had secured a berth on the bases through an error by Smith and came across on Schillinger's single.

The game will be protested by the losers, who claim that a man once out of the game cannot re-enter it as a player. At the beginning of the contest the Giants had but eight players and were allowed to use Schillinger until Gullberg showed up. Upon the appearance of the Giant player, Schillinger left the game and later on when Gullberg was again compelled to put himself in the disfavor of his teammates by leaving for home, Schillinger went back into the fray and won the game with a pretty single.

WARREN REPUBLICANS HOLD HARMONY MEETING

A meeting of the Republican voters of Warren Township was held in Binz's Hall, Mt. Bethel, last night for the purpose of organizing a Republican club to endorse Republican principles. Those present were supporters of Taft and Roosevelt in numbers equally divided and all were enthusiastic over the proposed club. Edward E. Cooper spoke for a free field for all nominees and suggested that the club take no stand in making a slate.

Assemblyman Anderson, of Somerset county, gave a brief outline of his legislation during the past year and said that there could be no more independent and high minded men than were assembled in both parties of the Legislature this year. He spoke of the common ground upon which all Republicans of this State stood and on Republican principles, expressing the desire of the party for the public welfare.

The meeting unanimously endorsed Mr. Anderson's record in the Legislature and expressed a desire that he might again serve the county. The club will meet on the first and third Thursdays in each month.

Edward E. Cooper called the meeting to order and later these officers were elected for the year: President, George W. Howe; vice-president, Alfred E. Binz; secretary, J. Ballentine Brockway; treasurer, Andrew Haye; executive committee, Edward E. Cooper, Elston Johnson, Frederick Meyer, Frederick Weigand, W. H. Toms. The club decided to endorse no candidate for office.

During the absence of Mrs. Henry Thomas, who will be on her vacation for several weeks, Franklin Schellinger, of East Second street, will take charge of her Bible class which meets at the Plainfield Rescue Mission every Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. John Gow, of Roanoke, Va., who has been visiting her brother-in-law, Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, returned home today.

—After a man has been married a few years he imagines every time his wife picks up a towel that she is going to tie it around her head and do a housecleaning stunt.—Dallas News.

Philosophical Phelix Says:

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Batter's delight used to be a popular name for Eddie Stallings, but now he has proclaimed his love for pitchers and the title piece will have to be changed.

The famous Mabel of Bound Brook baseball history was heard to say to a local baseball writer, "For gracious sake, why don't you cut out that slang? It certanly beats the band the way you lay slush an inch thick in your baseball column and think it's clever just because it's slang."

Never mind, Mabel, you will have that smile of Warry MacLaughlin's to contend with tomorrow and it certainly is depressing to any baseball player, as well as a fan.

Coyle says he is due for another trio of health givers off the rapid fire delivery of Slocum at Bound Brook tomorrow.

Bound Brook fans will leave (Dunellen) by the famous "tin can" route but will return by way of winsome alley.

Thomas A. Edison says that concrete shoes will be all the rage soon.

That will be tough on Mabel and her beau if dad wears them.

Slocum will be there with his whole repertoire tomorrow afternoon.

Bogardus says that the Dunellen fans will have a supply of canned baseballs when his team gets away from Bound Brook. The cans are already in the outfield and all that remains to do is to hit the pills in that direction.

The Dunellen fans claimed last Saturday that Brown, who played center field for the Cranfords, was built so close to the sky that he could look over the pitcher's head and read the backstop's signals.

In the place of the Plainfield Baseball Club on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon, the Spicer team will play a game with the R. G. E. combination.

Over in the Spicer factory on Fourth street, they have been rubbing good and hard all the week trying to get rid of the effects of last week's meeting with the Commercials.

That soreness is all over now and the team is going after the league leaders hot-footed in tomorrow's contest.

Pretty soft lot of mugs in that Spicer photograph, eh?

Yes, they are the same ones who just exactly two weeks ago were chasing Appollinairis cocktails and buttermilk. Quick recovery, that.

All roads lead to Bound Brook. Don't get in the way of Charlie Newhouse.

Plainfield will journey to Westfield tomorrow afternoon. Another one of the five-game series, and this one tomorrow will probably settle the championship.

THE CLEAN-UP HITTERS IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Home Run Baker Leads the Race With Larry Doyle a Close Second.

If all the members of the world's champion Athletic team had hit in the timely fashion that John Franklin Baker has done this season, few of the Mackmen would have been left on the hassocks this campaign and the probabilities are the White Elephants would be way out in front, instead of trailing the Red Sox and the Senators. For J. Franklin is leading not only his league, but also the National, in driving in runs—or at least he was at the close of business July 26, when a trial balance on these statistics was struck.

Baker has passed the three-quarter post in banging in tallies, having 78 to his credit. He is closely pursued for the honor of being the timeliest hitter of the major leagues by Larry Doyle, the Giant's captain, who ran third in the voting for the Chalmers National League trophy last season, and who, if he keeps up his present hurricane pace, will probably run higher this season. Doyle has put the finishing touches to 72 of the Giants' tallies and has been most prominent in the McGrawites' ninth inning rallies.

Tied for third place in the Timely Hitters' League are Tris Speaker of the Red Sox and Sam Crawford of the Tigers, each with 64, and closely following them is Stuffy McInnes, with 62. Nineteen men have batted in fifty or more runs thus far this season and twenty-one have hammered home between forty and fifty counts. Frank Schulte, the National League's most opportune clubber and Chalmers trophy winner in 1911, is in the latter brigade and Ty Cobb, who captured the same honors in the American last year, in the former.

Of the forty men credited with batting in 40 or more runs, five are Giants, four are Red Sox, four are Tigers, three are Pirates, two are Naps, two are Braves, and two are Reds. Additionally one Highlander, one Superba and one White Sock finds representation in the present honor list.

TWO FAST GAMES IN MFRS. LEAGUE

Game Between Spicer and R. G. E. Combinations Will Be Hot One.

The Manufacturers' League schedule for tomorrow afternoon has been narrowed down to a double bill to be played on Crescent Oval. The R. G. E. will take on the Spicer and Bank aggregations and in the event that they manage to annex both contests the title for the league championship will be practically cinched. The Spicer combination is out for a win this trip and the followers of this team predict a fall to be taken out of the league leaders. This, if it materializes, will give the Commercials another lookin for the title, and in a close pinch this nine always has to be figured on. The game with the Banks is looked upon as an almost certain win for the R. G. E., and nothing short of a miracle ought to deprive them of the victory.

The games will be played on the Oval this week because of the fact that Plainfield is playing in Westfield and this double header will without doubt be well attended as it will give local baseball enthusiasts an opportunity to see a popularly conceded championship team play two contests.

THIRD GAME WITH MT. ARARAT NINE

Plainfield Will Go to Recreation Park Tomorrow Afternoon.

FAST GAME EXPECTED

Reported Shakeup in Manager Flynn's Clan Will Make Plainfield Hustle—Ortlieb Back in the Game—Locals Hope to End Series.

Plainfield will play the third of the five game series with Westfield at Recreation Park tomorrow afternoon and in the event that the team from the city comes out victorious it will make the third victory for Plainfield and the series will end with the contest tomorrow. Both of the previous games were well played and although the Queen City bunch came out ahead it would not be a great surprise to many to see George Ortlieb trounce them this trip. The first game was played at Recreation Park and resulted in a 4 to 0 shut out for Frederickson. Ortlieb twirled a fine article of ball on this occasion but was accorded ragged support and this to a large extent determined the outcome. In the second battle which was staged here last Saturday, Ortlieb was injured in the first inning and the visitors played the kind of ball from then on that could be compared favorably to a ship without a rudder.

Both twirlers are in the best of condition for the game tomorrow, Ortlieb having fully recovered from last week's injury and barring another accident will probably give the locals a good rub. A rumor has been circulating to the effect that Manager Eddie Flynn has been on the trail of several Newark Ironside players and in the event of his signing them up, the Westfield lineup will be greatly strengthened. Manager Dorflinger will have his same lineup on the field and as this nine has proved itself a formidable opponent for all the teams it has faced this season, it will probably hold up its reputation in tomorrow's battle. The lineups of the two aggregations as far as they have been given out to date are as follows:

TWO GAMES IN THE BIBLE SCHOOL LEAGUE

Outcome of First Baptist and Monroe Avenue Contest Will Be Important.

Two games of baseball are on the bill of the Sunday-school League tomorrow afternoon, and one of them promises to be one of the hardest fought battles yet pulled off in this organization. The outcome of the First Baptist and Monroe Avenue game will go a long way towards determining the 1912 championship. Both of these nines are evenly matched and this together with the large amount of personal rivalry existing betwen them will, without doubt make a game well worth seeing. South Plainfield will play Park Avenue on the latter's grounds, and although the result will not in any way effect the standing of South Plainfield, a victory for the latter nine will probably put Park Avenue out of the running for first place.

DUNELLEN STOCK IS NOW RISING

Manager Bogardus Will Take His Team to Bound Brook Tomorrow.

WOLFE SIGNED TO PLAY

Bound Brook Hopeful of Retaining Winning Streak—Slocum Confident—Dunellen Hitters Are Pessimistic.

Dunellen will go to Bound Brook tomorrow afternoon and try to slip another one over on the representatives of that place. The Bound Brook team is still smarting under that early season's walloping handed to it by the Dunellen youngsters and will try to get ample revenge in this game. Manager Bogardus says that his charges are due to repeat the trick and according to the records they have been banging up lately they ought to at least give the home sluggers the game of the season. A large delegation of fans will accompany the Dunellenites to the Main street grounds not only to see the game but to inspect a famous diamond that has many unexplored parts.

Slocum does not take much stock in the ability of the village team and has the idea that it has become time for him to get a no run and no hit game. There are a number of healthy hitsmiths on the Dunellen nine and if they have one of their good days with the willow tomorrow things are bound to fly at the hilly town. Capt. Britt Martin, Coyle, Dixon and McLaughlin have been hitting at a terrific gait lately and each one of these four says that he is personally going to attend to whatever Slocum has to offer.

Bound Brook will have her usual lineup on the field and Dunellen will have to travel some in order to break her winning streak. Powers' nine has been winning games right along for the past month the last losing contest is getting to be a matter of ancient history. Plainfield will be well represented at the Main street grounds tomorrow afternoon because of the fact that there is no big game carded for this city tomorrow afternoon and many of them want to get a look at the aggregation which plays here next week. Two local players are wearing Bound Brook uniforms and are shining at their respective positions, Slocum on the mound and Tommy Mullin at short. The Dunellen crowd are also local favorites as most of the players live in this city and a large number of Plainfielders attend all of their home games.

Manager Bob Bogardus has signed up Wolfe, a former Central New Jersey Leaguer, and this addition will raise his stock considerably. Wolfe is an outfielder and was one of the hardest hitters in the league last season.

LETTER WRITER MAY BE INSANE

Jersey City, Aug. 9.—In the belief that he is insane, George Southerton, fifty-five years old, of Brooklyn, probably will undergo a mental examination before the time set yesterday for his hearing on charges of mailing objectionable letters. The man was brought from Asbury Park and arraigned before United States Commissioner James D. Carpenter. The commissioner held him in $2,000 bail to answer next Wednesday. Southerton is accused of threatening Mayor Frank Appleby, of Asbury Park, and of sending forbidden cards to Chief of Police W. H. Smith.

Metuchen, Aug. 9.—Nathan Robins, of Metuchen, county sealer of weights and measures, inspected the city scales in New Brunswick Wednesday and found them out of order. He condemned them. The official in charge objected, but Robins warned the man not to weigh anything more. Robins had also condemned the scales of A. C. Kenney, a coal dealer, on the ground that what was intended as a ton of coal contained only 1,700 pounds.

News Item: The statistics as to the number of people swindled by various forms of confidence games during the year recall the old story of the county in Indiana where there is absolutely no market for gold bricks. Everybody has one.

But they are still handing out "gold bricks" in clothes in certain places, but few men get stung in the same place twice, because they do not go back. That is one of the reasons we know our clothes are so thoroughly satisfactory, because our clients return to us season after season for more of these great values.

'ROSE SENT FOR BECKER'--POLLOK

Came to His Home, Trembling, After Murder.

IS BECKER BREAKING DOWN?

Reported That Accused Police Official Is Prepared to Tell All if There Is Chance For Immunity — Subpoena Bank Officials to Get Line on Graft Money.

New York, Aug. 9.—New indictments in the Rosenthal murder case accusing Jack Sullivan, Sam Schepps, Louis Rosenzweig ("Lefty Louie"), Frank Muller ("Whitey Lewis"), Harry Horowitz ("Gyp the Blood") and Frank Cirofici ("Dago Frank") will be handed down in a few days.

There is a persistent report that Lieutenant Becker is ready to confess if there is a chance for immunity. His counsel, John F. McIntyre, had a long talk with him. Then McIntyre saw District Attorney Whitman. It is said that Becker's iron nerve is leaving him.

A new witness, Giovanni Stanich, identified Jack Sullivan as the man he had seen standing with the four murderers while they were firing at Herman Rosenthal. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollok testified that Schepps had been a go-between for Lieutenant Becker and Jack Rose after the murder.

Not from the grand jury proceedings, although there is a likelihood that the grand jury has been apprised of the facts, it was learned that Lieutenant Becker had been making money pretty rapidly while he was in command of the strong arm raiding squad. The lieutenant and Jack Rose made an agreement about a year ago which was profitable, according to Rose's story, for both of them. Shortly after Rose began work as a collector Becker began depositing in the West Side Savings bank. Within a few weeks he had on deposit there all that could be accepted in one account, $3,000.

Bank Officials Subpoenaed.

The district attorney, having heard that Becker had four other such savings bank accounts, commenced an investigation to locate these accounts. He has already questioned two officials of a savings bank, and other bank officials will be subpoenaed. Jack Rose has already told something about Becker's savings bank account. Rose's story is that Becker had bragged of his success in getting money.

"I have cleared up $80,000 for myself in four months," Becker told Rose, according to the latter's story.

Save for Stanich, the most important witnesses before the grand jury were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollok. It is not known, of course, what they testified to inside the grand jury room, but after they left the grand jury they told a complete story of Rose's stay in their apartments at Riverside drive and One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street. They said that Rose came to their apartment with Sam Schepps on Tuesday, July 16, only a few hours after Rosenthal had been murdered. Rose was ill and shaky. Schepps left him for the purpose of going to see Lieutenant Becker. Rose worried all day Tuesday. He had received assurances from Becker that everything would be all right, but he was the kind of man that was timorous and fearful of consequences. At 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning Rose, who was half beside himself, asked Harry Pollok to find Becker and tell Becker that Rose must see him.

Pollok, who had been on friendly terms with Rose for several years, having been associated with Rose in sporting enterprises, saw nothing peculiar in the request. Pollok says at that time he had no suspicion that Rose or Becker was involved in the murder. So he went at once to police headquarters and inquired the way to the office of the strong arm squad. In the office he found Lieutenant Becker with three or four men whom Pollok didn't know. Becker, says Pollok, was standing at his desk. Pollok walked up to him and said in a low voice:

"Jack told me to tell you that he is at my house and wants some word from you."

Becker, says Pollok, stepped some distance away from the men to whom he had been talking and replied:

"All right. Tell him I'll be there or send word. What's the number of your house?"

Becker was quite unconcerned, Mr. Pollok says, and gave no indication that there was anything unusual or that Rose's request had any special significance.

Trembling, Rose Awaits Message.

All of Wednesday morning Rose was fidgety and uneasy. He kept to himself, but he was seldom away from the telephone. Every time the bell jangled Rose started up, expecting that word from Becker had come. At 3:30 p. m., when Mrs. Pollok answered the phone, she heard a deep voice inquire, "Is there a man named Rose stopping with you?"

"Who is this?" said Mrs. Pollok.

"Never mind," was the answer. "He will know."

Rose, who had been pacing backward and forward, ran to the telephone and caught the receiver from Mrs. Pollok's hand. He talked for some time and seemed much relieved after his conversation with the deep voiced man at the other end of the wire. Later on in the afternoon there were several more talks. One of these arranged for the appearance at the Pollok home of Lieutenant Becker's lawyer, John W. Hart. It was arranged that the man who would come from Becker would ring three times and would give his initials.

Advised Not to Surrender.

After Mr Hart and the notary left with an affidavit they had secured from Rose, Sam Schepps reappeared, saying he had come from Lieutenant Becker. Schepps renewed his warning to Rose not to surrender. He worked on Rose from 2 a. m. until 6 a. m., but Rose was so worried that he determined to give himself up. He figured that if things were all right and that there was no danger it would look better if he went down to headquarters and submitted to questioning.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollok said that they had no notion that discussions of the murder were going on in their house. They did not hear the murder mentioned, they said.

—"Are you an instructed delegate?" "I should say so!" "How were you instructed?" "By my wife before I left home."—Washington Star.

WILSON'S SPEECH IS JEERED BY HILLES

Sarcastically Refers to It as "Entertaining Essay."

New York, Aug. 9.—In the opinion of Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee, there are radical differences indicated in the Democratic policy as expressed in the speech of acceptance of Governor Wilson and in the platform of the Democratic national convention. Mr. Hilles spoke rather jeeringly about what he regards as the lack of harmony between the candidate and the platform.

In discussing the Democratic presidential candidate's speech of acceptance, Mr. Hilles said:

"Professor Wilson's speech of acceptance is an entertaining essay. Its tone is surprisingly conservative and throughout there is an evidence of a positive programme for the conduct of the Democratic campaign. The expressed views of the candidate differ so radically with those of Mr. Bryan, the author of the platform, that the speech of acceptance would seem in effect to be a repudiation of that platform and its maker."

POPE'S TEMPERANCE ORDER.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 9.—A sensation was caused at the convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union, now in progress at Notre Dame, Ind., when the president of the union, Rev. It is understood to be the desire of the pope that the Catholic Total Abstinence union abstain from entering into political affiliations of any kind. It is the pontiff's order that the members of the organization be left free to work in any party they may desire.

MISS MABEL KELSO.

She Is the Only Woman Who Possesses a Wireless Certificate.

News of the findings by a coroner's jury in Illinois which investigated a recent railroad accident in that state resulting in the loss of thirteen lives caused a lot of discussion. The jury's recommendation that only men should be employed in railroad towers because a woman's judgment was uncertain in a crisis involving human life was the part of the findings that caused a stir.

The news of the action of the coroner's jury had hardly reached Washington when the department of commerce and labor announced that one woman already has received a certificate from the federal government authorizing her to operate the wireless on an ocean liner. Furthermore, this woman, it was said, had already left San Francisco on a steamship as the wireless operator.

MISS MABEL KELSO.

Miss Mabel Kelso is the possessor of the only wireless certificate. She apparently has stolen a march on congress, because when the legislation was up requiring every vessel to carry a wireless operator nobody considered the possibility of a woman being engaged for the job. Miss Kelso took her examination and passed while the statesmen were discussing the recommendations that were made to congress after the Titanic disaster in regard to wireless equipment and operators.

The question being raised whether a woman was competent to hold such a position, the officials of the department of commerce and labor decided there was nothing in existing law to bar women and nothing in the additional legislation that is now pending before congress.

There are two or three other women who have passed examinations as wireless operators. They are required not only to answer all questions regarding the operation of wireless mechanism, but they are also required to tell exactly what should be done in case of disaster.

Woman Who Will Try to Swim the English Channel

After two years of arduous training Miss Lily Smith is about to attempt to swim the English channel. No woman ever has swum the channel, yet Miss Smith is confident that she can go the route.

Miss Smith is the second daughter of James G. Smith, superintendent of the London fire department, one of the medal of honor men among London's fire fighters. He has many records life saving to his credit, and last summer he gained the admiration of all London by crawling on his hands and knees through pungent fumes and rescuing three of his men who were entrapped in a burning cold storage warehouse.

But Mr. Smith is prouder by far of his family of three beautiful daughters than he is of his own honors. All three of them, the Misses Nellie, Lily and Gwendoline, have been expert swimmers since infancy.

Lily, by reason of her daring and powerful build, began to display championship caliber when very young. Before she was fifteen years old she earned the title of "champion of all London" in open competition. Before she was sixteen she accompanied Jabez Wolffe for four hours and a half on his attempt to swim the channel.

On this occasion she and her father were accompanying Wolffe on the tugboat that followed him. When something less than halfway over she announced her intention of going into the water and completing the journey. Despite her father's protests she dived over the side of the tug and was soon leading the powerful male swimmer by many yards. The channel was so rough on this occasion that both Wolffe and Miss Smith were for the greater part of the time out of sight of the watchers on the tug.

Miss Smith was still fresh when, after battling with the waves and tide for four hours and a half, her father insisted that she come out of the water.

Her record has been a continuous succession of triumphs. In 1907, when seventeen, she competed against thirty-four men in the fifteen mile swim from Richmond to Blackfriars, beating twenty of them and covering the distance in 4 hours and 11 minutes. She repeated this performance in 1908 and 1909, beating twenty competitors on each occasion.

MISS LILY SMITH.

She holds all records both for the distance and time in her great swim in 1910 from Dover to Ramsgate and back to Deal down the channel. She covered this twenty miles of rough sea water in seven hours. Last August she attempted the twenty-four mile swim in the Solent from Southsea to the Isle of Wight and return, a feat hitherto accomplished by but one swimmer, Horace Davenport, in 1884. Miss Smith reached Ryde pier at the end of the first lap of the journey in 4 hours and 12 minutes. She merely touched one of the piles of Ryde pier and struck out for the return trip to Southsea.

When three miles from Ryde and still almost as fresh as when she entered the water she suffered an injury to her knee. She pluckily bandaged the knee in the water with her handkerchief and tried to continue the swim, but on the advice of her trainer she left the water. She had swum fifteen miles of the distance without effort.

The injury to her knee prevented any serious attempts at records during the remainder of last year, although she competed against Wolffe in the swim from Worthing to Brighton, a distance of eleven and one-quarter miles. Wolffe completed the distance in 4 hours and 50 minutes, but Miss Smith left the water after covering six miles in 2 hours and 10 minutes.

Aside from these records Miss Smith holds more than seventy medals, won in open competition with the best swimmers of Europe of both sexes.

Only two men have swum the English channel, and thirty-six years elapsed between their successful attempts. In 1875 Captain Matthew Webb, an American swimmer, made the journey. He afterward lost his life in an attempt to swim the rapids below Niagara, a feat that no swimmer ever has accomplished. His record swim across the channel stood until last year, when the feat was duplicated by William Burgess, a Yorkshire blacksmith.

'THEY'RE SCARED,' DECLARES T. R.

Colonel at Oyster Bay After "Bully" Time.

TALKS FROM TRAIN STEPS

At Elkhardt, Ind., He Shakes Hands With Children—Will Rest at Sagamore Hill For Five Days Preparatory to Opening Whirlwind Campaign.

New York, Aug. 9.—Declaring that he had a "bully" time and that it was a "great week," Colonel Roosevelt got back to Oyster Bay today. The colonel takes particular satisfaction in the belief that the showing made at Chicago by his followers has surprised and frightened the leaders of the two old parties.

"I think we have them worried," he chuckled. Mr. Roosevelt said that when he left the Republican party and the call was issued for the Progressive convention most of the Republican and Democrat leaders laughed at the idea that the new party could gather a following sufficient to hold a real convention. At first, he said, they had predicted that there would be no convention at all, then that it would be a small, side street affair. The events of the week, he believes, have been an eye opener to his opponents.

The Progressive party's candidate for president had a big crowd of Chicago people and convention folks to see him off. At Elkhart, Ind., where the train halted a few moments, there was a large gathering, made up largely of women waving the red bandanna, waiting to greet Mr. Roosevelt. There were shouts, "Make a speech, Teddy!" The colonel shouted back:

"Give me a chance," but just as he started to speak a switching engine kicked into the train, and the noise of coupling on the diner drowned his voice. He tried again, getting as far as "My friends," when several small boys clambered up on the car rail, and he stopped to shake hands.

Shakes Hands With Children.

"Why shake hands with children? Here are some voters," yelled a man.

The colonel grabbed a youngster's fist and called back:

"Why, the little mooses will grow and be big mooses."

There was a yell of delight when the train pulled off.

Before leaving Chicago Mr. Roosevelt held a conference with Senator Beveridge, George R. Perkins and George Allen White, discussing with them the plans of the Progressive party. He decided not to go into the committee meeting, as he had at first intended.

When he reached New York Colonel Roosevelt went at once of Oyster Bay by automobile. He said that, while he might be at the Outlook office next Tuesday, he planned to stay at home and hoped he would have no visitors to break in on his short holiday at Sagamore Hill, which will end when he opens his stumping campaign in Providence, R. I., on Aug. 16. On Aug. 26 Mr. Roosevelt will go into Vermont, where he will be joined by Governor Johnson and Senator Dixon.

ROCKEFELLER'S DENIAL.

John D., Jr., Brands as Fake Story of Disorderly House.

New York, Aug. 9.—A statement was forthcoming from the office of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., which dealt with the latter's investigations of the white slave traffic and especially its connection with the police of New York. Starr J. Murphy was Mr. Rockefeller's representative in making the statement. He said: "Mr. Rockefeller having become interested in white slave matters while foreman of the special grand jury has since been securing statistics with regard to the social evil. Whatever information was secured bearing on the police situation has been placed at the disposition of the district attorney. The statement that Mr. Rockefeller or his representatives have been conducting a disorderly house is entirely without foundation."

MANY MINERS ENTOMBED.

Explosion In German Mine Near Dusseldorf—Forty Known Dead.

Dusseldorf, Aug. 9.—A fire damp explosion imprisoned 250 men in a coal mine at Gerthe, near here. Fifty who were near the shaft when the explosion occurred were brought to the surface badly injured.

Forty are known to be dead. For the rest there is the gravest anxiety. Rescuers are working in the face of the greatest difficulty and danger.

SNEER AT BLEASE FONDLING CHILD

Governor Attacked at Conclusion of Campaign Speech.

Gaffney, S. C., Aug. 9.—Governor Blease picked up a little girl who presented him with flowers at the conclusion of his campaign speech here. Holding her in his arms, he said: "A little child shall lead me. Look at the love and confidence this baby has for me."

From the back of the crowd came a deep voice, "Because she doesn't know any better."

Quickly the governor answered: "If you come uptown, you dirty liar, I will give you the worst beating a coward ever got."

"No need to go uptown," was hurled back; "come back here and try it now."

The chairman of the meeting and policemen prevented the hostilities from going any further.

PRIEST FEARS BLACK HAND.

Gang Demanded $2,000 From Passaic Clergyman Who Defies Them.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 9.—Rev. Fernando Paluso, Roman Catholic priest, living in this city, who is an assistant to the Rev. Emory A. Haitinger, rector of St. Marie's Slavish Catholic church, defied the Black Hand and is sorry for it and fears the blackmailers will do him bodily harm.

A letter mailed in New York, signed "Nano Nara," meaning Black Hand in Italian, ordered him to take $2,000, ride to the outskirts of the city on a Newark trolley car, alight at a lonely spot, then walk along the tracks of the Lackawanna railroad and give the money to two men who would ask for a cigar. "If you fail to obey we will kill you. Remember, don't notify the police," was the warning. Father Paluso ignored the instructions. He remained at home, but later became uneasy and turned the letter over to the police. Now he fears for his life.

STRIKE FOR MORE HOURS.

Trenton Water Department Laborers Object to Eight Hour Law.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 9.—Because they could not work an hour longer every day 200 laborers of the city water department went on strike, and the department is seriously crippled. A few days ago the Central Labor union called the city's attention to a recent law passed by the legislature fixing the hours of employment on public works at eight hours a day. The water department laborers have been working nine hours a day at 19½ cents an hour and have been able to make only $10.50 a week.

When the laborers were given notice that hereafter the eight hour day would prevail and that their wages would still be 19½ cents an hour they immediately struck.

LEAVES MONEY TO MISSIONS.

Woman Who Died, Aged Ninety-two Years, Makes Bequests of $33,000.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 9.—The will of Mrs. Helen Chandler, who was ninety-two years old when she died last week at this place, was offered for probate here.

It gives $30,000 of the $35,000 estate to the Baptist Missionary union of Boston for carrying on missionary work in Siam, where Mrs. Chandler and her husband labored for fifty years. A bequest of $3,000 is made to Bucknell university for the instruction of missionaries.

Tried Four Times to Die.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 9.—Charged with having four times tried to end his life, William Fuhrman was arraigned before Recorder Carroll and held until his mental condition can be determined. The police say that Fuhrman three times jumped into the canal and once threw himself in front of a passenger train, but each time he was saved from death.

WANTS ALL HIS GOLD MELTED

Eccentric Newark Bachelor Leaves an Odd Will.

$700,000 IS LEFT TO CHURCH

William Patterson Young Orders Family Jewelry Reduced to Bullion, So That All Trace of Its Original Identity Shall Be Lost.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 9.—The odd provision is made in the will of the late William Patterson Young, an eccentric rich bachelor of this city, that all of his jewelry shall be broken up, and the scraps cast into bullion, so that all trace of its original identity shall be lost.

The remaining bullion is to be part of a $700,000 bequest to the Protestant Episcopal diocese here, to be spent in the erection of a magnificent new church as a memorial of his mother. Young died in Atlantic City on July 27, and his will was filed in the surrogate's court in this city.

Young, after his mother died, boarded up his house and spent most of his time in Atlantic City. He provides that the new church shall be provided on the site of the family residence, which is to be moved to the rear and employed as a rectory.

Provision For Vault.

Likewise provision is made in the will for the erection of a vault which is to contain Young's body and is to be sealed up for all time. He described also in great detail the exact form and size of the monument to be erected over his grave and the brief and plain inscription for it.

Annual incomes of $600 and $300 are left to cousins, $100 each to three servants and $500 apiece to various charities and the public library and Historical society here.

STUBBORN IN POLITICS.

A National Movement to Which He Was Violently Opposed.

At the meeting of the Illinois Bar association Judge Theodore Brentano of the superior court told of a case tried before him several years ago at which the late Jim Evans, a widely known and universally liked newspaper writer, was a witness. Evans had given important evidence, and the opposing attorney was doing his best to shake his testimony.

He had made Evans go back over his past life and was questioning him regarding the different positions he had held.

Jim was telling of a period of his early newspaper days when he had held many places and none for long.

"Then where did you go?" thundered the lawyer after Evans had told of working a few days in the southwest.

"To Dallas, Tex. Worked two weeks," replied Evans.

"Why did you change?" asked the lawyer.

"My boss and I could not agree upon a question of national policy," was the answer.

"Then where did you go?"

"To New Orleans. Left there in a week."

"And what was the reason this time?" from the attorney.

"Same thing," answered Evans with a smile. "The proprietor and I found that we did not agree upon a political question of national importance."

The same answer was given as Evans told of numerous other places he had taken and given up. The attorney finally gave up his attempt to break down Evans with the remark, "You must be a hard man to get along with if you have such set political ideas."

A few days after the case had been decided Judge Brentano met Evans on the street.

"Say, Jim," he asked, "what was that question of national importance that cost you so many jobs? What did you and your bosses disagree over?"

"Prohibition," answered Evans with a smile.—Chicago Tribune.

French With a Brogue.

A story is told of a certain mayor of Cork who headed a deputation to the emperor of the French and commenced an oration to his majesty in what he conceived to be the French tongue. "Pardon me," said the emperor, after he had listened to the speech with much patience. "English I know fairly well; but, I regret to say, I have never had an opportunity of studying the Irish language!"

Advertising Pulls—It Doesn't Jerk

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You wouldn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. If you can't find the necessary time to devote to advertising your business properly phone us. We have an expert who will put up your "Copy" that will bring sure results.

FARMER GETS WRIT TO RECOVER HIS COWS

Newton, Aug. 8—Rather than pay $2 demanded by Harry Vail, a Stillwater farmer, for alleged damage done to Vail's crops by four cows belonging to Wilmer Stickles, the latter sued out a writ of replevin Wednesday to regain possession of the animals. The writ was served by Under-Sheriff Albert T. Lyons and the cows were taken back to Stickles, who is a neighbor of Vail's.

It is alleged that the four wandering cows broke through a line fence Monday and did some damage to crops on the Vail farm. Vail found them and locked them up in his barn. When Stickles missed the cows he went to Vail and demanded them. Mr. Vail was willing if the owner would pass over $2 to cover alleged damage.

SEEKS TO FIX BLAME FOR UNSAFE SCHOOL

Phillipsburg, Aug. 8—Aroused by the condition of the W. E. Harwig School building, a number of residents of the Sixth ward have threatened to go before the Grand Jury with their complaint.

Although the school was put up only a little more than a year ago it has been condemned as unsafe by the State inspectors and local experts. The patrons of the school desire to fix responsibility for this condition. Many have declared they would not send their children to school until the building is strengthened.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held tomorrow when it is expected some action will be taken to put the school into condition.

POULTRY ORGANIZATION IS "HATCHED" AT NEWTON

Newton, Aug. 9—Out of an assemblage of poultry fanciers of the immediate neighborhood, at Park Block, the North Jersey Poultry Association has become a reality.

The objects of the association will be the general advancement of poultry interests of members by dissemination of expert information relative to poultry raising.

The new association proposes to hold a show here some time in January or February. The members have received assurances from fanciers at Dover, Morristown, Allentown and Newark and other towns that they will send birds to be exhibited.

The officers elected were: President, Charles W. Langdon; vice president, Philip S. Wilson; secretary, E. A. Shay; treasurer, David Marshall. The following committee was appointed to draft by-laws: H. W. Woodward, O. E. Armstrong and E. A. Shay.

METUCHEN POLICE CHIEF SUSPENDED TO AUGUST 30

Metuchen, Aug. 9.—Although it had been unofficially announced that Chief of Police Flaherty would be reinstated Wednesday night at the regular August meeting of Common Council, this action was not taken.

Instead the Council suspended him until August 30 without pay, but by unanimous vote the Council decided to pay him his full salary since he was originally relieved of duty July 15, after a handcuffed burglar escaped from him.

The Council also voted to pay all the expense bills which were incurred in the hunt for the escaped prisoner.

Councilman H. B. Johnson, of the police committee, opposed the suspension of Flaherty without a public hearing and a chance to defend himself. It is understood that it is not so mugh the escape of the burglar that caused the suspension of the officer as it was the violation of some police rules which, while technical violations due to inexperience, yet, in the opinion of Chairman Sandford, of the police committee, deserved consideration.

ERIE BEGINS WORK ON SPANS OVER NEW ROAD

Franklin Furnace, Aug. 9—There is some hope now that the Franklin-Stockholm macadam road will be completed this year. The Erie Railroad Company, which agreed to build two overhead bridges at Beaver Lake in return for the elimination of grade crossings in the neighborhood, has begun to excavate for the cement abutments for the structures.

The work of improving 1,000 lineal feet of road by the contractors, B. M. Shanley Sons, of Newark, is held up by the delay, and the Newark firm is holding expensive road equipment idle in order to complete its contract when the bridges are ready.

BURIAL PERMIT ASTRAY, HOLDS UP A FUNERAL

Butler, Aug. 9.—The funeral of George Van Orden, who was drowned in Pompton Lake, Sunday, was held from his late home in Morris street yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. W. Minner conducted the services in the Methodist Protestant church at Bloomingdale.

The funeral was to have taken place Wednesday, but as no burial permit had been received from the coroner there was a postponement. A number of persons assembled at the church before they learned that the services would not take place until yesterday.

The coroner, it was explained by relatives of the dead man, was notified soon after the body of Van Orden was removed from the lake, but did not visit the scene. Instead he mailed the death certificate, the family said, and it went astray, with the result that it did not reach its destination until the last mail Wednesday night.

NEWTON TO INSTALL TRAPS FOR AUTOISTS

Newton, Aug. 9—Determined that the speeding of automobiles through town must stop, the town committee has ordered that speed traps be placed on the streets in town. The location of these traps will remain a secret to enable the town authorities to give the speeders a lesson.

Numerous complaints have been received by the officials that many autoists, including the local chauffeurs, have been passing through town at a dangerous speed and showing no regard whatever for speed laws. The traps will be put in position at once.

The police will be instructed to compel drivers of wagons and autos to observe the "keep to the right" rule in Spring street, as one of the means of relieving traffic congestion on that thoroughfare.

Complaint has been made by Roland T. Hull that water from the street was running over his property at the corner of Main and Elm streets. The $200 bill of the Newton band has been laid over one month. It has been ordered that additional drainage tile be laid at the corner of Main and Madison streets.

Concrete sidewalks four feet wide will be built on the west side of Linnwood avenue, between Foster and Thompson streets, and in Maple avenue from Elm street to the residence of Edward M. Quick. One-half of the cost will be borne by the residents whose properties front on the new sidewalks.

DEMOCRATS FIRE THEIR FIRST GUN

Wilson Campaign In City Launched at Rousing Meeting Last Night.

SEN. MARTINE SPEAKS

Says Wilson Is Only Man In the Running—Disagrees With Taft's Policies and Doesn't Believe Roosevelt Can Make Good.

The local Wilson and Marshall campaign was fairly launched on a flood of oratory last night in Reform Hall. There were upwards of 500 in the audience and much energetic cheering and enthusiasm was evinced. J. O. Stevens was chairman of the meeting and the chief orators were Senator James E. Martine, and Leon Abbett, of Jersey City.

Mr. Stevens read a message of hope and cheer from Woodrow Wilson, which was loudly applauded. Then succinctly told of the object of the campaign and the force that was behind it, after which he introduced Leon Abbett, son of the famous governor, as the speaker.

Mr. Abbett said that this country wanted a man to carry out the ideas of the people—of the masses, not the classes. There was to his mind only one man capable of doing that successfully and he was the present Democratic nominee for the Presidency—Woodrow Wilson. They knew his record as governor of New Jersey, he said, and they realized that any promises that he made were always fulfilled. Some people contended that Wilson knew nothing of practical politics, but they never made a greater mistake. He was the only man before the public who could lead the country out of the troubles that now beset it. What those troubles were or the cure no two men could quite agree. But of this he was sonfident that the remedy would be applied on March 4 when Governor Wilson took up the reins of government.

Opposed to Governor Wilson were two candidates, he continued. One was the regular Republican candidate—with four years in the Presidential office, and no record of anything accomplished. The other candidate had occupied the Presidential chair for seven years, with a similar result. But now he had come forward with a panacea for every ill.

Reverting to local political conditions Mr. Abbett said that Democrats had a hard road to live in Plainfield. But let them take courage, and put all their energy and enthusiasm into this campaign. Let them explain their doctrines to the "Independents" and Republicans and he felt sure that a magnificent victory would be theirs.

A splendid reception was accorded Senator James E. Martine when he arose to speak. His speech was characteristic, and evoked much applause and laughter. After expressing how glad he felt to be at home and how he would rather be "that minute" Jim Martin than the "King of England," he called to mind some of the activities of the Democratic Club in the time of Governor Abbett, and expressed the hope that the present club would be likewise successful.

Speaking of the presidential outlook and the chances of the candidates he thought that there was only one man in it and that was Wilson. Personally he liked President Taft but he disagreed with his politics. As for Roosevelt he did not believe he could make good. He had fooled the American people most of the time but he could not fool them all the time.

This was not a time for doxology and hymns, he added, "though I was once a choir boy." It was a time for action, and Wilson is in the van. He was receiving letters from all parts of the country endorsing Wilson's candidacy. Two former Plainfielders had written him to that effect though formerly they held Republican views. They were Rev. William J. Leonard, of Madison, Wisconsin, and Thomas Flower, of Sitka, Alaska. Wilson would carry forty of the forty-eight States at the coming election, and Democracy would acclaim the triumph of truth and justice.

Having discussed the tariff issue and the Panama Canal question Senator Martine concluded by asking the audience all to band themselves together and work for the election of Governor Wilson. Also they should see to it that their local ticket was successful and he believed that they could not have a more zealous and useful candidate for congressman than its present incumbent, William E. Tuttle.

James N. Connolly, of Elizabeth, also spoke. As the hour then was late it was decided to adjourn and have a meeting during the week for the election of officers. One hundred and twenty-five membership blanks were signed and handed in at the conclusion of the meeting.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR ON CAMPING TRIP

Twenty Boys Make the Journey to Budd's Lake In Automobiles.

The vested choir of Holy Cross church to the number of twenty left this morning in automobiles for Budd's Lake, where they will camp out for the next two weeks. The boys will be in charge of Douglass Anderson, one of the officers of the Sunday-school, and Charles W. Davis, the new organist and choirmaster, who succeeds Will S. O'Brien. Plans for the trip were made by Herbert Langford, and other members of the vestry, who went to Budd's Lake about a week ago and picked out a site for the camp and attended to all the details.

The trip to and from Budd's Lake will be made in automobiles loaned for the occasion by members and friends of the parish. This feature of the outing is being looked forward with a great deal of pleasure by the boys. The party expected to reach their destination about noon today. They will find everything in readiness for them, with a good cook present to see that the boys are well fed.

During the two weeks the boys are away they will enjoy the fishing, boating and bathing to be found at the lake, and all kinds of athletic games have been arranged, including several baseball games between the members of the choir. Budd's Lake offers ideal advantages for camping and the spot picked out is considered one of the best at the popular summer resort.

H. S. BOYS GOT THEIR FILL OF ROUGHING IT

Peacock and Schenck Worked On Farm, Hiked and Slept Out.

William Peacock and Irving Schenck, two Plainfield High School boys, have just concluded what they call a unique and thoroughly profitable summer vacation. Immediately after the school term closed for the summer months the two stalwart youths began work on a farm near the Delaware Water Gap and their daily toil consisted of bringing in the hay and rye, planting potatoes and other farm products and taking care of the agricultural department in general.

About a week ago the boys decided to make a return to "civilization" and began a journey to Bradley Beach, where Peacock's parents are sunnering, on foot. Upon arriving in Phillipsburg, Pa., the hikers were so footsore and weary that they were glad to accept an opportunity to take a ride and were carried as far as Flemington by virtue of a good natured brakeman. Flemington was all right for a day or two while they were resting up; but they soon became tired of sleeping in hay stacks and corn fields and as a last resort made up their minds to come the rest of the distance by rail.

The adventurers had been expected to arrive at the shore on Tuesday and when they did not put in their appearance until the following Thursday the Peacock family had become worried over the delay. Schenck has since secured a position in Asbury Park and will remain there for the rest of the summer vacation.

In speaking of their experience the boys said that they had a great time on the farm and if there was not so much work to do would have been there yet.

VACATION PARTY.

A jolly little party left this afternoon for Asbury Park, where they will remain for the rest of the summer. They are all registered at the "Ocean Spray," on Lake avenue. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Matlack and son Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. C. H Teeter, Mrs G. W. Henry and daughter Leora, Miss Lillian Teeter and Melville Roseberry.

CONGREGATIONAL SUPPLY.

Dr. James M. Whiton, of New York, will preach in the Congregational church, Madison avenue and Seventh street, tomorrow. Service at 10:30 a. m.

SWEDISH LUTHERANS CALL DOVER PASTOR

Rev. Augustus Gaufred Olsson Expected to Accept and Take Charge Sept. 1.

The congregation of the Swedish Lutheran church, North Plainfield, met last night at the home of Alfred Johnson, 1028 West Eighth street, and extended a call to Rev. Augustus Gaufred Olsson, of Dover, to the pastorate. At present Mr. Olsson is pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Dover, having been there several years. He is about 40 years old and married. It is expected that he will accept the call and if he does will come to Plainfield September 1.

Rev. John Estlund, the former pastor of the borough church, left here last fall to become pastor of a Brooklyn church. Since then the pulpit of the church has been vacant, supplies being engaged from Sunday to Sunday. Arrangements have been made with Rev. Conrad F. E. Blunk, of the borough, to preach in English Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock on August 11, 18 and 25.

The congregation of the local church has purchased a lot on East Seventh street, between Richmond street and Carlton avenue, where it is hoped to build a new church in the near future, and as soon as a new pastor is secured this work will be taken up at once.

TWENTY-TWO CARLOADS GO ON HOPE EXCURSION

The twenty-fifth annual excursion of Hope chapel left this morning for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove with twenty-two carloads of excursionists. A large crowd always goes on the Hope outing, because many persons who are unable to get away on the regular excursion day are able to get off on Saturday. Those who went will be afforded ten full hours at the shore. The return journey will be started at 8 o'clock in the evening.

INTERESTING PROGRAMS AT FRESH AIR HOME NEXT WEEK

The usual vesper service will be held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon at 3:45. The speaker will be G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of the Hope chapel. The soloist will be Miss Madeline Maetzler, a member of the children's choir. The children's choir will be in attendance and sing special music.

The attendance at the meetings of the Home during the past week has been large, and the interest in the Home is ever increasing, this is gratifying to Miss Curry. There are more than four hundred mothers and children at the Home at present, and with only three weeks more for this fresh air work it bids fair to eclipse the work of previous years.

During the coming week the meetings will be in charge of J. F. Parker, the Christian Endeavor Societies of Warren chapel, and the Dunellen Presbyterian church, and Miss Nettie Beeching. The entertainment on Wednesday evening will be of special interest. W. R. Townsend will entertain with his phonograph, and Mrs. Royle T. Phillips will have a Japanese cantata in which the children of the Home will take part. The public is invited to all services and entertainments of the Home.

EMINENT DIVINE TO PREACH.

Rev. Dr. J. W. VanCleve, of Decateur, Ill., will preach at the First M. E. church tomorrow morning at the usual hour. Dr. VanCleve is an eminent divine in the Methodist church and was one of the candidates for Bishop at the General Conference held a few months ago in Minneapolis.

HOLY CROSS SUPPLY.

Rev. J. B. Blanchet, of New York, will preach at the early service at 9:30 o'clock at Holy Cross church tomorrow morning. This will be the only service for the day. Rev. W. S. McCoy, the rector, expects to return to his pulpit September 1.

JOURNAL OF TOUR THROUGH EUROPE

Miss Leighs Continues Her Story of Press Party's Vacation Travels.

"IM ALT HEIDELBERG"

Switzerland Charms the Tourists So They Long to Spend Months There—Up Mt. Rigi to a Height of 6,000 Feet.

July 18—Bingen with the green hills in the background and several old towers rising above the trees looked so quaint. We docked at Biebrich and completed our sail of just twelve hours up the most beautiful river in Europe. A trolley ride of ten minutes brought us to the Taunus Hotel in Wiesbaden.

Sunday, July 14—This was scheduled as a day of rest and we were pleased to have the opportunity of remaining in the hotel. On a tour of this sort, one has time to eat, sleep, and travel, that is all. In the attempt to see everything we become very tired and do not attend to correspondence very much. We visit so many places of interest every day that it is necessary to rest when we d onot shop.

Wiesbaden is a very fine summer resort and a very modern city. We found a very fine park here with lakes, fountains, beautiful trees, gorgeous flowers, etc. It reminded us of Mr. Duke's estate in Somerville.

Monday, July 15—We traveled by railroad to Heidelberg, a quaint town on the Nectar River, a branch of the Rhine. After lunch at the Darmstradterhof Hotel, we started our drive. We crossed the old bridges of the Nectar and had a splendid view of the mountains that rise from each bank of the river. Among the trees on one side we saw the famous old Heidelberg castle. Situated in the heart of the city is the old university. In it we saw the old and new students' prisons that are covered with sketches made by those imprisoned there for misdemeanors. There is also a fine assembly room decorated with symbolical paintings.

In the castle, after a climb up the hill, we saw the oldest part built in 1400. It was known as the Knights' Hall and contains very old stone figures and old armor. Downstairs we walked through the old library part. Some parts are very dark and we had to feel our way about. We saw the old moat, the walls that are seventeen feet thick, the old chimney to the bakeoven, the kitchen built by Louis V for roasting a whole ox, the old state apartments. The castle was started in 1400 and was built by the Germans and English for an English lady who was a daughter of James I of England. In 1556 it was bombarded by the French and ruined. The living apartments were restored and again about 1700 these wonderful rooms, filled with beautiful stone carvings and exquisite furnishings, were ruined by lightning.

In 1900 the elector's apartments were restored and they are very handsome. They are filled with exquisite woodwork, paintings, old porcelain, stoves and fireplaces. The chapel has also been restored as it was when used by the notables. We climbed up to the top of the castle and had a magnificent view of the mountains, river, and city all around. Then we returned to the hotel tired.

Tuesday, July 16—We were called at 5:30 a. m., and left Heidelberg at 7:45 in a special parlor car. Through the large windows we could see the many fields of grain where men and women were gathering in the harvest, the oxteams ploughing, the red poppies all through the fields, large flocks of enormous crows, storks, and the "Black Forest" in the distance at Baden Oos station. This forest is very dense and dark. It was formerly inhabited by robbers. After we passed through several tunnels we arrived at Bale on the Swiss frontier.

The customs officer attended to our baggage and we had lunch at the station. At 4:00 p. m. we arrived in Lucerne. The first view of those wonderous Alpine peaks and Lake Lucerne was marvellous. The air seemed so refreshing and the scenery so grand that we have all decided that we would like to remain here a few months at least. After stopping at the Hotel Rutli et du Rhin, we went out shopping. We crossed the old bridge that was built in 1400 and examined some of the beautiful Swiss embroidery in a small store. Tomorrow we expect to see some of the sights in this marvellous little country with its massive Alps.

Wednesday, July 17—We left Lucerne by a lake steamer for the trip up Mount Rigi. At Vitznan, a village at the foot of the steep incline, we found a peculiar incline railway that took us almost to the Rigi Kuhn

WEDDING A SECRET NEARLY THREE YEARS

New Providence Man's Wife Continued to Live With Parents As Single Girl.

Miss Daisy Ella Beldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Baldwin, of Stanley, and Herbert J. High, of New Providence Borough, were married December 1, 1909, but the fact did not become known until this week, just two years and eight months afterward. Not even the parents of the young people were made aware of the fact. Mrs. High continued to live at her parents' home and was known as Miss Baldwin, while her husband lived with his parents and appeared merely in the role of an attentive suitor for her hand.

When the fact became known that the couple had been married nearly three years, the bride's parents immediately arranged for sending out announcements. Mr. High, who is employed at the Summit postoffice secured leave of absence and he and his bride are enjoying a belated honeymoon. Why the wedding was so long kept a secret is something that the couple know themselves, and they say it is nobody else's business.

PLANNING PROGRESSIVE MEETING IN THIS CITY

Tentative plans are being sonsidered for a rousing Progressive mass meeting to be held in this city within a shorttime. It will follow the one to be held in Elizabeth next week. Mayor G. W. V. Moy, one of the enthusiastic supporters of the party here, said today that a complete local organization will be effected to conduct the campaign here.

At the coming mass meeting, Mr. Moy will officially anounce his candidacy and will outline the policy and principles of the party as far as the local situation is concerned. Arrangements will also be made for holding other mass meetings when national issues will be discussed by prominent members of the new party in and out of the State.

GOSPEL EVANGELIST'S TENT LOOKS LIKE A GREENHOUSE

The people in the vicinity of Darrow avenue, where the Gospel tent is located, are showing their appreciation of the work of the evangelist by furnishing flowers and palms, which make the large pavilion look much like a modern greenhouse in appearance.

The evangelist is leaving no stones unturned in making the services both interesting and of the highest spiritual good to all who attend.

The subject for tomorrow night will be "Does God Mention Nations in Prophecy? What Will be the Next Universal Kingdom That Will Rule the World." The subject will be illustrated by large prophetic charts, which will add much to the educational feature of the discourse.

SURPRISE GARDEN PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. James Coad, of 525 East Third street, gave a surprise garden party at their home, last night, for their daughter, Miss Ida Coad, whose birthday anniversary occurred yesterday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Coad, Miss Ida Coad, Mr. and Mrs. William Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neilson, Mrs. Neal, Miss Hunting, Miss Myrtle Darling and Miss Kitchen, of this city, and Leonard Hocking, Jr., and Mrs. William Hocking, of New York.

MISS EDNA M. SNEDEKER.

Miss Edna May Snedeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Snedeker, of 445 West Fifth street, died last night at the home of friends at Rock avenue and Elks street, where she had been staying. She had been ill some time. The funeral service will be held at 402 Park avenue, tomorrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The burial will be private.

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Dorothy, the thre-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Hughes, of Somerset street, had a birthday party yesterday. Ten of her little friends attended it. Those present were Jack, Charles and George Ward, Marie and Marsella Whelan, Helen Willets, Percy Terry, Charles McCuster, Francis Blatz and George Hughes.

SWEAR OUT WARRANTS FOR R. R. DETECTIVES

Justice Denounces Wyckoff's and Hartman's Arrest As High-Handed.

Charles Wyckoff and J. H. Hartman, who were beaten and arrested by eight members of the New Jersey Central police force Thursday afternoon, have sworn out warrants for Detectives Gray, Laveratte and the others in the arresting squad. The charge is illegal arrest. The action was taken yesterday afternoon at Dunellen where the criminal warrants were issued by Recorder David Campbell.

Justice Sedam, of New Brunswick, withdrew his decision of Thursday on Wyckoff and Hartman. The report yesterday that they had been fined $10 each was changed by that decision. Justice Sedam said the arrest was "high handed" and that there was "no case," therefore no fine could be imposed.

Wyckoff and Hartman say that they intend starting civil action against the railroad for heavy damages. They claim that the manner in which they were arrested and the way the detectives searched the house was illegal. Hartman, who arrived at the Wyckoff home from Cleveland, Ohio, on Wednesday, asserts that there was no excuse for his arrest as he did not interfere with Wyckoff's captors. A Plainfield lawyer has been consulted and action will be started next week, it was said.

Mrs. Charles Wyckoff was arrested by five detectives yesterday on a disorderly charge. This time the men procured a warrant before they made the arrest. When arraigned before Justice Sedam at New Brunswick, the charge of "disorderly person" was forwarded against her. She was fined $30 and paid under protest.

PLAINFIELDERS JOIN IN BIG G. O. P. OUTING

Local Politicians Off For Day of "Get-togethers"—No Slatemaking.

The eighth annual outing of the Union County Republican Committee is being held today at Rockaway, and it was a record-breaking crowd that left Elizabethport this morning on the steamer Isabel. Threatening skies with an occasional drop of rain did not affect the plans of those intending to go on the trip. It was 10 o'clock when the steamer got away with the "faithful" on board.

The county was largely represented on the outing, there being at least forty Plainfielders making the start from here. Among them were Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., assistant prosecutor; County Chairman F. H. Smith, Charles H. Dunham, City Judge W. G. DeMeza, Martin B. Stutsman, former Overseer of-the-Poor A. D. Ayers, Andrew McCardell, member of the County Board of Elections; James Stewart, John Cose, H. C. Runyon, chairman City Republican Committee; Assemblyman George L. Babcock, Robert Newton Crane, J. Henry Crane, James F. Buckle, Councilman W. L. Gloak, former Councilman Herbert Buxton, former City Judge W. N. Runyon, B. Frank Coriell, V. W. Nash, Sr., V. W. Nash, Jr., and others.

The committee in charge of the outing is headed by County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt, assisted by Henry Pflug, and George Peek, of Westfield; John Cose, of Plainfield, and David Armstrong, of Rahway. Among others invited to join in the outing and who were expected are Senator Carlton R. Pierce, Assemblyman George C. Otto, former United States Senator John Kean, State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees, Joseph Fhelinghuysen, United States Senator F. O. Briggs, Jacob W. Welch, Alfred Dalrymple, Victor Mravlag and Mayor Stein, of Elizabeth.

The excursionists were due to arrive at Rackaway about 1 o'clock, where dinner will be served. The afternoon will be devoted to pleasure, and the return journey will be started so as to reach Elizabethport early this evening. Of course, it is expected that the political situation in the county and State will be discussed, but as the days for "making up slates" is passed, little si expected in that line.

GARDENER DIES BY POISON DOSE

Henry Williams Takes Paris Green In His Room In Finch Residence.

ALL REMEDIES FAIL

Futile Effort to Save Life at Home and Hospital—No Cause For the Suicide Known—Police Seek Relatives.

Henry Williams, 45 years old, a gardener in the employ of E. L. Finch, 1106 Park avenue, committed suicide yesterday afternoon by taking poison. No cause for the suicide has been learned.

The sound of groans issuing from his room shortly after two o'clock attracted the attention of another servant. Rushing in he discovered Williams lying on his bed breathing in agony, and an empty bottle marked "poison" lying on the floor. He ran to Mrs. Finch saying "Henry needed help." Dr. Thomas S. Davis was immediately summoned.

In the meantime Mrs. Finch sizing up the situation prepared an emetic of mustard and water and made Williams swallow it. When Dr. Davis arrived he applied a powerful emetc, sent an ambulance call and had the man taken to the hospital. There every known remdy was applied but without avail. Williams succumbed at nine o'clock.

Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician was notified and the body was taken to Coles mortuary.

Williams had been in the employ of Mr. Finch for the past five months and was of a bright, cheery disposition. He semed to be in the best of spirits yesterday morning and was at his work as usual. So far no reason can be assigned for his act. He has no relatives in Plainfield. Patrolmen Sweeney and McDonald will make a search of the suicide's belongings today in the hope of finding the address of relatives.

Where Her Rule Ended.

It is related that upon one occasion Senator Thurman's friends visited his house to apprise him that a new political honor had been conferred upon him. He was pleased, but after they had been seated a few moments the conversation lagged, and the old Roman seemed to be ill at ease. His wife tried her best to entertain the campaigners, and the senator excused himself. He presently appeared with his boots and topcoat on. "Gentlemen," said he, "we will now go out and get something to smoke. My wife is the boss here, and we never have anything to drink in the house." Mrs. Thurman looked pleased as she closed the door after them. "As I was saying," added the senator, "she runs the house; but, thank heaven, she doesn't run the town."

WILKIE'S DECOY NOTE.

It Proved Effective In a Boomerang Sort of Way.

Chief Wilkie of the United States secret service arose in the National Press club recently and contributed this one to the awful experience fund:

It happened when Wilkie was a reporter and was doing "night police" for one of the Chicago papers. There were two combinations of reporters, each trying to beat the other bunch. One night in a roguish effort to get rid of the opposition for awhile Wilkie wrote a note to himself, saying:

If you will come out to my house about 12 o'clock tonight I will give you the full facts about that story.

Wilkie racked his brain for a name to sign to the note and finally selected that of a friend who lived $8 worth of cab distance beyond the nearest street car line. He left the message lying carelessly on his desk at the Harrison street station and then walked up to the Dutchman's on the corner to await developments. When he returned to the police station the note was gone and also the opposition crowd of reporters. The desk sergeant said he had seen them rush out in a great hurry after calling a cab.

Next morning Wilkie's enjoyment of the joke was marred somewhat by the fact that the opposition papers each carried a big defalcation story that his sheet and the others represented by his bunch didn't have, and his city editor was peevish. The treasurer of Smith, Brown & Co. had sailed for the isle of whereabouts unknown with $18,000. Wilkie wondered and wondered how the story was dug up, but he was a long while finding out.

One day some four months later he met the friend whose name he had signed to the joke note.

"Did a bunch of reporters call on you shortly after midnight some months ago?" asked Wilkie.

"Should say so," replied the friend. "They utterly ruined a fine night's sleep for me."

"Did you throw 'em out?" inquired Wilkie.

"No; there were too many of them. I didn't see anything to do but tell them the story. They seemed to know about it, and it would have been printed anyway."

"What story?" asked Wilkie, beginning to breathe rapidly.

"Why, that Smith-Brown defalcation story."

"And how the Sam Hill did you know about that?" demanded Wilkie irritably.

"Oh, I was their head bookkeeper," the man said.

A Name and a Pun.

The late Nathaniel Deering of Portland began his career as a lawyer in his native state of Maine in the little town of Canaan. Among his acquaintances and neighbors was Mrs. L. M. Child, afterward a distinguished authoress.

Being challenged one day by Mr. Deering to produce a stanza in which his name should be one of the riming words, Mrs. Child took pencil and paper and at once replied as follows:

Whoever weds the young lawyer at C.
Will surely have prospects most cheering.
For what must his person and intellect be
When even his name is N. Deering?

—The most manifest sign of wisdom is continual cheerfulness; such a state and condition, like things in the region above the moon, is always clear and serene.—Montaigne.

PASS CANAL BILL, IGNORE ENGLAND

Senate Adopts Radical Measure, 47 to 15.

RAILROAD SYSTEMS HIT

Legislation Puts In Jeopardy Some of Big American Roads—Steamers of Southern Pacific Line Will Not Be Permitted to Go Through the Canal.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Disregarding Great Britain's protest against free tolls for American ships, the senate passed the Panama canal bill by a vote of 47 to 15. The bill as it leaves the senate contains also radical legislation affecting several of the big railroad systems of the country.

The bill will compel the divorcement by the Southern Pacific Railroad company of its steamship lines if these boats are to go through the Panama canal. The Southern Pacific has millions of dollars invested in shipping and has been making plans for an expansion along this line with the opening of the great waterway on the isthmus.

Further, the legislation which emerges from the senate puts in jeopardy the New Haven road's extensive holdings in coastwise lines and the holdings of the New York Central and other railroads in shipping on the great lakes. Many millions of dollars are invested by the New Haven in the lines which ply up and down Long Island sound. President Mellen of that road has testified that it would be impossible to dispose of these lines under favorable conditions. The interests of the railroads in the lake shipping is almost as extensive.

Railroads May Be Enjoined.

The Panama canal bill, as it came from the house, contained a prohibition against the ownership or control by any railroad of a steamship line and fixed July 1, 1914, as the date in which this control should have passed absolutely from the railroads. The senate modified this house provision so that it would apply only to ships "operated through the Panama canal."

In lieu of the flat prohibition which the house had against all ownership the senate also adopted an amendment empowering the interstate commerce commission to determine on its own motion whether the ownership by any railroad of steamship lines was prejudicial to the public interests and to compel, if necessary, the divesting of the steamship holdings.

BURDEN DESERTS NEWPORT.

Will Build Show Place In California Like Home of Henry E. Huntington.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 10.—I. Townsend Burden of New York, who is visiting southern California with his wife and her father, Dennis Sheedy of Denver, renounced Newport and Bar Harbor and declared he would build a winter home here like those of Henry E. Huntington and William Howard Graham. Mr. Burden said:

"Eastern people are beginning to recognize that California furnishes the best natural setting for a superb home of any place in the world. The fashionable cities of the east, as Newport and Bar Harbor, have become so overcrowded and overrun with people of every class that the better class of folk are desirous of making some other place their headquarters.

Mrs. Bernstein is the first woman in many years for whom the state has asked the death penalty. Penitentiary sentences were sought for Mrs. Louise Vermilya, Mrs. Jane Quinn and Mrs. Rene B. Moore. The latter two were freed by juries. The jury which tried Mrs. Vermilya disagreed.

DEAD RULER OF HAITI.

President Leconte, Who Was Killed When Explosion Wrecked Palace.

Although it is stated officially that the explosion which destroyed the national palace and caused President Leconte's death was an accident, the precautions taken by General Tancrede Auguste, whom the chamber and senate chose as Leconte's successor, strongly suggest suspicion of a revolutionary plot.

GOVERNMENT DEFIED BY SUFFRAGETTES

To Continue Militancy Until Ballot Is Granted.

London, Aug. 10.—Warning that no punishment it can invent will frighten the militant suffragettes into abandonment of forcible methods in their fight for the ballot was served on the government by the Women's Social and Political union.

"The iniquitous sentences pronounced against Mrs. Mary Leigh and Miss Gladys Evans were not intended as penalties for any offense they were accused of committing," says a statement the union issued, "but were passed in the hope of terrorizing the militants. It was a last desperate effort to break the suffragette spirit.

"The judge's hint that abandonment of militancy might justify a reduction of the sentences amounts to the shameless offer of a bribe, which it was impossible for us to accept. Militancy will continue until the ballot is granted to us.

"We are determined not only to secure the release of Mrs. Leigh and Miss Evans, but the franchise, and to secure it during the life of the present government."

In making this statement Attorney General Carmody said that the superintendent of elections did not think the 700 machines could be adjusted to meet requirements.

WILSON URGED TO GO TO INDIANA MEETING

Governor Marshall's Notification Will Be Big Affair.

New York, Aug. 10.—There is a strong likelihood that Governor Wilson will go to Indianapolis to attend the notification ceremonies of the vice presidential nominee, Governor Thomas R. Marshall. In the face of an avalanche of invitations, entreaties and almost demands, the Democratic nominee for the presidency appears to be wavering.

"I don't know," he said, shaking his head doubtfully. It is going to interfere with some engagements I have in New Jersey about that time. But the demands have been very urgent. It is going to be very hard not to go."

Thomas J. Taggart and other Indiana men sent a long telegram to Mr. Combs. "It will be one of the greatest things in the campaign," they said. "This is not only to be a Marshall notification; it is going to be a great Democratic rally for the middle west. It won't be the one speech; it will be a convention of the voters. We have already engaged the fair grounds for it. We will have 40,000 Democrats there, and it will start the campaign with a whoop which won't die out by November."

TAFT VETOES WOOL BILL.

Says He Hopes Congress Will Try Again Before Adjourning.

Washington, Aug. 10.—For the second time within a year President Taft vetoed a bill to revise the wool tariff—schedule K of the Payne-Aldrich law. With a message of disapproval the president returned to congress the bill evolved as a compromise between the house and senate, holding that its low rates would bring disaster to home industries.

He appealed to congress, however, not to adjourn until it had enacted a measure to "substantially reduce unnecessary existing duties" without destroying protection for the wool industry in the United States.

BECKER'S CASH IN DUMMIES' NAMES

Alleged Graft Hidden In Out of Town Banks.

TOOK HART TO SEE ROSE

Accused Police Official, It Is Charged, Brought Lawyer and Notary to Rose's Hiding Place When City Was Being Searched For Rose as Rosenthal's Murderer.

New York, Aug. 10.—District Attorney Whitman has learned that the "H. C. Kennedy" who put $3,000 in an Elizabeth (N. J.) bank last June was Lieutenant Charles Becker. The "J. G. Cullom" who deposited $3,000 in a Newark bank at about the same time was Lieutenant Becker, Whitman says. The district attorney has learned also that Becker had at least five other bank accounts, including the deposit in the West Side Savings bank.

The Rosenthal murder investigation had to do almost entirely with the lieutenant who is accused of murdering a gambler because of the fear that his profitable blackmailing would be exposed. The new discoveries of the district attorney are that it was Becker himself who took Lawyer John W. Hart and the notary public, Richard G. Barter, to call on Jack Rose at Harry Pollok's house on the Wednesday night after the murder. It was Becker who hired the notary. It was Becker who gave instructions under the name of "J. C. Cullom." It was learned that Cullom was really Becker and that Becker was using several names to cloak his identity.

"H. C. Kennedy" Deposits $3,000.

The inquiry led Mr. Whitman's men to Elizabeth. The officials of a savings bank in that city said that $3,000 had been deposited there by H. C. Kennedy, who, it was understood, was really Becker. The deposit of $3,000 in the West Side Savings bank here had been made in May of last year. Similar deposits were made in at least four other Manhattan savings banks, the district attorney said, but he declined to tell what banks, because the officials of these institutions will be called before the grand jury.

On the basis of the information already acquired Mr. Whitman did some figuring. It appears that Lieutenant Becker made deposits here and there in this city and elsewhere of at least $3,000 a month. But there is reason to believe, the district attorney says, that in some months there were several such deposits. Already there are traces of about $21,000 having been banked in Manhattan and in Jersey towns. There is also information, as yet uncorroborated, that Lieutenant Becker had an account in Rochester.

While in the matter of bank accounts and while running down Lieutenant Becker's financial operations, the district attorney investigated the bank accounts of two inspectors of police. The statements of gamblers and other witnesses as to the gleanings of these inspectors amounted to $22,000 in less than a year. One inspector appears to have sent collectors to seventy-five disorderly houses and sixty-five gambling houses. The district attorney has an idea that he divided his profits with another inspector with whom he had a working agreement. At any rate, the bank accounts of these officials seem a little too plethoric for their salaries or for their probable savings, according to the district attorney. Both have been mentioned by Jack Rose as officials with whom Lieutenant Becker divided the loot taken by the strong arm squad. But the best information is that the inspectors worked also on their own account and that because of their individual power and because of their old time pull with the bigger gamblers and with disorderly houses they were able to enrich themselves on the side.

Becker at Rose's Hiding Place.

The story of how Lieutenant Becker, finishing his day's work at police headquarters, went with Lawyer John W. Hart and the notary public to the hiding place of a man who had been wanted for murder by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty ever since noon of the day before was told by Richard G. Barter, the notary. Barter not only drew up the affidavit that Becker wanted, but overheard, he told the district attorney, the conversation between Hart and Rose. The notary went to the district attorney's office and was questioned as to affidavits to be secured not only from Rose, but from Harry Pollok. Pollok at Becker's request was to have backed up Rose's statement that Becker was not a grafter, but Pollok, suspecting that Becker and Rose were implicated in a worse crime than grafting, kept away from home that night.

While investigating Lieutenant Becker's bank account and Becker's communications with Rose after the murder Mr. Whitman found time also to question Giovanni Stanich, an Austrian business man, who was in front of the Metropole hotel when Rosenthal was shot down. Stanich is the new witness whose story in some detail was printed a week ago last Sunday, but whose name was withheld at the request of the district attorney. He not only identified Jack Sullivan as the man who stood with the group of murderers when the shots were fired, but as the man who walked leisurely with the pistol men to the gray car.

IS IT A REVOLUTION? WHY NOT?

Sometime ago I saw an article in a foreign paper which said "The United States is in the throes of a political revolution," and further, "That the situation in the States is the greatest political situation before the civilized world."

Are we in the midst of a revolution? Some timid people will say no, impossible, and make the fervent wish the father of the thought; change is the last thing in the world they want; let us not experiment in new fangled ideas of government, let us not depart from the traditions of the Fathers, wisdom died with them. The documents which they prepared with great care and learning and four-squared to the lessons of previous history and gave to a homogeneous people engaged for the most part (probably 75%) in agricultural pursuits are and indeed must be of equal value to a nation of 100,000,000 as to one of 3,000,000, to a congeries of 48 States, as it was to 13, to an Industrial people, as it was to an Agricultural people, to a conglomerate population made up of undigested millions of foreigners, as it was to an almost unmingled race; to a nation grappling with the problems of organized industries—inter State and inter National—pools, combines, trusts, monopolies as it was to a people whose most complicated form of business was a simple partnership; to a people covering a continent and extending to the islands of the seas, as it was to a few scattered colonies all on one seaboard front; to a nation of 1000 multitudinous cities in which dwell 60% of the population, as to a score of hamlets and perhaps 3 cities with perhaps 20% of the population while the other 80% were out upon the farms and for the most part farming their own possessions.

Yes, we are in the midst of a political revolution. Thank God the good work is going steadily on, will go on, MUST GO ON until the spirit of our laws and their crystalization into forms of government have caught up with and fit the conditions of the era in which we live.

What is this new condition?

Life has been revolutionized in all its phases—individually—in the home—in the community—in business—nationally and internationally. The employment of the arts and devices, the inventions and the instruments of science and progress which have made the world a neighborhood have in themselves necessitated increasing the powers of government in Community, State, Nation and Conference of Powers in order to preserve self-government for the individual.

Formerly the relation of the individual to the community was light—loose, and the individual relatively independent of society. Today the reverse. Formerly the relation of the individual to government was not intimate or vital, either as between the local government and the individual or State or National Government and the individual, or of Community Government to State Government or State Government to National Government. Today the connection between all is infinitely more intimate and vital—and the problem is HOW TO KEEP OUR DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES and yet make them conform to actual conditions—how to recognize and regulate our collective activities and yet to do so in such a way as not to lose sight of the individual and his individual rights.

The new industrial era has brought about great changes and great problems affecting the body politic, none more serious than the concentration of great wealth and with it, great power in the hands of the few. The questions arising from the new organizations of business, and from the acquisition and distribution of wealth, the use and abuse of power, the ability of government to supervise and wisely control these powerful organizations, are testing our free institutions to the limit RIGHT NOW and the very fact that these economic changes TEST our institutions to the danger point is in itself proof positive of the need of CHANGES which are in reality REVOLUTIONARY. History will record them so.

The present relations between Capital and Labor are serious, threatening—they are at best—anywhere—but in a state of armistice—of armed neutrality—and much of the time in open war and conflict with each other.

It is an irrepressible conflict—never will be settled until settled right—settled in a spirit of NEW DEMOCRACY, New NATIONALISM, or PROGRESSIVISM—call it anything you like—but the old fashioned name suits me—in the old AMERICAN SPIRIT of EQUALITY—men as men, and men as brothers, neighbors, friends meeting in the spirit of conciliation and arbitrating; and if they wont do this voluntarily, then under the compulsion of Government—but as EQUALS and as PARTNERS and not as Superiors and Inferiors, Barons and Serfs, Lords and Slaves, men and cattle. Co-operation is the magic word of this new era—nolens, volens there MUST BE CO-OPERATION. We must have peace, if it takes a war to get it. And that means REVOLUTION in business—to get rid of the old time ideas of MY BUSINESS and learn the new language of OUR BUSINESS.

Henceforth we must hear MORE of the NATION and less of the STATE. We want to hear less of State Rights and more of the people's rights. We want to find where the NEUTRAL ZONE is between State and Federal Power and WIPE IT OUT, and if there is a benefit of the doubt TO GIVE IT TO THE NATION, as the whole is more important than any one of its parts.

Governments derive their just powers BY THE CONSENT of the GOVERNED—just governments are but the people acting collectively—all power is of and from and to the PEOPLE.

The object of Government is to protect life and property, to secure justice, to protect the weak and CURB the STRONG, and to secure to all the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

When Governments do that, the people are contented and happy, peaceful and contented; when they DO NOT DO THAT then there is unrest, discontent, agitation and finally VIOLENT ACTION.

Therefore in the spirit of our Fathers, the Founders of our Republic, we will USE THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT to right UNDEMOCRATIC WRONGS and to REMOVE UNDEMOCRATIC CONDITIONS; we will face our problems as ONE PEOPLE and we will not be afraid of words or phrases or terms of reproach but we will face our problems as patriots and we will modernize our laws and our institutions, discard any feature that puts weapons into the hands of the predatory interests of whatever name or nature, and we will have the courage of our convictions and re-organize our social, economical—YES, and POLITICAL life upon a firm DEMOCRATIC basis.

We will determine, God helping us, that ours shall be a JUST GOVERNMENT dedicated to the preservation of life, liberty and the protection of every citizen in the pursuit of happiness—and to that end, and under the condition in the midst of which we live, we shall make this indeed a Government of the people, by the people and for the people; we shall seek to make every individual man free and equal—free to do and dare, to labor and to serve, to put forth individual effort and to enjoy the results of his achievement at least with a LIVING WAGE; to give to every man the liberty to serve the community as well as himself and in return to use the whole power of government to safeguard his life, his health and his employment.

The faith of our Fathers is our FAITH—but in SPIRIT, NOT in LETTER.

If that be REVOLUTION, make the most of it.

HENRY W. HERRMAN.

GINGERY CONTRIBUTOR GOES FOR A DRIVE

And Sees Things That Make Printers' Ink Necessary to Ease His Feelings.

The Gingery Contributor of the Passaic Valley News took a ride the other day and records the following to relieve his feelings:

"When e'er I take my rides abroad,
What nuisances I see!
What shall I render to the road
For all its ills to me?"

"Wasn't that what Watts wrote; what? Or something to the same effect. Anyway, the jingle got to running through my head the other day, coming down from Millington and noticing the bordering of the railroad track. Millington itself wasn't so bad, and Stirling wasn't altogether so worse. But when we struck Gillette—ye gods and little fishes!

"Nature did wonders for the place, and Billy Brower and Eddie Gray and Uncle Dan Voorhees and the rest of that non-political aggregation are doing lots more. But, oh, you Road of Anthracite! On each side of the track for a hundred yards or more is maintained a stagnant lagoon, rank with spatter docks, green with slime, and simply hazy with immeasurable nebulae of mosquitoes. There is enough potential malaria on the wing manufactured there each week to make the whole State shake from Sussex to Cape May. And two or three sons of Sunny Italy with spades could in a few days dig ditches that would drain the whole thing out. Or a quart of oil once a fortnight would cause there to be not one mosquito, where now there are a million a minute.

"Then I went on to Berkeley Heights. There, too, were similar though smaller lagoons, on each side of the track, not a dozen yards from the platform, just swarming with the mosquito wigglers. What? Just puddles left by the rain of the night before? Go to, thou scoffer? They were just swarming with half-grown tadpoles, too, proving that the water had been there many days. And, by the way, in one of the ponds there were lying a lot of fine new mill sawed railroad ties, soaking and rotting into punk. Thrift, thrift, oh Phoebe Snow!

"Next station, Murray Hill, where the Lackawanna does deign to provide a ticket office and a station agent. Likewise it there too maintains malaria factories. Within a stone's throw of the ticket office there were pools along the track, alive with mosquitoes. Half an hour's work with the spade would abolish them, but it isn't done.

"According to the Poet of Phoebe, this is a railroad without smoke or cinders or dust. Wouldn't it be worth while, just as a business proposition, to make it a railroad without mosquitoes or malaria?"

TILL GUARDIAN NABS WOMAN.

Camden, Aug. 10.—From his hiding place beneath a counter, where he had been posted to capture a systematic filltapper, Detective Fitzsimmons Wednesday seized the intruding hand of a woman. She shrieked, but the officer held on. The prisoner gave her name as Mrs. Edith Kelchner, twenty-two years old, of 1258 North Twenty-eighth street. In default of $300 bail she was sent to jail. The capture was made in the store of Louis Weisban, Twenty-eighth street and Polk avenue, East Camden. Weisban said he had been missing money about a year.

The excursion planned by the four councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., has been declared off, because it has been impossible to set upon a satisfactory date.

Miss Elsie Brown, of Newark, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

That has been my slogan for years I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

POTTED MEATS.

MEAT which has been left over from several meals, even the odds and ends that are not ordinarily used, may be utilized for potted meats or meat molds.

These are useful dishes in summer, for the meats, sliced and served cold, make a dainty appearance on the table.

Any meat may be used in this way. Some suggestions are as follows:

A Rich Combination.

Potted Veal and Bacon.—Cut thin slices of veal and the same quantity of bacon. Then rub together some dried sweet basil or savory until reduced to a powder. Lay in a stewpan a layer of bacon, then a layer of veal, and on this sprinkle the powdered herbs, a little grated horseradish, again some bacon and veal and then herbs and horseradish and a little salt. On this squeeze a lemon and grate the rind. Then cover very tightly and put it into the oven to bake for three hours. Take it out and drain off all the gravy, pour over it a little mushroom ketchup and press it down with a heavy weight, then put it away in an earthen crock tightly covered.

Potted Chicken.—Cut up the chicken and place in a kettle with a tight cover, so as to retain the steam. Put a pint of water on the chicken and cook until the meat falls easily from the bones. Remove the bones, skin, gristle and fat, cut or chop the meat, white and dark separately, as for chicken salads. Season, put into a mold in layers and pour the juice in which it was cooked over it. Cover and lay on a heavy weight. Any meat may be prepared in this way. Slice, garnish with celery leaves and serve cold.

An Old Time Dish.

Potted Beef.—This is an old fashioned recipe which, while a little complicated, is worth trying. Take three pounds of lean beef and salt it two or three days with half a pound of salt and half an ounce of saltpeter. Divide it into pieces of a pound each and put it into an earthen vessel just big enough to hold it. Pour in half a pint of water, cover it close with a lid and set in a slow oven for four hours. When taken from the oven pour the gravy from it into a basin, shred the meat fine, moisten it with the gravy poured from the meat and pound it thoroughly in a mortar with fresh butter until it becomes a fine paste. Season it with black pepper and allspice, pounded cloves or nutmeg grated. Put it in pots, press it down as close as possible, put a weight on it and let it stand all night. Next day, when quite cold, cover it a quarter of an inch thick with clarified butter and tie paper over it.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

Sleeves Are Gradually Taking on More Fullness.

Sleeves are gradually becoming fuller. Before very long we shall have returned to the leg o' mutton sleeve (with slight moderations) of other days. Bell sleeves, too, are coming slowly, but surely, to the fore. A favorite style is the elbow sleeve made fairly loose and trimmed with a full lace ruffle that falls very long at the back of the arm and is cut rather short in front.

The pretty, smart, plain blouse is always a useful garment to include in the wardrobe. The model illustrated includes certain new blouse features that are of special interest, the curved front lapped over in envelope fashion being one of them.

Cookery Points

Suffragist Recipes.

Food and the franchise—bread and the ballot—do they mix? Here follow a few proofs in the form of well tested recipes that prove conclusively that the women who can vote and those who would vote are also cooks:

Nut Bread.—Beat into one egg one-quarter cupful sugar, add two cupfuls sweet milk, four cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, four rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of chopped English walnuts (medium fine). Mix all thoroughly and set to raise in pan twenty minutes. Bake in a hot oven thirty minutes. One cupful of graham flour can be substituted for one cupful of the white flour if desired. Bake in one or two loaves.

Stuffed Prunes.—Scald and wash fine large French prunes, then steam about three-quarters of an hour, so that you can shove the seed out of a small hole. Prepare a small bowl of coarsely chopped English walnut meats, a bowl of sultana seedless raisins, or else dates seeded and cut in halves, and a bowl of granulated sugar. When prunes are cool, press into each half a date or four or five raisins and a bit of sugar, then chopped nuts to fill out the prune to original size, press the skin over the hole, roll in sugar and then in square of parrafin paper.

Prune Cake.—One and a half cupfuls of light brown sugar, one cupful of butter, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, half a cupful of molasses, half a cupful of orange marmalade, three heaping cupfuls of uncooked prunes which have been previously scalded and cut off the seeds to the size of raisins, four eggs, one level teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of allspice, one teaspoonful of mace. Mix and bake slowly for two and one-half hours.

Orange Marmalade.—Four tart oranges, one lemon. Slice fine, cover with two and one-half quarts of water and let stand twenty-four hours. Boil hard one-half hour, add sugar cupful for cupful and let stand again twenty-four hours. Boil all together until it jellies, and just before taking off add the juice of two lemons.

Picnic Sandwiches.

Racy Chicken Sandwich.—Use the white meat of the chicken only. After rubbing the chopping bowl with an onion, chop in it the chicken meat. Season well with paprika, stir into it a little chicken stock, then sufficient amount of mayonnaise and prepare as any other sandwich.

Romaine Sandwich.—Place a young crisp leaf of romaine next to a thin uniform slice of sandwich bread. To prevent the mayonnaise dressing from soaking into the bread and making it heavy put the dressing between after removing crusts. Cut into any shape the fancy dictates.

Corn Beef Sandwiches.—Have the beef cut in very thin slices. Cut in slices of equal thickness and shape some large sweet pickles. Just a touch of mustard, either French, English or plain, should be spread on the beef. Place between thin slices of bread.

Pineapple Sandwich.—One cupful of pineapple juice and pulp, three-fourths of a cup of sugar, juice of half a lemon, lady fingers. Cook the pineapple, sugar and lemon juice until thick; let it cool, spread upon lady fingers or sponge drops. Press together in pairs.

Dates and Ginger Sandwich.—Chop the dates and preserved ginger, moisten with sirup from the ginger jar and a little lemon juice; cook with a little water or not to a smooth paste; cool. When cold spread the mixture upon thinly sliced bread and cut in diamond shapes.

Lobster Sandwich.—Chop the lobster meat till pretty fine, quite to a paste. Stir in mayonnaise, a hint of onion, a few drops of sherry or brandy. Mix; then spread on lettuce leaves between two thinly cut slices of bread in the usual way.

For the Summer Table.

Tomato Omelet.—Skin a tomato and cut it up fine, add a piece of shallot chopped fine, separate three eggs and beat yolks and whites separately. Mix the shallot, tomato, a dash of pepper and a pinch of salt with the yolks. Put a tablespoonful of butter in the omelet pan and when quite hot stir in whites of the eggs whipped lightly. Turn the mixture into the omelet pan and cook about three minutes, stirring all the time.

Pineapple Fritters.—Separate an egg. Beat the yolk and add to it half a cupful of milk, a pinch of salt and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Mix a teaspoonful of baking powder into the flour first. Then add the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff white froth. Open a can of the finest grade of sliced pineapples or use fresh pineapples sliced and cooked in sirup. Cut each slice in half, dip each piece into the batter, then fry in deep hot fat until a nice brown. Sift powdered sugar over them and serve hot.

French Toast.

Slice and trim the crust from some baker's bread. Beat an egg up with a cupful of sweet milk. Dip the slices into the mixture, which should be seasoned to taste with salt and pepper. Fry a delicate brown in hot dripping or oil.

COZY NESTS IN WHICH BABY MAY COMFORTABLY TAKE A NAP.

OUTDOOR CRADLE AND WICKER CRIB.

INVENTIONS for making the little folks more comfortable continue to multiply. Perhaps it is because the modern woman has stepped into the field of invention. This pretty wicker cradle may be lifted from the wooden stand on which it is set and carried anywhere that one chooses. A canopy of wicker makes it possible to dispense with some of the draperies that baby has found so annoying when a breeze sweeps through the room. The crib may be lined as luxuriously as one chooses. The hammock crib, also illustrated, can be used indoors and out. It may be placed on the porch or on the lawn during the day and will enable the baby to have the advantage of living outdoors. The screen overhead will keep out the sun, while the net is adjusted so that the youngster cannot kick it off to the advantage of flies or mosquitoes.

THE MAN'S WAY.

A woman with her eyes veiled can fascinate most men, but a woman with her thoughts veiled can fascinate any man.

Nothing makes a man propose to a girl so quickly as to find that her family doesn't think him good enough for her.

The fact that she does the cooking is no proof that a girl is domesticated. Her cooking may be a proof to the contrary.

It has never been explained why a man who will rapturously kiss a lock of hair and carry it next his heart will always laugh if he sees a long hair on another man's shoulder.

Opening a Fruit Jar.

To open a stubborn fruit jar invert the top of the jar in hot water (boiling hot, but not boiling), taking care that the water is not deep enough to touch the glass. The principle is to expand the metal top. Then open as usual. A minute or two is sufficient. Should it remain in too long the glass would also be expanded.

Embroidering Towels.

Before beginning to embroider the edges of towels outline the edge of the scallops with a small stitch done on the sewing machine. The buttonholing covers the stitching perfectly and gives a firmer edge than is obtainable in any other way.

THE SOAP CURE.

A Liberal Application Will Eradicate Kitchen Vermin.

Shave a bar of strong yellow soap into a gallon of water and let it simmer on the back of the stove until it reaches the consistency of jelly. Into this stir one ounce of carbolic acid and pour the mixture into all cracks around the sink and drainpipes to rid the kitchen of roaches or other vermin.

Apply the same mixture with a paint brush to cracks in the wood of a bedstead to kill bugs or around the surbase in a room where vermin hide. This is a sure cure, but take care that children do not touch the mixture, for it is a deadly poison.

If your shoes are loose and persist in rubbing holes in the back of your stockings rub a little soap in the back of the shoe. You will have no more trouble, for the stocking will slip up and down without wearing out on the smooth surface of soap.

An Asbestos Pad.

An asbestos pad for the table may be made in this way: Get enough asbestos paper to cover the table with double thickness. From a couple of old sheets cut two pieces the size of the table. Baste the asbestos paper between them and quilt it on the sewing machine, using a long stitch. This is necessary, as the paper tears and pulls apart easily. Put this pad on the table under your silence cloth, and there will be no marks made on the polished surface by hot dishes.

THE NEW FIRELESS COOKER A CULINARY MIRACLE WORKER.

MANUFACTURERS have got the art of making fireless cookers down to such a fine point that most of the drudgery connected with cooking is eliminated. For instance, if you own a fireless cooker like the one shown here you may prepare corned beef and cabbage or any other odorous viand without offending the most fastidious member of the family. Moreover, on hot days you can put the food in the cooker and let the apparatus do the rest. Biscuit, cake, even bread, may be baked in it.

THE UP TO DATE FIRELESS COOKER.

These marvels are achieved by the use of soapstone plates, which are first heated on the gas or oil stove or the range. The multiplication of soapstones increases the heat in the cooker and is necessary for baking, but if the food is started on the fire it may then be transferred to the cooker with the assurance that it will come out of it several hours later perfectly cooked and not scorched or burned, no matter how much it may be overtimed.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Plainfield.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Plainfield residents, expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

A. K. Mattis, 127 W. Fourth St., Plainfield, N. J., says: "I gave Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement five years ago after receiving a cure through their use and today I confirm all I then said in their favor. My cure has been permanent." (Statement given January 20, 1911.)

On August 28, 1905, Mr. Mattis said: "I was troubled for years by a dull backache and pains in my head. I believe that my trouble was due to a great measure, to a bad fall I had. Nothing seemed to help me and when I read of the good work Doan's Kidney Pills were doing in similar cases, I got a supply at Randolph's Drug Store. Their use drove away my aches and pains and my experience gave proof of their merits."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ELIZABETH BEER GLASSES MUST BE KEPT CLEAN

Elizabeth, Aug. 9.—Following numerous complaints about the condition of the Elizabeth River, the Board of Health has received a report from City Engineer William H. Luster that declared that steps have been taken to eliminate the odors that arise from the stream.

The engineer says that improvements have been made to the intercepting sewer that make it nearly perfect, and that hereafter the river bed should not be so objectionable.

The board appointed Dr. J. H. P. Conover as analyst of the municipal laboratory in the headquarters of the Board of Health in City Hall. Dr. Conover's salary will be $1,000 a year. His duties will be to analyze samples of milk.

The board started a crusade against unclean glasses in saloons and soda water dispensaries. Action will be taken to require saloonkeepers and soda dispensers to thoroughly cleanse each glass after it has been used.

THE IRON MAIDEN.

Instrument of Torture on the English Convict Ship Success.

The English convict ship Success, which recently arrived at Boston after a hard luck passage of ninety-five days across the Atlantic, is the oldest known ship afloat. She is built of teakwood throughout and was turned out by coolie labor at Moulmain, British Burma, in 1790. For several years she sailed in the spice trade and in 1802 became a convict ship.

The Success is still fitted out with the evidences of her use as a bastile. On either side of the lower deck are black holes, into which refractory prisoners were placed for additional punishment of from one to a hundred days. These places are two feet eight inches across, and air is admitted through a few small holes in an iron plate. The prisoners were so handcuffed that they could neither lie down nor stand up.

Also there are the flogging posts and chains, scores of cells below decks—little, narrow dark cells which lock with a big bolt—and the famous instrument of torture known as the "iron maiden." The "iron maiden" is a sweat box with great spikes in the door. The ship's sails still carry the broad arrows, the English prison sign. Her hull, with its odd hinged portholes and the words "Convict Ship" in big black letters, tells a tale of horror at sight.

The convict ship left Glasson dock, Lancaster, on April 15, provisioned for a few weeks' voyage. Accidents and three separate occasions when the crew mutinied prolonged the voyage until she was more than three months in reaching her destination. Toward the end the men were on short rations, getting daily only a biscuit, a small piece of ham and a mug of water.

EDMOND B. DILLON.

He Is Republican Candidate For Governor of Ohio.

Edmond Bothwell Dillon, the Republican nominee for governor of Ohio, has been judge of the common pleas court of Columbus since 1892. He is a tall, broad, upstanding man of forty-three years.

The son of a Methodist minister, the early days of Judge Dillon's career were full of hard knocks and harder work to help support himself while plugging away at his studies. At Portsmouth, O., where he received his high school education, he earned his first money as messenger and porter in a bank when but fourteen years of age.

At London, O., he worked in the postoffice from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. and studied law until midnight. He saved $150 and moved to his parents' home at Lancaster, O., where he lived for eight months on the money he had saved, putting in every minute perfecting himself in the law.

Judge Dillon completed his education at Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, O., where, although he spent five years, he never graduated. His first law work was as special counsel for the state dairy and food commissioner.

Out of his college association sprang the romance which culminated in his marriage in 1895 to Marion Daisy Whitney, the daughter of Calvin Whitney of Norwalk.

Breaking the Monotony.

It was a small town. The village storekeeper was ticket agent, baggage master and telegrapher of the little flag station past which two fast mails thundered each day. At last, growing tired of the monotony of life, he went out and pulled up the flag. The train slid in and came to a stop in front of the tiny station.

"Where's your passenger?" demanded the bustling conductor.

"Waal," drawled the agent, "I dunno as thar is any one wantin' to git on, but I kinder thought mebbe some one might want to git off."

and was busy at the window. "What are you doing, Artemus?" his companion asked. "I'm so c-cold," he chattered. "I was hanging up some of these hoopskirts. I thought they'd keep the coarsest of the cold out."

SUNDAY GAMES AT PLAINS.

Manager Joe Albert, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, has secured the Elizabeth A. A. for his attraction on Sunday afternoon. The Elizabeth nine has been playing some of the fastest aggregations in the Metropolitan district and the 'Plains aggregation will have to go some in order to pull off a winning contest. Among their recent opponents were the Lincoln Colored Giants who are generally acknowledged as the best semi-professional combination playing the game in this vicinity. Alberts will have his regular lineup on the field with Warry McLaughlin in the box.

Westfield may come back today.

When the Mt. Ararat team starts to hit a pitcher one never knows when and where it will let up.

The batting rally the Dunellen bunch pulled off against the Cranford nine last Saturday was similar to that worked against the Plainfielders by Bound Brook a few weeks ago

And if Dunellen can only slip it to Bound Brook in the same way this afternoon.

A little let up is under way in the local amateur leagues this afternoon. The Hope chapels was the cause, but the result—.

Will Plainfield be able to stem the tide without murdering any of the opposing players?

What's troubling us now is the name of Dunellen's new scrapper, Wolfe. Where the deuced did an Irishman get that name for a handle?

Platt Adams, who gave up his job in order to compete in the recent Olympics, has been given a position as leather salesman. Well, Platt ought to have little trouble in jumping from one town to another.

The country's best ball players are organizing a fraternity. It's one best bet that the umpires will not be elected honorary members.

Manager Joe Albert has landed the Elizabeth A. A. for his Sunday attraction and old time baseball will be revived at the 'Plains.

He was the only Highlander who could do anything with the pitching of Gregg and got two singles and stole a base.

ROSELLE H. S. CRACK WILL ENTER CORNELL

Was the Second Man to Finish In Plainfield-Elizabeth Dual Run.

Erza Wenz, Roselle High School's crack runner, who came in second in the Plainfield and Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. dual run on March 30, while running under the colors of the Elizabeth Association, will enter Pingry School this season preparing to go to Cornell University the following year. Wenz holds the world's interscholastic record for two miles and also a number of scholastic and interscholastic marks. This season may see the Roselle boy establishing some more new marks and it may be that he will be one of the Americans to engage in the next set of Olympic games, four years hence.

He figured in a number of important races last winter the chief of which was the two mile run at the Columbia games which he not only won but set up a new record of 9.56. He set up a new Princeton interscholastic mark for the two mile run at the University interscholastic meet when he romped home a victor in this event in 10.01. A week later he startled the natives of Colgate University by setting up a Colgate record of 10.05 for this distance.

DOUBLE BILL TOMORROW FOR MOTORCYCLE CLUB

Two divisions will be formed for the weekly trip of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club, one going to Lambertsville and the second to Greenwood Lake, in Sussex county. A number of the members have placed attachments in the form of rear seats on their machines and are thus enabled to take their wives and sweethearts along. An early start will have to be am deofr tomorrow's trip as it is an unusually long one and they are hopeful of completing it in a day.

A stop will be made at Greenwood Lake and the riders will probably take advantage of the excellent bathing. In going to the lake the motorcyclists will have to pass the Jersey Boys' camp at Lake Wawayanda, and a stop may be made there as there are at present about twenty Plainfield fellows in camp in charge of C. William Bingham, of this city.

Y. M. C. A. READY FOR BIG SEASON

Several New Branches of Association Work Will Be Added.

BASKETBALL POPULAR

Leaders Corps to Be Raked Over—Senior Basketball to Be Reorganized—Prospects Bright For Big Season.

Physical Director Ostlin, of the Y. M. C. A., said today that he was preparing for one of the biggest seasons the local association has ever had. Although his time was pretty well filled up with the numerous divisions and classes of last year Mr. Ostlin is planning to add several new departments to the physical work. Among them will be a swimming team for the junior boys. This work was started by George Whitaker when he had charge of the gym work in this city, but in the few meets that the team competed they were defeated every time.

Aquatics have never been developed to any extent in the local association but there is an abundance of good material and Mr. Ostlin is determined to bring it out. He had a team of younger boys practising in the tank last year and they have become so adept at it that he has decided to enter them in a number of meets during the coming season. The senior department will also have a team of this nature and if the many followers of water sports in Plainfield can be gathered together, a cracker-jack aggregation can be formed that will be able to cope with any team in the State.

Basketball, as usual, will be the center of attraction in the gymnasium and the prospect of an even more successful season than that of 1911-1912 are bright. A quintet of men from the senior department will be formed and will play under the Y. M. C. A. name. The Plainfield branch was always represented by a basketball five up to last year when interest lagged in this branch of sport and it was dropped for one year. The players have got the bug again, however, and a quintet that will uphold the reputation of the local association against the numerous fast association teams in the State will probably be seen together. A number of former stars have already signified their intention of getting back into the game and a meeting of those interested will be called in the near future.

The Ajax team which made a fine showing on the court last year will again be on hand with exactly the same group of players. This will make the third successive year that these five fellows have been playing together and as there has been no change in the players since the initial year they ought to show to even better advantage than they have previously done.

Several new classes of gymnasium work are being drawn up and in the event that the Factory League basketball organization materializes it will be hard to find nights to play the games as the gymnasium schedule is being rapidly filled up. The senior department leader corps will be entirely reorganized as will also the junior corps and men who have a marked degree of ability along this line will take charge of the classes on the floor.

PROTESTING AGAINST ROWDY MILITIAMEN

New Providence Residents Call State Authorities' Attention to Behavior.

In consequence of the alleged scandalous performances of a detachment of the National Guard at Murray Hill, on Sunday before last, the following address to the military authorities of the State has been made and numerously signed by citizens of New Providence Borough and Township:

"To the Adjutant General, New Jersey National Guard: We, the undersigned citizens of New Providence and representatives of the different churches of the Borough, desire to place on record our protest against the lawlessness of a batallion of the first regiment N. J. N. G., composed of Companies C, I, K and L, and commanded by Major Crocker. The lawlessness consisted in entering and taking possession of a private lawn and in breaking up the religious services of St. Luke's Episcopal church by firing around the building and under the very windows. We most earnestly request that you will promptly investigate the conduct of his batallion and take action against the responsible parties, so that our Borough may be saved from such lawlessness in the future."

Although no complete canvass of the community was made or undertaken, the above address was promptly signed by no fewer than one hundred and fifty-two persons. Of all to whom it was presented, only three refused to sign.

BUILDING A CHAPEL WITH FIELD STONES

Catholics of Mt. Bethel Neighborhood to Have Pretty Place of Worship.

Work is going briskly under way on the Roman Catholic chapel of Our Lady of the Mount at Mount Bethel. Excavation for the cellar was begun on November 6 last, but work on the foundation was not undertaken until May. The corner stone was laid with impressive ceremonies by Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, on July 21, and it is expected that next year will see the finished structure dedicated to its use.

The church is being built of rough stone gathered from the surrounding fields. The cornerstone itself is a huge boulder weighing a ton or more, used without any shaping or trimming.

The story of the church dates back less than two years, to a time when Father Dittrich, pastor of St. Joseph's church at Bound Brook, was summoned to Mount Bethel to visit a sick person. He found that there were several Catholic families there who were in danger of drifting away from their faith, because there was no church within reach. He got the Bishop's permission to say mass in a room of Binz's Hotel on March 12, 1911, and at that service seventeen persons were present. The news that mass was celebrated every two weeks at Mt. Bethel spread throughout the vicinity. Families, three and four miles away, some who had not been in church in over twenty years, came to add to the attendance and have their children up to twenty years of age baptized. In a few months the hotel parlor became too crowded, and mass was then said in the hall attached.

NEW PROVIDENCE BORO HAS COSTLY SCHOOLS

Much interest was aroused by the publication of the per capita cost of the New Providence Township schools and several inquiries were made regarding information concerning the schools of New Providence Borough, and also those of Warren Township, in Somerset county.

The New Providence schools are more costly than those of the Township of New Providence, and rank among the costliest in the State. The cost in the year 1910-1911 was no less than $35.07 for each enrolled pupil.

In Warren Township the cost was less, though it was still above the average of the State. It was $29.58 for each enrolled pupil. The following recapitulation may be of interest, showing the cost for each enrolled pupil:

State at Large	$28.38
Union County	30.78
New Providence Township	33.50
New Providence Borough	35.07
Warren Township	29.58

or summit. This was 6,000 feet above the sea level and oh! what a marvellous sight. On one side was the vast stretch of level country broken by beautiful lakes and on the other was a long range of monstrous mountains with snow capped peaks projecting into the clouds. To complete this Alpine trip we bought Edelweiss and watched some thoroughbred St. Bernard puppies with their mother. We had lunch on the mountain and viewed the glaciers and snow on the distant peaks through a telescope. We returned to the city by the beautiful lake of Lucerne and walked to that exquisite statue, the Lion of Lucerne. This was carved in the solid rock to the memory of the Swiss guards of Louis XVI. It is a marvelous piece of work.

This finishes my part of the summary of our trip and Miss McWilliams will write the next letter. I take pleasure in sending the best regards of all the party to our friends and relatives at home.

GYPSIES ATTACK ABSECON PEOPLE

Held Up by Bold Band and Robbed.

NOMADS AND POSSE FIGHT

Farmers and Citizens Arm Themselves and Assist In Preventing Further Depredations—Other Towns Refuse to Help—Chief and Eight Others Are Arrested.

Pleasantville, N. J., Aug. 10.—A band of about 150 gypsies invaded Absecon, two miles above here and seven miles from Atlantic City, and terrorized the inhabitants, robbing them right and left until assistance was given the Absecon authorities by local constables and justices in answer to a number of riot calls sent to Pleasantville by the chief of the Absecon police, Thomas Hutchinson.

Men and women on foot and in automobiles were held up by the nomads and forced to turn over their money and jewelry, while wholesale robberies at the stores and farms were made by the band. The party was first seen passing by the outskirts of Pleasantville and were ordered on from here by Constable McDermott. They were next reported in Absecon and laughed at the remonstrances of the Absecon citizens to their wholesale pilfering.

Hutchinson received several calls for help and made futile attempts to reach County Judge Higbee and the sheriff. He then tried the Atlantic City chief of police, Malcolm Woodruff, but was unable to get help from him because it being out of the shore resort's jurisdiction.

Unable to obtain outside help, a body of Absecon farmers and citizens armed themselves and assisted in preventing further depredations. A posse surrounded the gypsies' camp at a small settlement near Absecon known as Conovertown, and riot calls were sent to Pleasantville.

In the meantime shots were exchanged by the gypsies and the posse, and it is said one of the gypsies was wounded. Headed by Constables Biggs and McDermott, a number of Pleasantville men hurried to Absecon, cut off some of the gypsies and succeeded in recovering a number of the pocketbooks and money that had been stolen.

The band was then completely surrounded and guarded. The Pleasantville and Absecon constables confronted the gypsies with warrants and arrested the chief and eight others.

SUES ERIE AND WELLS FARGO

Man Injured Trying to Save Others Wants Damages Now.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 10.—Alleging that he was severely injured in saving the lives of others on the platform of the Erie railroad station in this city several months ago, Philip Mangolin, a newsdealer, has brought suit against the Erie Railroad company and the Wells Fargo Express company.

Mangolin was standing in front of the station, and as the train approached he noticed that one of the carts used by the Wells Fargo Express company in moving trucks and baggage about the station stood where it was in danger of being struck. There were a number of passengers on the platform, and if the engine struck the cart he thought some one might be killed. He tried to move the cart out of the way. The result was that the cart was struck by the train and he was struck by the cart. He was so badly injured that he was laid up for a considerable time.

THREE HURT IN AUTO WRECK.

Brothers Badly Injured at Passaic When Car Hits Curb.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 10.—Edward, Jack and Orrie Allfan, brothers, living in Garfield, narrowly escaped death in this city when their auto skidded, crashed into the curb and hurled them to the pavement. Edward was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where his condition is said to be serious. The other two, although badly injured, were taken home.

Jack was at the wheel. The brothers had been in Newark and were returning home. At Westervelt place he tried to turn out of the trolley tracks, in which he had been running. The wheels skidded, and the driver losing control put on more speed. The machine struck the curb and was totally wrecked.

ENTER PARIS IN RAIN

First Glimpse of the "Gay" City Disappointing—Shops Untidy and Red Tape Involved In Making Purchases Is Ridiculous.

Wednesday, July 24—Our first day in Gay Paree was not a very pleasant one for it was very gloomy and damp and we were not favorably impressed.

There had been nothing planned for the day so the party spent their time shopping. The stores are large but not very neat. The bargain counters are on the street under arcades and there one meets all classes of people. The red tape one has to go through to buy an article is quite ridiculous. The object is selected and the purchaser follows the salesman to the desk where it is paid for and then makes another trip to see it wrapped. The stores were quite a distance from the hotel and the safest way to go is in a taxi for the traffic is very congested and there are no police to regulate it, except at a few corners in the busiest section.

In the evening Miss Smith and I went to see "The Merry Widow," but the Parisian version could not be compared with the New York production.

Thursday, July 25—In the morning we took a carriage to visit Notre Dame. It is a very fine cathedral but not as large as the one at Cologne. In it is a statue of Joan of Arc and we overheard a woman say "My, isn't he a fine looking young man."

From there we went to the Luxemburg Art Gallery and saw some famous paintings.

We returned to the hotel for lunch. The Windsor had been a monastery which had been remodelled and made a very comfortable and pretty hotel. The old bell is still used to call the guests to meals.

The carriages were ready for us at two-thirty and we went to the Louvre Art Gallery. There we saw a great many of Murillo's, Rubens' and Millet's paintings and many others. Of course, our trips to the picture galleries have to be very hurried.

From there we went to the Hotel desInvalides which is a home for old soldiers. It has accommodations for five thousand but at present there are only five hundred in it. Just back of the hotel is Napoleon's tomb, a very beautiful building, something the shape of Grant's Tomb, and his remains are in a huge sarcophagus of red marble. His two brothers are also buried there in circular rooms on the sides.

The evening was spent in sightseeing among the cafes. And there are plenty of sights to be seen.

Friday, July 26—We left the hotel at nine a. m. for a drive to Versailles. We passed through the Bois de Bologne and by the Longchamps race track. The drive was a very pretty one. We visited the country home of Louis XIV., Louis XV. and Madame Maintenon. The gardens of Versailles are famous ones and they are worthy of their fame. The fountains too are glorious.

We had luncheon at a nice restaurant and then went to the King's Palace. That has been turned into a museum.

On the drive home we passed the Eiffel Tower and the big china works.

Saturday, July 27—This was another free day and of course was spent in the stores. Everyone likes Paris better since they have seen something of the life. Saturday night is the great night here and the cafes remain open all night.

Miss Smith and I went to the Bal Tabarin where we saw the boat fete. It was a Coney Island Mardi Gras in miniature in a ball room. Every Saturday they have a different subject and this week being boats the girls wore only French bathing suits. The Misses Howard, Vail, McWilliams and Leighs went to the Moulin Rouge, Maxim's and Heaven and Hell.

Sunday, July 28—This day was spent according to the way we felt. Some went to church while others slept all day.

In the evening we went to the Magic City, the Luna Park of Paris. It is not as pretty as ours in Coney Island but has about all the same attractions.

Monday, July 29—We left Paris at 10:20 a. m. and were all sorry to go. We reached New Haven about 1:15 p. m. and boarded the boat to cross the channel. Everyone was in the highest spirits as we had just had a splendid lunch on the train, and also they were glad to know that they were homeward bound. The boat was not a very large one and we all went on the front deck only to be

IS A LIVING OR A LIFE YOUR QUEST?

Query Put to Members of Union Service By Rev. Dr. John Snape.

Rev. Dr. John Snape, of Utica, N. Y., preached at the union service in the First M. E. church last evening. There was a large attendance.

"What are your ideals in life," he asked, in the course of his address. "Do you look forward or backward? Is it the making of a living or the making of a life that is your quest? Do you live in the cellar of the soul, or do you climb into its attic and throw open wide its windows to the light? Are you intent upon the building up of a character fashioned on the Christ-like pattern, or on obtaining three square meals per day. Is it your desire to make a name for yourself, or one that your descendants will cherish and revere. Do you work and toil for the love of making money or for the good that you will accomplish with it?"

"Love of money is the root of all evil," he continued, "but very little can be accomplished without its aid. Through its agency missionaries can be dispatched to far off climes to spread the light of Christianity." Consequently he exhorted his hearers not to love money for itself but the good it could affect.

Next the speaker outlined what Christian ideal of duty should be to his fellow and how in every way it should conform with that exemplified by Christ. The standard of life of the most perfect Christian as compared with Christ falls very far short indeed, but Christ's life was lived in order that all should have an ideal by which to fashion our own. "Every man and woman," he added, "has some ideal in life worldly or spiritual, but the reason that so many of them did not hitch their wagon to a star was because they employed horses and automobiles instead of airships."

Next the speaker proceeded to show how all the great paintings and works of art had their conceptions in the mind and soul of their makers; and before man was made in the image of God he must have trusted in the thought of God.

Concluding he asked them to cultivate the habit of "catching the habit" of God to get the trend of the devine purpose and shape their lives accordingly.

SOLD SAMPLES TO BENEFIT KING'S DAUGHTERS & C. O. S.

The Sample Club, composed of Katherine Shellabarger, Julia Taylor, Edith Davis, Carol Iredell, Eleanor and Mary Beard, recently held a sale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shellabarger, on West Seventh street, of the combined samples of the members, the young people having collected samples from all parts of the country. In addition there was on sale cake, lemonade, candy and fancy articles. The results of the afternoon work amounted to $28.

Of the above sum, $10 will be given to The King's Daughters for the Baby Camp, and $18 will be sent to the Charity Organization Society, $10 to assist two cases. Of the latter amount $10 will be used to send a crippled newsboy away on a vacation and $8 will be used to send a wage-earning girl, a frail mother and four children to the country for two weeks.

REV. JAMES SHOCK HAD SOMEWHAT VARIED CAREER

Rev. James Shock, a retired minister of the Reformed church, who died at Muhlenberg Hospital Saturday, was born at Centerville, Cumberland county. After his graduation from Rutgers College and Seminary he held several pastorates in the Reformed church, more recently at Bound Brook and Keyport. After leaving the ministry he became principal of the public schools at New Brunswick, Bernardsville and Keyport, being successful in his work.

Retiring from the school work, Mr. Shock removed to this city, where he continued to make his home up to the time of his death. He occasionally was engaged as a supply for local and other pulpits. Later he became associated in business with Jared Flagg, Jr., of New York, and sometime was secretary for the latter. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Albert Close, of Netherwood avenue, with whom he was living prior to going to the hospital.

The funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. Shock's daughter, Mrs. Albert Close, 22 Netherwood avenue. The burial will be at Cranbury.

CITY CLOSE TO A FAMINE IN OATS

Dealers Say They Can't Supply Normal Demands of the Local Trade.

SHORTAGE IN OLD CROP

Plenty of New Oats In Sight, But They Will Not Be Fit For Feed Until Aged—Record Difference In Price.

For the first time in many years Plainfield feed dealers are unable to supply the normal demands of their customers for oats. Old oats are very scarce and little or no oats can be purchased in the city. When the dealers were asked for oats this morning, the majority said, "We haven't any oats and haven't had any for several days. We cannot say when we will be able to supply you."

That state of affairs is true in all the surrounding cities and the possibility of speedy relief from this condition is not apparent. The condition is due to a shortage in last year's crop. Very few dealers have any oats at all and those that have only sell them to contract customers.

When P. S. Dayton, of Somerset street, was seen at his mill he said:

"We have orders for oats but cannot get any deliveries. This condition has, to my knowledge, never existed before. This year's harvest is not on the market yet and people will have to feed their cattle and horses on corn and bran until the new crop is fit for use."

Newly-harvested oats are not considered safe feed for horses. They are said to be a prolific source of colic, and must be aged before they are considered fit for feed.

The Commercial Mills Company made this statement:

"The shortage this year is exceptionally large and as a result new oats are 24 cents per bushel cheaper than old oats. In previous years new oats have only been about 4 cents per bushel cheaper than the old. With this condition in force it is dangerous to purchase old oats for they are generally adulterated with the new crop. Old oats are a loss after November."

According to the recent government reports, the crops in corn, barley and oats this year will be record-breaking and if this be the case the prices of grain will be a great deal lower.

AUTO WITH LEAKY TANK CAUGHT FIRE ON TRIAL TRIP

Hart Farlee, of Cushing road, was trying out a new automobile on Saturday night, when the gasoline tank caught fire on Watchung avenue, near Hillside avenue. Charles Bicknell, of Watchung avenue, saw flames emerging from the rear of the car and shouted to Mr. Farlee.

A hose was procured and a stream of water turned on the burning auto. An alarm was turned in and Companies 1 and 4 responded. They helped to subdue the flames which had partly consumed the body of the car. The outbreak of flame was due to a leak in the tank, the gasoline falling on one of the rear lamps.

Rev. John N. Lyle, of New York, was the chief speaker at the vesper services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, yesterday, when a large audience attended the exercises. G. Herbert Condict, superintendent of Hope Chapel Sunday-school, had charge of the afternoon services and made a gospel address. Miss Madeline Metzler, of the children's choir, sang a solo, and the children's choir also sang several selections. Mr. Parker, of West Seventh street, was present and rehearsed some Bible verses with the children.

DOG BIT BOY.

Harold Peltz, aged eight years, of Scotch Plains, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, last night suffering from a dog bite in the thigh. The lad accidentally stepped on a dog's tail, and it sudenly turned around and bit him. Dr. Munger, of Fanwood, was called, and after cauterizing the wound sent the boy to the hospital. His condition is favorable for an early recovery.

WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALERS ARE FINED

Sentence Suspended On One Who Has Quit Business, and On Drivers.

When the several adjourned cases for alleged illegal sale of liquor came up for hearing before Mayor G. W. V. Moy in the police court, this morning, all the defendants through their counsel entered pleas of non vult. Fines of $15 in each count with sentences suspended on the drivers, were imposed.

On the recommendation of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., prosecuting attorney, sentence was suspended on Henry Moskowitz, of Fanwood, his counsel, Judge W. L. Hetfield explaining that since the issue of the complaint his client had abandoned the liquor business and would not renew it.

The other defendants were Adolph Bohren, 13 Greenbrook road, and driver, Peter Kane; Morris Latzko, 27 Somerset street, and driver, Samuel Dawson; Mrs. Lena Hoerster, 94 Somerset street, and driver, Andrew Kolick and Thomas Long; Raffio Venenzia, Fanwood, and driver, Mike Radetti.

There were two counts preferred against Adolph Bohren, two against Mrs. Hoerster, two against Latzko, and one against Venenzia.

On the motion of Judge William Newcorn, who represented Latzko, a plea of non vult instead of not guilty, was entered in the case brought against Latzko in July and in which Moy inflicted penalties of $20 against Latzko and $10 against Dawson. His Honor reversed his previous decision to a fine of $15 against the owner and suspended sentence on the driver. Judge Newcorn had announced his intention of bringing certorari proceedings to quash the Mayor's decision. Francis J. Blatz appeared as counsel for Raffio, Vinenzia. The charge against the defendants was that of delivering liquor in Plainfield in violation of the law forbidding wholesalers to carry on their trade except in the district in which they are licensed to do business.

HIS GET-RICH-QUICK ADVICE LEADS CHAUFFEUR TO CELL

James Parker Hill, 28 years old, employed as a chauffeur by Siegfried Arens, of Rahway road, was arrested at the latter's home Saturday afternoon by United States Marshall Beekman and Postoffice Inspector Butler, on a charge of fradulent use of the mails. Owing to the lateness of the hour Parker was detained at police headqharters until this morning, when he was taken before United States Commissioner Stockton at Newark.

The arrest of Parker is the result of advertisements he inserted, it is said, in a New York newspaper, offering to tell people how they could earn $1 an hour. Inquiries brought a formula in which the seeker of information, for a stated sum, was told to get a job washing windows, explaining that if he was industrious he could easily make a dollar an hour. The advertiser gave the address as the "Watchung Sales Company, Plainfield," and had a box at the postoffice where he received his mail. Another formula which he used to interest poultry raisers was "How to get more eggs," and when they forwarded a dollar for the receipt they got this advise, "Buy more hens."

Parker, after his arrest, said he didn't know that he was fraudulently using the mails. It is understood he got the idea from a mail order magazine he has been receiving. The prisoner formerly resided at Westfield. He is married, but, it is said, does not live with his wife.

FRANK SHATTLE GOES OVER INTO THE MOOSE CAMP

It was announced on Saturday that Frank Shattle, formerly an officer of the Plainfield Democratic Club, and more recently prominently identified with the West End Democratic Club, had joined the Progressive party and is now a full-fledged "Bull Moose." Mr. Shattle could not be found today to confirm the report, but his friends declare the report to be true.

According to Mr. Shattle's friends he was dissatisfied with the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for President on the Democratic ticket, his choice being Champ Clark, and believing that Roosevelt more closely represented his ideals and principles, decided to lend his support to the Progressive movement.

NO SLATE FIXED ON THE OUTING

Plainfield Republicans Who Took Part In Confabs Deny Ticket Was Built.

NUMEROUS PETITIONS

And All the Petition Bearers Got Signatures — Many Aspirants For Places On the Small Board of Freeholders.

Rumors that a county slate was "fixed" on the Union County Republican outing at Rockaway on Saturday, were denied today by Plainfielders who were present. They said that the organization had previously decided not to endorse anyone for either nomination or office, and in view of this policy it would be inconsistent to make up a "slate."

There were numerous petitions circulated among the Republicans and everyone secured signatures. There are many aspirants for the nomination for the small Board of Freeholders, including Freeholders J. Hervey Doane and S. P. T. Wilbur, of this city, while nearly every town of any size in the county can claim one or more prospective candidates.

Assemblyman George H. Babcock will seek a renomination, as announced several weeks ago. The names of Charles Codding, of Westfield, and William T. Groves, of Elizabeth, have been prominently mentioned for the other Assembly nominations. Surrogate George T. Parrot, of Elizabeth, will also seek a renomination.

An effort was made, it is reported to have the party endorse W. R. Codington for the Mayoralty nomination, but it is said this met with some opposition because some of those present expressed themselves favorable to V. W. Nash, Sr.

It was 6 o'clock when the party left Rockaway for home, and two and a half hours later Elizabethport was reached. On the way home the steamer encountered some rough weather and some of those aboard experienced seasickness. About 350 people went on the outing and it was declared to be one of the best yet held by the Union County Republicans.

VETERAN CONSTABLE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Surprise Party and Cake With Eighty Candles Mark Robert Walpole's Observance.

Robert Walpole, the veteran court constable and probably the oldest constable in Union county, celebrated the eightieth anniversay of his birthday at his home in Scotch Plains on Saturday. In the evening he was given a surprise party, the affair being arranged by his wife. Among some of the guests present were some of the older residents of the village and all joined in congratulating Mr. Walpole and wishing him many happy returns of the day.

The affair was marked by several pleasing features and during the evening refreshments were served. A birthday cake bearing eighty candles was prominently displayed on the dining table.

Mr. Walpole is a veteran of the Civil War and for two years was in Andersonville prison. For the past twenty years Mr. Walpole has been a constable and for more than half of that time he was a court officer at Elizabeth, where he was a familiar figure at every session of the court.

Mr. Walpole enjoys excellent health with the exception of a slight limp the result of an attack of gangrene two years ago. One of his favorite sports is fishing and during the season he makes one or two trips a week to the Passaic river and scarcely ever returns without a good catch. In his day he was one of the best known fishermen and hunters in this section of the State. For years he was the village blacksmith at Scotch Plains. Among those who enjoyed the party on Saturday was Mr. and Mrs. Walpole's children and grandchildren and they generously remembered the aged celebrant.

NUSES HAVE A GOOD TIME DESPITE RAIN

Family Reunion at Washington Rock Saved From Dampness By a Tent.

The Nuse family from Newark, with relatives and friends from that city, Bernardsville and Plainfield, enjoyed an all-day picnic at Washington Rock on Saturday, and despite the rain which at times drove the party of merrymakers into a small tent, which a camper generously turned over for their use, the party had a most enjoyable day, passing the time playing games, on interchange of family experiences, feasting and general good cheer.

Fred Nuse brought the Newark party of thirty-two persons from that city to Plainfield in a large automobile truck, driven by his son, George Nuse. In this city six more were added to the party, making thirty-eight in all. The truck then proceeded to the Rock by the way of Dunellen, making excellent time on the trip. All arrived at the point of destination just in time to escape the first hard shower of the day. There were other friends from this city who went to the Rock by private conveyance with William J. Allen, while the Nuse family from Bernardsville came over in a handsome new touring car. The following enjoyed the outing:

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nuse, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nuse, Jr., and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nuse and two children, Mr. and Mrs. George Nuse and two children, the Misses Ruth and Gussie Nuse, Walter Nuse, Mr. and Mrs. George Hess, Mrs. L. Patmont and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Jule Stephany, Mr. and Mrs. Miller and one child, Mrs. Neiman, Fred Neiman, Mrs. McCann and Walter Deickert, all of Newark. Mr. and Mrs. James E. Church, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Allen and son Harold Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris, Richard Baldwin, Miss Minnie Egel, Mrs. Bolan, Miss Nellie Bond, Miss Ruth Walker and Master Harry Christiansen, of Plainfield. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nuse, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nuse, Jr., of Bernardsville, making a party of forty-nine persons in all.

TO SPEAK ON "GOD'S SYSTEM OF WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY"

The large 40x60 foot pavilion on Darrow avenue, was well filled last night with earnest listeners, while the Newark evangelist spoke on the important topic, "Does God Mention Nations in Prophecy? What Will be the Next Universal Kingdom That Will Rule the World?"

The speaker's remarks were based on Daniel 2:31-35. He said the four universal kingdoms brought to view therein, namely, Babylon, Medo-persia, Grecia, Rome, were but mile-posts, which the Lord placed along the pathway of time, to lead us down to the final end of this world's history. He said the stone that was to be cut out without hands, that was to smite the image on the feet, and all the kingdoms of the world were to be broken to pieces thereby, was the everlasting kingdom of God that was to be set up in this earth, that was to bring to an end all earthly kingdoms, and establish the never ending kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Services will continue every night through the week, except Saturday.

The Nelson sisters, from Newark, rendered some fine selections, which added much to the interesting features of the service.

The topic for tonight will be "God's Wireless System of Telegraphy: When Was it First Introduced?"

HELD UP FOR KISSES.

Three Italians were arrested in Westfield last night on the charge of hugging, kissing and mistreating a Polish girl on Broad street. The girl's screams attracted the attention of residents of Clark street, who telephoned the police. The men will be arraigned before Recorder Collins today.

PROMISE RELIEF FROM HIGH COST

Alluring Outlook Pictured By Literature of Co-operative Grocery Store Promoters.

LATTER'S STATEMENT

R. J. Burns Says the Plan Is to Establish a String of Stores—May Sell Meat—How He Hopes to Profit.

Plans for the organization of the "Plainfield Cooperative Grocery Company, Plainfield, New Jersey," have been disclosed in circular letters and pamphlets which have been received in the mail by Plainfield people. Enclosed in the letter was a self-addressed postal card, with this address: "To the organizers Plainfield Cooperative Grocery Company, care Plainfield Trust Company, Plainfield, N. J." It is stated in the circular that The Plainfield Trust Company will be the company's depository, and persons interested are requested to make checks payable to the latter company for deposit to the company's credit.

The announcement has naturally aroused considerable interest, and the fact that the name of The Plainfield Trust Company is connected with the enterprise, led to inquiries being made at the company's banking house today as to who is behind the proposition. H. H. Pond, secretary-treasurer of the company, said:

"The Plainfield Trust Company has no interest whatsoever in the scheme, except that it gave its consent to becoming a depository for the company. We have no knowledge as to the financial backing of the parties interested in the company and no one connected with The Plainfield Trust Company has any interest whatsoever in the organization of the proposed company. I want to make it as plain as possible that The Plainfield Trust Company is in no way identified or connected with the proposition.

"Recently, two men, R. J. Burns and Sidney Sladden, the latter president of the American Lock Company, whose address is given as 305 Fifth avenue, New York, called at The Plainfield Trust Company, explained their plans and asked if the company would carry the account of the proposed grocery company, at least until the organization was effected. I gave my consent, naturally, for our company is always willing to carry a person's account. That is all that I know about the matter, and I have no knowledge of any local people being interested in the grocery company."

R. J. Burns, who had charge of sending out the circulars, comes here from New York. He has had experience with similar stores in Australia and England. In an interview with a representative of the Press this afternoon, Mr. Burns stated that there is no corporation or trust back of the plan, and that the only person who will benefit, in case the stores are started, will be himself. He says that he hopes to see established a string or thirty or forty stores in cities in this section of the country, such as Plainfield, Orange, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, Yonkers and other places of the size. There is already one co-operative store in operation in Glenwood, on Long Island.

When the stores are established Mr. Burns hopes to have charge of the buying for the entire string. He says that the idea is to buy goods in carload lots, direct from the producer, and that he hopes to be made purchasing agent for these stores, thus deriving a small commission, and that this will be the only central expense for the group.

Mr. Burns said that if organized the company will probably handle meats also.

The circular letter sent out to Plainfielders reads as follows:

"In these days of high cost of living, it behooves all of us to carefully look into any proposition which will bring the consumer nearer to the producer; this can only be done by cooperation and the elimination of the middle man and the large profits of the retailer.

"We are enclosing a circular in reference to the formation of the Plainfield Cooperative Grovery Co., which is proposed to soon open in Plainfield, N. J. This circular only gives you a brief outline of the many benefits to be obtained, by the stockholders.

"Consider these points: Suppose your purchases amount to $40 per month, and you own five shares of stock, this entitles you to a credit of $40 per month, upon which you receive first—a five per cent. (5%) discount each month, and secondly you share in all remaining profits as more fully described in the enclosed circular.

"There are many other advantages all of which we will be pleased to explain at a personal interview.

SCHEPPS COWERS; TALKS OF SUICIDE

Says He's Fearful New York Police Will Kill Him.

FIND DAMAGING LETTERS.

Rose Writes Schepps, "I Was Deserted Like Dog by Becker"—Schepps In Letter to Rose Concludes With, "May God Help Us All!"

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 12.—Sam Schepps, arrested here for participation in the Rosenthal murder, is a nervous wreck. He dreads the return to New York, he says, because he thinks the police or their agents will kill him. He repeatedly has threatened suicide.

Schepps was started on his way to jail by Postmaster Fred E. Johnson immediately after he had received a letter at the postoffice from Jack Rose, in which Rose pleaded with him to return to New York and make a full confession to District Attorney Whitman.

After Postmaster Johnson had questioned Schepps, George Howell, captain of police, was called and Schepps was formally delivered to his custody. Schepps was downcast after his arrest.

"You look like you'd shoot a man if he attempted to run," said Schepps to Captain Howell.

"I would," answered Howell, "and I can hit a jackrabbit as far as I can see."

"Well," answered Schepps, "probably I will decide to run. I will think it over. Between the police, the district attorney and the chair and a quick shot I might decide to take the shot. If you shoot, shoot straight."

About to Post a Letter.

When taken into custody Schepps was about to post a letter addressed to "Jack Rose," in which he said he would change his address immediately, and unless he heard from Rose on certain details he would not be here later if sent for.

The letter follows:

Dear Friend Jack—Your letter forwarded to me and contents noted. All I can say is I am mighty sorry it has turned out that way for you, dear old pal. However, at this stage I can dispense with sympathy, as it can't help any now. I have read very little about the case so far, and I can't bear to think of it any more. What you ask of me I considered very carefully and looked at it from all sides and find I am in very bad regardless of the leniency you say Mr. Whitman holds out for us.

That you had a guilty knowledge of the facts before its preparation is a fact from your confession. So why do you want me to corroborate a few lies—for instance, such as that I paid the $1,000 to "L. L." on Forty-sixth street and a few others which I dare not mention. However, Jack, my name is Sam, and I don't go back on a pal such as you. If you had trusted me with more of your confidence this terrible state of affairs never might have come to pass. But what is done can't be undone.

I have no right to preach to you, and I shan't. I am at present in poor health and am all broke up with worry and sickness. However, if you decide to state truthfully the entire state of affairs and what part you had in same I will come gladly for you, Jack, because you know what I think of you. Yes, I have been very sorry for it, and now to prove my loyalty I must become a squealer.

Still I am willing, even at that cost, on these conditions: That you will only expect me to tell the truth and nothing but the truth or else to write word for word what you expect of me. Also I will not be able to see Mr. W.'s (district attorney) representatives until after the 19th of August. If the foregoing is satisfactory I will come, but you must send me a wire to the effect before the 19th. Then I will be ready to meet the man and go with him to New York. He won't find me if I don't get this wire.

I shall change my address today, but if all is O. K. I will meet on the 19th at the Arlington hotel the man he will send. Let me know his name in advance. I am sick of being hounded and seeing my mug in the papers. My best wishes to you and may God help us all.

Rose Tells of Electric Chair.

The letter which Jack Rose sent to Schepps read as follows:

Dear Sam—I don't know what you have heard or read, but it got down to a stage where the electric chair stared us in the face. The first man to try and get from under was Becker. There were many people who saw everything that night, and the next day the district attorney knew what part everybody played in the thing and nobody could have got away.

I was deserted like a dog by Becker. When I saw what the situation was I opened up negotiations with the district attorney, who offered me a sort of cover that I cannot go into details by writing. I insisted that the same protection given me be extended to Harry, "Bridgie" and you, to which he finally agreed. We are all pleased with the arrangements, and our worry has been to get you to come in, to get the same benefits we got before it is too late.

My advice is to let me send a representative of the district attorney to bring you back here. That would prevent the police nailing you and putting you through a third degree. Don't say a word to any one. You know, Sam, that you have been too loyal and dear friend of mine to ask you to do this if I wasn't positive that you haven't a chance otherwise. Immediately upon receipt of this wire me to Louis' house what you want to do.

JACK.

Schepps Closely Guarded.

The date of Schepps' arrival in New York will not be revealed—not even to the New York police department—but it is supposed that he will leave here under strong guard of the district attorney's detectives. Schepps probably will make a clean breast of the whole matter, more to aid his pal Jack Rose than to further the ends of justice.

His confession, if he tells all he claims to know, will probably reveal the whereabouts of "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz) and "Lefty Louie," the two remaining members of the gunmen gang who fired the shots into Rosenthal and who are still at large. Driven to desperation through fear of capture Schepps almost collapsed when arrested.

"I don't know what to do," said Schepps. "It looks like either the Dutch route or squeal. I am not a squealer. I don't know what they did all this for. I might as well be dead as driven from New York and exiled in some other part of the world as a squealer. If I tell, I can't live in New York. They won't let me. I never sanctioned the killing of Rosenthal. I only wanted to serve all my friends."

Calls Dougherty a Bluff.

After pausing for a minute Schepps continued: "Dougherty won't get me. There is nothing he can do to me, but kill me, and I guess they won't stand for that. Dougherty knows that I know he is the big pyrotechnical display in New York and nothing more."

Raving in this vein, Schepps talked about the situation in New York. He said he has been a "fixer" for years. It is charged that after the Rosenthal murder he was given money to slip to "Whitey" Lewis and "Gyp the Blood" for a getaway, and he was harbored for three days in or near the home of Lieutenant Becker.

"I am the keystone to the whole situation in New York," confessed Schepps. "If I start to telling things it will reach a long way. I can't make up my mind that I am going to tell it all. Why, Jack Rose, my past pal, seems to have told things not necessary.

"The graft situation in New York is so far reaching that this investigation will last well into next year. They can't get through with it. Whitman seems determined to go through with his work, and he is too honest to stop now. He wants to be governor, and then it is only a step to the White House.

"The moral of the whole is that there is nothing in the graft."

GORE ADMITS THAT WILSON HAS FIGHT.

Says "We're Not Taking Anything For Granted."

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 12.—That the strength of the Roosevelt movement is not altogether satisfactory to the men who are managing the campaign of Governor Wilson was indicated by the words of Senator Thomas P. Gore, who came to Sea Girt to have a talk with the nominee.

There is no authority to state that Senator Gore expressed any forebodings over the situation to his host. He declared that he had mentioned matters generally. But after he had come out of the little white house the senator from Oklahoma said something about "overconfidence" and "underestimating" the strength of the opposition.

To the question of how the general situation in the Democratic campaign appeared to him, he answered:

"The situation is entirely satisfactory. I might say gratifying. Everything is going along very well."

"How about the Roosevelt strength?"

The senator smiled. "Well," he said, "you know how it is never safe to feel safe. I won't talk about that side of it, but I can say we are not going to take anything for granted."

Boston, Aug. 12.—F. Vernon Willey, treasurer of the Barre Wool Combing company, who was arrested on a charge of conspiracy in the case where Arthur Saville, an Englishman, was charged with imposing aliens into America for work in the mills at South Barre, appeared in the federal court, accompanied by counsel, and furnished the $7,000 bail in which he was held.

BAMBERGER'S — THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE — MARKET & HALSEY STS.

August Fur Sale

We cannot lay too much stress upon the economy in selecting Furs during Bamberger's Great Fur Sale. We speak conservatively when we say prices later in the season will be from 20 to 33 per cent. higher than in force during this month. We contracted for these furs when the market was below normal. Since then, owing to the fur workers' strike, prices have advanced in leaps and bounds. The woman who waits until the Winter season to purchase her furs bids fair to pay the highest prices of many a day. Come and select furs now. A small deposit will reserve any fur coat, neck piece or muff in our cold storage vaults until Fall. Every fur is genuine just as represented. The coats are fashioned by prominent European and American designers and faultlessly made. Everything of the newest style. Certainly no woman should fail to secure furs ere this meritorious sale ends.

KANSAS MAN ACCEPTS ENTOMOLOGIST JOB HERE

Trenton, Aug. 12.—Dr. T. J. Headlee, State entomologist of Kansas and head of the entomologist department at the Kansas Agricultural College, has accepted the call to become State entomologist of New Jersey to succeed the late Dr. John B. Smith, and will enter upon his new duties here October 1.

Dr. Headlee will really fill four positions. He will be professor of entomology at Rutgers College, entomologist of the Agricultural College experiment station, entomologist of the New Jersey State experiment station and State entomologist under the State Board of Agriculture.

The new entomologist will carry on all the work prosecuted by Dr. Smith. Besides teaching in the college, he will carry on investigations concerning insects with particular reference to preventing the invasion of insects dangerous to New Jersey's farms and orchards. He will supervise nursery inspection under the law to prohibit the importation of diseased trees, and will have general supervision under the new law for bee inspection, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among bees and will continue the work begun by Dr. Smith for the extermination of mosquitoes.

Dr. Headlee is about thirty-five years old. He was graduated from the University of Indiana at Perdue, and then took a course at Cornell University, where he won his degree. He then became assistant entomologist at the New Hampshire State Experiment Station and resigned after two years to accept the position in Kansas.

Kansas was invaded by the Hessian fly to the extent that $20,000,000 worth of wheat was destroyed. Dr. Headlee drove the plague from the State.

THE CO-OPERATIVE GROCERY.

The new co-operative grocery store, about which there has been more or less gossip around town, has been formally announced to the people of Plainfield by circulars which leave much room for thought. The Daily Press reprints part of the circular, and tells what we have been able to learn from officials of the Plainfield Trust Company about the use of the name of the bank in connection with the matter. There is nothing to indicate from the literature sent out that the plan has been tried elsewhere in this country by the same promoters, and there is a noticeable absence of local or any other names on the circular.

It would seem fitting that the first announcement of a project of this kind, purporting to be formed for the benefit of the people of the community as a whole, should be made through the local newspapers. In this instance, however, the first intimation that such a plan was to be devoloped in Plainfield, appeared in a New York Sunday paper some weeks ago in the form of an interview with one said to be a "prominent Plainfield banker." The local correspondent of that paper was not the author of the article. At that time no information about the plan could be secured here and it was credited with being a space-filling yarn.

The Plainfield Trust Company is referred to as the local depository of the store, and is described in such a way as might lead the casual reader to believe that the banking institution is itself identified with the plan. Inquiry there brought forth the information that little was known about the concern, except that the promoters, who are from out of town, requested to be allowed to refer to the company as the depository. It was not known at the bank that the mail for the concern was to be addressed in their care.

The Daily Press believes that its place in the community is to be of service to its readers and to the tradespeople of the city of Plainfield. If such a plan as the co-operative grocery company proposes will really benefit the buying public it will have the hearty support of this newspaper. If, on the other hand, it develops merely into a clever scheme to launch a new business enterprise, with the capital of those who support it being used to maintain newcomers under the guise of helping the general public, we shall not hesitate to help our present merchants, for they deserve first support and consideration.

Take another view of the matter. Why is such a store needed here? Are not the present grocery concerns reputable, and do not their services and prices compare favorably with those in other parts of the country? Why is it necessary for a movement of this kind to come from the outside, instead of being instigated by local people who think they have cause to complain of alleged high prices? We believe that goods of the character which the new concern proposes to sell can be bought in this city today just as reasonably as anywhere. If the householders think that the prices charged for groceries are unfair the remedy lies in changing the grocer. Plainfield tradespeople are not dishonest. If a small minority of them wanted to be, they realize that the county sealer of weights and measures is liable to descend upon them at any minute.

One of the men responsible for the establishment of the store has told the object to the publishers of the Daily Press. His statement, as printed elsewhere in his issue, was submitted to him, before being printed. The promoters appear to be open and frank with their plan, and it seems to us that it would be a splendid thing to be publicly discussed. The columns of the Daily Press will be open to all who care to discuss the subject, and we hope to hear from our readers about it.

Governor Wilson is a believer in local option. He has said so in reply to a question which came to him from Maine. But he does not believe that the question should be allowed to creep into a political campaign. "The questions involved are social and moral," says the Governor, "and are not susceptible of being made part of a party programe. Whenever they have been made the subject matter of party contests they have cut the lines of party organization and party action athwart, to the utter confusion of political action in every other field. So far as I am concerned, I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in this State."

The Governor's attitude will undoubtedly receive commendation from many people, but it can hardly be said that it will make any votes for him from members of the Anti-Saloon League, or the fanatics who have been shouting about the demon-rum in New Jersey during the last few years. Just how the Governor expects to bring about local option without party action, and the question being made an issue, is too big a problem for anyone but the Governor to solve. We would like to see his suggestions as to how men pledged to the enactment of a local option law can be chosen to the Legislature, without party lines being drawn.

In spite of strenuous efforts on the part of the police to appear to be busy while doing nothing, the murderers of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, are being gradually rounded up, and District Attorney Whitman will probably have the strongest kind of a case by the time he brings the men he is after to trial. Practically all of the credit for the success of the authorities thus far belongs to Mr. Whitman, and to him alone. The Mayor and police of the city have been made the laughing stock of the country, for their failure to round up this gang of crooks. That it will result in a revolution in police methods in New York, and bring about the end of the graft game, which everyone now believes to have been worked exactly as Jack Rose says it has been done, seems to be the general impression of the New York press and public. The disclosures made are the most remarkable of the many which have shown up police and political conditions in the cities of the country in recent years.

Some time ago it was predicted by some of the political wise-men that perhaps President Taft would carry Rhode Island, Vermont and Utah, at the election next November. Now there is even doubt about Vermont, and that little State, which cast less votes four years ago than were cast in the city of Newark, promises to have a merry political scrap this fall. There are, of course, the regular Republican and Democratic tickets; the Prohibitionists have made a combination with an organization of grangers, and have nominated a popular man for Governor, and now the Progressive party comes along, and will have a full State ticket. Bryan polled about 11,500 votes four years ago, and Taft 39,500. If all the Democrats vote for Wilson, with a few thousand recruits, and the Taft vote is split anywhere near equally, it is evident that the result in that State will be very much in doubt until the votes are counted an election night.

Governor Hiram W. Johnson, of California, who is former President Roosevelt's running mate on the Progressive ticket, will not follow the example set by Governor Wilson, of New Jersey. The former has announced that he will at once resign as Governor of California, while the New Jersey executive has decided to hold on to his office, until he sees whether he will be elected or not. Governor Johnson intends to campaign from one end of the country to the other, and Governor Wilson has decided to remain at home and attend to business here. Hence both are justified in the stand they take. If Governor Wilson should decide to make a nation-wide campaign, he should follow the example which Governor Johnson says that he will set.

After every rain storm the expression on the face of President Taft, displayed on the Republican banner on Park avenue, seems to assume a more painful expression. If it keeps on raining as hard all through the campaign as it has been during the past few days what may we look for by election time?

THE FORUM.

T. R. DISTURBS 'EM.

Editors, Daily Press:

Senator Martine and the other speakers at the Wilson-Marshall rally really were frightened at the Bull Moose. They attacked Col. Roosevelt more often than they praised Gov. Wilson; and they carefully declared their real love for Pres. Taft and their contempt for the "thimble-rigger who nominated himself."

The Chicago Evening Journal (Dem.) wants a defensive combination of the two-party leaders against the man who is "dangerous" enough to build a great party.

Here are true and sincere tributes.

ARTHUR V. LINDSEY.

MRS. HALL TO SPEAK.

Among those planning to attend the meeting are Miss Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Riley and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dorr.

The Kitchen Cupboard

SUMMER BEVERAGES.

WHEN the little folks clamor for something nice to quench their thirst try one of the following recipes. While easy to make, these drinks are wholesome. It is better to serve things at home than give the young people the money to buy ice cream sodas, of whose compositions you know nothing.

Excellent Drinks.

Ginger Punch.—Take a quart of fresh cold tea, four tablespoonfuls of ginger sirup, three-quarters of a pound of chopped ginger, one and a half cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of strained orange juice, one quart of apollinaris water, one tablespoonful of chopped pineapple and the pulp of two oranges. Serve in punch bowl with cracked ice.

Egg Flip.—Take the yolk and white of one fresh egg. Beat the yolk with a tablespoonful of sugar until light and creamy. Pour over this a half cupful of milk, then the white of the egg, whip to a stiff froth. Lastly, stir in a dash of salt and nutmeg to flavor. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Peppermint Cup.—Take half a pound of lump sugar and one pint of boiling water, simmer ten minutes, then stir in one tablespoonful of honey. When nearly cold add thirty drops of the essence of peppermint. Bottle for use. Four tablespoonfuls to a tumbler of hot or cold water makes a delicious drink. Essence of ginger can be used in the same way.

Nice For Invalids.

Barley Mead.—Take two ounces of pearl barley, the rind of a lemon, three lumps of sugar, a pint of boiling water. Put the barley in a bowl with cold water to cover it. Bring the water to the boil and let it boil for five minutes. Then drain off the water and throw it away. Wipe the lemon and peel it very thinly. Put the barley, lemon and sugar into a clean vessel; pour the water, which should be boiling, on to it, cover the vessel and leave till cold. Then strain out the barley and lemon rind and serve the liquid.

Fruit Sirups.—Nice sirups may be made with any fruit preferred. Grapes were used in this recipe. Take well ripened Concords. Wash, pick them from the stems and put in a kettle and add water to just cover them. Bring slowly to the boil, stirring occasionally. Cook until the fruit is soft, then drain. To four cupfuls of juice add a cupful of sugar and boil about five minutes. Strain, bottle and cork securely. To serve, dilute with cold water and add crushed ice to thoroughly chill. The juice of a lemon should be added to about a quart of the mixture.

For the Children

Among the paraders at the recent commencement exercises at Columbia university was one who attracted great attention, especially from the younger members of the audience. This attractive person was Master Herman Ridder, grandson of the editor of the New York Staats Zeitung. Master Ridder, like most boys, is a great admirer of fire fighters and is a frequent visitor to the engine house near his home in New York. Recently he became the happy possessor of a fireman's outfit, and he displays it on every possible occasion. His father is an alumnus of Columbia, and that's how it came about that the young fireman appeared in the parade in his fireman's regalia.

The Five Noses of an Ant.

In their antennae, or feelers, ants have five noses, each of which has its own duties to perform.

One nose tells the ant whether it is in its own nest or that of an enemy; another nose discriminates between odors of ants of the same species, but of different colonies; a third nasal organ serves the purpose of discerning the scent laid down by the ant's own feet, so that it may be able to retrace the way quite easily; a fourth nose smells the larvae and pupae, and the fifth nose detects the presence of an enemy.

If an ant be deprived of a certain nose it will live peaceably with enemies, but if it retains its fifth nose it will fight the alien to the death.

This sense of smell does not come till the ants are three days old. If, therefore, ants only twelve hours old are placed among others belonging to different colonies they will grow up quite amicably and not understand that they are a mixed lot, because they will have grown up with ideas of scent in accordance with their surroundings. The sense of smell to them is as important as the sense of sight to human beings.—St. Nicholas.

Pantomime.

Give each guest a slip of paper, folded, on which is written some word which can be acted in pantomime. Each one must keep his word a secret, as the rest of the company are to guess what he is acting out.

The players sit in a circle, and the one acting his word in pantomime stands in the middle where all can see.

Suppose one had "Dog" on his slip. He might pretend to pet him, feed him and make him beg, etc. Another might have "Blackberries" and make all the imaginary motions of picking and eating them and being scratched by the thorns. "Bread" or "Cake" could be represented by the motions for mixing, kneading and baking and cutting in slices.

As soon as the player's word is guessed it is called out by the guesser, and if it is correct he takes his seat and the next player begins his performance.

A Game of Colors.

Let each player choose a color. Then everybody sit in a circle on the floor. The leader throws a handkerchief at one of the players, at the same time calling out the name of a flower three times. If the one having the name of the color that flower represents fails to answer once while the leader is calling the flower three times he or she is made the leader, and if the person the leader threw the handkerchief to fails to catch it he or she is made to pay a forfeit.

The Picnic Hamper.

Into the hamper I may peep
For just a little minute
To see the wondrous lot of things
That sister has put in it.

Bananas, cookies, jellies, cakes.
At noon, oh, how we'll scamper!
The really picnic part begins
Around the picnic hamper.

OF THE SURPLUS PRODUCT OF GREAT FACTORIES
WOMEN'S MISSES' CHILDREN'S PUMPS, OXFORDS AND SHOES
WORTH $1.50 TO $3.50 A PAIR—TO BE SOLD
AT ONE DOLLAR A PAIR

Figuratively speaking we dashed into the market on a sturdy steed and with our lariat lassoed many surplus lots of good shoes in factories that were willing to accept the price we would pay for the shoes they had on hand, without regard to how they were branded.

We effected this round-up of about 20,000 pairs of good shoes because we wanted to conduct the biggest sale of shoes at a popular price any Newark store had ever attempted.

We wanted to surpass all our previous selling records.

We sought shoes of merit—not good-for-nothing, trashy stuff that no one would want to wear at any price—but dependable footwear, and that we have succeeded in our enterprise will be manifest to all who come to participate in this remarkable distribution.

In this great collection of shoes are Women's, Misses' and Children's Pumps, Oxfords and High Shoes.

The Values Run from $1.50 to $3.50
The Selling Price for Any Pair
in the Lot Will Be Only
$1.00

There are Women's Patent Leather Oxfords, with welt and hand-turned soles, worth $2 to $3.

There are Women's Patent Leather Pumps, Colonials and Ankle Strap Pumps, with welt and hand-turned soles, worth $2 to $3.

There are Women's High Shoes of Vici Kid and Patent Leather, in both button and lace styles, with welt and turned soles, worth $2 to $3.50.

There are Women's Hospital Shoes with rubber heels—plain and patent leather tipped, worth $1.75.

There are Misses' Pumps of Patent Leather and Gunmetal, with low heels, and Button and Lace Shoes of Patent Leather and Gunmetal, good for dress or service, worth $1.50 to $2.

There are Children's Button Shoes of Patent Leather and Gunmetal, for dress wear or for school, worth $1.50 to $2.

There are Little Men's Patent Leather and Gunmetal Lace Shoes, worth $1.50 and $2.

From this most varied collection of styles, shapes, sizes and qualities, there is surely something to satisfy and to fit into the needs of every participant in this extraordinary distribution of footwear.

A big space on the Second Floor, near by the regular Shoe Store, has been set aside for this big event.

Many tables are piled high with the shoes grouped in lots, making it convenient for you to select.

Ample Seating Capacity for trying on the shoes will be provided for hundreds. Dozens of extra salespeople will be here to serve you efficiency, satisfactorily and speedily.

There should be no crush, no disagreeable crowding and elbowing, but you must expect us to be very busy and bear with us if the service is not entirely up to our usual standard.

BOY SCOUTS WILL BE IN THE CLAN PARADE

Picturesque Feature of Demonstration That Will Precede Big Athletic Meet.

One of the best organized and equipped Boy Scout patrols in the State is connected with the First Presbyterian church, of this city, and although little has been heard of this group of youngsters who are working together for mutual benefits, they have been studying the inside workings of the National spread of the great Boy Scout movement and are now ready to wake up the public of this and surrounding cities to their existence. When the movement was launched in Plainfield a few months ago several institutions which make a specialty of promoting boys' work signified their intention of establishing a branch of the work. Among the first was the First Presbyterian church. Headed by Allen E. Beals, a well know boys' worker of this city, the boys of the First Presbyterian church were quickly and efficiently organized. Mr. Beals has taken a personal interest in drilling the Scouts and helping them to pass the required examinations which qualify them for advancement in the organization. Drills were held and by various methods funds for the purpose of equipping the Scouts with suits and the necessary paraphernalia for their work were provided.

When asked to join the Order of Scottish Clans in its street demonstration previous to the field and track meet on Parker Field next Saturday, Mr. Beals readily accepted on behalf of the boys and they will add greatly to the picturesqueness of the parade. The Scouts are fitted out in khaki uniforms, with a campaign hat, brown leggins and brown shoes. The different ranks to which the fellows have been promoted are designed by certain stripes on the uniforms and also their badges.

The demonstration will be in charge of A. V. Searing, Jr., second assistant scout master, and Wendell C. Glover, first assistant scout master. Glover's scout name is "Bayard Alcorn."

The parade leaders will be Charles E. Rice, William Dunham, Arthur Force and Albert S. Dealaman. William Thompson will be known as the "Pathfinder," having recently passed the examination for that grade of scout. Thompson is working hard on his scout drills and Mr. Beals said today that he was a likely candidate for first class scout and color sergeant.

JOURNAL OF EUROPEAN TOURS

sent back to the cabin and the doors closed. We did not have to wait long to learn why for we were only about ten minutes out when the ship began to toss in all four directions. And then came the sight I shall never forget. Almost everyone on the boat was sick. Of our party only Miss Howard and Miss Vail escaped. The rail was lined with people and the floor of the salon was completely covered with girls lying flat on their backs. It was awful and we had four hours of it. The waves washed over the deck and all the canvass shields were up.

We were all glad to get to the Richelieu Hotel in London for it seemed like getting home.

Tuesday, July 30—We left London at 8:30 a. m. and arrived in Stratford-onAvon in time for luncheon. Of all the countries we have seen I like England best. Of course it has not the wonderful Alps nor the beautiful blue lakes of Switzerland, but the country-side is so beautifully cultivated that it gives it the appearance of a park. And it is not so only in places but all over England. Stratford-on-Avon is a charming little village and immaculately clean. After lunch we drove to Shakespeare's home and to the Memorial Theatre, Library and Art Gallery. There we saw many pictures of our American actors and actresses in Shakespearian roles.

We then took the train for Chester, where we had a good night's rest.

Wednesday, July 31.—This was to be the last day abroad for some of the party and they made good use of it by seeing all of Chester that they could in a morning. Miss Leighs left us directly after lunch and we were all sorry to see her go. We took the 12:30 train for Liverpool and had about an hour's wait to get on the Haverford. Most of the party were glad to go home for traveling is not easy pleasure.

I left the girls at the boat and hope their journey home will be as pleasant as the one over.

I cannot express my thanks and appreciation to the Editors of the Press for this wonderful trip I have had. At the close of the contest I said that I wouldn't undergo the ordeal again for anything but now I want to say that the trip was worth the work and I would gladly do it again.

I shall never forget my first trip abroad and shall always be grateful to the Plainfield Daily Press as the means by which it was obtained.

LECTURE ON S. A. WORK ALL OVER THE WORLD

The closing service of the camp meetings of the Salvation Army being held at Wayside Park for the past ten days will be held this evening at eight o'clock. The feature of the service will be a lecture on the Army's work all over the world and will be illustrated with two hundred stereopticon views and in addition there will be six illustrated hymns appropriate to the occasion. The lecturer will be Major George F. Casler, who has had the supervision of the camp. The service of yesterday conducted by Colonel W. A. McIntyre were well attended, especially last evening, when large overflow crowds surrounded the pavilion.

The camp meetings have been very successful and highly pleasing to those in charge. Many have professed conversion, which has been the most pleasing feature of the services to those in charge.

At the service yesterday afternoon the two children of Captain and Mrs. S. A. Hewitt were dedicated by Colonel McIntyre, which was very impressive.

High class music, vocal and instrumental, were features of the day's services.

PASSERBY WORSE THAN FIRE.

The Westfield fire department was called to the store of Thomas Silverstein on North avenue Saturday night, where the awning was on fire. A passerby smashed the plate glass window in an endeavor to tear the awning from the building. Otherwise no damage was done.

Philosophical Phelix Says:

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Another victory for the weather man Saturday afternoon.

Well that will give the pets an apporfunity to rest up for the big game with Bound Brook this week.

Manager Newhouse, of the Bound Brook baseball team, is peeved over the notices that are appearing in regard to next Saturday's contest.

He will have more chance to grieve after the contest.

He offered to dump a barrel of sawdust on the field, (if he could find any in town), so that Dunellen could play last Saturday, but Manager Bogardus said he already had a couple of barrels of whitewash ordered and did not care to dilute it with sawdust.

Bogardus will use it in the next meeting.

Everyone was out in full uniform on the Main street diamond with the exception of Warry McLaughlin. He preferred to wait until the starting bell sounded announcing a game.

All our fellows are back from Westfield and in their native lairs again.

Jack Martin's name was not forgotten from the Yankees' lineup on Saturday. He is no longer a member of the Highlanders but has been shipped back to Rochester to get a little seasoning.

This throws some light upon the recently printed criticisms of his work.

The National League pennant for 1911, which was won by the Giants, was unfurled at the Polo Grounds this afternoon before the game with St. Louis. Among the guests were Mayor Gaynor, Mrs. Helen Hathaway Britton, the owner of the St. Louis Club, and the only woman baseball magnate in the major leagues, and President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League. Before the game the players of both teams paraded about the field, headed by the officials of the New York Club. The procession took a semi-circular course, and was grouped in front of the flagpole in centre field while the pennant was run to the top of the flagstaff. There was a brass band and plenty of pomp and ceremony. The game today was begun at 3 o'clock, so that both the New York and St. Louis teams were able to catch an early train for the West.

ROYAL GIANTS TAKE BOTH SUNDAY GAMES

Timely Hitting and Effective Box Work Wins Both Contests at Newark.

Manager Simmons and his team of Royal Colored Giants invaded Newark, yesterday, and got away with a morning and afternoon game. Both contests were close and well played, the second one being a 8 to 7 victory. The game in the morning, although won by the score of 5 to 1, was exceptionally fast and the Suburbans threatened several times to tie up the score. A number of rallies were started, but Mack held the opposing batters at his mercy and as a result the Newarkers were held hitless after the third inning. The Plainfield ball tossers were handy with the willow and got in their eight hits at good times. The three bingles of the Suburban's were widely scattered and none of them resulted in any runs.

The afternoon's game was not decided until the ninth inning, when Manager Simmons drove out a long hit which brought Gardner across the rubber with the winning run.

Kline played a good all around game both at the bat and in the field, while Borden was a close runner-up for the fielding honors at his position on the difficult corner. Brown, who twirled the second contest, was also effective in the pinches, but his support was not the errorless kind that was accorded Mack in the morning.

The score of both games:

JACK MARTIN SENT BACK TO ROCHESTER

Manager Wolverton Gets Tommy McMillan In Return for Plainfield Boy.

After a meteoric career with the New York American League aggregation Jack Martin has been returned to the Rochester team of the International League for further seasoning. As part of the deal, the Rochester team sold Tommy McMillan to the Yankees. He is one of the most sensational players in the minor league and is heralded as a remarkable clouter. Manager Wolverton, in his efforts to strengthen the New York team for next season, was bent on getting McMillan. Several other major league clubs were after the player but Wolverton's offer of Martin in exchange was most alluring and Manager Ganzel of the Rochester Club signed the necessary papers Saturday morning. McMillan is without question the best shortstop in the International League and has been tried out with major league clubs before, having played for some time with Brooklyn.

Although Martin played brilliantly at the shortstop position he was a bit unsteady and a little weak with the bat and it was for that reason that Manager Wolverton turned him over to Ganzel who has developed many of the games' best stick artists. Martin played with many semi-professional teams, both in Plainfield and in other parts of the State before he broke into the big league and only recently Harry Davis, manager of the Cleveland team, was quoted as saying that he considered Martin the most brilliant fielding shortstop in the Ban Johnson circuit. In view of this statement it is surprising that waivers were obtained on him.

GAMES AWARDED TO JUPITER PLUVIUS

Many Contests Called Off After Teams Were On the Field.

All local baseball games were called off last Saturday afternoon because of the untimely interference of Jupiter Pluvius. Baseball enthusiasts held out hopes of a contest until the last moment, and large crowds of them assembled at all the baseball parks. At Westfield, where the Plainfield nine was scheduled to play the diamond was in a pretty fair condition until the shower about 3 o'clock, which left a large amount of the wet stuff on a number of places around the infield. Manager Bogardus also took a chance on playing and took his charges to Bound Brook, and this diamond had but one wet spot. All the players with the exception of Warry McLaughlin were out on the diamond in uniforms and were just beginning to get ready to have the laugh on the "old warhorse" for being so optimistic when Bogardus and Newhouhe got their heads together and decided to do the rain check stunt. The large number of fans who had assembled for this contest all went away disappointed, but negotiations have been entered into whereby another contest will be scheduled. Manager Bogardus had his new star, Wolfe, on the field, and he came all the way from New York hoping for a game.

The contests in this city were all called off, but some of them only after much argumentation on the part of rival managers. The double header between the R. G. E. aggregation and the Spicer and Banks was called off because of the condition of the Oval and will have to be played some time after the league season ends.

Monroe Avenue refused to play its game with the First Baptist combination although the latter team's officials claimed that the diamond was in the finest kind of condition.

FIRST BAPTIST WILL NOW FILE A PROTEST

Managers Differ on the Advisability of Playing Sunday-school Contest.

Because of the fact that the Monroe Avenue baseball team refused to play a game of ball Saturday afternoon on what the First Baptist ball tossers claimed to be a perfectly good diamond the latter nine will enter a protest at the regular league meeting next Friday night. The First Baptist officials claim that the field was not affected in the least by the rain as it had a decidedly sloping grade and the water ran off as soon as it came down. The Monroes thought otherwise, however, and refused to play the league contest.

They reversed their decision when a game was suggested that would not endanger the chances of their league standing, however, and consented to play a scrub game. The First Baptist nine lined up with their regular team on the field and enough of the grandstand variety was picked up to fill in the positions on the Monroe team that were left vacant by the refusal of some of the players to lower themselves to scrub baseball, to make a game possible. The First Baptists came out with colors flying and now claim that they had the same sort of a treatment ordered up for the Monroe Avenue bunch had they consented to play the regularly scheduled league contest. It has now passed by and the First Baptist nine has gotten a larger number of hits and runs out of its system while a number of the Monroe fellows who did not play Saturday afternoon have still got a supply left, so the Front street bunch do not think it would be fair to play the contest over again. It will therefore be brought up before the next league meeting and the disappointed team will try to win the contest through argumentation.

ELEVEN-INNING GAME AT 'PLAINS

Home Nine Is Defeated By a 4 to 3 Score In Long Contest.

Scotch Plains fell before the pitching of Farrell, of the Elizabeth A. C., at the 'Plains yesterday afternoon and lost out in an eleven inning contest by the score of 4 to 3. The home nine could gather but five bingles from the delivery of Farrell and were unable to bring forth the necessary hits with men on the bases. Frederickson was a little wild but held the opposing batsmen to nine scattered bingles but these with the three errors thrown in by his teammates were enough to lose the game. The home nine scored first in the initial round and the Elizabethans were held runless until the fifth when two clean bingles brought across the first count. Elizabeth scored twice in the seventh and the 'Plains came back with one in the same inning and tied things up in the ninth. Although this made an extra inning contest necessary it did not earn a victory for the home nine as the eleventh inning proved a hitfest for the visitors and they came out of the fray with the winning run.

The game yesterday was one of the best contests ever staged at the 'Plains and will probably cause a revival of the Sunday sport in that town. Several fast teams are in communication with Manager Alberts and a number of good games will be brought to the 'Plains on Sunday afternoons from now on. Among them will be the Female stars and the Dover nine. He is also trying to get a game with the Plainfield aggregation for next Sunday afternoon, but in the event that this does not materialize a game with the Royal Black Giants will be scheduled.

The Pirates began their scoring in the second inning when Henderson singled and came all the way home when Bohl threw to center field trying to catch him stealing second. HOUSE OF GHOSTS TO BE TORN DOWN Tenants Complained of Mysterious Noises In Residence.

NONE WOULD TAKE ROOMS

Sheets Pulled Off Bed Violently, Lamps Left Burning at Night Would Be Turned Down, Then Up—It Was Impossible to Keep a Servant.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 12.—Famous as a haunted house for twenty-five years, an old brick residence at 728 Cass street, owned by Warren Quinn, a well to do liquor dealer, is about to be torn down in the hope that its ghostly inhabitants will be driven out. A revival of the spirit manifestations, it is said, has determined the owner to raze the building.

While the house has been occupied despite ghostly noises, the occupants have kept constantly changing, driven out, they say, by ghosts.

John Nickold and his family were the latest occupants. They were there considerably longer than any other tenants, but after ignoring the strange happenings for a time they fled, and no one else would move in.

Of Nightly Occurrence.

Nickold declares that of late the manifestations have been of almost nightly occurrence. Sheets would be pulled off the beds violently, the lamps left burning at night would be turned down mysteriously and then as mysteriously would be turned up so that the wicks would blaze, footsteps would be heard in the attic during the night, shades would be run up apparently by ghostly hands, and clocks would be wound at all hours of the night and thrown with force to the floor.

Scared Nurse Quits.

A nurse employed by the Nikolds remained in the house only a week because of the disturbances, and no other nurse could be secured. It was impossible to keep a servant, and the family got into such a nervous state that the least sound frightened them.

The house has a strange history. Soon after it was built and many years before it became the property of the present owner it was operated as a grogshop, speak easy and Hungarian boarding house. During a fight a man was stabbed to death, and the murderer fled. The superstitious declare that the ghost of the murdered man haunts the building and is responsible for all the ghostly outbreaks.

WILL HUNT BUGS IN JERSEY.

Dr. T. J. Headlee of Kansas to Be State Entomologist.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 12.—Dr. T. J. Headlee, state entomologist of Kansas, who is credited with having rid that state of the Hessian fly, has accepted the office of state entomologist of New Jersey to succeed the late Dr. John B. Smith.

The new entomologist will continue the work begun by Dr. Smith. He will carry on investigations concerning insects, with particular reference to preventing invasions dangerous to New Jersey's farms and orchards, and it is hoped he will discover means for banishing the mosquito.

He will supervise nursery inspection under the law to prohibit the importation of diseased trees and will have general supervision of bee inspection.

Dr. Headlee is thirty-five years old. He was graduated from Purdue university and won his degree at Cornell. He then became assistant entomologist at the New Hampshire state experimental station and resigned after two years to go to Kansas.

RESCUE TWO MEN IN BOAT.

Government Life Savers Respond to Distress Signals.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 12.—After a perilous experience in the heavy surf on Barnegat bay bar, William Marks and Harry Young were saved by the life savers from the federal stations at Forked river and Barnegat.

The two men were in a power skiff trying to enter the inlet against the ebb tide, when the engine in the boat went dead while floating out to sea. The pair displayed distress signals, and the government men responded. Towing in the skiff it capsized and dragged both men underneath, leaving them unable to cope with the sea. Life buoys were thrown, and despite the fury of the waves one of the life savers leaped overboard and held a man too weak to reach the buoy.

HELD FOR INJURING WOMAN.

Prominent Hotel Keeper of Trenton Said to Have Run Over Her.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 2.—Charles Litchman, a prominent hotel keeper of this city, has been held in $2,000 bail to await the result of injuries sustained by Mrs. George Reacker when she was run down by an automobile alleged to have been driven by the hotel man. George Conklin and Joseph De Blolt were each held in $500 bail as witnesses. Mrs. Reacker is lying in a serious condition in a local hospital, and the chances of her recovery are said to be very slight.

It is asserted that the Litchman car ran down the woman and then speeded away.

—"Tommy," said his brother, "you're a regular little glutton. How can you eat so much?" "Don't know; it's just good luck," replied the youngster.—Christian Intelligencer.

Long Beach, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Edward F. Croker, former fire chief of New York city, was unanimously chosen chief of the local volunteer fire department. He has not been officially notified, but those who know him say he will accept.

Mr. Croker, who lives at 562 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, is building a new home on Penn street, at the western end of the place. As soon as the residence is completed the Croker family will move out here.

BOLD MASKED THIEF ROBS TICKET AGENT

Holds Pursuers at Bay at Point of Revolver.

New York, Aug. 12.—Disguised by a wig and with a black mask drawn over his face, a holdup man met Frederick Kissan, ticket agent at the Dyckman street subway station, on the uptown stairway which leads from the street to the tracks above, beat him almost insensible, robbed him of $65 and escaped.

The desperado in fleeing from the stairs to the street emptied his revolver at any one who showed a disposition to interfere, turning back first to fire at George Moffat, the ticket chopper, who came from above, then facing about to drive off Mack G. Wolfson, the wardrobe man, who had started to run up the stairs.

As he reached the bottom of the steps, the robber threw off his wig, stuffed his mask into his pocket and escaped into the woods a short distance away.

The only clew left was the gray wig, which was found later by Policeman Cunningham of the St. Nicholas avenue police station.

WOMAN'S LONG SWIM.

Nellie Schmidt Crosses San Francisco Bay In Good Time.

San Francisco, Aug. 12.—Miss Nellie Schmidt of Alameda swam across San Francisco bay in the good time of three hours and four minutes. The distance as the crow flies is three and a half miles, but she covered fully five and a half miles because of the zigzag course made necessary by the strong tide.

She entered the water at Vallejo street wharf and swam across the bay, being carried far below the Southern Pacific wharf at Alameda. Then she swam north until she landed at the Oakland mole. At no time did she suffer from fatigue, although at times the water was rough.

ROB HYPNOTIZED BANKER.

Spirited From Mount Clemens to Cincinnati and Relieved of $8,000.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Aug. 12.—"I was hypnotized while in Mount Clemens, spirited away to Cincinnati and there robbed of $8,000."

This was the statement John E. Haggerman, an aged banker of Cameron, W. Va., sent to his wife and son after he returned to this city penniless.

Mrs. Haggerman and son are on their way to this city to get their husband and father. Haggerman says he was robbed by two smooth individuals who sought his acquaintance here.

FOUR MEN DROWN IN MINE.

Three Overcome and Fourth Perishes When He Attempts Rescue.

Galena, Ill., Aug. 12.—Four men were drowned in the Frontier lead and zinc mine at Benton, Wis., fifteen miles north of here. They were Thomas McGuire, John Swift, Joseph Shea and Edward Hird.

The first three went down to bail out thirty feet of water in the shaft, were overcome by foul air and fell into the water. Hird perished when he went to search for the others.

REDS ABOUT TO ATTACK NEW YORK

Blue Army, 10,000 Strong, Watching For Invasion.

CAMPS ARE HIDDEN AWAY

Thousands In Automobiles Watch For Real Opening of "Hostilities"—To Date It Is Game of Concealment. Umpires' Camps Alone Are In Plain View.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 12.—The blue army of defenders, 10,000 strong, are concealed in a thirty mile line to the northwest of this city. They are ready to oppose the hostile attacks of the invading red army from across the Housatonic to the east. The big war game is on.

The left flank of the defenders rests on Danbury, their supply depot, toward which a force of re-enforcements is supposed to be hurrying from the Massachusetts state line to the north.

Across the Housatonic scattering bands of reds may be sighted here and there from Waterbury in a long line through Seymour, forty miles to New Haven, a great advancing semicircle which is credited theoretically with sweeping the weak advance scouting parties of the blue from the eastern three-quarters of the state and now threatening a dash upon New York city or its water supply.

Camps In Hidden Spots.

It would interfere with the schemes of the war department to give the exact location of the camps. They are located in dells and woods, so that a person a hundred yards away from the edge would often be unaware of his proximity. One officer in an automobile on the way to join his forces got so close to his command in his motorcar that he could have cast a stone at the pickets, but he inquired his way of a native, believing himself lost.

The natives, too, are puzzled in their sightseeing, coming upon a hundred khaki clad militia suddenly and then searching for hours to discover more of the defenders or invaders. It is a great game of concealment, the only revealed camp being that of the umpires and of General Tasker H. Bliss at Stratford, just east of Bridgeport, on the sound.

Thousands of summer visitors and Connecticut people are out in their automobiles in the great war area, now theoretically the scene of hostilities. They had a fine time scouting through country roads with the unexpected sight of marching troops always imminent. Auto trucks, with loads of provisions, and artillery taking up positions on the hills and other military signs were numerous.

REALIGNMENT, SAYS MULVANE

Chicago Chairman Sees Taft Elected Already.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—"Prosperity unprecedented in the history of this country during President Taft's administration is the answer to the calamity howlers and the socialistic agitators," said David W. Mulvane of Kansas, director of the Chicago headquarters of the Republican national campaign, in the Auditorium hotel.

"After the froth is blown away and the inventory taken of actual conditions there will be little discontent," he continued. "This fight opens much like the one of 1896, when we heard much of a disturbing nature at the outset. As at that time, there is to be a realignment. In that contest the Republican party attracted the big majority, which is composed of thinking people. It will be so in this contest."

SEEK WOMAN AS GEM THIEF.

Detectives Tracking Girl by Whom Accused Man Sent Message.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Search for a mysterious young woman who is believed to have been an accomplice of Adolph Dumont, charged with the theft of thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry, chiefly diamonds, was begun here while the prisoner was being arraigned in the municipal court. The woman was seen Thursday, when Dumont was arrested, in a Carroll avenue barn, where much of the loot was found.

Dumont called to her to notify his friends that he was under arrest. Detectives Kernan and Russell did not dare leave their prisoner and follow the woman.

BEEF DEARTH INQUIRY ON.

Government to Ascertain if Cattle Supply Justifies High Price.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Agents of the department of commerce and labor have begun a study of conditions in the Chicago cattle market with a view of solving the impending problem in the shortage of beef cattle.

The principal issue facing the investigators is how the law of supply and demand works in the cattle market. The agents will gather information of current receipts to determine whether the record price of $10.25 per 100 pounds for beef on the hoof, recently paid at the stock yards, is justified by the supply.

Weather Forecast.

Fair today, preceded by showers in the interior; tomorrow fair; light to moderate southwest winds.

—No, Maude dear; all the burglary insurance in the world wouldn't convince the nervous hen that her eggs aren't going to be poached.

The Great Awakening

¶ Sooner or later, to all thinking people comes the awakening to the artistic sense.

¶ To some it comes suddenly—with a shock. A trip to Europe may be the inspiration. A new book may bring it about, or a trip to a newly-found friend's home.

¶ Others are converted slowly. They usually become a bore to their friends during the chrysalis stage.

¶ The husband, perhaps, may get it before his wife. He usually gets about more. He sees more. He begins to find fault. This chair isn't right. That picture is awful. "For goodness sake, Mary, why do you hang that ugly rug in that room?"

¶ His wife is mystified. She mopes. She weeps. She despairs. Finally the light begins to break in on her. She slowly comprehends the change. She, too, sees things differently. She does not reply tersely to her husband. She agrees with him. At first he is surprised. He begins to lose his pet grouch. He smiles. She smiles. They talk no longer in riddles. They begin to plan.
